Mill Road History Society Street Directory Project

In 2026 the Mill Road History Society started a project to scan the street directories for Cambridgeshire and make them freely available to all. This book is part of that project.

If you find any pages missing or unreadable then please email directories@millroadhistory.org.uk and we will correct the problem if we can.

Scanned with the CZUR ET24 Book Scanner.

Private Home for the cure and treatment of a limited number of Ladies and Gentlemen suffering from Nervous and Mental illness.

About two and a half hours from London by express train, L.N.E.R., and in connection with the Midlands by M. & G.N. Line.

The Mansion, surrounded by extensive private grounds, is furnished as a private residence, and nothing suggests confinement, the safety of patients being ensured by a large staff of experienced nurses. Any modern therapeutic measures can be undertaken in suitable cases. Private Suites of Rooms with special nursing available.

Voluntary Patients, Temporary Patients and Patients under certificates are admitted for treatment.

Seaside quarters are available when desired, and all amusements conducive to recovery are provided. The Chaplain conducts Service every Sunday, and patients attend the Parish Church.

Fees : from 4 guineas a week upwards according to requirements. Vacancies occasionally exist for Ladies and Gentlemen at reduced fees on the recommendation of the Patient's own Physician.

P R E F A C E

THE Publishers trust that this — the Twentieth — Edition of Kelly's Directory of CAMBRIDGESHIRE may be found at least equal in accuracy to previous ones.

Every Parish in the County is included in the book, which, though primarily a Directory, is also in some measure a gazetteer, giving as it does a topographical account of every Town, Parish, Village and Township, and descriptions of the principal buildings and objects of interest.

Full information is given as to the County Councils ; the Hundreds and County Court Districts ; the Cathedral ; the Churches, with the value of the Livings and the names of the Patrons and Incumbents ; the Chief Landowners, with details as to the Principal Seats ; the Hospitals ; the Acreage, Soils and Crops ; the Markets and Fairs ; the means of Conveyance by Railway, Road, etc.

The Map* of the County has been specially revised for this Edition, and is coloured so as to show the Parliamentary Divisions, and the first and second class roads are also clearly marked.

An article on the Geology of the County, with a sketch map showing the various strata, is included in the book.

The Publishers have again to return their thanks to those Clergymen, Magistrates' Clerks, Registrars, and other persons who have assisted their Agents in connection with the revision of the information for the present Edition.

186 STRAND, LONDON, W.C.2.

July, 1883.

* The County Map is sold separately at Two Shillings and Sixpence.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE

CAMBRIDGE is one of the eastern counties, and is inland, though its borders reach within a few miles of the sea and the great inlet called the Wash, and include the ports of Wisbech and Ely: it shelves gradually down from the upper sources of the Ouse, in the chalk country, to the lowlands of the rivers, and contains within its bounds the Isle of Ely and much other marsh ground. The upper part of the shire lies between the Ouse and Cam, the two heads of the Ouse: the lower part lies between the Ouse and the Nene, and is watered by their channels: these streams run into the Wash.

Cambridgeshire runs very nearly north and south, between 52 deg. 1 min. and 52 deg. 45 min. north latitude, and 0 deg. 31 min. east and 0 deg. 16 min. west longitude from Greenwich, Cambridge being in very nearly the same longitude as London. In shape the county is oblong, the southern part being wider than the northern: the greatest length is about 51 miles from north to south, and the greatest breadth 32 miles, but at Ely the breadth is not more than about 15 miles. On the north it is bounded by Lincolnshire; on the east by the Wisbech canal, the rivers Welney, Croft, Ouse and Lark, and the counties of Norfolk and Suffolk; on the south by Essex, Herts and Bedfordshire; on the west by Huntingdonshire; and on the north-west by Northamptonshire and the Catwater stream.

The parish of Redmore was by an Order of the County Council transferred from Norfolk to this county and its name altered to Redmere, and by an Order of September, 1895, the portion of the parish of Welney formerly in this county was transferred to Norfolk. By Local Government Board's Provisional Orders Confirmation (No. 14) Act, 1895, the parishes of Great Chishall, Little Chishall and Heydon were transferred from Essex to Cambridge. In the same year part of Papworth St. Agnes was transferred from Hunts, part of Royston added to Herts, and part of Wood Ditton to Cambridgeshire.

By these alterations the whole county now comprises 553,241 acres, and may be arranged under two great divisions—the Isle of Ely in the marsh lands, with 238,073 acres, and Cambridgeshire proper, with 315,168 acres. The population of the whole county in 1871 was 186,905; in 1881, 185,594; and in 1891, 185,822.

The population of the administrative county of Cambridgeshire was in 1901, 120,264; in 1911, 128,322, in 1921, 129,602, and in 1931, 140,004, viz.: males, 69,324; females, 70,680. The population of the administrative county of the Isle of Ely was in 1901, 64,495; in 1911, 69,752, in 1921, 73,817, and in 1931, 77,705, viz.: males, 39,181; females, 38,524. Thus the total population of the whole county was in 1931, 217,709.

Cambridgeshire first belonged to the Iberians, and afterwards to a British tribe called the Iconi, and being overrun by the Romans was by them included in the province Flavia Cæsariensis. The Romans had a town or settlement at Cambridge. On the retreat of the Romans it was held by the Welsh, but when they were driven out it was settled by the same English Waring and Frisian clans as Norfolk and Suffolk, being most probably known as the Westfolk. When the present kingdom of England was formed the land took the name of Grantbridgeshire; in 870 it was wasted by the Danes, who destroyed Cambridge and the minsters of Ely, Soham and Thorney. In 875 the invaders again occupied the country, and obtained afterwards a permanent settlement amongst the East English; but in 921 an army of these settlers surrendered at Cambridge to King Edward I. surnamed the Elder. In 1010 a fresh swarm of Danes, under King Swain, again burned Cambridge. On the accession of William the Norman to the English kingdom, almost the only part of the land which resisted him was the Isle of Ely, where the gallant Hereward held out for nearly seven years, until 1074, when he was overpowered.

The northern part of the county, including the Isle of Ely, is for the most part fen land, and comprises nearly half of the Great Level of the Fens, called the Bedford Level, which covers in all 680,000 acres of rich land; the remainder of it is in Norfolk, Lincoln and Hunts; this area, which was drained in the first instance by Sir Cornelius Vermuyden, a Dutchman, about the year 1629, and subsequently reclaimed and drained by successive engineers, is still only preserved by great care and watchfulness; in place of hedges the fields are separated by ditches which communicate with wider cuttings, and these again flow into the natural water-courses of rivers, which carry off the drainage: steam engines have largely taken the place of windmills for pumping the water from the ditches into the larger drains, and these are provided with sluices to regulate the supply of water for navigation, as the great drains are used as canals; in parts provision is made for excess of water in rainy weather by what are known as washlands, notably those some 20 miles in length from Earith (Hunts), across Cambridgeshire to Denver sluice (Norfolk), situated between the Hundred-feet (or New Bedford river), constructed after 1649, on the south and the Old Bedford river (dating from 1630) on the north: these washlands are flooded when the upland waters come down too fast to be discharged by the rivers and cover about 5,000 acres, affording rich pasture land. The black poplar, ash and alder are about the only trees of any size that flourish in this district, and at one time the fens were the resort of many species of wild fowl, but these latter have considerably diminished through the operation of draining. Sedge-cutting is one of the remaining fen industries, and at certain seasons the gathering of the couch-grass (Triticum Repens), which grows abundantly; of late years a large acreage has been devoted to potato growing and this affords considerable employment.

The Great Fen offers subjects of interest to the naturalist, the geologist and the engineer, and this Great Level has been from an early period divided into the North Level, the Middle Level and the South Level, Cambridgeshire being comprised in the last two; of the mores or inland lakes Whittlesey was the largest, but this was drained by the Middle Level Commissioners and brought under cultivation; and at Thorney, near here, great improvements in this direction were made under the supervision of the Duke of Bedford, whose ancestor, Francis, Earl of Bedford, in 1634, undertook the charge of the great drainage operations.

On the southern border of the shire the Gog-Magog and other hills rise to a height of about 300 feet. The upland is watered by the Ouse and its branches; the Ouse enters the shire on the west from Huntingdonshire, and passes through to the city of Ely on the east, proceeding to Downham and the sea at Lynn, in Norfolk: above Ely it receives the Cam, running down from Cambridge, where it is navigable, and just above which it is joined by the Rhea, from Hertfordshire and the south west; below Ely the Ouse receives the Lark or Mildenhall river from Suffolk, navigable from Bury, and the Croft or Welney, from the borders of Norfolk: the Ouse is navigable for shipping up to Ely; the name of this river is Iberian, and is one of the very common names given to rivers by the Celts, like Thame, Dour and Dæe: there is an Ouse in Cambridgeshire, Buckinghamshire, Sussex and Yorkshire; an Oise (anciently Axona) in France, an Auser and an Æsar in Italy and an Æous in Greece. The Nene is another of these names; the lower part only of this river passes through Cambridgeshire, where it splits into three channels, which have been much changed by drainage works: one channel is called the Catwater or Shire Drain, and runs between Cambridgeshire and Northamptonshire; a second, called Morton Leam, passes south to Wisbech, whence it is navigable to the sea; and the third, under the name of the Old Nene, or Whittlesea Dyke, flows by Whittlesea and March to the Ouse or Welney, at Salter's Lode Sluice.

Cambridgeshire in respect to the annual amount of rainfall is one of the driest counties in England. The average is about 22 inches yearly. Observations of the rainfall are daily made at about thirty stations in the county. Most rain falls with south-west winds, while those from the south-east are the driest; in the months of the year, December and January have the dampest atmosphere; May and July the driest. In the fen district, the atmospheric conditions often present marked peculiarities: here the mirage is not of unfrequent occurrence, when places which under ordinary circumstances are below the horizon become visible, being tilted up into the air, as it were, by refraction. Moist air, a warm day and the sun low in the heavens, are stated by Mr. Skertchly to be necessary for the production of this phenomenon.

The soil generally is fertile, corn being raised in the uplands as well as in the lowlands, and there is grazing in the latter. The produce consists of wheat (the Burwell wheat having a high reputation as seed), and other corn crops, cattle, sheep, Cottenham cheese (the production of which has much diminished), butter, fruit, hay, coleseed, osiers, cabbages, beans, potatoes, asparagus from Ely, reeds for thatching, chalk, lime and turf for fuel (much used); mangold wurtzel and carrots are grown in large quantities on the fen lands; the produce is chiefly sent to London from the ports of Lynn, Ely and Wisbech, and from Cambridge and other towns by railway. In the Cottenham and Willingham districts and around Wisbech much fruit is grown, especially strawberries, gooseberries, apples and plums, and sent to the London and Manchester markets.

Oolitic clays form the western part of Cambridgeshire: the river Cam runs along the centre in a valley, formed by the greensand and gault clay, while to the south and east of that river all is chalk, which rises in the Gog-Magog Hills and Royston Downs to heights of from 300 to 500 feet. These chalk hills are a continuation of the Chiltern Hills of Buckinghamshire. In the north of the county we have a portion of the fen land which encircles the Wash, a level tract intersected by great dykes or drains.

According to the Mines Department Report and Statistics for 1931, the only minerals raised were, chalk, 251,239 tons; chert and flint, 520 tons; clay, 855,455 tons; gravel and sand, 6,358 tons, and limestone, 200 tons.

Brewing and malting are large trades. Brick-making is carried on to some extent, the chief material used in building being brick. Lime-burning for manure employs many persons, chiefly in the southern parts, and coprolite works give employment to a few persons. The number of millers is considerable, and much corn is ground up and oilseed crushed. Basket-making, for which osiers are worked up, and mat-making occupy many persons. As there are so many navigable cuts and drains in the county, the employment of bargemen and boatmen is large, and many persons are engaged in ship, boat and barge building. Printing and bookselling employ many persons, chiefly at Cambridge, where books are printed at the University and other presses. There are paper and parchment works.

Race horses are trained on the downs near Newmarket.

The county is well provided with railway communication to all parts of England. The lines mostly belong to the Great Eastern and Great Northern sections of the London and North Eastern, including two trunk lines to London. Cambridge is a great railway centre, and communicates with London via Hitchin, by the Great Northern section, and through Essex and Herts by the Great Eastern section, and northward to Ely and March, which are also centres. The Great Eastern section has the principal lines in the county; one goes from Cambridge eastward through Newmarket and Bury St. Edmunds to Haughley junction, where it joins the main line to Norwich and Ipswich; a second line leaving Cambridge runs north-east to Ely and Thetford, with a branch through Fordham to Mildenhall; another line runs from Newmarket to Ely, and thence to St. Ives and to March; and another from Cambridge to St. Ives, whence it returns into the county to March and Wisbech; and from March a short line runs to Peterborough, connecting with the London, Midland and Scottish line.

There is a line from Cambridge to Hitchin on the Great Northern section, and a line of the London, Midland and Scottish Railway Company crosses the Great Northern section at Sandy, through Bedford to Bletchley and Oxford.

The Midland and Great Northern Joint Railway runs from Peterborough through Thorney to Wisbech, Sutton Bridge and King's Lynn and then on throughout Norfolk, embracing Cromer, Norwich and Yarmouth and terminating at Lowestoft.

The old high roads are the Old North Road, from London to York and Edinburgh, by Royston, with a branch to Cambridge; the London, Norwich and Newmarket Road, with a branch to Cambridge; and the Cambridge and Huntingdon Road, which joins the Great North Road. A branch of the Great North Road runs through the Isle of Ely by March and Wisbech.

The southern part of the county is crossed by the old Roman road of Icknield Street (which was also a British road of the Iceni) from Newmarket to Royston, and by Ermine Street from Royston to the north-west. The Via Devana, another of these ways, passed through Cambridge towards Godmanchester, where it met the Ermine Street, and another through Ely to Cambridge; most of these have now been obliterated or diverted.

Cambridgeshire, under the name of Grantbridgeshire, was divided previously to Domesday Survey in the same manner as now. The Isle of Ely, in the north part of the shire, which of old formed two hundreds, now forms five—Ely city, with 16,742 acres; Ely, with 25,925 acres (exclusive of the city of Ely); Wisbech, with 61,157 acres; North Witchford, with 85,275 acres; and South Witchford, with 37,462 acres.

In the rest of the shire are the hundreds of Northstow, in the north midland, with 19,651 acres; Staplow (anciently Staplehow) in the north midland, with 40,775 acres; Cheveley (Newmarket), in the east, with 12,905 acres; Radfield, in the south-east, with 23,869 acres; Staine, in the south-east midland, with 18,917 acres; Whittlesford, in the south, with 11,078 acres; Plendish (anciently Plaming-dike), exclusive of Cambridge, in the south midland, with 11,906 acres; Thriplow, in the south-west, with 16,160 acres; Chilford (Linton), in the south-west, with 22,364 acres; Armingford or Royston (named from the ford of Ermine Street), in the south-west, with 29,287 acres; Wetherley, in the south-west midland, with 16,160 acres; Longstow, in the west, with 25,500 acres; Chesterton, near Cambridge, in the south midland, with 15,847 acres; and Papworth, in the west midland, with 26,923 acres.

The county is in the South Eastern circuit.

Cambridgeshire includes two shires or separate jurisdictions, the shire proper and Ely. The shire proper has its county town at Cambridge, where the assizes and quarter sessions are held, and is divided into six petty sessional divisions, viz.:—Arrington and Melbourne (sittings at Arrington and Melbourne), Bottisham (sittings at Bottisham), Cambridge (sittings at Chesterton), Caxton (sittings at Caxton), Linton (sittings at Linton), Newmarket (sittings at Newmarket). The Isle of Ely has separate coroners.

The autumn and winter assizes are held at Cambridge; the summer assize is held at Wisbech. The April and October sessions for the Isle of Ely are held at Ely; the January and July sessions at Wisbech: the Isle of Ely has four petty sessional divisions, viz.:—Ely and South Witchford (sittings at Ely), North Witchford, Chatteris Sub-Division (sittings at Chatteris), March Sub-Division (sittings at March), Whittlesey and Thorney (sittings at Whittlesey) and Wisbech (sittings at Wisbech). Cambridgeshire is joined with Huntingdonshire in the shrievalty.

County Courts are held at Cambridge, Ely, March, Newmarket and Wisbech, in Circuit No. 35. Cambridge has jurisdiction in Bankruptcy cases.

The county has 169 civil parishes (131 parishes in Cambridge proper, and 38 parishes in the Isle of Ely) and 180 Ecclesiastical parishes and parts of 13. The greater part is in the diocese of Ely, forming the archdeaconry of Barton, which is subdivided into the rural deaneries of Barton, Bourn, Cambridge, Camps, Cheveley, Fordham, North Stowe, Quy and Shingay; four parishes are in the diocese of Norwich and three in that of St. Albans.

The Isle of Ely (which is the northern portion of the county) forms, for ecclesiastical purposes, part of the archdeaconry of Wisbech, which is divided into the rural deaneries of Ely, March and Wisbech.

The municipal boroughs are Cambridge and Wisbech, the former of which has a separate court of Quarter Sessions.

The chief towns are:—Cambridge, with its celebrated university, population in 1911, 40,027. In 1912 the municipal borough of Cambridge was considerably extended and the population increased to 55,812. In 1931 the population of the borough was 66,803. Ely, with the episcopal establishment and railway station, population in 1931, 8,382; Wisbech, in the Isle of Ely, with an export trade by water, and supplying a great part of the district with coals and timber, 12,005; March, in the Isle of Ely, an ancient town and a great railway station, 11,276; Thorney, in the Isle of Ely, formerly famous for its abbey, which is still a fine structure, (1921) 2,165; Chatteris, in the Isle of Ely, 5,153; Soham, which had anciently an abbey, (1921) 4,737; Whittlesea, in the Isle of Ely, also formerly possessing an abbey, 8,299; Whittlesea, or Whittlesey, has flax-scutching and oil mills. Linton, a small town in the south, (1921) 1,446. Newmarket is in the administrative county of West Suffolk.

The ecclesiastical edifices of the Isle of Ely are remarkably handsome.

The Registration districts are:—

COUNTY COUNCIL OF CAMBRIDGE

Local Government Act, 1888, 51 & 52 Vic. c. 41 & Local Government Clerks Act, 1931.

Under the above Act, Cambridgeshire, excluding the Isle of Ely, is a separate & distinct administrative county (sec. 46 (1) c), governed by a County Council, consisting of 16 aldermen & 48 councillors

The chairman, by virtue of his office, is justice of the peace for the county, without qualification (sec. 46)

The police for the county are under the control of a standing joint committee of the Quarter Sessions & the County Council, appointed as therein mentioned (secs. 9 & 46).

The Local Government Act, 1931, separates the office of Clerk of the Peace for the County from the office of Clerk to the County Council. Future appointments of Clerk of the Peace will be made by the Court of Quarter Sessions & of the Clerk to the Council by the County Council

The coroners for the county are appointed by the County Council

The clerk of the peace for the county is also the clerk of the County Council (sec. 83-1)

The administrative business, formerly transacted by the justices, is transacted by the County Council

COUNTY COUNCIL OF THE ISLE OF ELY

Local Government Act, 1888, 51 & 52 Vic. c. 41.

Under the above Act, the Isle of Ely is a separate & distinct administrative county (sec. 46-1c.), governed by a County Council, consisting of chairman, 14 aldermen & 42 councillors

The chairman, by virtue of his office, is a justice of the peace for the county (sec. 2-5b)

The police for the Isle of Ely are under the control of a standing joint committee of the Quarter Sessions & the County Council, appointed as mentioned in the Act, & the clerk of the peace is appointed by such joint committee, & may be removed by them

The coroners for the county are appointed by the County Council

The clerk of the peace for the county is also the clerk of the County Council

The administrative business of the county (which would, if this Act had not been passed, have been transacted by the justices) is now transacted by the County Council

PUBLICATIONS OF THE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

Maps, Coloured (one inch to the mile). Old Series.—46 (N.E.), district near Biggleswade; 47, district N. of Bishop's Stortford, &c.; 51 (N.E.), Mildenhall, &c.; 51 (S.W.), Country round Cambridge; 51 (S.E.), Newmarket, &c.; 51 (N.W.), Ely, &c.; 52 (N.E.), district E. of Huntingdon; 52 (S.E.), Country near Potton; 64, Peterborough, &c., district; 65, Wisbech, March, &c. New Series, Map No. 187, Huntingdon district; 205, Saffron Walden to Cambridge.

These maps are illustrated by the Horizontal Section, No. 126, which runs from near Chelmsford to Cambridge and Madingley Park. The mapping was commenced by the officers of the Geological Survey in 1869, and was completed in 1886, although some of the maps have been revised since. Of smaller scale maps, the Survey Index Map, sheets 12 and 16 (2s. 6d. each) embrace the whole of the county, and will be found most useful.

Books.—The Geology of Rutland and Part of Cambridge, by J. W. Judd (1875), 12s. 6d. Geology of the Fenland, by S. B. J. Skertchly (1877), 36s. 6d. Geology of the Country round Cambridge, by W. H. Penning and A. J. Jukes-Browne (1881), 4s. 6d. Geology of (part of) South Cambridgeshire (Map, sheet No. 47), by W. Whitaker, W. H. Penning, &c. (1878), 3s. 6d. Geology of Ely and Mildenhall, &c., by W. Whitaker, H. B. Woodward, &c. (1891), 2s. Geology of Newmarket, &c. by F. J. Bennett and J. H. Blake (1886), 1s. Geology of Wisbech and March, by W. Whitaker, &c. (1893), 3s. Geology of the Country near Saffron Walden, by H. J. O. White (1932), 3s. These eight books are known as "District" and "Sheet Memoirs," and they are intended to accompany and to explain the Survey Maps previously named. In addition there are "General Memoirs," of which that on the Jurassic Rocks, vol. v., the Upper Oolites, &c., by H. B. Woodward (1895), 7s. 6d.; and the three vols. on the Cretaceous Rocks (I. Gault and Upper Greensand [1900], 9s.; II. Lower and Middle Chalk [1903], 10s.; III. Upper Chalk [1904], 10s.), by A. J. Jukes-Browne and W. Hill, are most admirable monographs of the subjects to which they relate. Another treatise of "Thicknesses of Strata in the Counties of England & Wales" (1916), 4s. 6d. "The Water Supply of Cambs., Hunts, and Rutland," by W. Whitaker (1922), 7s. 6d., gives well and bore records.

Local agents for the sale of publications by the Geological Survey are Messrs. W. P. Spalding, Cambridge and W. Poyser, Wisbech.

The British Association met at Cambridge in the years 1833 (president, Rev. A. Sedgwick); 1845 (Sir John Herschel); 1862 (Rev. R. Willis); and 1904 (Right Hon. A. J. Balfour), and the volumes of Annual Reports for these years contain valuable papers referring to the Geology of Cambridgeshire.

Is a small pamphlet published by the authorities of the Woodwardian Museum, at Cambridge, the late Mr. W. Whitaker gives the titles of 121 works or papers on the geology of the county, which had been made public up to the end of 1873, and similar lists (brought up to a later date) will be found at the end of several of the Geological Survey "Memoirs." Among those who have done much to elucidate the nature of the strata and their fossil contents in this district, we may mention the names of Professors Sedgwick, H. G. Seeley, Bonney, T. McKenny Hughes, W. J. Sollas, McCoy and J. E. Marr; the Revs. P. B. Brodie and O. Fisher and Messrs. W. Whitaker, F. R. Cowper-Reed, H. B. Woodward, Thomas Roberts, A. J. Jukes-Browne, J. F. Walker, H. Keeping, J. J. H. Teall, &c. The surface of the county has been examined, and the positions of the rock-beds laid down on maps by the officers of the Government Geological Survey. A geological map of the district round Cambridge was prepared by Lucas Barrett in 1859, of which a revised edition by A. J. Jukes-Browne was published in 1873. The Geological Survey Memoir by S. B. J. Skerretchly, on "The Fenland," published in 1877, gives an excellent and complete account of the northern portion of the county. The district round Cambridge is admirably described in another "Memoir" by Messrs. Penning and Jukes-Browne. Indeed, since the year 1869 the entire surface of Cambridgeshire has not only been mapped in detail by the officers of the Government Geological Survey, but also described in a series of "Memoirs." Students of geology who wish for an introduction to the whole subject, in which the rocks and fossils of Cambridgeshire are considered only as part of those of the British Isles generally, will find such an elementary description in Harrison's Textbook of Geology, fifth edition, 3s. 6d.; Blackie & Sons, 1904. In the new Sedgwick Museum at Cambridge the visitor can study a grand series of local rocks and fossils, the result of many years' work on the part of the energetic geologists who have been or are connected with this institution. Here, too, is a fine bronze statue of the well-known geologist Adam Sedgwick, with his geological hammer in one hand and a specimen of the beautiful Cambrian Trilobite (Angelina sedgwicki) in the other.

Cambridgeshire may be divided—geologically and topographically—into four areas or regions. The first of these is the small tract occupied by the Jurassic Clays in the south-west of the county, extending from Fenny Drayton and Willingham by Papworth St. Agnes and Elsworth to Croxton, being in fact the eastern edge of the great sheet of clay which forms nearly the whole of Huntingdonshire.

Secondly, we have the broad, shallow valley of the Cam and Rhee, excavated mainly in Lower Greensand, Gault and Lower Chalk beds. This valley runs from south-west to north-east, from Guilden Morden by Cambridge to Ely.

The third region is constituted by the Middle and Upper Chalk hills which form the south and south-east of the county, running by Linton and Balsham to Newmarket and Mildenhall. These three divisions include all the stratified rocks of Cambridgeshire, which are thus seen to belong to two of the great geological divisions only, viz. the Jurassic and the Cretaceous. They have a strike, or line of direction, along the surface from north-east to south-west, while they each incline or dip to the south-east, passing in turn under the bed next above, so that the lowest and oldest rocks are the Jurassic Clays just mentioned as occurring on the western side of the county, while the uppermost and newest are the beds of Upper Chalk in the east.

The fourth division is a portion of the great fen district, and is composed of beds of clay, peat and gravel, which rest upon and conceal the northward extension of the older strata which form the three districts before described. The river Ouse, in its old course from east to west across the county, defines fairly accurately the southern termination of the fens. The fens stretch northwards to the Wash, and here and there we see small outcrops—like islands—of the stratified rocks which lie beneath (the Oxford Clay, Kimmeridge Clay, &c.), as at Whittlesey, March, Ely, &c.

We shall now consider each of these four districts with as much detail as our space permits, pointing out the nature and position of the rocks, and the character of their fossils, concluding with some account of the irregular surface deposits known as the "Drift or Boulder Clay," and a brief statement of the evidence which we possess as to the antiquity of man.

JURASSIC ROCKS.—In the south-west of England, extending from Dorset to Oxford, and again in the north-east, in Yorkshire, we have two great beds of clay belonging to the middle and the upper part of the Jurassic system respectively, separated from each other by an intervening bed of limestone—more or less continuous—which is called the Coral Rag. This limestone has associated with it two sandy beds—one above and the other below—which are called the Upper and the Lower Calcareous Grit, and the whole is collectively known as the Corallian Series. But from the quarries at Headington and Wheatley near Oxford, to Acklam Wold in Yorkshire—a distance of 240 miles—there is no good or continuous line of demarcation between the Oxford and the Kimmeridge Clays, with the exception of certain limestone bands in Cambridgeshire which we shall describe.

Fine sections in the Oxford Clay are to be seen in the brickyards at St. Ives and Peterborough, but these are both outside the county boundary. The same stratum passes underneath the fen beds, and forms the foundation of all the low flat country around the Wash. At two or three points the Oxford Clay is seen at the surface, as around Whittlesey and Thorney. There is a large pit to the north-west of Whittlesey, where the Oxford Clay is seen to be of a deep-blue colour, and to contain much pyrites and wood. There are also clay-pits round the town of Whittlesey, which have yielded many beautiful Ammonites together with Gryphaea dilatata, a large and very characteristic shell. At Eastrea brickyard clays, perhaps rather higher in the Oxfordian series, are worked. Passing farther south, we find the Oxford Clay extending from Fenny Drayton, by Papworth St. Agnes to Croxton. Here it forms rather high flat ground, but, being thickly covered by Boulder Clay, there are few sections visible. This region, however, is interesting from the occurrence of several bands of hard rock in the clay, which were discovered by Professor H. G. Seeley, and which may be taken to represent the base of the Corallian Series. The most important is at Elsworth, 8 miles north-west of Cambridge. Here are layers exposed in the brook course of a ferruginous limestone, full of oolitic grains and (when unweathered) of a dark-blue colour. Mr. C. B. Wedd's researches (1901) show that the Elsworth Rock contains such fossils as Ammonites perarmatus and A. plicatilis, and hence must be placed at or near the base of the Corallian. There are also similar thin bands of limestone at Tetworth and near Gamlingay and Boxworth. From the neighbourhood of these villages, as we pass eastwards, the "clay seems to graduate imperceptibly up to the Kimmeridge Clay of Cottenham." For the transition clays which contain both Oxfordian and Kimmeridgian fossils, Professor Seeley has proposed the name of Tetworth (or Amphihill) Clay; it would of course occupy the place of the Corallian Series proper of other districts. The Amphihill Clay contains fairly abundant and well-preserved fossils. They differ from those of the Oxford Clay in being calcareous instead of being preserved in iron pyrites. The only form peculiar to the Amphihill Clay appears to be Ostrea discoides, an oyster of distinctive character.

The Coral Rag.—Near the little village of Upware, about 10 miles north-east of Cambridge and 3 miles from Reach, there is a low plateau formed of limestone occupying a visible area of just over a square mile. The limestone was early identified as Corallian Limestone, and is doubtless a coral reef formed in an area of clear water in the midst of the muddy sea in which the Amphihill Clay was deposited. The limestone has been worked in two quarries, situated at the north and south ends of the ridge, and about 1½ miles apart. The southern pit shows a creamy-white limestone, with layers of corals and many other fossils, as Cidaris florigena, &c. The northern pit is in rather lower beds,

These beds lie under Cambridge at a depth of 100 to 150 feet, and are reached by artesian wells, yielding a good supply of excellent water. At Ely, the Lower Greensand is seen resting on Kimmeridge Clay and about 8 feet thick. At Gamlingay is a fine section showing Lower Greensand overlying Amphihill Clay. At Haddenham it is a light brown ferruginous sand 15 feet thick. At Upware there have been extensive workings for coprolites in the Lower Greensand. Properly speaking, coprolites are the fossilized dung of saurians, fishes, &c.; but the term has been applied to all the more or less rounded dark-looking phosphatic nodules which occur in great numbers in these deposits. In the shallow diggings at Upware were exposed about 8 feet of Lower Greensand, which contained two phosphate beds, an upper one, 6 or 7 inches thick, and a lower one forming the base of the deposit and from 1 to 2 feet in thickness. The lower bed contained many pebbles, which had to be picked out. Fossils were numerous. They may be divided into two classes, placing in one division those which from their rolled and water-worn appearance, the marks of boring shells which they bear, and their usual dark colour appear to be derived, i.e. washed out of some older deposits, as the Kimmeridge and Oxford Clays, &c.; and another set of a lighter hue and more perfect preservation, which are of the actual or true age of the deposit. Among the derived fossils Jurassic forms are common, while the indigenous shells include Terebratula depressa, Waldheimia tamarindus, &c. Most of the so-called coprolites are really pieces of wood, casts of shells, bones and even lumps of mud, &c., all of which have been impregnated with phosphate of lime, so as now to form when properly treated a most valuable manure.

UPPER CRETACEOUS ROCKS.—The term "gault," or "golt," is applied by workmen to any stiff clay, being often used in the Midlands to describe the Oxford Clay, or even the Chalky Boulder Clay. By geologists, however, it has been adopted as a name for the lowest member of the Upper Cretaceous Series, which is accordingly termed the Gault.

and shows Coralline Oolite (with few fossils, mostly echinoderms), underlain by the Elsworth Rock.

The Kimmeridge Clay.—This deposit is very thin in Cambridgeshire: it can be traced by Cottenham and Haddenham to Ely, where, at Roslyn Hill, it has been largely excavated for the purpose of tamping, or making watertight, the banks of the dykes in the fens. Its thickness here is 60 feet, and it is a bituminous, purplish, or bluish-black laminated clay, containing large nodules of impure limestone. Many fossils have been obtained here, including nine or ten species of saurians, several of which were new species, and have been described by Professor Seeley. In a pit, sunk by Mr. Keeping near the Coral Rag Pit, at Upware, the Kimmeridge Clay was found curving up unconformably against the limestone, and at the junction the clay had mixed with it a quantity of rounded or broken fragments from the Coral Rag, "so that it actually presented the appearance of boulder-drift." This is the natural consequence of the deposition of muddy sediment around the margin of the coral reef, and is probably only of local importance. So-called "islands" of Kimmeridge Clay at Chatteris and March prove a wide outcrop of the deposit in North Cambridgeshire.

Of the highest Jurassic strata—the Portland and Purbeck Beds—there is no trace in Cambridgeshire; neither are there any representatives of the estuarine series which assumes so much importance in the south-east of England, where it is known as the Wealden. It is probable that land existed in the Midland area during the time of deposition of these strata elsewhere.

THE LOWER CRETACEOUS SERIES.—This important division is scantily represented in Cambridgeshire by the beds commonly called Lower Greensand. They are of a sandy nature, and we can trace them from the well-known "diggings" at Potton, in Bedfordshire, by Gamlingay, Bourn, Tolworth and Cottenham to Upware; and there are outliers at Wilburton and Ely. Their thickness is variable; in the south of the county about 100 feet, but thinning northwards to only 12 feet at Wicken. Some of the sandy beds are sufficiently consolidated to furnish an inferior building-stone, known as "Carstone."

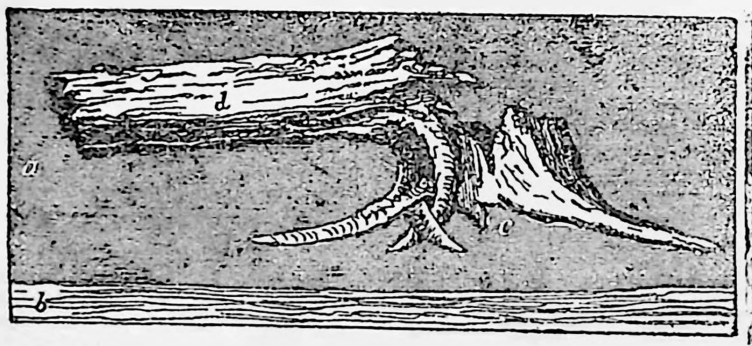

The late Professor Bonney described it as a "tenacious pale bluish-grey clay, in which are occasional concretions of iron pyrites, often more or less converted into limonite, together with small crystals of selenite and not a few rather light-brown phosphatic nodules." This stratum enters Cambridgeshire between Guilden Morden and Gamlingay, and runs north-east by Cambridge, Girton and Horningsea to Wicken and Soham, forming flat ground for several miles on the west side of the Cam. Its thickness is variable, and it appears to lie conformably on the Lower Greensand, but its upper surface is uneven and much eroded. At Guilden Morden its thickness is about 200 feet, and thence it thins northwards to 170 feet at Bassingbourne, 160 feet at Barrington, 150 feet at Haslingfield, 120 feet at Grantchester, while under Cambridge it is only a little over 100 feet in thickness. In fact in this county the Gault has suffered great erosion, all the upper portion having been worn away, though it is possible that Upper Gault is to be seen in the large brick-pit at Barwell, near Cambridge. The thinning of the Gault towards the north-east is probably not entirely due to erosion but to some extent to a deepening of the Gault sea in this direction. We can study the Gault in many large excavations where it is worked for brick and tile making, as in the deep pit on the right of the Newmarket road near Cambridge, and at Barwell. Fossils are not common near Cambridge, but further north, at Reach, &c., the usual common Gault fossils such as Belemnites minimus and Inoceramus concentricus are found. Ammonites interruptus is a characteristic fossil in a nodule-bed which lies at or near the base of the Gault. From an examination of the shells in this and in other areas, and a comparison of their habits with those of existing molluscs of the same genera, Mr. F. G. H. Price has come to the conclusion "that the Lower Gault was a near-shore or muddy estuarine deposit, and that in course of time, as the sea-bed gradually sank, so did that sea naturally become deeper and deeper," as is shown by the disappearance of shells which inhabit shallow water and the incoming of genera characteristic of deeper seas.

The succeeding deposits form, in the aggregate, the most conspicuous division of the Cretaceous system. Following the shallow water conditions represented by the Lower Greensand, and the subsequent deepening of the sea shown by the Gault, there occurred a period of greater submergence which resulted in the deposition of the chalk. This rock, a white or pale-coloured limestone, was laid down over a great part of north-western Europe and is perhaps the most strongly marked feature of the geology of south-eastern England. The succession has been worked out partly by differences in the characters of the rock and partly by variations in the fossils contained therein. Thus the following table shows the classification of these Upper Cretaceous rocks, with their approximate maximum thickness in Cambridgeshire.

near Barton, in Bedfordshire. These beds have been washed away in Cambridgeshire, probably by strong marine currents, and we have their remains in the conglomeratic stratum which constitutes the base of the Chalk-Marl. The phosphatic nodules were formerly of commercial importance, and the deposit is of interest from the great variety in the fossils which it contains in abundance.

When the bed is examined minutely, the green grains of glauconite are often found to be the internal casts of the shells of foraminifera. Many of the nodules are phosphatized sponges; a fact which Professor Sollas was enabled to demonstrate by examining the semi-transparent slices of them under the microscope. Fossils are very numerous.

There are a few bones of birds, and many of reptiles and fishes, while shells and remains of crustaceans are numerous. As in the Lower Greensand, two sets of fossils can be distinguished: the first occur as dark phosphate casts, and have been washed out of the Gault; the second comprises those which lived at the time of the formation of the stratum in which they are found. Of the former Ammonites splendens, A. rostratus, and A. auritus, and of the latter Exogyra laciniata and Plicatula sigillina may be mentioned.

Although pebbles are not so numerous as in the Lower Greensand coprolite bed, yet masses of stone of large size are sometimes found, of which there are some good examples in the Sedgwick Museum at Cambridge. They appear to be rocks which have been brought from other districts, possibly by floating ice.

Several large outliers of the Chalk-Marl occur west of the Hitchin. The chief pits were near Grantchester, Meldreth, Whaddon, Shepreth, Horningsea, Coton and Royston. The sections here exposed showed on top perhaps 2 or 3 feet of gravel and sand, and then 10 to 20 feet of chalk-marl, which is of a greyish tint, and is locally called "ciunch." The lower part of this marl contains many green grains, and its base is "a stratum barely a foot in thickness, which is full of green grains, and black granules and nodules, looking like a sediment from the purer marl above. The green grains are the mineral glauconite, and the black nodules phosphate of lime, often but erroneously called coprolites." This stratum is the famous Cambridge Greensand, and it was long thought to represent the true Upper Greensand of the South of England. Messrs. Whitaker, Jukes-Browne and others have now shown that this bed is really the base of the Chalk-Marl. The Upper Greensand proper comes to an end a short distance north of Tring, in Hertfordshire, and the Upper Gault similarly,

Cam, but the edge of the main mass of the bed lies a little east of the river between Hauxton and Waterbeach. The Chalk-Marl is about 60 feet in thickness, and is of a light greyish tint. The Chalk-Marl is also known as the Zone of Ammonites varians, after the name of its most characteristic fossil. It is a soft greyish marl, which becomes harder and more chalky in its higher parts. Exposures are numerous as this rock is largely used for making cement.

At some points a hard band, the Totternhoe Stone, occurs on top of the Chalk-Marl. This bed has been extensively quarried as a building stone. At Burwell it is 20 feet thick, but it thins to the north-east, until at Hunstanton in Norfolk it is only two feet thick. Fossils are much more abundant in the Totternhoe stone than in the adjacent beds. Above the Totternhoe stone is a thickness of about 80 feet of greyish white chalk, commonly known as the Grey Chalk. The highest division of the Lower Chalk is represented by the Belemnite Marls. Another hard bed called the Melbourn

Rock (from its occurrence at the village of that name north-east of Royston) lies at the base of the Middle Chalk. The Upper Chalk contains many flints, and forms the line of hills which runs by Royston and Linton towards Newmarket. Its thickness is about 450 feet, and it has at its base a hard band known as the Chalk Rock, which is here taken as the uppermost part of the Middle Chalk. In the rounded outlines of these hills, with their waterless valleys between, we recognise at once the characteristics of Chalk scenery. In the various pits the usual Chalk fossils are to be found—sea-to the low gradient of the rivers draining that land. The total thickness of the Chalk of Cambridgeshire is about 800 feet. The western slope of the Chalk hills towards the Cam valley is somewhat abrupt, but the dip-slope eastwards is long and gentle. The Gog-Magog hills (consisting of Middle Chalk capped by boulder clay) rise to a height of 302 feet above the sea, and the heights of a few other points on the Chalk are Babraham (church), 83 feet; Little Abington (church), 104 feet; Linton (church), 133 feet; The Rivey (a hill near Linton), 350 feet; and Balsham, 395 feet.

urchins (echinoderms), known by their rounded, spheroidal or heart-shaped form, with such shells as Terebratula and Inoceramus. Formerly the Chalk was held to be a deep-water deposit, owing to the presence of the microscopic shells of minute organisms called Foraminifera. But most of the chalk fossils are the remains of animals whose present-day representatives live in shallow water. The chalk, therefore, is now regarded as a shallow-water deposit which owes its purity and its freedom from terrigenous matter to the low relief of the land which formed the shore line and

THE DRIFT.—GLACIAL DEPOSITS.—Of the Tertiary Formations—the London Clay, the Crag, &c., which are found resting upon the Chalk in Suffolk and Essex—there is no trace in Cambridgeshire. We pass at once from the Chalk—an open sea deposit—to beds of gravel and boulder clay, which were formed during the last glacial period, a time of excessive cold, when glaciers existed in England. The lowest glacial deposit appears to be the Boulder Clay. This clay is a stiff brown or blue mass, full of rocks of all sorts and sizes, but especially of lumps of chalk, so that it is often termed the Great Chalky Boulder Clay. It extends over the Chalk hills and stretches over the high ground which lies between the valleys of the Cam and Ouse. Its extent and position show (1) that it was once a continuous sheet covering the whole county, and (2) that it was deposited after the main physical features of the county had been formed, since it occurs on the valley slopes. The smaller lateral valleys have, however, been cut and the principal valleys deepened since its deposit. Northwards the Boulder Clay passes under the fen beds; but it stretches in all directions far beyond Cambridgeshire, terminating southwards on the northern brow of the Thames Valley. Its thickness in this county is very variable, but often above 100 feet. The numerous rocks and fossils which it contains appear to have come from the northward, from Norfolk, Lincolnshire, Yorkshire and Scotland, and some even from Scandinavia. These may have been broken off and dragged underneath, or frozen into and upon the ice of a great glacier advancing southwards. Some of the masses of rock which have been carried in this way are of enormous size. At Roslyn Hole, near Ely, there is a mass of Chalk Greensand and Gault, 480 yards in length by 60 yards in width, which is surrounded by, and rests upon, Boulder Clay, the latter occupying a hollow scooped out of Kimmeridge Clay. This enormous mass must have been transported by ice advancing from the north or north-east.

Of later date than the Boulder Clay, from the washing of which they are probably derived, are the Hill or Plateau Gravels found capping Barrington Hill, the Gog-Magog Hills, Copley Hill, &c. Then, at lower heights, we have a series of Old River Gravels containing shells and bones, the latter often belonging to extinct species, as the Mammoth, Rhinoceros, &c. The ancient river-gravels are finely exposed at Barnwell, near Cambridge, and large collections of their shells, &c., have been made by Mrs. T. McKenny Hughes. These include at least three species—Cerbicula fluminalis, Hydrobia marginata and Unio rhomboideus—which no longer live in England. Lastly, gravel and mud, the deposit of the existing streams, fringe their courses and form the flat "river meadows" along their sides.

THE FEN BEDS.—The southern boundary of the fen district follows an irregular line from Earith on the west, by Over and Willingham, to Swaffham Priory, and thence by Soham to Isleham. All to the north of this line is "a low plain, varying from 5 to 20 feet above mean sea-level. Much of this land is below the high-water level of ordinary tides, and would be overflowed but for the erection of great banks along the sea board, which are known as the 'sea walls.' Slight elevations of from 20 to 80 feet stand out from the dead level of the fens like islands from the midst of the sea. Such are Ely, Whittlesey, Thorney, Eastrea, &c.; with these exceptions there is nothing to break the monotony of the plain; and when the isles and bounding hills lie beyond the field of vision, the landscape is as even and the horizon as circular as is the sea-view when no land appears. Through this dreary land the Nene and the Ouse once found their sluggish way, interlacing at numerous points, almost losing themselves in meres and morasses, flooding the land in winter, drying into strings of stagnant pools in summer, and on meeting the salt-water of the sea, pushing it back till the tide, gathering strength, overcame the river waters and rushed up the estuaries as bores. Now the rivers are banked and travel direct to the sea, the winding estuaries are straightened and bores are of very rare occurrence, every mere and morass is drained, the whole country is intersected with artificial dykes, and powerful engines pump the superfluous water into the arterial cuts. The land, which up to the time of Elizabeth furnished only coarse fodder to cattle and geese, and afforded a home to countless wild fowl and fish, upon which a half-savage, scanty population subsisted, is entirely under cultivation, possesses but few acres of waste, and forms one of the richest agricultural districts of the kingdom." (Skertchly.)

The lowest Fen Beds are gravels of marine origin, which crop out all round the edge of the fen district, and of which large patches also occur at March, Whittlesey and Chatteris. As it furnishes a solid foundation and a fair water supply, we find many villages standing on this marine gravel.

Peat occupies a much larger area. It rests upon the gravel, and as we follow it towards the sea, we find intercalated beds of silt or warp, one kind of which has been called "buttery clay." The silt is a marine deposit, being the mud left behind by the tides, and in this way a width of land of three miles has at some points been formed since the Roman Period—a fact which, together with the extensive inclosures which have been made, has transformed Cambridgeshire from a sea-coast to an inland county. The average thickness of the peat is about 6 feet. It is largely dug for fuel in the neighbourhood of Burwell; it contains near Ely at least five "buried forests," or horizons, on which stools and trunks of large trees are found. The land formed by the peat can be readily distinguished by its blackness and even surface and by the absence of hedge-rows and villages.

ECONOMIC GEOLOGY.—Cambridgeshire is essentially an agricultural county, but there are several important industries which are directly dependent upon the nature of the rocks within its boundaries.

The Chalk Marl is eminently suitable for the manufacture of cement, and large cement works are situated around Cambridge. Chalk, too, is often used to spread over the soil when the latter has become deficient in lime. The annual output of chalk from Cambridgeshire averages over 50,000 tons.

Other Cretaceous rocks of economic importance are the Cambridge Greensand and the Lower Greensand. The former deposit was largely worked from about 1850 to 1880 for the phosphatic nodules which were converted into "superphosphate" for manuring the land. The shallower beds, however, became exhausted and the industry came to an end. The Lower Greensand throughout its outcrop contains a high percentage of silica (quartz), and is extensively used as a furnace-sand and (when sufficiently pure) as a glass-sand. This is worthy of note, though the Lower Greensand does not appear to have been worked for these purposes in Cambridgeshire itself.

There is very little rock available in Cambridgeshire for building purposes, though hard bands of irregular occurrence furnish material for local use. Thus the hard bands of the chalk, e.g. the Burwell Rock, have been worked at Reach since Roman times. Some of the early colleges of Cambridge and the interior of Ely Cathedral were largely built of this "clunch," as it is called locally. The stone is white and compact but is not sufficiently durable for external use. The hard portions of the Lower Greensand furnish a fine to medium grained sandstone called Carstone which has been used for buildings around Ely. Flints from the Chalk have been used for building purposes and many East Anglian churches are built of them.

Brickmaking is an important industry on the outcrops of the Jurassic and Cretaceous clays. Large pits are seen in the Oxford Clay at Whittlesey, in the Kimmeridge Clay at Ely and in the Gault at Cambridge. The output of clay in the county reaches over 200,000 tons annually.

PREHISTORIC MAN.—The earliest traces of the existence of man in Britain consist of stone implements mostly made of flint. We can distinguish two main classes of these stone tools, differing both in their appearance and mode of occurrence.

1. Palæolithic, or Older Stone Age.—The specimens which belong to this period are usually found in beds of gravel, sand, or loam. They are from 4 to 8 inches in length, and are either pointed or oval in form. They were evidently manufactured by striking off flakes from a suitable lump of flint with a stone pebble until the desired form was produced.

2. Neolithic, or Newer Stone Age.—The implements of this period are found on or close to the surface, or in the barrows or tumuli which are the burying places of ancient chiefs. Their forms are varied and elegant, and exhibit an immense advance in skill on those of the Palæolithic age. Moreover, many of them have been polished by rubbing on stone slabs.

Then came the discovery of metals—first, copper and tin, of which the Bronze Age gives evidence; and then comes on the Iron Age in which we live.

Palæolithic flint implements have been found in the gravel pits at Barnwell, Chesterton, Bottisham Fen, Kennett Station, Swaffham Fen, Soham Fen, Upper Hare Park, Chatteris, and the Observatory Hill, Cambridge.

Of neolithic tools many specimens have been obtained. They are not so numerous as those of Palæolithic man and are generally made of flint or greenstone. In the Sedgwick Museum, at Cambridge, there is a skull of the ancient ox—Bos primigenius—in which is embedded the cutting edge of a flint celt or axe-head. This interesting specimen was found in a fen near Cambridge. The fen district, especially Burwell Fen, has yielded many celts, arrow-heads, flakes, scrapers, hammers, &c. At Ely a fine perforated axe-hammer made of greenstone has been found; some well-polished celts have been found at Coton, flint arrow-heads at Aldreth, Isleham, Reach Fen, Bourn Fen, &c., and altogether there are about fifty localities in Cambridgeshire in which relics of the Stone Age have been met with. Of these full particulars may be found in Sir John Evans' excellent book on the "Ancient Stone Implements of Great Britain." (Second edition, 1897.)

BALSHAM is a village and parish, 4 miles north-north-east from Linton station, 4 north from Bartlow station on the Cambridge and Sudbury section of the London and North Eastern railway, and 10 south-east from Cambridge, in the hundred of Radfield, rural district and petty sessional division of Linton, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Camps and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of the Holy Trinity is a very handsome edifice of flint, rubble and white brick, in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of large chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 5 bells: the chancel retains 24 stalls of the 14th century; there is a handsome rood screen of the same date, and a fine brass to John Sleaford, rector, Master of the Wardrobe to Edward III. and canon of Ripon and Wells, who rebuilt the chancel and part of the church and erected the stalls and screen, and died in 1401; the brass includes his effigy in cope, with figures of saints, under a fine canopy, and has a marginal inscription; there is a similar brass to Dr. John Blodwell, formerly dean of S. Asaph, ob. 1462, and also a brass effigy of Johannes Lindsell, d. 1612 (inscription lost): in the south aisle is a memorial window, erected in 1866, to the Rev. Edward Wollaston M.A. 33 years rector, his wife Elizabeth and their daughter Agnes Cornthwaite: in 1932 the east window and one in the south of the chancel were filled with stained glass in memory of William Alfred Prince and Miss Ellen Prince: the church was restored and a new organ-chamber built in the year 1875, and in 1924 the tower was repaired, a side chapel has been erected on the site of the former old chapel of St. Nicholas; it is a self-contained structure, made partly of the old paneling originally taken from the church or the old rectory and partly of new wood, with carved cresting made by the present rector; the chapel contains the Elizabethan altar formerly used in the church; the carved inlaid work in connection with the altar is the work of the rector and of men instructed by him; the elaborately carved font cover, placed in 1927 near the tower arch, is also the work of the rector; by the altar is a handsome carved inlaid Litany desk, which is a memorial to Dr. Head, chief warden for 30 years: there is a book containing the names and records of the men parishioners who served in the Great War, 1914-18, and a carved oak tablet with the names of the rectors from 1220: there are 800 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £676, including 500 acres of glebe with residence, in the gift of the Governors of the Charterhouse, and held since 1910 by the Rev. Herbert John Edwin Burrell M.A. of Magdalen College, Oxford, hon. canon of Ely and rural dean of Camps. In the churchyard there is a stone cross with the Calvary carved on one side and the Virgin Mary and Child on the reverse, erected in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. There is a Congregational chapel, erected in 1833, with sittings for 300 persons. In 1932 a shelter, given by Miss Ellen Prince, was erected on the Green; it is built of English oak on an octagonal base, the floor being of Portland stone with black marble squares; the roof is of red Suffolk tiles and is surmounted by a weather vane; on the beams inside the shelter is a memorial inscription carved in Trojan Roman lettering. Charities amounting to £33 8s. 8d. yearly are distributed in coal and money, and a sum of £3 3s. 9d. is available for ecclesiastical purposes. In 1932 William Alfred Prince and Miss Ellen Prince left about £500, the income to help to provide a nurse, and for the nursing and provision of medical requisites for the poor of Balsham, primarily those who have resided at least two years in the parish; the trustees are the rector and churchwardens. The Governors of Charterhouse are lords of the manor, and the rector, H. Long esq. H. J. Gray esq. and O. F. Ryder esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is clay and chalk; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 4,550 acres; the population in 1921 was 654.

BARRINGTON is a parish and village, on the river Ehee or Cam, 1 mile north from Foxton station on the Hitchin and Royston section of the London and North Eastern railway, 7 south-west from Cambridge and about the same distance north-east from Royston, in the hundred of Wetherley, district of Orwell, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, rural district of Melbourn, county court district of Royston, rural deanery of Barton and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of All Saints is a building of stone, in the Early English and Decorated styles, with Perpendicular windows and timber work, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, north and south porches, a chapel contiguous to the north aisle and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 6 bells: the chancel, which is Decorated, retains a piscina and priest's doorway and has four windows with flowing tracery; the nave piers are Early English, dating from about 1180, but the clerestory is Perpendicular; in the tower is an aumbry with ancient oak doors: the north chapel, used as the burial place of the Bendyshe family, is of Perpendicular date: the nave is seated with open benches of the 15th century, handsomely carved, and the pulpit is enriched with Jacobean work: the font, a square basin of Norman date, stands on a Decorated base: the rood staircase is perfect: in the south aisle is a fine oak chest, bound with iron: the church plate bears the date 1569: the church was repaired during the period 1874-91 at a cost of £851: the church tower was repaired in 1920 at the sole cost of C. M. Agnew esq. of Durrant's, Croxley Green, under the direction of Mr. Comper: there are 300 sittings. The register of marriages dates from the year 1570; baptisms, 1572; burials, 1570. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £383, with residence, and including 297 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Master and Fellows of Trinity College, Cambridge, and held since 1928 by the Rev. Charles William Winch, of Durham University. There is a Congregational chapel, first founded in 1667, the present building being erected in 1856 on a site given by John Coleman esq. and holding 500 persons. The charities amount to about £69 yearly. On the village green is a memorial of Douling stone, erected in 1920, in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. Barrington Hall is the property of Capt. John Nelson Bendyshe, and residence of Brig.-Gen. Wilfrid Keith Evans O.M.G., D.S.O. The Master and Fellows of Trinity College, Cambridge, who have held the manor since the year 1347, and Capt. John Nelson Bendyshe are the principal landowners. The soil is clunch, clay and gault; subsoil, gault. The chief crops are wheat, barley and beans. The area is 2,275 acres of land and 7 of water; the population in 1921 was 459.

BARTLOW is a small village and parish, near the road from Cambridge to Haverhill; it is the junction station of the lines from Haverhill and Saffron Walden to Cambridge on the London and North Eastern railway, and is 2 miles south-east from Linton, 13 south-east from Cambridge and 49 by rail from London, in the hundred of Chilford, rural district and petty sessional division of Linton, county court district of Saffron Walden, rural deanery of Camps, archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The village of Bartlow is in the county of Cambridge, but the hamlet of Bartlow (or Steven-ton) End, as it is otherwise called, is in the county of Essex; but for ecclesiastical purposes is part of Bartlow. (For the names of the residents there, see Kelly's Directory of Essex.) The church of St. Mary, an ancient edifice of flint and rubble in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, was partially restored in 1879; it consists of chancel, nave, north porch and a circular embattled western tower containing 3 bells: on the south wall of the nave is a fresco of St. Christopher, the Roman soldier, carrying the infant Saviour over a ford: in 1927 a fresco of 1450 A.D. was discovered on the south wall of the nave, the subject being St. Michael weighing the good and evil deeds of a human soul in a pair of scales: the tower, which is much older than the body of the church, has walls six feet in thickness: the chancel retains a piscina and there is another in the south wall of the nave: the church affords 140 sittings. The register dates from the year 1573. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £403, with glebe and residence, in the gift of Charles Gerald Brocklebank esq. M.C. and held since 1927 by the Rev. Edward Egerton Phillips M.A. of Clare College, Cambridge. Near the village are four (formerly six) very remarkable artificial hills, excavated in the years 1832, 1835 and 1838, and described in vols. 25, 26 and 28 of the "Archæologia," by Rokewood Gage esq. who distinctly proves them to be Roman works; many curious and valuable sepulchral relics, discovered in these hills and deposited at Easton Lodge, near Dunmow, the seat of the Countess of Warwick, were unfortunately lost in the fire by which that mansion was destroyed; these hills are actually in the parish of Ashdon, but are called Bartlow Hills from their being close to that village. Bartlow House is the seat of Charles Gerald Brocklebank esq. M.C. who is the principal landowner. The soil is chalk and gravel; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats, beans and barley. The parish contains 377 acres; the population in 1921 was 94 in the civil parish and 216 in the ecclesiastical, which extends into Essex.

BARTON is a parish on the Bourn brook, 1½ miles north-east from Lord's Bridge station on the Bedford and Cambridge branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, and about 3½ west-south-west from Cambridge, in the hundred of Wetherley, rural district of Chesterton, petty sessional division and county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Barton and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Peter is an ancient edifice of stone in the Late Deco-rated style, and consists of large chancel, long nave, south porch and an embattled western tower with pinnacles and turret and containing 3 bells: a carved oak screen of Perpendicular date, enriched with shields of arms, separates the nave from the chancel: there are brasses in the chancel to John Martin and Margaret, his wife, dated 1593, a piscina and an ambury: the building was restored in 1885, at a cost of £1,350, and re-opened after extensive repairs in March, 1886, and affords 230 sittings. The register dates from the year 1687. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £308, with glebe and residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1933 by the Rev.

A small Baptist chapel was erected here in 1894. The charities amount to £6 19s. yearly for bread and fuel. The Provost and Fellows of King's College, Cambridge, who are owners of the rectorial tithes, Cambridge University, St. Catharine's, Corpus Christi and Clare Colleges, Cambridge, and Herbert William Holben esq. are the principal landowners. The soil and subsoil are of a clayey nature. The chief crops are wheat, barley, clover and roots. The area is 1,834 acres; the population in 1921 was 243.

BASSINGBOURN (or Bassingbourne) is a parish and village, the latter being about 3 miles north-west from Royston station; a large portion of the township of Royston and the hamlet of Kneesworth is within this parish, which is in the hundred of Armingford, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, rural district of Melbourn, county court district of Royston, rural deanery of Shingay and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of SS. Peter and Paul, erected in the 14th century, is a building of stone and flint, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch of the 15th century and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 5 bells, cast by Miles Graye in 1650: in the church are monuments to the Nightingale and Turpin families, including two to Jeffrey Nightingale, ob. 1664, and to Edw. Nightingale, ob. 1723: the church was restored in 1865 at a cost of about £2,000, to which sum the Dean and Chapter of Westminster contributed £300: the tower arch has been opened, a vestry formed in the tower and fitted up for the reception of the library of rare theological works partly bequeathed to this parish in 1717 by Sir Edward Nightingale, a former owner of Kneesworth, to which additions have been made by different vicars: the east window is a memorial to the Rev. F. H. Bishop M.A. a former vicar, and his two daughters, and there are several other memorial windows: there are 600 sittings. The register dates from the year 1558, and the churchwardens' accounts from 1490. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £370 with residence, and including about 12 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Westminster, and held since 1899 by the Rev. Robert Henry Boyd M.A. of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, who is a surrogate and rural dean of Shingay. There is a Congregational chapel, founded in 1759, with 450 sittings. A Joint Burial Committee of seven members was formed in 1877: the cemetery, at the east end of the village, is 2½ acres in extent, and has two mortuary chapels, and a lodge for the keeper; the total cost was £1,500. In the village is a cross of Portland stone, erected as a memorial to the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. There are several landowners. The soil is clayey and chalky, and the subsoil gault and clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, beans, peas and rye. The area of the entire civil parish is 3,204 acres; the population in 1921 was 1,052 in the civil and 1,156 in the ecclesiastical parish.

KNEESWORTH, a hamlet on the Great North road, is in the parish of Bassingbourn, 2 miles north from Royston station on the Hitchin and Cambridge branch of the London and North Eastern railway. Kneesworth Hall, together with part of the estate, was purchased in 1900 by the late Viscount Knutsford, who entirely rebuilt the old hall, which stands in well-timbered grounds of about 50 acres; the former mansion, supposed to have been erected about 1600, occupied the site of a still older house. The Hall is the residence of the Dowager Viscountess Knutsford. The soil is chiefly chalk, red land and heavy land; the subsoil is clay and chalk. The chief crops are wheat and barley. The area is 879 acres; the population in 1921 was 84.

BENWICK, formerly a hamlet of Doddington, is now a parish, 5 miles west from Wimblington station on the Cambridge and Wisbech section of the London and North Eastern railway, 8 north-west by road from Chatteris and 8 south-west from March, in the rural district and hundred of North Witchford, Isle of Ely petty sessional division and county court district of March, rural deanery of March, and in the archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary was erected in 1254, at a cost of £2,500, the money being raised under "Gilbert's Act," and constituting an annual charge upon the living until the whole amount, with interest, is paid off: the church is an edifice in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a western tower with spire containing a clock and two bells: the church was partially restored and the spire rebuilt in 1902, at a cost of £300: there are sittings for about 400 persons. The register dates from the year 1851. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £716, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1920 by the Rev. Wallace Perry M.A. of Durham University, and A.K.C. There are Baptist and Methodist chapels. There is a cemetery here, 28 perches in extent; it is under the control of the Parish Council. The Bailiffs of Doddington manor (Messrs. King and Sharman, of March) are lords of the manor. The principal landowner is Sir Ernest Whittome Shepperson M.P., J.P. The land, which consists entirely of fen, is also distributed among many freeholders. The soil is fen; sub-soil, clay and gault. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and roots. The area is 3,181 acres of land and 27 of water; the population in 1921 was 808.

BOROUGH GREEN, see Burrough Green.

BOTTISHAM, anciently "Bodekysham" and "Bottlesham," is a large village and parish on the road from Newmarket to Cambridge, 3 miles north-west from Six Mile Bottom station on the London and North Eastern railway and 2 miles south from Bottisham and Lode station on the Cambridge and Fordham section of the same line, 6 west from Newmarket and 7 east from Cambridge; it is the head of a petty sessional division and in the hundred of Staine, Newmarket rural district and county court district, rural deanery of Quy and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of the Holy Trinity is a beautiful edifice of stone, chiefly in the Early Decorated style, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of five bays, aisles, north and south porches and western Galilee porch, and an embattled western tower with pinnacles and containing 5 bells: the chancel retains an Early English piscina and sedilia, and there is also an Early Decorated chancel arch, with a Perpendicular stone screen: on the south wall of the chancel is a marble tablet to the Rev. William Pugh, vicar from 1812, dated 1825: the stained east window and the reredos are memorials to Col. Jenyns, one of the "Six Hundred" at Balaclava (October 25th, 1854), who died in 1873: at the east end of the north aisle is an oak screen, apparently of the Decorated period, which encloses two monuments, one to Margaret, daughter of William Coningesbye, of King's Lynn, and another, with effigies in marble and cherubs supporting a canopy, to Leonettus and Dorothea, children of William and Elizabeth Allington, ob. 1638: there is also an altar tomb of Purbeck marble, with the matrix of a brass effigy and canopy and panelled sides relieved by shields; the inscription on the margin, now lost, commemorated Elyas de Beckingham, appointed a justiciar of the Common Pleas, 15 Edward I. (1285); he retired from the bench, or died, in 1305; in 1289, when all the judges were apprehended by the king on charges of bribery and corruption, Beckingham and Methingham alone were honourably acquitted: in the same aisle is a marble tablet to Hester Paulina Lushington, d. 1795: the south aisle has an arcading along its whole length, inclosing a series of stone coffin slabs: a screen similar to that on the north side incloses a large tomb of white marble to Sir Roger Jenyns, d. 1740, and Dame Elizabeth, his wife, d. 1728, with their effigies in bed attire; and near this tomb, against the south wall, is a plain marble tablet to Soame Jenyns esq. M.P. and controversialist, and son of Sir Roger Jenyns, who died 18th Dec. 1787: on the south side is a beautiful piscina and a sedile: there are also slabs inscribed to Francis Hessel, d. 1659, and John Lack, d. 1742: the church was restored and warming apparatus fixed during the period 1875-91, and repairs to the fabric were made in 1928 at a cost of £500; there are about 350 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1561; marrriages, 1563; burials, 1569. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value from 140 acres of glebe, £370, with residence, in the gift of Trinity College, Cambridge, and held since 1926 by the Rev. William Andrewes Uthwatt M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge, hon. C. F. There is a Congregational chapel, founded in 1800, and having sittings for 230 persons. A cemetery of one acre has been formed at a cost of £243; it is under the control of the Parish Council. In 1712 a destructive fire consumed 20 houses in the village, besides causing other damage, and an incendiary fire which occurred on February 13th, 1846, destroyed the produce of two large farms, as well as fifteen cottages, depriving twenty-four poor families of their homes. About £200 yearly, derived from several charities, is distributed in money and kind and for educational purposes: in 1878 the so-called "Poor's Fen," of nearly 200 acres, was for the first time brought under a trust and scheme formed by the Charity Commissioners; it produces a profit of nearly £130 yearly for the benefit of the poor, which is applied chiefly in the distribution of fuel. The Charity School has been converted into a reading room. The kennels of the Cambridgeshire Harriers are in this parish; R. T. Cadbury esq. and G. E. F. Douty esq. are joint masters; the pack comprises fifteen couples of 18 to 20 inch harriers; hunting days, Wednesdays and Saturdays; Cambridge and Newmarket are convenient centres; Bottisham is the nearest station to the kennels. Bottisham Park contains about 100 acres and is well wooded: the mansion, a structure of brick, erected in 1797 when the old hall was pulled down, is the property and residence of Roger William Bulwer Jenyns esq. J.P. who is lord of the manor. Trinity, St. Peter's and Downing Colleges, Cambridge, and R. W. B. Jenyns esq. J.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is loamy; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area of the parish is 2,854 acres; the population in 1921 was 624.

Lode, Longmeadow and Fen were by Local Government Board Order, separated from Bottisham in 1894, and will be found under the heading of Lode.

BOURN, anciently "Brunne" or "Burne," is a village, about 1½ miles north-east from the Old North Road station (which is in this parish) on the Bedford and Cambridge line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 10 north from Royston and about 9 west from Cambridge, in the hundred of Longstow, rural district and petty sessional division of Caxton, and Arrington, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Bourn and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The Bourn brook flows through the parish. The church of St. Helena and St. Mary, picturesquely situated on rising ground, is a spacious cruciform edifice of stone in the Transition Norman, Early English and Later styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of six bays, aisles, transepts, south porch and an embattled western tower with turret stair and containing 8 bells, two of which were added and the remainder repaired in 1924: the tower was restored in 1912 at a cost of £960: the chancel has good sedilia of the 15th century and some carved oak benches with carved figures, one of which bears the inscription, "A. P. of B. 1537:" the roof is Perpendicular and has hammer beams with modern figures of angels: the chancel arch is modern, and there remains a Perpendicular rood screen: the nave arcades are lofty and belong to the Transition Norman period, the piers being alternately circular and octagonal: the clerestory is lighted by quatrefoil openings with circles: in the north transept is a Late niche and an ambury: the south transept has a raised floor: the tower, which is overlapped by both aisles, opens into these and to the nave by very fine and lofty Early English arches, with an ascent of three steps under the western arch: the south porch, also Early English, has a fine cross on the gable: in the nave are some good oak benches with tracery in panels, and the south transept contains several slabs and tombs with arms to members of the Hugar family, lords of this manor about 1750, and a memorial to Henry Lyell esq.: the church plate includes a silver paten, presented by Francis Hagar in 1594, and a silver paten and chalice with the date 1569: Dowsing, the Puritan iconoclast, visited this church and destroyed two angels and some brasses and crosses on the tower and chancel: the nave was restored in 1875-8, at a cost of £1,480: there are 325 sittings. The register dates from the year 1564. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £235, with residence and 3 acres of glebe, in the gift of Christ's College, Cambridge, and held since 1929 by the Rev. James Duffill M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge. There is a Methodist chapel, restored and enlarged in 1880, with about 150 sittings. The charities amount to about £6 yearly. The scenery around this village is pretty and picturesque, affording a pleasing variety of hill and dale, finely interspersed with thick woods and shady groves. The moat and some other vestiges remain of a castle erected here by Picot, or Pigot, a Norman, to whom the Conqueror gave lands here and whose descendant, George Pigot esq. was in 1766 created Baron Pigot of Patshull, a title extinct at his death, 17 April, 1777: the castle was burnt during the barons' war in the reign of Henry III by Richard de Insula or de L'Isle; it was then in possession of the Peverells, from whom it descended to the Peche (now Peachey) and others. Bourn Hall, formerly the property of the family, and subsequently held by the Riggesbys and Earl De La Warr, stands on the site of the old castle and together with the surrounding estate was purchased by Major John McClean Griffin, who is lord of the manor: the Hall is an excellent specimen of the Elizabethan style, and was formerly surrounded by a moat, part of which still remains; the park contains about 23 acres with good plantations. There is an old post windmill of the 17th century here. The soil is clay; subsoil, gault. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and clover, and there is some land in pasture. The area is 4,175 acres; the population in 1921 was 623.

CAXTON END and CROW END are places in the parish.

BOXWORTH is a parish about 4 miles south-west from Swavesey station on the St. Ives and Cambridge branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 8 north-west from Cambridge and 9½ south-east from Huntingdon, in the hundred of Papworth, petty sessional division of Cambridge, rural district of Swavesey, county court district of Huntingdon, rural deanery of Bourn and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Peter is an ancient edifice of flint and stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, south aisle, north and south porches and a lofty embattled tower containing a clock and one bell: in the church is a monument to Nicholas Saunderson LL.D., F.R.S. the celebrated blind professor of mathematics in the University of Cambridge, who died 19th April, 1759: the church was thoroughly restored in 1868-9, and affords 150 sittings. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £500, with residence and including 122 acres of glebe, in the gift of Noel Thornhill esq. M.O., J.P. and held since 1928 by the Rev. Clement George Poynder, of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge. Noel Thornhill esq. M.O., J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is of a stiff clayey nature, with a blue gault subsoil, beneath which in many places is found a hard chalky rock. The area is 2,602 acres; the population in 1921 was 243.

BRINKLEY is a village and parish, 3 miles south from Dullingham station on the Cambridge and Bury branch of the London and North Eastern railway and 6 south-south-west from Newmarket, in the hundred of Badfield, Newmarket rural district and county court district, rural deanery of Cheveley, archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of the Blessed Virgin, restored in 1874 by the rector and parishioners at an expense of about £1,000, is a building of flint, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells: the chancel and nave are decorated and the tower perpendicular: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1685. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £220, with residence, in the gift of St. John's College, Cambridge, and held since 1917 by the Rev. William Edward Waddington M.A. of Emmanuel College, Cambridge, who is also rector of Burrough Green. The Parish Hall was erected as a memorial to the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The proceeds of a charity, amounting to about £2 yearly, are distributed among the poor. Capt. Colin King O.B.E. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is boulder clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans, barley and oats. The area is 1,303 acres; the population in 1921 was 242. By an Order which came into operation March 25, 1886, a detached part of this parish was amalgamated with Carlton, in Linton union.

BURROUGH GREEN (or Borough Green) is a village and parish 2½ miles south-east from Dullingham station on the Cambridge and Bury branch of the London and North Eastern railway and 6 south from Newmarket, in the hundred of Radfield, Newmarket rural district, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Cheveley, archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Augustine is an ancient structure of flint with stone dressings, in the Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a western tower containing 5 bells, restored in 1710: in the north wall of the chancel are three richly ornamented arched recesses, one of which encloses the recumbent effigy of a knight in armour with crossed legs; the next has also a male effigy with a female figure resting beside it; and the third encloses the effigy of a Norman knight, with another of a squire or attendant at the foot, unarmoured; another figure, female, has been removed to the west end of the church; the whole are mutilated and without dates or names, but are presumed to be to the De Burgh family: the font is dated 1672, but the most ancient portions of the church probably date from the 13th century: the building was restored and the roof renewed in 1878-90 at a cost of £725, and the organ restored in 1903 at a cost of £140: the church affords 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1571. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £521, with residence, in the gift of James Binney esq. M.A., D.L., J.P. and held since 1917 by the Rev. William Edward Waddington M.A. of Emmanuel College, Cambridge, who is also rector of Brinkley, where he resides. The Reading Room here was built in 1887 by the late Mrs. Porcher, as a memorial to her husband, Charles Porcher esq.; it is in general use during the winter months, and will hold about 130 persons. The Old Hall (or Manor House), which stands near the church, is now a farmhouse. The soil is various; subsoil, clay and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and roots. The area of the parish is 2,272 acres; the population in 1921 was 334.

BURWELL is an extensive village and parish, including part of the hamlet of Reach, with a station on the Cambridge and Mildenhall branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 5 miles north-west from Newmarket, in the hundred of Staploe, Newmarket rural district, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Fordham, archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary, at the south end of the village, is a light and elegant structure in the Late Perpendicular style, and consists of chancel (restored in 1867-8 by the University of Cambridge), nave, aisles, north and south porches and an embattled western tower, with pinnacles and spire, and containing a clock and 5 bells: the wall between the nave and chancel, and the roof of the nave were built in 1464, at the expense of the Bennet family, as appears by an inscription in stone in the church: in the church is a brass effigy of an ecclesiastic, vested in cassock, surplice and almuce, the head resting on a pillow, and originally under a triple canopy, but only the central pediment, with a figure of Our Lord rising out of the tomb, remains; this brass is palimpsest, and the reverse includes part of the remaining pediment of the canopy, made up of three pieces of an early figure of a deacon, c. 1320; the bottom portion of the brass consists of the lower half of the figure of an abbot in rich vestments, generally assigned to John Lawrence, abbot of Ramsey 1503-1539, who died in 1542 and directed that he should be buried here: the church was extensively restored during the period 1877-90 and an organ and chancel screen erected at a total cost of £1,727, and it now affords 650 sittings. The register dates from the year 1562, and contains an account of a calamitous fire which took place in 1727, when a barn in which about 140 persons were assembled to witness a puppet show took light from the accidental firing of loose straw, and about 80 persons perished. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £466, with glebe, and held since 1921 by the Rev. Alfred George Walpole Sayer M.A., B.D. of Pembroke College, Cambridge, who is a surrogate and rural dean of Fordham. This living is primarily in the gift of the University of Cambridge, who, on the occasion of any vacancy, nominate two persons in holy orders of that university to the representatives of Sir Edward North kt. Chancellor of the Court of Augmentations in the reign of Henry VIII. who then presents one of these to the Bishop of Ely. The last two presentations, owing to the present representative, Lord North, being a Romanist, eventually lapsed to and was made by the University. St. Andrew's mission chapel, at the north end of the village, is an edifice of brick, erected at a cost of £1,100 and opened 12th November, 1863: it will hold 200 persons. There is a Baptist chapel, erected in 1851, with 500 sittings; a Congregational chapel, founded in 1600, seating 420; also two Methodist chapels. The Jubilee Reading Room is used as a public library. The Gardiner Memorial Hall was erected in 1915 by the trustees under the will of John Gardiner esq. at a cost of £1,500 and seats 400. A memorial cottage for a nurse was erected in 1921 as a memorial to parishioners who fell in the Great War 1914-18. An estate left to this parish now produces a gross income of about £80 yearly, which, after deductions for repairs and upkeep of 14 almshouses and the supervision of the property, goes to the repair of the church and towards providing higher education for needy and promising children: under the will of Charles William Hunt esq. a native of Burwell, who died in 1927, £1,400 was left to the vicar and churchwardens, the income to be applied yearly to the purchase of coal for selected poor and needy residents aged 60 and upwards. Near the church are the remains of an ancient castle, the earthworks of which remain tolerably perfect. The manorial rights of Tiptofts, Dnllingham and St. Omers belong to Messrs. Hancock, Hussey and others. The lordship of the manor of Ramsey is vested in the Crown, which also owns a great portion of the land; J. Carter Jonas and Son, stewards. The Earl of Durham and the Cambridgeshire County Council are also landowners. The soil is various. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 7,417 acres of land and 29 of water; the population in 1921 was 2,108.

CALDECOT, or Caldecote, is a parish, 4 miles north-east from the Old North Road station on the Bedford and Cambridge branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, about 8 west from Cambridge and about 12 north from Royston, in the hundred of Longstow, petty sessional division and rural district of Caxton and Arrington, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Bourn and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Michael, standing on a picturesque and woody bank, is a small but ancient building of stone in the Early Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, north and south porches and an embattled western tower containing 3 bells: the chancel retains a small crocketed niche, and in the south porch is a benatura: there are carved stalls in the chancel and a rood screen with traces of colour: the church was thoroughly repaired in 1860 and 1861, and affords 100 sittings: during the year 1899 the church was restored and several gifts made to it, including a small organ. The register dates from the year 1728. The living is a vicarage, annexed to the rectory of Toft, joint net yearly value £438, including 5 acres of glebe, in the gift of Christ's College, Cambridge, and held since 1932 by the Rev. Sidney Herbert Cartwright M.A. of that college, who resides at Toft. The inappropriate tithes of this parish, anciently given by Picot de Cambridge to the monks of Barnwell, are now vested in the Master and Fellows of Christ's College, Cambridge. The land is nearly all freehold. The principal landowners are Clare and Christ's Colleges, Cambridge. The soil is heavy clay; subsoil, gault. The chief crops are wheat, barley and beans. The area is 948 acres; the population in 1921 was 161.

CAMBRIDGE

CAMBRIDGE is a municipal and parliamentary borough, head of a petty sessional division and county court district, the county town and the site of one of the two ancient universities of England, and is on the banks of the Cam or Granta, with stations on the London and North Eastern railway, 57½ miles from London by rail, 14 south-west from Ely, 15 west from Newmarket, 38 south from Wisbech and 68½ south-by-south-west from Norwich; it is a hundred of itself in the rural deanery of Cambridge and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The place is one of great antiquity, and during the time of its occupation by the Romans was probably called Camboritum; the town when built by the English bore the name of Grantbridge (Grantabrycege); it was burned by the Danes in 871 and 1010, and in 1088 by Roger de Montgomery, Earl of Shrewsbury, when holding out for Robert Curthose, Duke of Normandy. At the time of the Domesday Survey the town contained 373 messuages. In 1216 the castle was taken by the insurgent barons, and in 1381 the townsmen were deprived of their charter by Richard II. who held a parliament here, summoned to meet 9 Sept. 1388. During the peasants' rising of 1381, the rebels entered the town, seized the University records, and burnt them in the Market place: in 1643 the town was garrisoned by the Parliament. Four meetings of the British Association have been held here—in 1833, 1845, 1862 and 1904, and in 1864 their Majesties the late King Edward VII. and Queen Alexandra, then Prince and Princess of Wales, visited Cambridge from the 2nd to the 4th of June; their Majesties again visited Cambridge on March 1st, 1904, and formally opened the new University buildings in Downing street, consisting of the Squire Law Library, Sedgwick Museum and Medical School. The Great Eastern section of the London and North Eastern railway affords direct communication (via Lincoln and Doncaster) with the North of England and Scotland: there is also a line from Cambridge to Mildenhall, via Fordham Junction. The Great Northern section of the London and North Eastern railway from Hitchin and the London and North Western section of the London, Midland and Scottish railway from Bletchley both terminate here, and the latter company (Midland section) also run trains from London over the London and North Eastern line to this town, and thence through St. Ives, Kimbolton, Thrapston and Kettering.

The town, which is irregularly built, consists principally of two main streets, which are continuations respectively of the road from London through Trumpington and of the Hills road. The former, under the names of Trumpington street, King's parade, Trinity street and St. John street, is continued through the whole length of the town parallel to the general course of the river Cam and contains some of the principal buildings of the town and University. On the left or west side of Trumpington street is the Fitzwilliam Museum, St. Peter's College or Peterhouse, the church of St. Mary the Less, Emmanuel Congregational Church, the Pitt Press, St. Catharine's College, the Bull hotel, King's College, the Senate House and University Library, Caius College, Trinity College and St. John's College; at the back of this side of the street are Queens' and Clare Colleges and Trinity Hall; most of these colleges have grounds sloping to the river, and several have bridges crossing it and connecting the college grounds with other grounds on the further side of the river, used by the undergraduates for lawn tennis: the road here, which is known by the name of "the Backs," is lined with splendid trees: from this road are footpaths to Grantchester and Trumpington and to Coton, and the road past the Observatory to Madingley. On the right or east side of Trumpington street is Addenbrooke's Hospital, Pembroke College, St. Botolph's church and Corpus College, the King's parade, Great St. Mary's (the University) church, St. Michael's church, the new courts of Trinity College, the churchyard of the removed church of All Saints and the Selwyn or Divinity Schools.

The other main street, being the continuation of the Hills road, under the names of Regent street, St. Andrew's street, Sidney street and Bridge street, runs partly parallel to Trumpington street, but converging towards it until it crosses the end of St. John street, and is thence continued by a bridge over the Cam, Magdalene street and Castle street, and then leaving the town, becomes the road to Huntingdon. On the left or west side of this street is the Roman Catholic church of Our Lady of the Assumption and the English Martyrs, Downing College, the church of St. Andrew the Great, Trinity church, the back of the new courts of Trinity College; and in Bridge street, by the removal of some old houses, the master's lodge of St. John's College and the chapel have been opened to view. On the right or east of this line of streets are St. Paul's church, the University Arms hotel, Emmanuel College, Christ's College, Sidney Sussex College, St. Sepulchre's or the Round church, facing St. John street, St. Clement's church, and across the bridge, Magdalene College, which is the only college situated entirely to the north of the Cam.

Several cross streets connect these two main lines of streets and between them lie the extensive grounds of the Botanic Gardens, Downing College and the Market place with its adjuncts. From the junction of Sidney street and Bridge street running east is Jesus lane, on the left or north side of which is Jesus College, and on the south side, nearly opposite, is All Saints' church, and continuing on by the Newmarket road on the right is Christ church, and on the left the small church of St. Andrew the Less and further east some remains of Barnwell Priory.

In 1207, King John granted the town a charter authorising it to choose a provost (mayor); under the provisions of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1835 (5 and 6 Wm. IV. c. 76) the borough was divided 7 Dec. 1835, into five wards, but now consists of 15 wards. The corporation consists of a mayor, high steward, recorder, 15 aldermen, 45 councillors, a town clerk, treasurer, and coroner and the usual officers, representing the city, and two aldermen and six councillors as representatives of the University, elected under the provisions of a provisional order made in pursuance of sec. 52, Local Government Act, 1888; under sec. 297 of the Public Health Act, 1875, confirmed by Act 52 and 53 Vict. c. xvi., the Improvement Commissioners ceased to exist Nov. 9, 1889.

By the Local Government Board's (ch. clxxxv.) Provisional Orders Confirmation (No. 10) Act, Cambridge (Extension) Order, 1911, the area of the borough was on April 1st, 1912, extended by the inclusion of 300 acres from the parish of Cherry Hinton, 167 acres from the parish of Grantchester, 495 acres from the parish of Trumpington and 1,300 acres from the parish and Urban District of Chesterton.

The added areas from Cherry Hinton, Grantchester and Trumpington were formed into the Cambridge Without civil parish and ward, returning one alderman and three councillors to the Borough Council, and the greater portion of the parish and Urban District of Chesterton was divided as under the old Urban District Council into North, South, East and West Chesteron Wards, each returning one alderman and three councillors to the Cambridge Borough Council.

Under the provisions of the Cambridge Corporation Act, 1922, the civil parishes of Chesterton and Cambridge Without were included in the civil parish of Cambridge.

The borough has a commission of the peace and a separate court of quarter sessions.

The parliamentary borough includes, under the "Boundary Act, 1868," the greater portion of the parish of Chesterton, and returned two members of Parliament from a very early period until the passing of the "Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885," when the number was reduced to one, and under the "Representation of the People Act, 1918," it still returns one member and the University two.

The town is lighted with gas from the works of the Cambridge University and Town Gas Light Co. in Newmarket road, erected in 1826, and subsequently enlarged and now including four gasometers, capable of holding 4,500,000 cubic feet of gas; the office and show rooms are in Sidney street.

The water supply is derived from the works of the Cambridge University and Town Water Works Company, incorporated by Act of Parliament: the water is drawn from a well in the chalk at Fleam Dyke in the parish of Foulbourn. In the parish of Cherry Hinton there are two reservoirs with a capacity of 2,000,000 gallons; the company's office is at No. 4 Bene't street.

The main drainage of the town was carried out in 1895 at a cost of £150,000, and recent additions have been made to the pumping station and sewage farm.

THE PARISHES AND THEIR CHURCHES.

The Borough of Cambridge comprises 19 ecclesiastical parishes.

The University church of St. Mary the Great, which stands in the centre of the town, opposite the Senate House and University Library, is a spacious edifice in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch and a lofty western tower with octagonal buttressed turrets, and containing 12 bells and a clock, which replaced the older one, erected in 1794, and presented in 1892 in memory of the Rev. H. B. Luard D.D. vicar 1860-87; the porch, a reproduction from drawings of one removed in 1805, was the gift of the late W. H. Hattersley esq.; a spacious gallery surrounds the interior on the north, west and south sides, and there are a number of monuments, including one of the Jacobean period, with bust, to Dr. Butler: the armorial glass in the windows, presented by S. Sandars esq. commemorates Henry VII. and forty other subscribers to the building of the church: here the University sermons are preached and are attended by the University authorities, heads of houses, professors and the members of the University generally; the heads of houses and professors sit in the chancel, masters of arts and bachelors in the body of the church, and the undergraduates in the gallery: the bell of this church is tolled during a quarter of an hour from six in the morning and again from nine in the evening respectively: the church was restored during the period 1861-92, at a cost of £7,400, and affords 1,400 sittings. The register dates from the year 1557. The living is a vicarage united with that of St. Michael, joint net yearly value £620, in the gift of Trinity College, and held since 1930 by the Rev. Edward Claude Essex M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge.

All Saints' church, opposite Jesus College, designed by Mr. G. F. Bodley A.R.A., F.S.A. built in 1863-4, and consecrated Nov. 30, 1864, is an edifice in the Early English style of the 14th century, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle of equal size and an embattled tower at the east end with a lofty spire and containing 3 bells: the walls are decorated with rich diaper work and colour and bear suitable inscriptions: the stained east window is a memorial to Everina Frances, widow of Sir Gilbert Affleck bart. and wife of the Rev. Dr. Whewell, master of Trinity College; she died 1 April, 1865: in 1923 a memorial chapel was added to commemorate W. P. Spalding esq. and a stained window erected in memory of Bishop Westcott, Rev. George Herbert and Rev. Henry Martyn, former vicars of the parish: the old church, which stood opposite St.

John's College, has been removed: there are 500 sittings. The old graveyard near the site of the former church has been enclosed and re-arranged, and contains a memorial cross designed by Mr. Basil Champneys, the architect of the ancient Divinity Schools, and erected in 1880 in memory of various distinguished persons and benefactors of the parish, whose names are inscribed on tablets round the base. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £370, with residence, in the gift of the Masters and Fellows of Jesus College, and held since 1922 by the Rev. Alan Coates Bouquet D.D. of Trinity and Jesus Colleges, Cambridge, hon. C.F.

Christ Church, on the Newmarket road, erected in 1839, and now the parish church of the parish of St. Andrew the Less, is an embattled structure of red brick with stone dressings in the Late Perpendicular style, and consists of small chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, north porch and octagonal embattled turrets at the angles of the nave, one of which contains a small bell: the interior is surrounded by galleries on three sides and affords 1,400 sittings, 700 of which are free: the church was redecorated and restored in 1915. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £310, with residence, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1930 by the Rev. Robert Richard Neill M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin.

The church of the Holy Sepulchre, in Bridge street, commonly known as "the round church," and the oldest of the four round churches in England, is a building of the Norman period, erected about 1101, and consists of the circular portion, which forms the principal entrance to the church, chancel with aisles and a vestry on the north side: the round part is constructed of large stones, carefully squared, and has a good Norman doorway enriched with zigzag ornament: the interior displays a circular arcade of eight short but massive columns without bases, supporting a clerestory from which springs a vaulted conical roof: about 1840 the church was restored by the Camden Society, and the Perpendicular insertions replaced by windows in the Norman style, the embattled tower, which had been reared above the circular clerestory, removed, a bell turret erected and the eastern part rebuilt: the east window is stained: the organ, erected by public subscription in 1857, was replaced in 1879 by a larger instrument: there are 340 sittings, which are all free. The register dates from the year 1575. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, in the gift of the Parochial Church Council, and held since 1913 by the Rev. Samuel Terice Adams M.A. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge, hon. canon of Ely and rural dean of Cambridge.

Holy Trinity church, at the intersection of Sidney and Market streets, is a building of stone, consisting of large chancel, transepts, nave, aisles, north porch and a western tower with pinnacles and spire containing 4 bells: the east window was filled with stained glass in 1887 by J. Death esq. and there are several others: in the church is a monument, with genealogical inscription, to Sir Robert Tabor, or Tabor, an eminent English physician employed by Charles II., Louis XIV. and the Queen of Spain: he died in 1781: a carved oak reredos, representing Our Lord and the four Evangelists, was erected in 1907, from designs by the late Mr. G. F. Bodley R.A. and Mr. O. G. Hare: there are 650 sittings, of which 350 are free. The register dates from the year 1566. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £727, with residence, in the gift of the Peache trustees, and held since 1927 by the Rev. Clement John Morton M.A. of Pembroke College, Cambridge, and examining chaplain to the Bishop of Lichfield.

The church of St. Andrew the Great, in St. Andrew's street, opposite Christ's College, is a modern building of stone in the Early English style, being the third church on the present site; it consists of chancel, nave, aisles and an embattled western tower, containing 8 bells: in the church is a mural monument to Captain James Cook, the circumnavigator of the world, d. 14 Feb. 1749; his son Hugh, of Christ's College, d. 1793; and to James Cook, commander R.N. d. 25 Jan. 1794; the deaths of his son Nathaniel, midshipman H.M.S. "Thunderer," lost in a storm 16 Oct. 1780, and of three other children, who died in their infancy, are also recorded; his widow Elizabeth, who died at Clapham, 13 May, 1835, was also buried here: there is also a mural tablet to Henry Gunning esq. M.A. of Christ's College, upwards of 50 years Esquire Bedell in the University, who died at Brighton in 1859; and a memorial to Christopher Rose, alderman, who rebuilt the church in the topher Rose, died 30 Aug. 1664; the organ was re-year 1650, and died 30 Aug. 1664; the organ was re-opened after enlargement on Sunday, 24 Dec. 1882, and choir stalls were added in 1896: the church plate includes an Elizabethan chalice and cover, dated 1569, and bearing the inscription—"This : for : sent : Tandros : Pares : in : Kambrege : " there are 816 sittings. The register dates from the year 1564. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £523, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Ely, and held since 1919 by the Rev. Francis Woodbury Fulford B.D. of Jesus College, Cambridge.

The church of St. Andrew the Less, otherwise known as the Abbey church, on the Newmarket road, and formerly the parish church, but now subordinated to Christ Church, is a small but ancient building of stone in the Lancet style, consisting of chancel and nave under a single roof, south porch and a western belfry containing 2 small bells: the eastern triplet is a very graceful example of the style, and is adorned within with slender shafts and moulded arches: in the church are many memorials and monumental inscriptions to the Butler family, who once possessed the property: there are 160 sittings, 100 being free. The registers, dating from 1753, are kept at Christ Church.

St. Benedict's church, in Bene't street, adjoining Corpus Christi college, is a building of stone in the Early English and later styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, north porch and a western tower containing 6 bells: the tower, with its "long and short" masonry and baluster windows, is Saxon work, and there are portions of similar work of the same period at the north-east and south-east angles of the nave: the church is connected with Corpus Christi College by a range of buildings carrying a gallery, which is now occupied as college rooms; the church was repaired and enlarged in 1856, and again during the period 1874-82, at a cost of £3,016, and affords about 350 sittings, of which 100 are free. The register dates from the year 1539, and records the burial, 12 Jan. 1630, of Thomas Hobson, the famous University carrier. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £385, in the gift of Corpus Christi College, and held since 1907 by the Rev. William Greenwood M.A. of that college.

St. Botolph's church, which stands on the east side of Trumpington street, is an ancient building, originally Norman, but now chiefly in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, chantry chapel, south porch and an embattled western tower, supported by massive angle buttresses and surmounted at the angles by four symbolical figures of the Evangelists, and containing a clock and 4 pre-Reformation bells: over the altar is a painting of "The Crucifixion," presented by Mr. John Smith, formerly University printer, who brought it from Antwerp: the east window was filled with stained glass in 1886 at the expense of the Rev. W. M. Campion D.D. late rector (1862-92), and late president of Queens' College; there is also a memorial window to Dr. Parkinson (d. 1890), erected by his widow, and one to the late Rev. W. M. Campion D.D.: the rood screen is ancient: in the church is a monument, with half effigy, to Dr. Thomas Playfere, Margaret Professor of Divinity in the 16th century, d. 1609; and one to James Essex F.S.A. the architect, d. 14 Sept. 1784: the church was restored during the period 1874-87 at a cost of £1,020, and again in 1909-13 at a cost of £1,200, and affords 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1563. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £462, in the gift of Queens' College, and held since 1926 by the Rev. Aldous Edward North Hitchcock M.A. of that college, hon. C.F.

St. Clement's church, in Bridge street, occupying the site of larger and more ancient structures, of which many traces remain, is an edifice consisting of chancel, nave, aisles and an embattled tower with spire containing 2 bells: the nave was rebuilt of rough stone in the early part of the 14th century and is in the Perpendicular style: the chancel, a structure of brick, was built in the reign of Queen Anne, and the aisles were rebuilt at the close of the 15th or beginning of the 16th century, and at the east end of the north aisle is an arch, once forming the entrance to a chapel: the tower and spire were erected in 1821 by the representatives of the Rev. William Cole M.A., F.S.A. the celebrated antiquary, who died 16 Dec. 1782, and is buried beneath it: in the church is a brass, dated 1432, and a large monumental stone with Lombardic characters: there was formerly a well-endowed chantry for two priests attached to the altar of St. Nicholas within this church, founded by William of Lollworth in 1325 for the souls of Edward II. and Queen Isabella, and divers other persons: all the ancient endowments have, however, long since disappeared, but in the early part of the 19th century there was a re-endowment of the value of £42 per annum. The church has been more or less restored at various times since 1863, and affords 400 sittings. The register of marriages and burials dates from 1560, and of baptisms from 1567; there are also a few parish records, including a fragment of churchwardens' accounts, temp. Eliz. and documents of genealogical interest: the church plate includes a paten dated 1671. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £295, arising from 16 acres of glebe and various benefactions, in the gift of the Master and Fellows of Jesus College, and held since 1931 by the Rev. James Tait Plowden-Wardlaw M.A. of King's College. The rectory and the rectorial tithes and the right of patronage were given about 1198 to the prioress and nuns of the Benedictine priory of S. Rhadegunde, in Cambridge: the Master and Fellows of Jesus College are their successors in the rights of patronage and in the rectory, the convent having been suppressed and converted by Bishop Alcock, of Ely, into a college in 1496.

St. Edward's church, in St. Edward's passage, opposite to King's College, is an ancient building of stone in the Early English and later styles, consisting of chancel, with side chapels, nave, aisles and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells: there are several interesting monuments and 280 sittings. The register dates from the year 1557, and records the death of Elinor Bowman, 17 Aug. 1650, at the age of 112 years. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £110, in the gift of the Master and Fellows of Trinity Hall, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Colin Marr B.A. of Selwyn College, Cambridge.

The church of St. Giles, rebuilt in 1875-6 near the site of the old church in Castle street, at a cost of £8,000, is a structure of white brick, with stone dressings, in the Early French Gothic style, consisting of chancel, lofty nave with wagon roof 65 feet from the floor, aisles and a side chapel: in the south aisle is a Norman arch, built from materials removed from the old church: in the north aisle is a transitional pointed arch with dog-tooth mouldings: there is one bell, hung on the outside of the west wall: the church affords about 800 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1596; marriages and burials, 1607; the registers of St. Peter's, dating from 1586, are also kept here. The living is a vicarage, with that of St. Peter annexed, joint net yearly value £498, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1924 by the Rev. Charles Clement Hancock James M.A. of Magdalene College, Cambridge.

The vicarage of St. Giles and St. Peter, in the Huntingdon road, was built in 1908.

The parish of St. Peter, by a provisional order which came into operation on March 25th, 1885, was amalgamated with that of St. Giles. The church, on Castle hill, is an ancient edifice of stone in the Norman, Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of nave, 29 feet long and 16 feet wide, and a small embattled western tower with spire containing one bell, cast at the foundry of Peter van den Gheyn, of Louvain, in 1560: the entrance is on the south side through a Norman doorway, and there is an early and curious font, consisting of a square basin, carved on the exterior with rude figures and supported on a low, moulded circular base. The registers, which date from 1586, are kept at St. Giles's church. The living is a vicarage annexed to that of St. Giles.

The church of St. Mary the Less, adjoining St. Peter's College, in Trumpington street, is an ancient building of stone, and consists of chancel, nave and vestry: the east window is enriched with exquisite tracery and filled with stained glass, presented in 1892 by the late J. Hamblin Smith esq.: the church was restored about 1856, under the direction of the late Sir George Gilbert Scott, and further restoration was carried out in 1891 at a cost of £1,100: the ancient church of St. Peter, which stood on the same site until about 1325, gave its name to and was used as the chapel of St. Peter's College: the present edifice, dedicated 3 Nov. 1352, to St. Mary of Grace, continued to be so used until 1632: John Holbrook, a famous mathematician, and master of St. Peter's College 1418-31, and Dr. Matthew Wren, Bishop of Ely, 1638-67, and previously master of the College, were buried here: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value about £542, in the gift of St. Peter's College, and held since 1925 by the Rev. Cyril Patrick Hankey M.A. of Pembroke College, Cambridge. A parish room has been built at the west end of the church.

St. Michael's church, in Trinity street, built in 1324 by Hervey de Stanton, is an edifice in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel with aisles, nave, aisles, north porch and a western tower, with plain parapet, containing 4 bells: the chancel retains triple sedilia and a piscina, and is fitted with ancient choir stalls of oak: in the wall by the vestry door is a small and curious brass, and there is a picture of King Charles I. presented by Charles II. at the Restoration, and another of the Holy Family, a monument to Professor Scholefield and several other memorials: here was buried, in 1337, Hervey de Stanton, the founder of Michael House, the oldest part of Trinity College, and on 24 Nov. 1549, Paul Fagius, one of the Fathers of the Reformation: the south aisle also has a piscina: the chancel and aisles were decorated under the direction of Sir George Gilbert Scott R.A.: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a vicarage, united with that of St. Mary the Great, joint net yearly value £620, in the gift of Trinity College, and held since 1930 by the Rev. Edward Claude Essex M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge.

St. Barnabas is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1889 from the parishes of St. Andrew the Less, St. Paul and St. Matthew: the church, in the Mill road, built in 1878 at a cost of £7,000 and consecrated May 5, 1880, is an edifice of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave of five bays, aisles, north porch and a bell cote on the north side containing one bell: it was enlarged in 1887-90 at a cost of £4,662, and now affords 700 sittings: a stained east window was unveiled on St. Barnabas' day, 1912. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £337, with residence, in the gift of the vicar of St. Paul's, and held since 1933 by the Rev. Philip Henry Potter M.A. of Emmanuel College, Cambridge.

St. Mark's church, in Barton road, erected in 1901, is a building of brick with stone facings in the Early English style; it will, when completed, seat 500 persons. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £453, with residence, in the gift of the Diocesan Board of Patronage, and held since 1931 by the Rev. James Francis Medley M.A. of Selwyn College, Cambridge.

St. Matthew's is an ecclesiastical parish, formed June 23, 1870, out of the parish of St. Andrew the Less: the church, in St. Matthew's street, Barnwell, built in 1866, is an octagonal structure of brick, opening into transepts on both sides, the roof being surmounted by an octagonal lantern: the eastern arm forms an apsidal chancel, and there are north and west porches and a western belfry containing 3 bells: the church affords 580 sittings. The register dates from the year 1870. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £492, with residence, in the gift of the vicar of St. Andrew the Less, and held since 1932 by the Rev. Thomas Law.

St. Paul's ecclesiastical parish was formed 4 July, 1845, out of the parishes of SS. Andrew the Great and the Less: the church, on the Hills road, is a large edifice of red brick, faced with cut stone, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, transepts, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and one bell: there are 1,100 sittings, 500 of which are free. The register dates from the year 1845. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £533, with residence, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1928 by the Rev. John Arthur Gibson Ainley M.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge.

St. Philip's ecclesiastical parish was formed in 1903 from the parish of St. Barnabas: the church, in Mill road, Romsey town, erected in 1890 at a cost, including site, of £2,000, as a chapel of ease to St. Barnabas, was consecrated on St. Barnabas' day, 1902, and is an edifice of red brick, consisting of chancel, nave and western porch. The register dates from the year 1903. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £540 (including £35 from the Kingston trustees), with residence, in the gift of the Perry trustees, and held since 1928 by the Rev. Alfred Garrod Leedes Hunt M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge.

St. John the Evangelist's mission church, in Wellington street, erected in 1874, is a plain edifice of brick, consisting only of chancel, nave and a belfry with one bell: there are 200 sittings: the services are conducted by the vicar and curates of Christ Church.

Cambridge is included in the Roman Catholic diocese of Northampton. The Roman Catholic church of "Our Lady of the Assumption and the English Martyrs," at the corner of Hills road and Lensfield road and immediately opposite the grounds of Downing College, was erected in 1887-90 at a total cost of over £100,000, and is an edifice of Ancaster and Bath stone in the Early Decorated style, from designs by Messrs. Dunn, Hanson and Dunn, architects, of Newcastle-on-Tyne. The church, built at the sole expense of the late Mrs. Yolande Marie Louise Lyne Stephens, consists of chancel, nave, aisles, ante-chapel, a central embattled tower with pinnacles, and a tower with spire 216 feet high, at the north angle, containing 9 bells, provided in 1896 at a cost of over £1,000; a clock was also erected at the same date: the exterior is enriched with carving and statues, and the windows are stained: there are sittings for 600 persons. Attached to the church is a rectory, arranged as an open quadrangle, and treated in the Early Collegiate style.

The ancient but now desecrated chapel of St. Mary, on Sturbridge Green, a little north of the river Sture and about half a mile east of Barnwell, is a small edifice of the Norman period, consisting only of chancel and nave, but exhibits a good deal of rich workmanship, especially about the chancel arch, and has open timbered Perpendicular roofs: it appears to have belonged to a hospital for lepers.

St. Columba's Presbyterian Church of England, in Downing street, erected in 1890-1 at a cost of over £9,000, will seat 450 persons: the organ was the gift of Lady Bruce, wife of Sir G. B. Bruce kt. of Newcastle-on-Tyne: the oak pulpit and the adjoining lecture hall were given by Mrs. Gibson: the organ screen is a memorial to Professor J. O. Adams F.R.S. and the oak reading-desk to Hugh Porter esq. J.P.: the carved choir-screen, a memorial to Mrs. Macalister, wife of Professor A. Macalister F.R.S. has affixed tablets inscribed to Mrs. Macalister and Professor A. Halliday Douglas.

Eden Baptist chapel, in Fitzroy street, built in 1823 and rebuilt in 1874, will hold 750 persons.

Zion Baptist chapel, in the East road, erected in 1877 in place of an earlier structure built in 1837, is of brick with stone dressings, and will seat 950 persons.

The Baptist chapel, St. Andrew's street, was founded in 1721: the present edifice, erected in 1903, seats 950 persons.

The Baptist chapel, Mill road, erected in 1895, will seat 520 persons.

The Arbury Road Baptist church and Sunday schools were opened in July, 1930. They are red brick structures in modern style. The church will seat 300. Space has been allowed in front of the buildings for the subsequent building of a larger church, when the present church will become the lecture hall.

Emmanuel Congregational church, in Trumpington street, was first founded in 1691; the present church, built in 1874, at a cost of £13,000, is an edifice of Yorkshire stone, with a lofty tower, and affords 700 sittings.

The Castle Street Methodist church was erected in 1841 and rebuilt in 1863, and will seat about 400; Newmarket Road Methodist tabernacle, erected in 1876, has 550 sittings, and that in Sturton street, built in 1875 at a cost of £450, will seat, including school children, 230.

The Methodist chapel in Hills road, erected in 1870, has 800 sittings.

The Methodist chapel at the corner of King street and Short street is a building in white stone, erected in 1913 at a cost, including the minister's house and Sunday schools, of £20,000; it has sittings for 700 persons.

A Methodist chapel was erected in Romsey Town in 1906 at a cost of £1,700, and has 400 sittings.

The Memorial Unitarian church, in Emmanuel road, was built in 1927.

The Friends' Meeting House is at 12 Jesus lane.

The Hebrew congregation meets at 41 Sidney street during term time only.

The Railway Mission Hall, in Devonshire road, erected in 1889, is a structure of brick, used by various religious denominations, and will seat about 500 persons.

The Christian Scientists use the chapel in Panton street formerly belonging to the Primitive Methodists.

The Salvation Army Hall, in Tenison road, was erected in 1914.

Cemeteries:—The Cambridge Parochial Cemetery, on the north side of the Mill road, consecrated in 1848, is an inclosure of about 12 acres: each parish in the borough has a portion of the ground allotted to it and placed under the management of its own officers or servants: near the centre of the ground is a chapel, with a tower and spire added at the sole cost of the late Rev. Dr. Whewell, master of Trinity College 1841-66. There is also a cemetery on the Histon road, under the management of a company.

The Borough Cemetery, in Fen Ditton parish, 2½ miles from Cambridge, was opened in 1903. For particulars see under Fen Ditton.

SS. Giles' and Peter's Parochial Burial Ground, off the Huntingdon road, opened in March, 1869, is just over 2 acres in extent, including the roadway and an additional section added in 1928; it has a chapel and a house for the curator.

MUNICIPAL AND OTHER PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND INSTITUTIONS.

The Guildhall, facing Market hill, was erected at various periods, but much enlarged and improved in 1862 at a cost of about £12,000; the principal assembly room, a lofty and spacious apartment, 120 by 52 feet, is admirably adapted for concerts and public meetings, and has been re-decorated by Messrs. H. F. Martyn and Co. and an organ erected at a cost of £3,500; further alterations and extensions made about 1896 included the erection of municipal offices and a new police court at a cost of about £13,000; the council chamber was enlarged and the offices extended in 1900.

The Cambridge Public Libraries, established March 1, 1853, and formally opened June 28, 1855, were removed in June, 1862, to the Guildhall, where the Central Library occupies a suite of rooms, consisting of a reading room, built in 1885, reference room and open access lending library and issue office. The libraries contain 76,757 volumes; about 3,000 reference books are kept for ready reference in the reference room, and for these no written orders are required; the reference library includes a large selection of works relating to the county, town and University of Cambridge, and also a Shakespeare Memorial Library, of 1,900 volumes, nearly the whole of which were presented by the late Henry Thomas Hall esq. lectures are held in the reference library during the winter months, and a publication entitled the Cambridge Public Library Record and Book List containing courses of reading on various subjects is issued quarterly; the library of the Institute of Bankers (Cambridge branch) is housed at the Central Library; in 1897 a branch library was erected in Mill road, from designs by Mr. Frank Waters; this includes a children's reading room. There are evening reading rooms at East road and New Town. School libraries are established in all the elementary schools in the borough. The selection of books and management of the libraries is entrusted to a committee appointed by the Town Council, composed of members of the Town Council and inhabitants.

The Shire Hall, opened in 1932, and erected at a cost of approximately £52,000, contains the offices of the Cambridgeshire County Council, including all administrative departments with the exception of the county police headquarters. It includes a council chamber, three committee rooms, chairman's room and waiting rooms for aldermen and councillors.

The site of the Shire Hall is of considerable historic interest, having formed part of the fortifications of the Romans, whose occupation is mentioned elsewhere. After the abandonment by the Romans early in the fifth century, the site was deserted until 696, when the monks of Ely found there the stone coffin in which they placed the remains of Etheldreda. In 1068 the first castle, consisting of the present castle mound surrounded by a moat and a bailey, was built by William I. On the mound was a wooden keep, the office of the sheriff, where he could keep prisoners and hold his courts. The second castle was built by Edward I. between 1285 and 1299, but by 1606 all that was left was the gate house, the stone walls and towers having been pulled down and the stones used for Sir John Huddleston's house at Sawston and for college buildings. The County gaol was erected between 1803 and 1807 on the site of the Castle Bailey, and was enlarged in 1868 and 1870. In 1878 the gaol became a state prison, which was discontinued in 1927. The prison then reverted on terms to the County Council, who decided to utilise it for new offices.

The new building is constructed of old bricks obtained from the demolition of the old gaol and the surrounding walls, with Empire Portland stone dressings. The presence of the enormous mass of brickwork in the old gaol naturally influenced the design and construction, resulting in a simple, dignified structure without any excess of ornamentation. The total area of the site is just under five acres, of which the buildings cover more than half an acre. There are both open and covered car parks.

The Court House, on Castle hill, is a structure of brick and stone in the Italian style, with a portico supported on columns; the interior comprises two courts, with grand jury and magistrates' rooms and the usual offices. The assizes for the county, the Isle of Ely and Huntingdonshire, and sessions for the county are held here and the magistrates also meet in quarter sessions to transact all magisterial business and matters relating to county affairs. The County Police Station, erected in 1879, near the Assize Courts, is a plain building of brick, with a residence for the chief constable, offices, cells for prisoners, garage and a parade ground.

The Borough Police Station, in St. Andrew's street, erected in 1901 at a cost of £16,000, is a building of stone in the Renaissance style; the entrance hall has a groined ceiling and mosaic floor, and the front bay window displays in stained glass the arms of England, the borough, the University and of the seventeen Cambridge colleges: in rear of the building is a large covered courtyard: there are nine cells, remand home, and adjoining, in Downing place, a house for the chief constable: on the south side of the Police Station, in St. Andrew's street, is the Police Fire Brigade station, including a watch room and quarters for the second officer. Two fully equipped motor ambulances are kept at the fire station.

The New Theatre, in St. Andrew's street, erected in 1895, is the property of a limited company.

The Festival Theatre, Newmarket road, was opened by Mr. Terence Gray in 1926, on the site of the old Theatre Royal, Barnwell. The Regency auditorium, dating from 1816, has been retained in its entirety, but re-seated and redecorated, while the stage has been completely rebuilt. Since 1926 plays representing the drama of practically every literate nation have found a place on the programme. There are three seasons of eight weeks in each year contemporary with the University terms, and a different play is performed every week.

The chief trade of Cambridge consists in supplying the wants of the University. Printing is an important industry here, and there is a considerable trade in corn for the supply of the town and for the London markets; the town is also the centre of a large and prosperous agricultural district, which it supplies: there are iron and brass foundries, cement, brick and tile works, breweries, maltings, some large flour mills, and in the immediate neighbourhood several extensive nurseries.

The Market place, in the centre of the town, was greatly enlarged and improved about 1857: there is a daily market and a sheep and pig market is held on Mondays; this market is one of the largest for pigs throughout the country; there is a general market on Saturdays on Market hill and a poultry auction on Wednesdays at the Mart, King street. The corn market is held on Saturdays in the Corn Exchange, a large building at the back of the Guildhall, near the centre of the town and erected in 1876, at a cost of about £20,000; it contains a statue of Jonas Webb, the eminent breeder of sheep, by the late Baron Marochetti. The Cattle Market, formed by the Corporation, at a cost of about £19,000, on land situated between the station and Cherry Hinton road, was opened in 1885.

Several fairs are held during the year, the principal of which are Midsummer fair, commencing on 24th June and continuing three days, for horses and general merchandise, and Sturbridge fair, commencing on the 25th of September; this fair, founded 31 Elizabeth (1568-9), was formerly one of the largest in England, and beginning on the feast of the Nativity of the Virgin Mary (September 8) lasted six weeks; the fair was held on a large space of ground bounded by the Cam on the north and on the east by a small stream called the "Stour" or "Sture," over which there was a bridge, and hence the name of the fair: the whole area was covered with shops or booths arranged in rows like streets, for various trades and handicrafts, with taverns, coffee houses &c. and there was a great open quadrangle from 240 to 300 feet square, called "The Duddery," especially assigned to woollen drapers and clothes dealers; in the centre of this square a pulpit was erected, from which the minister of Barnwell preached on the two chief Sundays of the fair. This fair has now much fallen off and lasts for one week only.

Hobson's Conduit, erected in the Market place in 1614 by the well-known and eccentric carrier, Thomas Hobson, but removed in 1856 to Trumpington street, is a several-sided structure with a niche in each face and a cornice supporting a domical roof around which are placed the royal arms and other adornments: this conduit and the streams running down on either side of St. Andrew's and Trumpington streets are supplied from nine wells at Great Shelford, about 4 miles south-east. In 1865 a handsome drinking fountain was erected on the old site of the conduit in the Market place.

The Beaconsfield Club, Gwydir street, is a structure of brick, erected in 1884, by a limited liability company as a working men's club; political meetings are also held here.

The Henry Martyn Memorial Hall, in Market street, adjoining Trinity church, and erected in 1887, at a cost of £4,500, is intended both to commemorate the distinguished career and services of the Rev. Henry Martyn M.A. the first Cambridge missionary to India, and to afford a local habitation for the University Church Missionary Union, the meetings of which are held here weekly, besides furnishing at the discretion of the trustees a place of meeting for other missionary and religious societies: it comprises a large hall, seating 175 persons, committee room with missionary library, caretaker's apartments, and a room below, now let as a shop.

The Wesley House Theological College, in Jesus lane, was erected in 1925 at a cost of £65,000, from designs by Sir Aston Webb K.C.V.O., O.B., P.R.A.; a new east wing consisting of chapel and principal's house was erected in 1929.

The Cambridge Young Men's Christian Association has premises in Alexandra street, erected in 1870 on a plot of freehold land purchased by the association; the Alexandra hall, which forms part of the building, will seat 300 persons, and is used for lectures, concerts &c.

The Working Men's Institute and Mission Room, in Pound hill, Castle end, erected in 1884, at a cost of about £700, is an edifice of red Suffolk brick and Bath stone dressings in the English Domestic style: the large room will hold 230, and attached is a reading room furnished with papers and periodicals, and a small gymnasium.

Hospitals and Almshouses.

Addenbrooke's Hospital, in Trumpington street, was founded in pursuance of the will of John Addenbrooke M.D. formerly of Catharine Hall, who died in 1719. He left about £4,500 to trustees, on the death of his widow, "to hire, fit up, purchase or erect, a building for a small physical hospital for poor people of any parish or any county." Land was purchased in 1728 and a building erected in 1740; but the money left by Dr. Addenbrooke being insufficient for the maintenance of the hospital so built, an Act of Parliament was obtained in 1766 for making it a general hospital, and establishing a constitution under which additional funds should be obtained from voluntary contributions. The hospital was opened in October, 1766. In 1814 new wings were added on the receipt of a legacy of £7,000 from Mr. John Bowtell, a Cambridge bookbinder. In 1864-5 the hospital was greatly altered and enlarged from plans of Sir George M. Humphry under Sir M. Digby Wyatt as architect at a cost of about £15,000. In 1878 the isolation wards were built at the cost of about £3,500. The Peckover Building was erected in 1895, containing accommodation for about 40 nurses, and the operating theatre constructed in 1897-8, nearly the whole cost being borne by Lord Peckover, of Wisbech. In 1899 the Steam Laundry was established. In 1910 an electrical and X-ray department was opened. The equipment was provided by Mrs. Lilley Smith, Col. Harding and the Borough Education Committee. In 1912 Mrs. Bonnett, of Lensfield road, Cambridge, gave the sum of £13,000 to erect and endow a pathological laboratory in memory of her son, the late John Bonnett M.A. who for many years acted as secretary and legal adviser to the hospital. The laboratory was opened in 1913. In 1911 at a public meeting in the Guildhall it was decided that the happy memory of His Gracious Majesty King Edward VII. should be commemorated in Cambridge by the raising of a fund for the improvement of Addenbrooke's Hospital. Over £22,000 was raised by subscriptions; of this the Addenbrooke's Hospital Ladies' Needlework Guild contributed £3,000 towards the erection of a children's ward. In 1913-15 the sum of £25,000 was expended in the erection of new wards and new sanitary annexes on the north side of the hospital, of a spacious and complete out-patients' department, with casualty rooms, X-ray rooms, eye rooms, consulting rooms and offices, of a new boiler house providing a complete hot water and heating system for the hospital, and by a re-arrangement of space in the old building a new dispensary with large storage space and recovery rooms for the out-patient theatre were provided. An electric lift was presented by Mrs. Almerie Paget, supplemented by a gift from Lord Peckover. A sum of money has been reserved for the placing of a permanent record of the memorial in front of the hospital. The outbreak of war (1914) prevented the carrying out of the complete scheme, the erection of new sanitary annexes on the south side and the re-arrangement of some of the domestic offices being postponed. In 1924 an additional home for the nursing staff was erected, at a cost of about £13,000, as a memorial to those who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. In 1923 two new operating theatres, with their anaesthetic rooms, sterilizing room &c. were erected on the third floor, at a cost of about £10,000, and the old theatre site on the second floor, with two small wards adjoining, was converted into maternity wards, at a cost of about £3,000. The sanitary annexes on the south side, which had been postponed in 1914, were also completed, the cost being about £4,000. In 1929 the front of the hospital was completed by the erection, on the third floor over Victoria ward, of a new surgical ward for women, containing, with the balcony, 27 beds. It was opened for patients early in 1930, and was named "Musgrave Ward." The cost, together with furniture and equipment, was £8,626. In 1930 the Peckover Nurses' Home was enlarged and it now provides fifty-nine bedrooms for nurses, a sitting room for the sisters and matron's quarters, as compared with thirty-nine bedrooms for nurses when first erected. The cost, including furnishing, was £11,998. Bowtell ward, on the ground floor, was converted into board room, lecture room and general offices. In 1932 the space occupied by the old board room and lecture room on the first floor was converted into eye wards, providing 13 beds. The central staircase was continued from the first to the second floor and the entrance hall remodelled. The total cost was £5,631. A new block at the front of the hospital was opened on July 8th, 1932, by Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of York. It contains on the ground floor new wards for children with 32 cots, and on the first and second floors accommodation for 30 private patients. The cost, inclusive of furnishing, was approximately £31,000. There are 269 beds. Certificates of attendance on the practice in this hospital are recognized by the University, by the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons and by the Society of Apothecaries. During term, clinical lectures are delivered weekly by the physicians, and a course of lectures on the principles of surgery. The hospital is connected with the University as a Medical School.

The Strangeways Research Laboratory, formerly the Research Hospital of the Committee for the Study of Special Diseases, erected in 1912 on the Hills road, just beyond the borough boundary, from the designs of Herbert W. Maguire esq. architect, is in the Georgian style, and has the external walls faced with red bricks. On the ground floor is the entrance hall, five laboratories, chemical and balance room, refrigerator, motor house, workshop and domestic offices. On the first floor of the main building are four laboratories, library, hot room, north-west and south-east balconies &c. An additional block has recently been added on the north side. The Laboratory is devoted to scientific research.

In 1884 the Corporation built a hospital for infectious diseases, on a site purchased for that purpose, in Mill road, Romsey Town.

The Cambridge Royal Albert Benevolent Societies' Homes, Hills road, for tradespeople and others reduced in circumstances, was established in 1846, and is a structure of white brick in the Gothic style, consisting of twenty-five houses: its funds were augmented in 1868 by a legacy of upwards of £6,000, left by the late Mr. J. Reynolds, of this town, and it is generally supported by members' contributions and donations and subscriptions.

Knight's and Mortlock's Almshouses, formerly in Jesus lane, but re-erected in King street in 1882, were founded in 1647 by Elizabeth Knight, of Denny Abbey, for two widows and four spinsters, and were rebuilt in 1818 at the cost of William Mortlock esq.

The Hospital of SS. Anthony and Eligius, Panton street, founded in 1361 by Henry de Tangner, a burgess of the borough, for six poor women, was removed to its present site in 1851.

Jakenett's Almshouses, in King street, founded in 1469 by Thomas Jakenett, a burgess of the town, and rebuilt in 1790, are for eight poor women of the parish of St. Mary the Great, each inmate receiving about £20 yearly.

Perse's Almshouses, in Newnham, were founded in 1615 by Dr. Perse, of Caius College, for six poor women: the houses are kept in repair by the Master and Fellows of Caius College.

Wray's Almshouses, in King street, founded in 1620 by Mr. Henry Wray, stationer, of Cambridge, are for four widows and four widowers, each inmate receiving about £22 yearly: the total income is now £247 yearly Storey's Almshouses, in Mount Pleasant, were founded in 1632 by Edward Storey, gent. for clergymen's widows, maidens over forty years of age and widows of tradesmen. There are at present two almshouses belonging to this charity in Mount Pleasant, occupied by clergymen's widows, nine almshouses in Shelly row and three in Northampton street, occupied by widows and maidens from the parishes of Holy Trinity and St. Giles, in Cambridge. Pensions are also given to widows of clergy of the Church of England and to widows and maidens of St. Giles' parish and maidens of the parish of Holy Trinity. Dr. Goddard, master of Clare College, the Rev. William Cole, of Milton Court, the Rev. Robert Tyrwhitt and Thomas Leombes esq. added to the charity £1,150 yearly.

Elizabeth, widow of the famous Capt. James Cook R.N. left in 1835 a sum of £27 annually, to be divided amongst five poor widows of St. Andrew's parish.

There are numerous other private charities, for visiting the sick and infirm at their own houses, and a sum of about £350 is distributed yearly in money and kind.

The Priory of Barnwell, dedicated to SS. Giles and Andrew, was first founded in Cambridge in 1092 by Picot, a Norman, for six canons of the Augustinian order, and translated to Barnwell in 1102 by Payn Pererell, standard bearer in the Holy Land to Robert Curthose, Duke of Normandy, who refounded the priory, increasing the number of canons to 30, and, dying in 1112, was buried in the priory church. The last prior, John Badcock, surrendered the monastery Nov. 8, 1539, when the revenues were estimated at £256. The existing remains, situated about 1½ miles east of Cambridge market place, consist only of part of the north-west angle of the cloisters, with traces of arcading, and a portion of the boundary wall; the site has at one time been quarried, and has also been excavated by the Cambridge Antiquarian Society, but with slight results; it is now laid out with streets.

The kennels of the Cambridge Draghounds are in Cherryhinton road; the pack comprises about 10 couples of hounds, and hunts Mondays and Thursdays; Cambridge is the best centre and the nearest station to the kennels.

The population of the ecclesiastical parishes in 1921 was:—

The area of the municipal borough, which is co-extensive with the parliamentary borough, is 5,457 acres; the population in 1921 was 59,264, and in 1931, 66,803.

The population of the municipal wards in 1921 was:— Abbey, 4,988; Bridge, 2,907; Castle, 4,131; Fitzwilliam, 2,313; Market, 1,973; New Town, 3,851; Petersfield, 6,341; Romsey, 7,316; St. Andrew, 2,594; St. Matthew, 5,647; Cambridge Without, 5,592; East Chesterton, 3,139; North Chesterton, 3,261; South Chesterton, 2,708; West Chesterton, 2,503; total, 59,264.

The number of electors on the parliamentary register in 1930 was 41,399.

CHESTERTON is a populous district, on the north bank of the river Cam, a mile and a half north from Cambridge station: it gives its name to a hundred, and is in the petty sessional division, county court district and rural deanery of Cambridge and arch-deaconry and diocese of Ely.

Chesterton was formerly governed by an Urban District Council, but this was abolished under the provisions of the Cambridge (Extension) Order, 1911, which came into operation on April 1st, 1912, part of the Urban District and civil parish and part of Chesterton Rural District being added to the municipal borough of Cambridge: the added area was divided into four wards, North, South, East and West Chesterton, each returning one alderman and three councillors to the Borough Council; the remainder of the former area of Chesterton civil parish was added to Milton. Under the provisions of the Cambridge Corporation Act, 1922, the civil parish of Chesterton was included in the civil parish of Cambridge. Chesterton is lighted with gas and supplied with water by the Cambridge Gas and Water Companies. The church of St. Andrew, picturesquely situated near the river, is a large and interesting embattled structure of flint, chiefly in the Decorated style with Perpendicular additions, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of seven bays, aisles, north porch and an embattled western tower, with a beautiful octagonal spire, and containing a clock and 6 bells: the chancel was restored about 1844, when a piscina and three sedilia of Late Perpendicular work were discovered: the nave is Decorated, but has a Perpendicular clerestory and roof, some of the corbels bearing shields of arms: on the spandrels between the arches and in other parts of the church are remains of frescoes, c. 1300: in the north aisle is a plain sepulchral recess; and both this and the south aisle have finely carved corbels: the nave still retains some good chestnut benches, richly carved: in the churchyard are several stone coffin slabs bearing floriated crosses: there are 650 sittings, all being free. The register dates from the year 1564. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £555, with glebe and residence, in the gift of the Master and Fellows of Trinity College, Cambridge, and held since 1919 by the Rev. William Leavers Mackennal M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge, and surrogate. In 1931 the Baptist church was purchased and converted into a church mission hall, seating 150. St. Luke's is a district parish, formed April 1, 1881: the church, built in 1874, at a cost of £10,240, is an edifice of white brick and stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, transept, nave of five bays and a tower with spire, the principal entrance being under the tower: there are 750 sittings. The register dates from the year 1874. The living is a vicarage, with an annual endowment of £203, net income £397, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1916 by the Rev. Walter Wright Partridge M.A. of Queens' College, Cambridge, and hon. C.F. St. Augustine's, a mission church and schools, situated in Richmond road, is constructed of red brick and was dedicated in 1898 by Bishop Alwyne Compton: there are 200 sittings. St. Augustine's is under the control of the vicar of St. Luke's. The Methodist chapel, in Church street, was built in 1904, at a cost of £1,500, on a site presented by Mr. B. C. Jolley. The Congregational chapel, in the Victoria road, was built in 1884, at a cost of £4,000; it has 500 sittings. The General Cemetery, in the Histon road, opened in December, 1843, and covering an area of four acres, has one chapel, and is under the control of a private company, the offices being at 7 Downing street, Cambridge. The Victoria Friendly Society's Institution, for old members of friendly societies, opened in 1841, is also here. Here was once an ancient fortified house, said to have been built by the Abbot of Vercelli; a portion of this building, massively constructed and probably a well-room, still exists. About £60 yearly from land is distributed in fuel and money. The boat-houses built by the Cambridge University Boat Club in 1882, Christ's College in 1886, Caius in 1887, Jesus in 1882, King's in 1895 and Emmanuel and Pembroke in 1896 add much to the picturesqueness of the river at this point. There is a recreation ground, known as Alexandra Gardens, and another near the church. The representatives of the Rev. Dr. Joseph Edleston are lords of the manor of Chesterton, formerly owned by the Priory of Barnwell, and Trinity College, Cambridge, are lords of the manor of Chesterton Rectory, formerly owned by the abbey of Vercelli in Italy. The soil is light, and the subsoil gravel and blue clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans, roots and seeds. The area and population are included with Cambridge.

The population of Chesterton St. Andrew in 1921 was 4,236, and of Chesterton St. Luke, 7,583.

ST. JOHN'S is an ecclesiastical parish, constituted in May, 1897, and formed from Cherry Hinton and Trumpington. The church of St. John the Evangelist, in Hills road, was consecrated December 15th 1896,

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY

The origin of this University has been the subject of much controversy; it is generally stated that Sigbert, King of the East English (629-35), was the first person of influence who fostered learning in this place: to this, Bede says, he was guided, as to many other works of piety, by St. Felix, the first Bishop of Dunwich, who presided over the churches of East England from A.D. 630 to his decease in A.D. 638. During the Danish invasions, about 871, the town was burnt, and the progress of learning here arrested; but the University was re-established by Edward the Elder in 915; and a further revival took place in 1110; Henry III. about 1230, granted a charter to the University, but its most important privileges were bestowed by Edward III. in 1333. Letters Patent were granted by Henry VIII. in 1534, and a charter by Queen Elizabeth in 1561; and later the University was incorporated by Act of Parliament, in 1571 (13 Eliz. c. 29): its statutes have been revised on several occasions, and were altered to a very considerable extent under the "Cambridge University Act, 1856" (19 and 20 Vict. c. 88): new statutes were confirmed by the Queen in Council, 31 July 1858, under the "Universities' Act, 1858" (21 and 22 Vict. cc. 57 and 53), and the statutes of the University were further revised by the "Oxford and Cambridge Universities' Act, 1877" (40 and 41 Vict. c. 48), and confirmed anew by Her Majesty Queen Victoria in 1882. New statutes were again approved by the King in Council in 1926. James I. in 1614, conferred on the University the privilege of sending two members to Parliament, the right of election being vested in members of the Senate: all Doctors of Divinity, Law and Physic, and Masters of Arts or Laws, having their names upon the register, have votes in this assembly. The election of representatives of the University in Parliament is now governed by the Representation of the People Act, 1918, and the right of voting is no longer restricted to members of the Senate, but is extended to all graduates. By Order in Council, 13th May, 1869, power was given to the University to admit as students, and to confer degrees on, persons not members of any college or hall.

The University of Cambridge is a society of students in all and every of the liberal arts and sciences, incorporated, as stated, by Queen Elizabeth, under the title of "The Chancellor, Masters and Scholars of the University of Cambridge." This corporation is a union of 17 Colleges or Societies, and of certain Masters of Arts and students, who, though not members of any college, are members of the larger corporation of the University, and entitled to share in all privileges within its precincts, other than those which are accessible only to members of colleges. Both this larger corporation of the University and the smaller ones of the colleges are devoted to the study of learning and knowledge, and are intended to promote the better service of the Church and State. All the colleges have been founded since the first year of Edward I. and are maintained by the endowments of their respective founders and benefactors. Each college is a corporation governed by its own statutes, but all are in some respects controlled by the statutes of the University.

Towards the end of the War, the question of admitting women to degrees, which had come to a vote in 1897, was again mooted, and after a long controversy, the Senate, on the 20th October, 1921, adopted a compromise to which effect was given by a Statute, approved by the King in Council on the 25th May, 1922. The Statute empowered the University to confer by diploma Titles of Degrees in any faculty upon students of a recognised institution for the higher and is an edifice of red brick with stone facings in the Gothic style, consisting at present only of chancel, aisle, choir and clergy vestries, and two bays of an eventual nave of four bays: the stained east window is a memorial to the Rev. George Smith Drew M.A. d. c. 1881, and father-in-law of the Rev. John George M.A. vicar 1898-1903: the north and south stained chancel windows are in memory of Mrs. John George, and the stained window at the east end of the north aisle in memory of Mr. Alfred Jones: the south aisle contains a memorial brass tablet to Mabel Loving Barnsdale, d. 1923. The register dates from the year 1896. The living is a vicarage, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, net yearly value £400, with residence, and held since 1927 by the Rev. John Columbine Paterson Morgan B.A. of Keble College, Oxford. The population in 1921 was 3,180.

education of women; to recognise such institutions for this purpose; to determine the conditions under which their students should be admitted to Titles of Degrees, and in what numbers and on what conditions their students should be given facilities for instruction and study in the University. Ordinances giving effect to the Statute were adopted by the Senate on the 3rd March, 1923, and on the 17th July of that year the Registry published the first list of women upon whom Titles of Degrees had been conferred. The Act setting up the Statutory Commission for Cambridge received the Royal assent a fortnight later, and the position of women at Cambridge, on which the Royal Commission had dwelt, was much improved by the new Statutes which made women eligible for all University teaching offices; and these offices give membership of Faculties, and some of them give membership of Faculty Boards.

The Senate consists of the Chancellor, the Vice-Chancellor, and such Doctors and Masters, and such Bachelors of Divinity as have kept their names on the books, subject to the requirement of certain intervals from the commencement of residence, and from admission to the degree in the case of Doctors of Philosophy, Masters of Letters, and Masters of Science.

The Regent House consists of the Chancellor and of any of the following who are members of the Senate: the representatives of the University in Parliament; University officers; Heads and Fellows of Colleges; members, secretaries and assistant secretaries of Faculties, Boards and Syndicates &c.

Decisions of the University are expressed by Graces of the Regent House (subject to appeal to the Senate), or of the Senate.

The Council of the Senate consists of the Chancellor and the Vice-Chancellor, and sixteen members elected by the Regent House: four from the Heads of Colleges, four from among the Professors and Readers, and eight from among all members of the Regent House alike.

The several degrees of the University are conferred upon such persons as are duly presented to the Vice-Chancellor by their respective college officials after satisfying the University Examiners or Professors respectively in the several examinations and exercises required by the statutes of the University, after a statutable residence and a course of instruction, partly provided by the Colleges and partly by the University. The college authorities are responsible for the behaviour of students within the walls of their respective colleges; and the Proctors for their conduct outside the colleges and in the University at large.

The University Terms are three in number and include 227 days at least: Michaelmas Term begins on the 1st October and ends on the 19th December; Lent Term begins on the 5th January and ends on the 25th March; and Easter Term begins on the 16th April and ends on June 24th.

University Buildings.

The Senate House, in King's parade, erected at a cost of about £20,000, is a structure of Portland stone, surrounded by pilasters of the Corinthian order, supporting a frieze and cornice and finished with a balustrading, each front being also relieved by a Decorated pediment; six ornamental stone vases, completing the original design, were placed above the east and south fronts in 1891, at the cost of the late Samuel Sanders esq. M.A. of Trinity College. The interior, which is ornamented with columns of the Doric order, is 101 feet in length, 42 in breadth, and 32 in height: the galleries are of Norway oak, richly carved, and the floor is of black and white marble; at the east end are statues of Charles, Duke of Somerset, by Bysbrack, and of the Right Hon. William Pitt, by Nollekens: at the upper, or west end, is the Vice-Chancellor's chair, with seats on each side for the heads of colleges and other dignitaries. Here degrees are conferred and other public business of the University is transacted.

The Fitzwilliam Museum, in Trumpington street, one of the finest of modern Classical structures in this country, was erected in 1837-47 from the designs of George Basevi, who was killed by a fall at Ely Cathedral. The work was continued by Charles R. Cockerell R.A. and completed in 1875 by Edward M. Barry. The principal front exhibits a grand portico of eight Corinthian columns, the order being continued on each side and flanked by advanced wings, inclosing loggia, the whole supporting a cornice and pediment; the wings and loggia are relieved by niches, containing in bold relief figures of the Muses. The Museum was founded and endowed by Richard, 7th Viscount Fitzwilliam, who died in 1816, and bequeathed to the University his splendid collection of books, paintings, drawings and engravings, and £100,000 South Sea Annuities for the erection of a museum for their reception. To the above have been added many gifts and bequests, including a valuable collection, presented in 1834 by Daniel Mesman. The majority of the paintings in this collection are of the Flemish and Dutch schools. In 1850 John Disney I.L.D. presented a valuable collection of ancient marbles, 83 in number. The Museum has been further enriched by many other valuable presents of paintings, prints, books &c. including 25 water-colour drawings by J. M. W. Turner, presented by John Ruskin in 1861. Thirty modern paintings were given by Mrs. Elizabeth Ellison in 1863: in 1872, by the will of the late Rev. R. E. Kerrich, the Museum acquired seven paintings and 200 volumes of books, together with many portfolios of engravings: in 1876, A. A. Van Sittart presented 17 pictures, including fine examples of Rusdael, Guercino, Marieschi &c.; other benefactors have been the Rev. J. W. Arnold D.D. in 1859 and the Rev. C. Leasingham Smith in 1878, the Rt. Hon. F. Leverton Harris in 1926 (majolica and miniatures), J. B. Holliday in 1927 (English water colours), and Dr. J. W. L. Glaisher in 1928 (English and continental pottery and faience). Fifteen paintings on panel, illustrative of Early Italian Art, were purchased in 1893; these include fine altar retables by Simone Memmi and Cosimo Rosselli. The museum also contains collections of engravings, etchings, drawings, illuminated manuscripts and coins (including the Leake and McClean collections), which make it, in these respects, one of the most important in Europe. Two additional galleries were opened in 1924 to house the collection of pictures, furniture and other works of art bequeathed by Charles Brinsley Marlay, of Trinity College, together with the sum of £80,000 and the lease of his house, which realised £10,000. A further large extension was completed in 1931, at the cost of Mr. W. J. Cortauld, Mr. S. L. Courtauld and Miss S. R. Courtauld, who subscribed the sum of £100,000 for the purpose. As a result the whole of the pictures were rehung and other great improvements in the arrangement of the Galleries took place. The Museum is open to the public every week day from 10 to 4 from the 1st of September to the 30th of April, and from 10 to 5 from the 1st of May to the 31st of August, with the exception of Good Friday, Christmas Day and the first Wednesday in each month. On Sunday afternoons the picture galleries are open from 2 p.m.

The Museum of Classical Archaeology, Little St. Mary's lane, was opened in May, 1884, as an extension of the Fitzwilliam Museum, and now occupies five galleries containing over 700 casts, arranged chronologically, each gallery representing, so far as practicable, a marked period in the history of art, and the collection, as a whole, is second only to the famous Museum of casts at Berlin; there is also a lecture theatre and a departmental library in connection with the Museum.

The Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology, Downing street, was founded in 1883. This department shared with Classical Archaeology, till 1912, the museum buildings in Little St. Mary's lane. The museum owes its existence to the Cambridge Antiquarian Society, which in 1883 presented to the University its entire collection of pre-historic, Roman and mediæval antiquities and library. In 1891 the Foster Bequest added over 4,000 specimens of stone, metal, pottery and glass of various ages from Great Britain and the Continent. Numerous additions to the archaeological collections have since been made by gift, purchase, public subscription and loan. Amongst others may be mentioned the gift of Mr. F. Ransom, of Hitchin, of his large collection from that neighbourhood and the Continent, and the Rev. E. Conybeare's collection from Barrington. Mr. Thomas R. Murray's large and important collection of Irish antiquities was purchased in 1900. The Pell and Cole-Ambrose collections of local antiquities were also purchased. Trinity and Girton Colleges have deposited their archaeological collections here. The collection of stone implements from all parts of the world and the series of implements of the bronze age found locally are very extensive. The Early Iron age is represented by the important finds at Santon, Downham, Stamfordbury &c. There is also a large collection of pottery, glass and other objects of Roman date. The Anglo-Saxon series is unrivalled outside the British and Ashmolean museums. The mediæval collections contain many objects of importance. The ethnographical collections are very rich, and the museum can show, owing to the generosity of the Earl of Denbigh and the Earl of Sandwich, and the deposit of Trinity College, a remarkable series of the specimens brought home by Capt. Cook from the Pacific. Other valuable collections include that from the Fiji Islands, made by Lord Stanmore, Dr. Alfred Maudslay and Baron A. von Hügel: the series from Torres Straits, New Guinea and other groups of islands in the Pacific (Haddon, Landtman, Bishop Selwyn, Rivers &c. collections), and the African collections from Uganda (Roscoe) and Nigeria (Thomas and Tremearne). The collections are continually being increased by series from all over the world.

The Physiological Laboratory, Downing street, was erected by the Worshipful Company of Drapers, under the superintendence of Sir Thomas Jackson bt. R.A. and presented to the University in 1914, and much enlarged by the Rockefeller Foundation and private benefactions in 1933. The Laboratory has a complete installation for the modern needs of teaching and research. Special rooms for X-ray work, for observations with the string galvanometer, the capillary electrometer, the oscillograph for the study of the nerve, muscle, the heart and circulation, for blood gas analysis and for experiments &c.

The Psychological Laboratory in the same building was opened in 1913, and consists of lecture and demonstrators' rooms, a room for animal psychology, mechanics' workshop, two practical class rooms, library, dark room and surroundings, five research rooms, sound proof room and surroundings, and is also well stocked with modern psychological apparatus.

The Sedgwick Museum of Geology, in Downing street, an edifice of brick and stone, was opened by His late Majesty King Edward VII. and Queen Alexandra, in 1904. It was erected from plans by Sir T. G. Jackson bt. R.A., F.S.A. at a cost of nearly £50,000, of which £28,700 was subscribed as a memorial to the famous Rev. Adam Sedgwick, Woodwardian Professor of Geology from 1818 to 1873, £4,000 came from the Woodwardian Trust Fund, and the remainder was derived from previous subscriptions. The nucleus of the collections was bequeathed to the University in 1727 by Dr. John Woodward, the founder of the Chair of Geology, and since then additions have been continually made to it, mostly by private benefactors, so that at the present day no geological museum in the Kingdom, except the Natural History Museum at South Kensington, equals it in the value and wealth of its specimens, while for educational purposes it is unsurpassed. Amongst the collections of historical interest is that of Agostino Scilla, a distinguished Italian painter, whose collection and original drawings in illustration of his work, published in 1670, are preserved in the Museum. The main Palæontological collections are arranged stratigraphically on the first floor, to illustrate the succession of life upon the earth from the earliest times down to the beginning of human history. The fossils which have been figured and described are mounted on blue tablets. On the second floor are placed the library, class rooms, rooms for members of the staff, and a collection of rock specimens and of examples of rock structures. The ground floor is devoted to the Museum of Economics, which contains an unequalled collection of British, colonial and foreign building-stones, slates and marbles, most of which were collected and presented by the late John Watson M.A. of Cambridge. Cements, bricks and cores of deep borings for water, coal &c. educational appliances, a large lecture room and work rooms occupy the remainder of this floor.

The Law Library and Lecture Rooms form a continuation of the same block of buildings, and the Botanical Museum and Herbarium is contained in the same building.

The School of Agriculture is in the old Downing Park which was bought by the University from Downing College some years ago; it adjoins the Botany School, the Physiological and Psychological Laboratories and the Sedgwick Museum of Geology, and was erected in 1909 from plans prepared by Mr. Arnold Mitchell F.R.I.B.A. at a cost of nearly £20,000, of which £6,000 was contributed by the Drapers' Company, and the remainder collected by a committee of the University Association. The building contains four lecture rooms, laboratories for the study of chemistry, physics, botany, zoology and physiology in their applications to agriculture, and a number of private research rooms. In 1912 the building was extended to nearly double its original size in order to accommodate the Institutes for Research in Plant Breeding, and Animal Nutrition, established by the Board of Agriculture by means of the Development Fund. Further extensions were erected in 1924 and 1933, the first from funds supplied by the Ministry of Agriculture and the second from funds supplied under the Rockefeller scheme. The Department of Agriculture also possesses a farm of 700 acres, situate between the Madingley and Huntingdon roads, which is used for teaching and experimental purposes. The department is also interested in the Field Laboratories on the Milton road, where investigations are carried on dealing with various problems connected with animals. Here in 1924 was established the Institute of Animal Pathology.

The Chemical Laboratory, in Pembroke street, was erected in 1887, from designs by the late Mr. J. J. Stevenson F.S.A. architect, based on a plan proposed by Professor George Downing Liveing M.A., F.R.S. and was considerably extended in 1908. The building now provides for about 500 workers and contains five lecture rooms, the largest of which is capable of seating 250 students. The basement contains a machinery room in which a liquid-air plant, vacuum pumps and a cold-storage and ice-making installation are operated by means of a gas engine; the latter also drives the dynamos providing electric current for use in the laboratory. A large number of the smaller rooms in the building are used as balance rooms, and for the prosecution of special investigations; there is also a library. The laboratory, lecture room and private room of the Jacksonian Professor are also in this building. A suite of five rooms in the basement is devoted to metallurgy.

The School of Bio-Chemistry, in Tennis Court road, was erected in 1923 at a cost of about £90,000, from funds bequeathed by Sir William Dunn.

The Museums, Medical School, Lecture Rooms and Scientific Laboratories form an extensive range of buildings on the site of the old Botanic Garden, on the north side of Downing street, and on a site purchased from Downing College, on the south side of the same street are the Sedgwick Museum of Geology, the Physiological Laboratory, the Psychological Laboratory, the School of Bio-Chemistry, the Botany School, the Squire Law Library, the Law Schools, School of Agriculture, Pathological Laboratory, and a low temperature station for research in bio-chemistry and biophysics: the buildings include a series of laboratories, lecture rooms, museums and libraries. There are museums of zoology, geology, botany, human anatomy, archaeology and ethnology, surgery and mineralogy, which are open under certain conditions to the public. On the old Botanic Gardens site are the departments of human anatomy, zoology, mineralogy, experimental physics (Cavendish laboratory), chemistry, medicine and surgery, the Quick laboratory and the Royal Society Mond laboratory; the philosophical library, which contains about 25,000 volumes and at which about eight hundred periodicals are taken in; the examination halls, erected in 1912, and comprising three rooms for 320, 125 and 56 candidates respectively, and the new literary lecture rooms containing three class rooms, nine lecture rooms, common room, library &c. The Geography School, in Downing place, adjoins this group of buildings.

A new engineering laboratory on the Scroope House site was begun in 1920 and part of it was completed in 1922. The building of a north wing, which has made possible the complete removal of the department from the Free School Lane site, was completed in 1931.

The buildings for the study of anatomy, in Corn Exchange street, consists of dissecting rooms, anatomical museum and lecture rooms.

The University Library, which can be shown to have been already in existence during the first half of the 15th century, occupies the two courts, about one acre all told, lying between the Senate House and Clare College. It has been enriched at different times by royal and private benefactors, including King George I. (1715), Thomas Rotherham or Scot, Archbishop of York (1484), Dr. Richard Holdsworth, master of Emmanuel College (1649), Henry Lucas (1664), Tobias Rustat (1666), John Hacket, Bishop of Lichfield (1670), William Worts (1709), John Manistre (1826), Henry Bradshaw, librarian (1886), John Couch Adams, Lowndean professor (1892), Samuel Sanders M.A. Trinity College (1894) and Viscount Morley of Blackburn (1902): it now contains upwards of 1,250,000 volumes (being thus third among the libraries of the United Kingdom) as well as over 10,000 manuscripts and about 195,000 maps; the University spends about £20,000 a year upon it; and it is continually increased by the provisions of the Copyright Acts, under which the University may claim a copy of every new work published in Great Britain and Ireland: the building was very considerably enlarged in 1866, at an expense of £14,500; it was further enlarged in 1889, at a cost of £16,000, of which £10,000 was derived from a bequest of the late John Hancock esq. sometime fellow of St. John's College, and further enlargements were made in 1908. About a quarter of a mile of shelf space is added annually, and the total length of the shelves now extends to considerably over 20 miles. The library is open from 9.30 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Saturdays, 9 a.m. to 1.30 p.m.; the library is closed on the two week days following March 31, June 30, December 31, Thursday before Easter and the next five days, September 1 to 16, Christmas Eve and the next four days. In 1924 7½ acres of land were bought as a site for a new library, and plans since then prepared by Sir Giles Gilbert Scott R.A. for a new building to be erected. This new library is (1933) in process of building and should be finished in the summer of 1934, when the transfer of the books from the present library will be undertaken. The new building will contain 47 miles of shelving. After the new library is opened the old library will be adapted as the administrative centre of the University.

The Divinity School, probably the oldest University building in the town, originally stood on the north side of the Schools quadrangle, under the present catalogue-room of the University Library, with which it was incorporated in accordance with a report of the library syndicate in the year 1856; in the same year the Rev. W. Selwyn D.D. of St. John's College, Lady Margaret Professor of Divinity, set apart £700 a year from the income of his chair as an augmentation of the stipend of the Norrisian professorship, proposing at the same time, if the Norrisian professorship should meanwhile become vacant, to continue the same contribution during his tenure of office for the furtherance of theological study in such a way as might seem best: in accordance with this provision a trust was formed in 1864 to receive and administer the sums so set apart with a view to the erection of a Divinity school, and shortly before Professor Selwyn's death (April 24, 1875), when the accumulated fund amounted to nearly £10,000, a site opposite St. John's College was purchased by the University at a cost of £3,750; the building, erected in 1878-9, is in the Gothic style of the 15th century, from the designs of Basil Champneys esq. M.A. architect, and contains a large lecture room capable of holding 250 students, a small lecture room, library and four rooms for the professors. In Nov. 1890, the library was augmented by the addition of a large number of valuable books from the library of the late Dr. Lightfoot, Bishop of Durham, bequeathed by him to the Divinity school. A few years later a similar bequest was received from Dr. Hort, Lady Margaret Professor of Divinity, 1887-1892.

The School of Pathology was erected in Tennis Court road in 1927, from the designs of Edward Warren esq. F.S.A., F.R.I.B.A. On the ground floor are research rooms, chemical laboratory, X-ray room, micro-photography, cold store, centrifuges, instrument room &c. On the first floor a large class-room occupies the whole of the north-west wing; the centre block contains research and other rooms, while the north-east wing contains both a small and large lecture theatre and a museum. The second and third floors contain research rooms and other departments, the library being on the second floor.

The Cambridge University Union Society, established in 1815, is the largest club in the University, and consists of about 15,000 members, the majority of whom are life members: the society has buildings in Bridge street, containing, beyond the debating hall, a library of about 60,000 volumes, smoking, reading and writing rooms and a dining room. Debates take place every Tuesday evening during term: the society is managed by its officers and a committee, mainly undergraduates, elected terminally.

The University Pitt Club, Reading and News Rooms, founded in 1835, and situated in Jesus lane, is open daily from 8.30 a.m. to 10 p.m. to members of the University only on election; it is limited to 200 members.

The University Press, Cambridge, frequently known from its most prominent building as the Pitt Press, occupies the area from Trumpington street towards the river, between Silver street and Mill lane. The main portion of the Press comprises three sides of a square, of which the fourth, the Pitt building, facing Trumpington street, is an embattled structure of three storeys in the Perpendicular style, from designs by Mr. Edward Blore. The foundation stone was laid in November, 1831, by the Marquess Camden, who also opened the building, 30th April, 1833. The buildings and plant have been extensively added to in late years, the range of buildings fronting upon Mill lane, completed in 1829, being the most recent. The present University Printer is Mr. Walter Lewis.

The Cambridge Philosophical Society, established in 1819, was incorporated by charter in 1832, and is managed by a council, consisting of a president, three vice-presidents, treasurer and three secretaries, who are elected in October in each year, that being the anniversary of the society; the meetings are held once a fortnight during term at the Museums.

The Botanic Garden, south of the town, between the Hills road and the Trumpington road, occupies an area of about 21 acres: the garden contains an extensive collection of indigenous and foreign plants: up the centre is a piece of ornamental water, and the whole garden is surrounded by trees and shrubs, arranged in such a manner as to afford the most complete facility for reference: the hot-houses are spacious, and contain a variety of curious and valuable exotics, and in 1888 and 1891 the plant houses were rebuilt: the palm house and temperate house were again rebuilt in 1932: the whole is under the management of a syndicate, of which the Vice-Chancellor is chairman: the public are admitted free daily, Sundays excepted (when key holders only are admitted). The hot-houses are open between the hours of 2 and 5 p.m.

The University Observatory, erected in 1822-24, at a cost of nearly £20,000, on the Madingley road, 1½ miles from the town, and surrounded by tastefully laid-out grounds, is an edifice of Bath stone, on a plinth of granite, in the Classic style, from designs by Mr. J. C. Mead, of London, and consists of a centre with east and west wings and a pedimented porch carried on pillars of the Grecian Doric order; it includes the library, two instrument rooms and a small dome, and the houses of the director and chief assistant: the principal instruments include a very fine transit circle by Troughton and Simms, presented by Miss Sheepshanks, having an 8½ inches aperture: in 1835 the Northumberland equatorial, of 12 inches aperture and 20 feet focal length, with an object glass by Cauchoix, of Paris, was presented to the Observatory by his Grace the Duke of Northumberland, and mounted in the English style by the late Sir George Airy. In 1898 the Sheepshanks equatorial telescope, with a triple photographic visual object glass of 12½ inches aperture and 19½ feet focal length, by Cooke, and mounted in the Coudé form, by Grubb, was built at the expense of the Sheepshanks fund, and is located in the red brick telescope house. In 1929 the Thorowgood telescope, a refracting telescope of 8 inches aperture, on loan from the Royal Astronomical Society, was erected. The Observatory is open to members of the University and their friends daily (Sundays excepted) from 12 to 1 p.m.; no strangers are admitted, except in company with a member of the University.

The Solar Physics Observatory was erected in 1913, on the Madingley road, adjoining the University Observatory. In 1891 the Newall telescope, 29 feet focal length and 25 inches aperture, by Cooke, was presented by the late Mr. R. S. Newall, of Gateshead, and is now fitted with a four prism spectograph by the Cambridge Scientific Instrument Co.; it is placed in the large dome, which has an adjoining spectroscopic laboratory, the equipment of which has been recently extended, from the benefaction of the late Mr. Frank McClean. In 1908 the Royal Society presented the equipment which had been placed by them in the hands of Sir W. Huggins in 1871, and has been used and developed by him since that time in his astrophysical researches. The equipment consists of (1) a refracting telescope (with an object glass 15 inches in diameter and 15 feet in focal length) to which is attached a spectroscope designed by Sir W. Huggins, for both visual and photographic work, and (2) a Cassegrain reflecting telescope, with a mirror of speculum metal 18 inches in diameter and about 9 feet in focal length. These two telescopes were made and mounted by Sir H. Grubb, of Dublin, equatorially on a polar axis; they are erected in a new dome, made by Cooke and Sons, on a site to the south of the Sheepshanks telescope. In 1909 Maj. E. H. Hills C.M.G., R.E. presented a valuable outfit of spectroscopic apparatus, comprising amongst other instruments a powerful quartz spectroscope. In 1913, on the removal of the Solar Physics Observatory from South Kensington to Cambridge, the following instruments were added: a 36-inch reflector with a mirror (silver on glass), worked by Dr. Common and mounted equatorially in a house to the south of the Newall dome; a spectrohelioscope for the study of solar phenomena in monochromatic light; a 21-foot concave grating mounted after Rowland's method in the laboratory. In 1932 a spectroheliometer was added and a special hut was built in which a study of atmospheric electricity is being conducted.

The University Boat Club contends annually with Oxford in a race, which takes place in the Easter vacation on the Thames between Putney and Mortlake: up to and including 1933, 40 races have been won by Oxford and 44 by Cambridge, and there was one dead heat; no race took place between 1914 and 1919 owing to the Great War.

THE COLLEGES.

Colleges are a purely English institution, and although now, for the most part, forming the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, are as an institution not so ancient as the universities. In the earlier times of the universities, the students lived in a way not unlike that of the Non-Collegiate students of the present day. After a time, however, halls or hostels began to be formed in which the students lived, and by degrees the present colleges, as one by one they came into existence, superseded the halls, and for some centuries afforded a collegiate life to every member of the two great Universities. In Oxford the difference between a college and a hall is that the colleges are corporate bodies, holding and managing their own property and endowments, the corporation consisting (with only one exception in Oxford, besides private halls, and none in Cambridge) of a Head, a body of Fellows and a body of Scholars, the Head and Fellows being the governing body. Trinity Hall only retains its original style of "hall" for the obvious reason that a Trinity College also exists. The heads of all the colleges in Cambridge are called Masters, with the exception of those of King's and Queens', who are called respectively Provost and President.

In most of the colleges the Head is elected by the Fellows: but the Master of Trinity is appointed by the Crown, and the Master of Magdalene by the possessor of the Audley End Estate. The Fellows and Scholars are elected by the Heads and Fellows of the colleges. Fellowships were originally tenable for life on the condition of celibacy: this condition, however, no longer prevails. Scholarships are usually tenable for about four or five years. The undergraduate members of colleges are called Fellow Commoners, Research Students, Pensioners and Sizar. There are Sizarships in some of the colleges, and numerous Scholarships and Exhibitions open to competition exist in all of them.

Caius College (see Gonville and Caius).

Christ's College.

Visitor—The Vice-Chancellor, with two senior Doctors in Divinity of the University; the Provost of King's acting if the Master of the College be the Vice-Chancellor.

The college was originally built on the site of a hostel called "God's House," but was removed to its present site by Henry VI. to make room for the additions to King's College. It was founded, in its collegiate capacity, by Henry VI. for a Master, 3 Fellows and 24 Scholars, with an intention of enlargement, prevented, however, by the civil wars, but his half-sister, the Lady Margaret, Countess of Richmond and Derby, and mother of Henry VII. refounded it in 1505 for a Master, 12 Fellows and 47 Scholars, changing its name to that which it now bears. The foundress dedicated her foundation "Ad honorem Christi Jesu et fidei ejus incre-mentum." Edward VI. added a fellowship and three scholarships, and Sir John Finch and Sir Thomas Baines two more fellowships and two more scholarships. In 1923 Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan hon. LL.D. added another fellowship. Further additions were made at different times to the scholarships by succeeding benefactors. Under subsequent legislation the scholarships were consolidated and improved in value, and the society now consists of a Master, 18 Fellows and 40 Scholars. The college buildings consist of three principal courts, with a fine chapel and hall. The college presents to 11 benefices.

Clare College.

Visitor—The Chancellor of the University.

This college, formerly called Clare Hall, was founded by Richard de Badew, Chancellor of the University, who in 1326 built a small college known as University Hall. This building having been destroyed by fire in 1342, a new building was erected four years later by Elizabeth, sister and co-heiress of Gilbert, last Earl of Clare, and endowed for a Master, Fellows and Scholars, under the name of "The College House or Hall of Clare." The existing building, except the chapel, was erected in the 17th century. Among the benefactors of the college were Henry VI. Thomas Cecil, 2nd Baron Burghley and 1st Earl of Exeter K.G. and Dr. Samuel Blythe, Master from 1673 to 1713. The buildings consist of one spacious court, 150 by 111 feet, and the chapel, erected in 1769 at a cost of £7,000. The hall, library and combination room are all fine and well-proportioned rooms; and the walks, lawns and gardens of the college are among the most beautiful in the University. Memorial Building (erected as a memorial to 197 Clare men who fell in the Great War, 1914-18) provides accommodation for about 120 undergraduates and four Fellows. The present Society consists of a Master, 12 Fellows and about 55 Scholars and Exhibitioners. The college presents to 18 benefices.

Corpus Christi College.

The Visitor is the Chancellor of the University; the Sovereign being Extraordinary Visitor.

This college, the origin of which is very remarkable, and differs from that of any other in the University, was founded by the union of two Cambridge Guilds, called "Gilda Corporis Christi" and "Gilda Beatæ Mariæ Virginis." In 1352, Henry Plantagenet, Duke of Lancaster, being then Alderman of the Guilds, by licence from Edward III. formed these societies into a College for a Master and two Fellows, Sir John Cambridge soon adding two more Fellows, and other benefactors, especially Archbishop Parker, about 1570 (who gave the college a most valuable collection of books), subsequently enlarged the foundation still further. By the benefactions of Archbishop Herring and Drs. Greene and Mawson, Bishops of Ely, the college was almost rebuilt, and very considerably enlarged during the time of the former Master, Dean Lamb (d. 1850). A very complete history of this college was written and published by a former Fellow, the Rev. Robert Masters B.D. in 1753, and a more concise one by the Rev. H. P. Stokes LL.D. in the series of "College Histories" in 1898. The present society consists of a Master, 12 Fellows, besides Scholars. The hall and chapel of this college are remarkably fine buildings, and the library, especially the portion forming the Parker collection, is one of the most valuable in the kingdom, some of the manuscripts being as ancient as the 8th century; they are chiefly remarkable as comprising an extensive and very rare collection of papers relating to ecclesiastical affairs, collected on the dissolution of the monasteries by Henry VIII. and including some most interesting documents relating to the Reformation, and the original copy of the Thirty-nine Articles. Not even a Fellow may enter this library, according to the conditions of the donor's will, without another Fellow or a Parker Scholar; and a Fellow and Scholar must attend any and every visitor: it may be added that not a single book has ever been missing; the library was enriched in 1883 through the generosity of Dr. R. Caulfield, of Cork, by the addition of 60 manuscripts in the Sanskrit, Persian, Urdû and Hindî languages collected by Colonel Honnor in India: among the Sanskrit MSS. is an accented copy of the Black "Yajur Veda," dated Samvet, 1783 (A.D. 1726): the Urdû and Hindî MSS. include several collections of native songs and ballads. The college plate includes a silver-mounted drinking-horn with two feet, presented in 1347 by John Goldcorne, and a set of Apostle spoons, given by Archbishop Parker, an original portrait of whom hangs in the library. The late Rev. S. S. Lewis M.A. Fellow and Librarian, bequeathed to the college a valuable collection of ancient coins, gems and antiquities, together with books chiefly illustrative of the same. The college presents to 10 benefices.

Downing College.

Visitor—The Crown.

This college was founded by the will of Sir George Downing bart. of Gamlingay Park in this county, dated 1717, for a Master, two Professors of Law and Medicine respectively, six Fellows and six Scholars. The founder died in 1749, but litigation prevented the operation of the will till 1800, when the Charter of Incorporation was granted. The first Master, Francis Annesley, was appointed in 1805; the buildings, which are in the Classic style, were commenced in 1807, and the college was opened in 1821. In 1932 an extension, consisting of two blocks of buildings, was opened. The present Statutes were given by the University Commissioners in 1926. Under these Statutes the 2 Professors were transferred to the University, and the Foundation now consists of a Master, 10 Fellows, and 5 entrance Scholars and 33 Exhibitioners. The college presents to one benefice.

Emmanuel College.

Visitors—The Vice-Chancellor with the Regius Professors of Divinity and Law as assessors.

This college was erected on the site of the Dominican Friary, established here before 1275, and was founded in 1584 by Sir Walter Mildmay M.P. Chancellor of the Exchequer to Queen Elizabeth, who had purchased the site, for a Master, three Fellows and four Scholars. The foundation has since been considerably enlarged by the liberality of various benefactors, and now consists of a Master, 22 Fellows and 38 Scholars. The college has a handsome west front facing the street, and its buildings have been almost entirely reconstructed: the principal court is 107 by 128 feet: the chapel, erected from designs by Sir Christopher Wren, and completed in 1677, has a flooring of marble: over the communion table is a painting of "the Return of the Prodigal Son:" the windows were filled with stained glass at the time of the tercentenary celebration in 1884, and chiefly exhibit portraits of distinguished men who have been connected with the college. On the 15th of October, 1811, a fire broke out in the south side of the principal court, the damage caused by which was estimated at between £7,000 and £8,000: there are two halls, and the library contains some valuable manuscripts and a choice collection of books. In 1886 the buildings were enlarged by the erection of a hostel for 14 additional students, a new lecture room being at the same time built over the library, and in 1894 the hostel was enlarged. It has now been incorporated in the ordinary college accommodation. In 1910 a lecture room, designed by Leonard Stokes P.R.A. was built, and this in 1930 was enlarged and converted into the library, and a new court, containing 62 sets of rooms, was built in 1912 in Emmanuel street, and is connected with the college by means of an underground subway built under Emmanuel street. The college presents to 25 benefices and to the mastership of one endowed grammar school.

Gonville and Caius College.

Visitors—The Crown.

Gonville and Caius College (usually called Caius College, and pronounced "Keys") was founded in 1348 by Edmund Gonville, and was originally called Gonville Hall, and endowed for a Master and three Fellows: its original site was between Free School lane and St. Botolph's churchyard. The name and site were both changed by William Bateman, Bishop of Norwich, Gonville's executor, who further endowed the college, and may be considered a second founder. The revenues were afterwards increased by various benefactors; and in 1558, John Caius M.D. the third founder, obtained a royal charter, by which the former foundations were all confirmed and his own established, and the name of the college decreed to be "Gonville and Caius College:" it stands on the north side of the Senate House, and is an interesting example of the Jacobean style, but during the years 1868-70 the front towards Trinity street was rebuilt, at considerable cost, from the designs of Alfred Waterhouse esq. R.A.: in 1903, a new court, facing St. Michael's church, in Trinity street, and called St. Michael's court, was erected from designs by Sir Aston Webb kt. R.A., F.A.A. and E. Ingress Bell; it still retains two of its three celebrated gates: "Porta Virtutis" and "Porta Honoris," the latter appropriately leading to the Senate House; the "Porta Humilitatis" has been rebuilt in the wall of the Master's garden, and a new gate of Humility now occupies its former position. The sequence of the gates originally pointed to the course of a student in the University. The hall and chapel are well-proportioned and convenient buildings. The third founder, Dr. Caius, is buried in the chapel in a chambered tomb, discovered under the floor during the re-seating of the chapel in 1892, and found to contain his skeleton, perfectly preserved. His sarcophagus or monument, removed from the east end to the north side when the chapel was rebuilt and lengthened eastward in the early part of the last century, is of alabaster, in the Jacobean style, and includes a handsome canopy, supported by Ionic columns. The quaint epitaph is as follows:

Fui Caius.
Vivit post funera virtus,
Ætatis suæ LXIII.
Obiit 29 Julii,
Anno D. 1573.

Dr. Caius bequeathed to the college a silver mace 2½ feet in length, surmounted by four serpents erect, with their heads turned inwards and meeting together.

The society now consists of a Master, about 30 Fellows and 40 Scholars. The college presents to 22 benefices.

Jesus College.

Visitor—The Bishop of Ely.

This college was built on the site of the Benedictine nunnery of St. Radegund, founded about 1130, and re-founded by Malcolm, King of Scots, in 1160, the possessions of which, on its dissolution by Henry VIII. were granted to Bishop Alcock of Ely, Lord Chancellor of England in 1496, who out of them founded this society for a Master, six Fellows and six Scholars; but the revenues were afterwards increased by various benefactors. It now consists of a Master, 16 Fellows, a varying number of foundation Scholars and of Scholars on the foundation of the late Tobias Rustat esq. yeoman of the robes to Charles II. for the sons of clergymen. The college buildings, situated in spacious grounds, partially surrounded with fine avenues of trees, consist of four courts; but the beautiful cruciform chapel of the convent, with its large square tower, mainly Early English, and the Perpendicular cloisters, are its principal features. Since about 1860 the college buildings have been gradually and efficiently restored. In 1883-4 a new eastern wing was erected, and in 1930 this Court was completed by extending the building south and west. In the chapel is a mural tablet, with medallion, to Tobias Rustat, ob. 1693; and the transept retains the gravestone of one of the prioresses, with the inscription—"Moribus ornata jacet hic bona Bertha rosata." The hall is a noble room, with a beautiful open timber roof, and contains some good portraits. The college presents to 16 benefices.

Visitor—The Bishop of Lincoln.

This magnificent foundation owes its origin to King Henry VI. who, in 1440-1441, founded a small college here, consisting of a Rector and 12 Scholars; but two years later he enlarged his design; the Scholars were to be supplied in regular succession from a similar foundation for boys at Eton, on the exact model of William of Wykeham's two St. Mary Winton Colleges, viz. Winchester College and New College, Oxford. This new foundation consisted of a Provost, 70 Scholars, ten Chaplains, six Clerks, 16 Choristers and a music master or organist, and this arrangement continued almost unaltered till modified by the parliamentary action of 1861; the college is now governed by statutes made in 1926, and consists of a Provost, 46 Fellows, exclusive of honorary, additional and supernumerary Fellows, and 48 Foundation Scholars (of whom 24 are appropriated to Eton and the remaining 24 are open), two chaplains, an organist, an organ student, a master over the choristers, 12 choral scholars and 16 choristers. The hall is of unusually large dimensions, and is truly a noble room: and the chapel, 231 feet long, 45½ feet wide and 78 feet high, with its splendid fan-traceried roof, is well known as one of the finest examples of late Perpendicular work in the kingdom. The foundation stone of the new college was laid in 1441, and that of the chapel in 1446, but only a small portion of the chapel was built during the life of the founder: Edward IV. robbed the foundation and no progress was made with the work during the civil commotions of this period. Henry VII. provided the funds for completing the building of the chapel, and the windows and internal fittings were added in the time of Henry VIII. The windows, all of which are stained, are justly celebrated for their richness and beauty: the west window, presented by F. E. Stacey esq. formerly Fellow of the college, and representing "The Last Judgment" was finished in 1879. A new set of wrought-iron gates, closing the back entrance of the college, was presented in 1924 by Sir Charles Walston Litt.D.: there is a double gate and two side posterns: in the panel above the centre pair are the arms of the founder, Henry VI. and on the gates below are a Tudor rose on one side and a portcullis on the other: the postern gates carry the arms of King's College and Eton College, the two sister foundations of Henry VI. The college presents to 27 benefices, and to one alternately with another patron.

Magdalene College.

Visitor—Baron Braybrooke, who appoints the Master.

This college, situated on the further bank of the Cam, was founded by Thomas, Baron Audley, in 1542, on the site of an ancient Benedictine priory, parts of which exist in the southern angle of the college buildings. The original foundation was for a Master and eight Fellows, but the endowment was found to be sufficient only for four. The Fellowships are thirteen in number, together with two bye-fellowships and about twenty-four scholarships and six exhibitions a year. The college buildings consist of three courts, a hall, chapel, library, including the "Bibliotheca Pepsiana," a fine gabled building in the Renaissance style, at the back of the second court, with an open colonnade and balustraded parapet; here is preserved in the original presses the library of Samuel Pepys, including his celebrated diary. A new wing was added in 1910, built from a bequest of the late Rev. Mynors Bright, a former president; and Mallory Court and Benson Court have been built, since the war, on the further side of the street.

Pembroke College.

Visitor—The Sovereign.

Pembroke College, situated on the east side of Trumpington street, was founded 1347 by Mary, daughter of Guy de Chastillon, Comte de St. Paul and widow of Aymer de Valence, 2nd Earl of Pembroke, for a Master, six Fellows and two Scholars. The college consists of three courts of nearly equal size. The old portion of the structure is remarkable for the venerable appearance of its buildings, so that Queen Elizabeth on visiting it apostrophised the college in the words:—"O domus antiqua et religiosa." The chapel, one of the most elegant and best proportioned in the University, was built from a design of Sir Christopher Wren, at the sole expense of his uncle, Matthew Wren, Bishop of Ely (1638-67), and was enlarged in 1881. The new buildings, completed in 1883, occupy the angle formed by Pembroke street and Tennis Court road, and were erected from designs by Sir Giles Gilbert Scott R.A. architect, and in 1907 an additional block, known as "Pitt Buildings," was erected in Pembroke street. The present foundation consists of a Master, 13 Fellows and at least 29 Scholars. The college presents to 12 benefices.

Queens' College.

Visitor—H.M. The King.

This college was founded in 1448 by Margaret of Anjou, Queen of Henry VI. for a President and four Fellows. The progress of the college was interrupted by civil commotions, and it was not till 1465 that Elizabeth Woodville, the consort of Edward IV. refounded it for a President, 19 Fellows and 45 Scholars. The buildings of this college, principally of brick, have a singularly quaint and picturesque appearance, and include a curious cloistered walk, a gallery in the President's Lodge, and an antique wooden bridge leading across the river: the gateway tower is enriched with lierne vaulting. The valuable library was catalogued about 1829 by the well-known Rev. Thomas Hartwell Horne B.D. The hall, a work of the 15th century, has been decorated from the designs of Mr. G. F. Bodley A.B.A., F.S.A. A new building containing 32 sets of rooms was completed in 1887, and subsequently a new chapel, to replace the original chapel, built in 1448, but found to be too small, was erected at a cost of about £12,000, subscribed by members of the college and their friends, and dedicated by the Bishop of Ely in Oct. 1891. The chapel, which stands parallel to the old chapel on the north side of Walnut-Tree court, is an embattled structure of red brick and Ancaster stone, 107 feet in length and 34 feet wide, in the later English Gothic style, also from designs by Mr. G. F. Bodley, and consists of chapel and ante-chapel with a vestry at the east end, next Queens' lane: there are two entrances, that on the south side being enriched with carved work and panelling: the chapel is divided from the ante-chapel by a screen of carved oak, presented by the Weller-Poley family, of Boxted Hall, Suffolk, and supported on the west side by wooden pillars: on the loft above stands the organ, a fine instrument, built by Mr. Binns, of Leeds, in 1892; the chapel proper is fitted with carved oak stalls, panelled at the back and overhung by a continuous coved canopy, and returned at the west end against the screen; the reredos of wood, richly carved, painted and gilt, encloses three pictures of the Cologne school, representing the "Betrayal," "Resurrection" and "Ascension," once forming the altar-piece of the old chapel, but until now hung for many years in the President's Lodge; the stained east window is a memorial to the late Dr. William Wright, a Fellow of the college and Professor of Arabic: on the south side are three stained windows transferred from the old chapel and on the north four others, presented by members of the college, and a further stained window in memory of Dr. Arthur Wright, vice-president: the roof is panelled and decorated with colour and gilding, and there is a handsome brass lectern: in the chapel is a memorial to Robert Whalley, 1591, with a marginal inscription on brass, part of which is palimpsest, and exhibits on the reverse a fragment of an inscription to Thomas Cla . . . 147 . . . Other brasses remain in the old chapel, now a lecture room. In 1642 the President, Fellows and Scholars of this college were ejected, with but one exception, for refusing to subscribe to the covenant. A new block of buildings was erected in 1912, containing 27 sets of rooms, bursary and college offices. The society now consists of a President and 10 Fellows, about 17 Scholars and five Exhibitioners. The college present to 8 benefices.

St. Catharine's College.

Visitor—H.M. The King.

This society, formerly called Catharine Hall, was founded in 1473 by Robert Wodelarke D.D. Provost of King's and Chancellor of the University, under a Charter from Edward IV. for a Master and three Fellows. The endowment of the foundation was much increased by the ample benefaction of Mrs. Ramsden, of Norton, in the county of York, the Rev. C. W. Burrell, Mr. Yorke and others. The present society consists of a Master, nine Fellows and 26 Scholars.

The buildings, erected between 1688 and 1701 (excepting the Bull Court, which dates from about 1625), are principally of brick, in the style of that period: in the chapel are buried Sir William Dawes bart. archbishop of York (1714-24), and Dr. Eachard, Master of the college (1675-96), and there is a monument to Dr. John Addenbrooke, founder of the hospital of that name, who died approximately 1721, and is also buried here. In 1895 the chapel was thoroughly restored, under the direction of Mr. Thomas Garner architect, at a cost of about £4,000, and a new organ provided. The college presents to five benefices.

St. John's College.

Visitor—The Bishop of Ely.

This college was erected on the site of the ancient Hospital of St. John the Evangelist (founded by Henry Frost, A.D. 1134), first by Bishop de Balsham, before he moved his society to Peter House, in 1284, and next by Henry VII. in 1500. The Lady Margaret, Countess of Richmond and Derby, mother of Henry VII. had already done so much for the University of Cambridge by endowing Christ's College, and a professorship and readership in divinity, that she intended to have otherwise bestowed the remainder of her large property; but her confessor, Bishop Fisher, of Rochester, afterwards Chancellor of the University, persuaded her to appropriate it to the purpose of erecting and endowing this large and noble college: her death, and the refusal of Henry VIII. to carry out her design, threw considerable difficulties in the way, but eventually Pope Julius II. issued a decretory bill in 1510, authorizing the dissolution of St. John's Hospital and the establishment of the college of St. John the Evangelist. The charter of foundation is dated April 9th, 1511, and the building was then immediately commenced under the constant care and superintendence of the first Master, Robert Shorton, whose appointment was of the same date as the foundation of the college. In 1516, 31 Fellows were appointed, the original endowment having provided for 50, but Henry VIII. having seized the greater portion of the college lands and given in exchange land of far less value, the restricted funds would not provide for any larger number. The endowments, however, have been greatly augmented by the munificence of a long succession of benefactors; and the college now consists of a Master, 56 Fellows, 60 Foundation Scholars and nine sizars proper. The original part of the college, situated on the right bank of the river, consists of four courts, built of red brick, the entire length from east to west being about 500 feet. The new court, which is on the opposite bank, and approached by a covered stone bridge, is in the Gothic style, from designs by Thomas Rickman, well known as a writer on mediæval architecture: in the first court remain the foundations of the old chapel; the new chapel, erected from designs by the late Sir George Gilbert Scott B.A. and consecrated 12 May, 1869, is a magnificent cruciform building in the Decorated style of the time of Edward III. consisting of choir, nave, transepts and a pinnacled tower at the intersection, 163 feet in height: the tracery of the windows, many of which are filled with stained glass, is rich and varied: the great west window, erected by the members of the Lady Margaret Boat Club, is a memorial to the foundress; the interior is adorned with coloured marbles, and the roof is richly decorated; the fine stalls of the old chapel have been transferred to the new, as well as a mural tablet to Thomas Baker B.D. a celebrated antiquary, d. 1740; and there is also here a mural tablet, removed from the old church of St. Mary the Great, and inscribed to Henry Kirke White, the poet, who died 19 Oct. 1805, when an undergraduate of the college; north-west of the chapel is the Master's lodge, erected by the same architect, in the Tudor style, on a site added to that of the college. Between the chapel and the Master's lodge, a new building, containing 18 sets of rooms and several lecture rooms, was erected in 1887-8, from the plans of Mr. F. O. Penrose, architect, the style being the same as that of the second court. The library is extensive and valuable. The college presents to 50 benefices.

Visitor—The Bishop of Ely.

This society is the most ancient of the collegiate bodies of Cambridge; it originally consisted of two hostels belonging to the Friars of Penance, purchased for the use of students by Hugh de Balsam, Bishop of Ely; he obtained a royal charter of incorporation in 1234, and endowed a college for a Master and 14 Scholars, leaving 300 marks by his will for the erection of new buildings in the neighbourhood of the two ancient hostels. The new buildings, so erected, are substantially identified with the present hall. The College was named from the church of St. Peter, which stood near it, on the site of the present church of St. Mary the Less. The Master was until 1861 chosen by the Bishop of Ely, from two persons nominated by him after election by the body of Fellows; but since then the Master has been elected by the Fellows absolutely. The present foundation consists of the Master, 14 Fellows and 23 Scholars. The former Bye Fellowships have been consolidated in the general scholarship foundation. The buildings, on the west side of Trumpington street, consist of three courts: in the centre of the court next the street is the chapel, a small building, the east window of which is filled with stained glass of Flemish character, given in 1635 by Leek Skippon, brother of the famous Parliamentary General, Phillip Skippon, and eight others with Munich glass, inserted by subscription about 1855. The college possesses a valuable library, which was enriched by Andrew Perne, Dean of Ely, and John Cosin, Bishop of Durham (1650-74), former Masters and great benefactors to the college. The hall contains a number of portraits, including those of the founder and several of the Masters of the college. The college presents to 10 benefices and the Master to one alternately with another patron.

 Sidney Sussex College.

Visitor—The heir of the foundress, Baron de L'Isle and Dudley.

This college, usually called "Sidney," was founded on the site of a monastery of Grey Friars, by Lady Frances Sidney, widow of Thomas Ratcliffe, Earl of Sussex, by will in 1528, for a Master, 10 Fellows and 20 Scholars, and was incorporated by charter of Queen Elizabeth granted in 1594 to Henry, Earl of Kent, and Sir John Harrington, executors of the Countess, under the title of "the Colledge of the Lady Frances Sidney Sussex." The devise was insufficient for more than seven Fellows at first, but subsequent benefactions have augmented the foundation, which now consists of a Master, 14 Fellows and 36 Scholars, and there are attached lectureships in mathematics and natural science on the Taylor foundation. The old buildings, on the east side of Sidney street, consist of two courts in the later Gothic style, the first 98 by 77 feet, and the latter somewhat smaller. A third court was erected in 1890 in the Fellows' garden from designs by J. L. Pearson esq. R.A., F.S.A. and in 1924 a new block of college rooms was erected in the Master's garden from designs by T. H. Lyon esq. M.A. of Corpus Christi College. The fellows' garden at the north end of the cloister court is particularly beautiful and noted for its rockery; it is the subject of much interest to visitors. The chapel and library were rebuilt in 1780; the former was extended in 1912 from designs by Mr. T. H. Lyon, and is a beautiful building with an excellent altar-piece by Francesco Pittoni, of "The Flight into Egypt." The library consists chiefly of classical, historical and theological works, with a separate collection of mathematical and scientific works, forming the Taylor library. The hall is a well-proportioned room, about 60 feet in length, with a music gallery supported on pillars and forming a vestibule, and has a handsome bay window at the upper end. Subsequent to 1832 the buildings were extensively renovated under the direction of Sir Jeffery Wyattville. The college presents to seven benefices.

Trinity College.

Visitor—The Sovereign.

This large and magnificent foundation occupies the site of the ancient societies of Michael House, the King's Hall, Phiswick's Hostel and Oving's Inn, and also Gregory's, Margaret's, Catharine's, Gerard's and Tyler's Hostels: out of these societies, all of which were duly surrendered for the purpose, Trinity College was founded in 1546. It was originally endowed by Henry VIII. for the maintenance of a Master and 60 Fellows and 90 Scholars; there are now 64 fellows and about 90 scholars, besides some 600 resident undergraduates and Bachelors of Arts. The principal entrance to the college is from Trinity street, through a turreted gateway called the "King's Gate," ornamented on both sides with several statues in niches, that of Henry VIII. being amongst the number. In the centre of the principal court is a large open octagonal conduit, with domed roof, from which the college is supplied with excellent water. The chapel, begun by Queen Mary and completed by Queen Elizabeth, is a spacious edifice in the Late Perpendicular style, 204 feet long and 34 feet wide, with stalls for the Masters and Fellows and seats below for the students: over the communion table is a baldacchino. In the ante-chapel is a marble statue of Sir Isaac Newton, by Roubilliac, and statues of Francis Bacon, Viscount St. Albans and Dr. Isaac Barrow, who was master of Trinity from 1672 to 1677; Lord Macaulay, Lord Tennyson and Dr. Whewell, Master 1841-66, who enlarged the College buildings by the erection of two courts on the opposite side of Trinity street; the hall, library and other buildings are unusually spacious, and contain portraits of the Earl of Essex, Sir Isaac Newton, Shakespeare, Cowley, Dryden and Barrow; the library comprises about 90,000 volumes of books and 3,000 manuscripts, many of them of great value and rarity, besides various curious and interesting objects, including Sir Isaac Newton's tele-

Cambridge Training College for Women.

This institution provides professional training for women who have already received a thoroughly good education.

Miss Mary Hay Wood M.A., Litt.D. principal

Cambridge University Training College for Schoolmasters was founded for the purpose of training schoolmasters both for elementary and secondary schools; the elementary department was established in 1891 and the secondary department in 1898. All members of the college must be matriculated students of the University. The professional training is post graduate. The officers of the college consist of a staff of lecturers and a bursar, and there are about 150 students. The premises at Warkworth House contain residential quarters for members of the staff, lecture rooms and a library.

Associated Institutions and Affiliated Students.

A student who has been a member of an Associated Institution for not less than three years, and who, before matriculation at the University of Cambridge, has graduated, or done all that is necessary for graduation, at that Associated Institution shall be entitled to be approved as an Affiliated Student either on or after matriculation.

Application for such approval, with credentials signed by the Registrar or other competent authority of the Associated Institution, may be presented to the Registrar at any time after the student has been accepted for admission by a College, and a fee of £2 shall be due from the student to the Chest as soon as his credentials have been accepted by the Council of the Senate.

An Affiliated Student shall have certain privileges, as set out in the Ordinances of the University of Cambridge.

For the purposes of the regulations for studentships, scholarships, exhibitions, prizes and medals, an Affiliated Student who has elected to reckon his first term of residence as his second, or third, or fourth term of residence shall be regarded as having kept by residence the term, or the two terms, or the three terms (as the case may be) next preceding his first term of actual residence, and as having been matriculated in the term, or in the first of the terms, which he is so regarded as having kept.

In any particular case the Council of the Senate may propose a Grace conferring all or any of the privileges of Affiliation on a member or former member of an Associated Institution, or of some other institution for the education of adults, who does not fulfil the requirements of Regulation 1.

The privileges of affiliation may be conferred by a Grace proposed by the Council of the Senate on an adult student of exceptional qualifications who is specially recommended by the Board of Extra-Mural Studies, provided that he shall have followed courses of study in adult educational classes for at least four years, of which three years shall have been spent in University extra-mural classes or distributed between such classes and an institution for the full-time education of adults,

An Affiliated Student shall pay Capitation Tax for any term claimed.

An Affiliated Student approved before the date (25th May, 1928) of the adoption of these regulations shall still be entitled to any privilege to which he was entitled under the regulations in force until that date.

List of Universities and Colleges Approved with Reference to Above Regulation:—

that the Council secured the site in Jesus lane on which the present buildings of Westcott House now stand. The first block of these buildings was dedicated by Bishop Westcott on May 18, 1899. Extensions of the buildings were made in 1912, 1914, 1923, 1926 and 1929. The block built in 1929 completed the court, so that the buildings of Westcott House now include a chapel, hall, library, common room, rooms for principal, vice-principal and 40 students. It is not intended to raise the numbers above 40, and all the students are, with very rare exceptions, graduates of some University. The average length of the course is from six to eight terms, the Cambridge Ordination Course or the General Ordination Course being taken by all the students. The fee is £35 for the Michaelmas, Lent and Easter Terms, and £30 for the Long Vacation.

Newnham College.

Newnham College was formed by the amalgamation of an association for providing lectures for women in Cambridge and a company which provided a hall of residence for women attending the lectures. It was incorporated in 1880, and has for its objects the maintenance at or near Cambridge of a residence for women students, to provide for the instruction of women students and for the delivery of lectures to such students or to other women at or near Cambridge, and to do such other things as are incidental or conducive to the advancement of education and learning among women in Cambridge and elsewhere. The Association for Promoting the Higher Education of Women in Cambridge was formed in 1873, to carry on and develop the system of Lectures for Women in Cambridge, first started in 1870. In October, 1871, in consequence of the demand made by women at a distance to share in the advantages of these lectures, Miss A. J. Clough took charge of a house in Cambridge with five students, and the first hall was opened in 1875. The buildings, erected from the designs of Mr. Basil Champneys, architect, now consist of four halls occupying a site of about 14 acres, the latest additions having been made in 1887, 1893, 1906 and 1910, when the fourth (Peile Hall) was opened. The whole affords rooms for the principal and tutors, resident lecturers and about 225 students. Each hall comprises a dining hall, reading room and other rooms for the common use of students. The college has a large hall, library and 10 lecture and class rooms, and in the grounds is an observatory. In 1894 the bronze gates were erected at the main entrance to the college as a memorial to Miss Clough, the first principal. By a Grace of the Senate in 1881 duly qualified students who have fulfilled the conditions as to residence and preliminary examinations laid down by University regulations, are now admitted to the Honour Examinations of the University. In 1921, by a further Grace of the Senate, the University was given power to confer titles of degrees on duly qualified women students. Instruction is given within the college by resident lecturers and members of the University.

Ridley Hall.

Ridley Hall, in Sedgwick avenue, opened in January, 1881, is a large and handsome structure of brick in the Tudor-Gothic style, standing in its own grounds of some 2½ acres in extent, the main front of the building looking east, with gardens and tennis lawns at the back. The buildings originally included principal's house, sets of rooms for the staff and 20 students, dining hall, reading room and the Carr library, to which the late Dean Lefroy made a considerable bequest; it contains over 9,000 volumes, and is also used as a lecture room. New buildings were added in 1901, comprising new rooms for the vice-principal and 10 students and a small chapel in the Perpendicular style, erected at the cost of a former student. In 1912 a western block of a similar but more elaborate design was erected, providing for a member of the staff and 10 students. Ridley Hall is a hostel for students who are graduates of some University and candidates for holy orders in the Church of England. The normal course covers a period of two years.

Westminster College.

This college, first established in London as a theological college of the Presbyterian Church of England, was removed to its present premises and opened in 1899. The new buildings, situate in Madingley road, are of red brick with stone dressings in the Jacobean style; the main block, which includes a tower, consists on the ground floor of class rooms, the upper floor being occupied by a library; the dining hall is lofty and spacious and has two stained windows, some oak panelling and a roof adorned with symbolical decoration. The students' wing contains 26 sets of rooms disposed on three floors, besides a set of three rooms for the tutor on the second floor in the centre. The Principal's house is on the left of the building.

Homerton College,

Formerly known as Cavendish College, and situate on the Hills road, is a structure in the Tudor-Gothic style, comprising five blocks, all of red brick with stone dressings and tiled. It is now an Undenominational Training College for schoolmistresses in continuance of the Homerton College, Hackney, which had been in existence since 1843 as a training institution for teachers, and is available for 200 students. The course of study includes that laid down by the Homerton College Final Examination Committee, whose examination qualifies for recognition as a certificated teacher.

The Perse School, Hills road, is a public school founded by Stephen Perse M.D. senior fellow of Gonville & Caius college, under his will dated 27 Sept. 1615; there are now (1935) about 370 boys, including about 20 boys in a preparatory school situated in separate buildings in Bateman street; of the boys in the main school about 100 are boarders. The tercentenary of the school was celebrated in November, 1919, at a dinner of the old Persean Society, held in the school hall & attended by the Duke of York, Prince Henry (Duke of Gloucester), the Marquis of Crewe & others. A history of the school, by J. M. Gray (King's College), has been published by Messrs. Bowes & Bowes, Cambridge. The school is controlled by a board of governors (chairman, Master of Magdalene), & is now conducted under a scheme approved by His Majesty in Council, 9 Aug. 1910. The school arms are those of the founder (motto, "Qui facit per alium facit perse"). H. A. Wootton M.A. Clare College, Cambridge, head master

Preparatory School has been removed to Bateman street
Perse High (girls), Pantons house, Union road; Miss M. H. Cattley M.A. head mistress

Leys School, in the Trumpington road, was established in 1874, by a body of Wesleyan Methodists, for the purpose of affording a high-class education under Evangelical auspices to the sons of ministers or laymen of all denominations: boys are admitted between the ages of 13 & 16, & are prepared for the Universities, professional or commercial pursuits: entrance scholarships & exhibitions are awarded annually, of values of £15 to £75: the estate, which is freehold, comprises an area of about 41 acres, & the buildings include seven blocks, comprising an assembly hall, hostels, master's house, chapel, gymnasium, art school, tepid swimming bath, sanatorium, & gateway, a library block inaugurated by H.M. King George V. in 1914: an up-to-date science building was opened in 1927 by Sir Joseph Thomson O.M., M.A., D.Sc.: there are about 255 boys, all boarders. The school is managed by a governing body of 30 persons, of whom the president of the Methodist Conference is (ex-officio) president; Lord Marshall P.C., K.C.V.O. chairman; R. E. Holloway, treasurer; J. H. S. McArthur J.P. hon. sec.; Rev. H. Bisseker M.A. (Jesus College), head master; Col. A. J. V. Durell C.B., C.B.E. bursar

The Morley Memorial (mixed) School, Blinco grove, erected by the Congregational Board of Education from plans by Messrs. Coulson & Lofts, as a practising school in connection with Homerton College, was opened by the Vice-Chancellor of the University, Nov. 3rd, 1899. Its name is intended to commemorate the long connection of the late Samuel Morley with Homerton College, London, & the old Cavendish College, Cambridge, & in 1902, under the new "Education Act," it was purchased by the Cambridge Education Committee. There are seven class rooms, to hold 240 children, together with woodwork & cookery rooms; two of the class rooms can be thrown into one, so as to form a hall. Children, both boys & girls, may enter at 7 years & remain till 15 years of age. No fees or charges of any kind are made. This school is under the control of the Cambridge Borough Education Committee, & since 1909 has been adopted as the Demonstration school for Homerton College; W. Hamilton Bain, head master

The infants' school, Blinco grove, was built in 1906, & will hold 110 children; Mrs. H. R. Edney, mistress; Miss M. M. Allan, Homerton college, correspondent

King's College (choir & preparatory), West road, Newnham; Cedric Moulton Fiddian M.A. master

St. John's Choristers', 70 Bridge street; Rev. Sam Senior M.A. head master

Schools under the control of the Cambridgeshire County Council.

The Cambridge & County High School for Boys, in Hills road, was founded in 1900, & its buildings erected in 1903 & since considerably enlarged; the school is designed for boys who intend to proceed to the University, or who wish to follow industrial & commercial pursuits after taking the first school examination. It is a secondary school under the Board of Education, & there are recognized advanced courses in mathematics & science & in modern studies; in the former course there are three sub-divisions: (a) zoology, botany & chemistry, with mathematics subsidiary; (b) mathematics & physics & (c) chemistry with physics & mathematics; in the latter advanced work is done in history, english, geography, latin & modern languages, & a boy may receive tuition in any combination of subjects which can be offered at an entrance scholarship examination. There are about 450 boys in the school. It is controlled by a body of 17 governors; chairman, Councillor E. G. G. Frost J.P.; A. B. Mayne M.A. head master

The Cambridge & County School for Girls, Collier road, founded 1900, opened in its present building in 1909, stands in spacious grounds near Mill road, & provides for 350 girls. The building contains 15 class rooms, assembly hall, art room & laboratories for botany, chemistry & domestic science; the object of the school is to provide a sound practical middle-class education at a moderate fee, & the school is a secondary school under the Board of Education; after the first school examination girls may proceed to (1) an advanced course in modern studies or science or mathematics, or (2) a commercial course, or (3) a domestic science or nursing course. The school is managed by a board of 17 governors, 10 nominated by the Cambridge County Council, 5 by the Borough Council of Cambridge & one each by the Councils of Newnham & Girton colleges. Head Mistress, Miss A. Dovey B.A.

Cambridgeshire Technical School, Collier road. The school comprises an art school, which is well equipped for full-time & part-time instruction in fine arts & in industrial & commercial design; courses are organised for intending art teachers, designers, fashion artists & designers; & for apprentices & others engaged in local industries; a day trade school, providing a two years' course of full-time training in each of the following: building trade, business training, cabinet making, cookery, dressmaking, engineering & printing; part-time technical day classes for printers' & builders' apprentices; evening classes in the following subjects: science, languages, commerce, home crafts, art classes, & special classes in connection with the building trade, engineering trade, printers, post office employees, pharmaceutical chemists & University laboratory assistants; George F. Rose M.A. principal

CARLTON-CUM-WILLINGHAM is a village and parish, on the borders of Suffolk, 5 miles south-east from Six Mile Bottom station and 4½ south-south-east from Dullingham station, both on the Cambridge and Newmarket branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 7 south from Newmarket and 8 north-east from Linton, in the hundred of Badfield, rural district and petty sessional division of Linton, Newmarket county court district, rural deanery of Choveley and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Peter is a small but ancient building of rubble in the Early English style, consisting of chancel and nave and a western turret containing 2 bells: there are 100 sittings. The register dates from the year 1600. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £336, including 58 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the trustees of the late Rev. M. C. Wilder B.D. and held since 1927 by the Rev. Walter Robert Gordon Taylor M.A. of St. Chad's College, Durham. There is a small benefaction, called "Briggs' Charity for the Poor," of 10s. yearly value, and Wright's charity of £2 15s. yearly, which is applied to educational purposes. There are two manors. C. F. Ryder esq. J.P. who is lord of the manor of Lopham's Hall and Capt. Alec Stratford Cunningham-Reid D.F.O., M.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is various; subsoil, clay, chalk and gravel. The crops are wheat, barley, oats and beans. The area is 2,415 acres; the population in 1921 was 254. By an Order which came into operation March 25th, 1886, a detached part of Brinkley, was amalgamated with this parish.

CASTLE CAMPS is a large and straggling parish, 4 miles south-east from Bartlow station on the Cambridge and Melford branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 5 south-east from Linton, in the hundred of Chilford, rural district and petty sessional division of Linton, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Camps and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of All Saints is an edifice of flint and rubble, with stone dressings, in the Perpendicular style, and consists of chancel, nave, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a very fine peal of 5 bells: in the church is a marble monument to Sir James Reynolds kt. appointed a Baron of the Exchequer in 1740 and knighted 23 May, 1745; he died 20 May, 1747: the old tower fell down in 1850 and was rebuilt in 1851 in the Decorated style: the porch was rebuilt in 1855 and the chancel and nave restored in 1883: the church was restored during the period 1876-89: the roof of the nave was reconstructed in 1915: there are 246 sittings, all of which are free. The register dates from the year 1565. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £630, with 60 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Governors of Charterhouse, London, and held since 1929 by the Rev. Arthur Hore M.A. Hatfield Hall, Durham. There is a Congregational chapel, erected in 1856, with sittings for 350 persons. The charities amount to about £13 yearly, principally for fuel. This and the neighbouring parish of Shudy Camps are said to have derived their names from ancient encampments in these parishes. Here was once a castle of the De Veres, Earls of Oxford, and on the site which adjoins the church there is now a farmhouse, surrounded by a deep moat. The Governors of Charterhouse, London, are lords of the manor. The principal landowners are Messrs. Christopher Blewitt, John Perry Brown, William Kiddy and Benjamin and William Tylbrook. The soil is clay; subsoil, chalk and clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 3,184 acres; the population in 1921 was 551 in the civil and 530 in the ecclesiastical parish. By a Provisional Order which came into operation March 25th, 1885, all that portion of Helions Bumpstead (Essex) parish in Cambridgeshire was amalgamated with this parish for civil purposes.

Half a mile west of the church is CAMPS END, a hamlet of this parish. CAMPS GREEN and OLMSTEAD GREEN are also places in the parish.

CAXTON is a parish, on Ermine street, the Roman road between London and York, and on the borders of Huntingdonshire; it is the head of a petty sessional division, in the rural district of Caxton and Arrington, 2½ miles north-west from the Old North Road station on the Bedford and Cambridge line of the London, Midland and Scottish Railway, about 12 west from Cambridge, 11½ north from Royston and 9½ east from St. Neots, in the hundred of Long Stowe, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Bourn and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Andrew is a building of stone and flint, chiefly Early English, but with portions in the Perpendicular style, and consists of chancel, nave, south aisle, south porch and a low embattled western tower containing 6 bells, restored and a new treble bell added in 1879, at a cost of about £400: the chancel retains a piscina with Geometric tracery in the head, and a plain sedile: the nave is curiously placed, being askew and on a higher level than the chancel, and is separated from the aisle by an arcade of four very lofty arches, carried on clustered piers: there are several memorials of the Barnard family, who had a seat at Caxton, and a memorial window to John Augustus Wright, surgeon, of this parish, d. 1869: there were formerly brasses to Sir John Myton, vicar, with effigy, 1479; John Cretyng, 1500, and Walter Cretyng, 1483: the church was restored in 1874 and 1929: there are over 200 sittings. The church of Caxton, which had belonged to the priory of Lewes, was in 1351 given to the Dean and Canons of Windsor. Dowsing, the Puritan iconoclast, on coming here removed "a cross on ye steeple and one on ye church, and 20 superstitious pictures." The register dates from the year 1741. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £290, with glebe and residence, in the gift of the Dean and Canons of Windsor, and held since 1932 by the Rev. O. Finch White M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. A vicarage house was erected in 1868 at a cost of upwards of £1,500. There is a Baptist chapel, erected in 1842, with 250 sittings. The charities amount to about £36, half of which sum is for fuel and the remainder for other charities. Matthew Paris, the historian, probably connected with the Parish family of Hildersham and born about 1195, is said to have been a native of this place. The Caxton Moats, which originally formed a Roman fortification, are still of great interest. The kennels of the Cambridgeshire Hounds are in this parish; the pack comprises 50 couples of hounds, and hunts on Mondays, Tuesdays and Fridays, and occasionally on Saturdays; Douglas Crossman esq. J.P. and Noel Thornhill esq. M.O., J.P. are joint masters; Cambridge, Kimbolton, St. Neots, Huntingdon and Royston are convenient places for visitors; Old North Road is the nearest railway station to the kennels. The town formerly had a market, which was originally granted to Sir Baldwin de Fréville in the year 1247; it was then held on Monday, but the day was afterwards changed to Tuesday, on which day it was held until the early part of the last century, since which time it has become obsolete. William Nugent Walter Gape esq. who is lord of the manor, William Arthur Briscoe esq. J.P. Arthur Green-

CHATTERIS—in Domesday Book written "Cetriz" and "Cateriz," by some old authors "Chateriz," and by Camden "Cheateriz"—is a parish, with a station on the Wisbech and St. Ives branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 7½ miles from London by road and 8½ by railway, 19 south from Wisbech, 25½ north-by-west from Cambridge, 10½ north-by-east from St. Ives and 12 north-west from Ely by road, but 26½ by railway, in the hundred of North Witchford, in the Isle of Ely, petty sessional sub-division of Chatteris, county court district and rural deanery of March, archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely.

Under the provisions of the Local Government Act, 1894 (56 and 57 Vict. c. 73), the town is now governed by an Urban District Council of 9 members, it having been from 1873 under the control of a Local Board: it is lighted with gas from works the property of the Chatteris Gas and Coke Company Limited; water is supplied from the Wisbech waterworks. The church of SS. Peter and Paul is an ancient building of stone, mainly in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, north and south chapels, south porch and an embattled western tower with a low spire containing a clock and 6 bells: the church was restored in 1910: there are 600 sittings, all being free. The register dates from the year 1650. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £1,578, including 36 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Caius College, Cambridge, and held since 1932 by the Rev. George Estlin Atkins M.A. of Caius College, Cambridge and M.A., LL.D. of Trinity College, Dublin. There is a Mission room at Horseway in connection with the parish church, and a Mission room at SLADE END, built in 1908 at a cost of £250: a parish room was built in 1903. The Particular Baptist chapel in Huntingdon road was endowed by Miss Elizabeth Claret in 1800 with lands now producing £50 yearly for the support of a minister, and has sittings for 250; there is another in Park street, built in 1839, with 800 sittings; and a General Baptist chapel in West Park street, founded in 1783, holding 500 persons; the Congregational chapel, East Park street, erected in 1838, is a brick building in the Tudor style, seating 400; the Methodist chapel, New road, was enlarged in 1855, and now has about 650 sittings. A Methodist Sunday school was built in New road in 1903, for 250 children, at a cost of £1,100. There are two cemeteries, both in New road; the Parochial cemetery, formed in 1856, covers an area of nearly 12 acres, with two mortuary chapels, and is under the control of the Urban District Council: the General cemetery was formed by a company in 1850, and is 3a. 2r. 13p. in extent.

The trade of Chatteris consists almost entirely in supplying the neighbourhood with necessaries, but it is also an important thoroughfare, being on the direct road from Norfolk to Huntingdon and the western country, and also on the road between Peterborough and Newmarket. There are two fairs, held on the last Friday in April and on the Friday before Michaelmas. There are three banks and engineering works here. The poor's land of 43 acres produces about £140 yearly. A convent of Benedictine nuns, dedicated to St. Mary, was founded here about the year 980 by Alwina, niece to King Edgar, and wife of Athelstan, Earl of the East Angles; in the reign of Henry I. the nunnery was annexed to the church of Ely, and wholly dissolved in 1538. Many antiquities have been dug up here in excavating for gravel; not many years since part of the skeleton of an elephant was found, 10 feet below the level of the ground, and in 1824 an earthen jar containing about 1,000 copper coins was ploughed up about 2 miles from the village; they were mostly Roman, of the Emperors Constantius (A.D. 305) and Constantine (A.D. 306); various other relics of the Romans have been met with at several times hereabout, as well as celts and a double-edged sword, the hilt of which was embossed with figures of men fighting; this, when found, was in a perfect state of preservation. In several parts of the fen lands large oak trees have been brought to the surface from a great depth. Near here is Vermuyden's Drain, so named after Sir Cornelius Vermuyden, a celebrated engineer, who drained the Bedford level in 1649-53. St. Matthias' Court, a piece of land of 24 acres, formerly held in trust by the Bishops of Ely, was conveyed in 1869 to 24 inhabitants of Chatteris as trustees, and the rent is applied to the general improvement of the town. Maj.-Gen. C. E. Lawrie C.B., D.S.O., J.P. and Alexander H. M. Wedderburn esq. are lords of the manor of Chatteris Ramsey and Bartle-nuper-Gardiners; Thomas Jennings esq. is lord of the manor of Chatteris Nunnis; the Master and Fellows of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, are lords of the manor of Chatteris (otherwise called Benet College, Chatteris). The principal landowners are the representatives of Miss Dunn-Gardner, the Dean and Fellows of Christ Church, Oxford and Bernard Buston esq. The soil is clay, loam and fen land; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, mangolds, carrots and potatoes. The land around has been rendered very productive by draining and gaulting. The area of the civil parish and Urban District is 13,683 acres of land and 36 of water; the population in 1931 was 5,153.

CHERRY HINTON is a parish and village pleasantly situated about 2½ miles south-east from Cambridge, in the Flendish hundred, Bottisham petty sessional division, rural district of Obesterton, Cambridge county court district, rural deanery of Cambridge and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. In 1912, by the Cambridge (Extension) Order 1911, an area of 300 acres, comprising the ecclesiastical parish of St. John's, was taken from Cherry Hinton and included in the borough of Cambridge. The church of St. Andrew is a fine and highly interesting structure of stone and clunch, in the Early English and Perpendicular styles, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 5 bells: the chancel, of rich and beautiful Early English work, is lighted by eight lancet windows on each side, arranged in complets: a cinquefoiled arcading, on banded shafts, extends along the north and south walls, and there is a double piscina and three graduated sedilia of very fine workmanship: a carved oak screen of Perpendicular date separates the chancel from the nave, which has Early English arcades: there is a plain circular font on a pedestal, and a pre-Reformation stone altar slab, and several monuments to the Wyse and Serocold families: the ancient stone altar slab was restored to its sacred use in the lady chapel and furnished by the gift of Mrs. Fielding, of Hoboken, U.S.A. a native of the parish and was dedicated in 1932: the nave and aisles were thoroughly restored in 1880, and the chancel was restored six years later: on the south wall of the nave is a carved oak memorial, erected to the parishioners who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: there are 275 sittings. The register dates from 1538, and is in good preservation. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £650, with residence, in the gift of St. Peter's College, Cambridge, and held since 1924 by the Rev. Robert Ernest Walker M.A. of that college. The vicarage was built in 1818 by the Rev. Bewick Bridge M.A. then vicar, and considerably enlarged about 1866. The Baptist chapel, built in 1883, has 300 sittings. A sum of £20, arising from trust estate, is distributed by the trustees of the Poor's Estate among deserving and necessitous persons resident in the parish, every year. The village feast is held in the first week in October. A recreation ground, about 4 acres in extent, was opened as a memorial to the men of this parish who gave their lives in the Great War, 1914-18. The manorial rights are vested in St. Thomas's Hospital, London, and St. Peter's and Caius Colleges, Cambridge, who are the principal landowners. The soil is light and the subsoil chalky. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans and oats. The area is 1,671 acres; the population in 1921 was 1,164 in the civil parish and 1,513 in the ecclesiastical parish. Post, M. O. & Tel. Call Office, Cherry Hinton. CHESTERTON is now included in the borough of Cambridge, under which place full particulars will be found.

CHETISHAM (or Chettisham) is an ecclesiastical parish, formed from the civil parishes of Holy Trinity and St. Mary, Ely, and enlarged July 7th, 1876; it is on the high road from Ely to Littleport, 2 miles north from the former, with a station on the Ely and Peterborough branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 77 miles from London, in the jurisdiction of the city of Ely, hundred, rural district, petty sessional division and county court district of Ely, rural deanery of Ely, archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Michael and All Angels is a small but ancient building of rubble in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a western turret containing one bell: the church was restored in 1839, and a new roof added, at a cost of £799: there are 70 sittings: the churchyard was extended in 1912. The register of baptisms dates from 1701 and marriages 1754; burials were registered at St. Mary's in Ely. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £174, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Ely, and held since 1923 by the Rev. Reginald Hugh Gibbon M.A. of Keble College, Oxford, minor canon of Ely Cathedral, and hon. C.F. who resides at the College, Ely. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor and sole landowners. The land is heavy, principally arable. The chief crops are wheat, barley and beans. The population in 1921 was 160.

CHEVELEY is a parish and village, 3 miles south-east from Newmarket station on the Cambridge and Bury branch of the London and North Eastern railway: it gives its name to a hundred, and is in the Newmarket rural district, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Cheveley, archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary and the Holy Host of Heaven is an ancient cruciform building of flint in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, and consists of chancel, nave, transepts, north porch and a central tower with the unique feature of an external bartizan or watch-turret, and containing a clock and 5 bells: the chancel screen is of the 14th century, and there are several tablets of the 18th century to the Hand and Folkes families: on the north wall of the chancel is a large stone monument of early Jacobean style, with kneeling figure beneath a canopy, to the memory of Symon Folkes, obiit, 1642: in the church is a fine 15th century Florentine chair, or throne, and a copy of Fairlie's unique drawings of the church, made in 1851, bound up with Dr. Wernham's History of the Church and Parish: the ancient pre-Reformation altar-stone is cemented into the floor beneath the high altar: in 1873 the church was completely restored, largely at the expense of the rector, the Rev. J. F. Bradley (rector 1871-8), who provided the finely carved and polychromed marble reredos and handsome stone sedilia: the organ was given by Miss

Ellen Priscilla Bradley in 1874 and the pulpit by the parishioners: the church was again restored in 1902 at the expense of Col. H. L. B. McCalmont C.B., M.P. of Cheveley Park, on his return from the South African War: alabaster and brass tablets were erected by the parishioners in 1903 to the memory of Col. McCalmont, and in 1921 to the memory of the Rev. Canon E. K. Douglas, rector 1895-1920: there are several stained windows of good design and colouring, the east window being an excellent example of C. E. Kempe's earlier work: in 1931 the north transept was restored to its former use, under its original dedication, as St. Nicholas' chapel, by the Rev. W. Geoffrey Warwick, rector, a new altar with coloured riddell-posts being provided: at the same time the ancient holy water stoup in the north porch was restored, and the chancel furnished with oak return-stalls, which originally stood in the transepts: there are about 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £720, with residence and including 37 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Rev. W. F. Buttle, and held since 1930 by the Rev. William Geoffrey Warwick, of King's College, London, and Bishops' College, Oshesunt. The churchyard was closed for burials in 1884, and burials now take place in an adjacent cemetery. Opposite the entrance to the church is a memorial, designed by Sir Charles Nicholson bart. to the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. There is a Congregational chapel, erected in 1868, having 120 sittings. After his delivery by the Scots to the Parliamentary Commissioners in 1647, King Charles I. was detained for a time by Cornet Joyce at Cheveley, where Oliver Cromwell and Fairfax "waited on" him. Cheveley Park, formerly a residence of the Dukes of Rutland and latterly the seat of Col. H. L. B. McCalmont C.B., M.P. was one of the largest and finest mansions in the county, but was demolished in 1920. This estate now belongs to various owners, and a large portion of it is being developed for building purposes. Warren Towers, the residence of Rt. Hon. Lady Ludlow; Banstead Manor, the residence of Mrs. Morriss, and White Lodge, the residence of Miss Tonge, are large and well-built mansions with extensive gardens. The chief landowners are the Rt. Hon. Lady Ludlow, Mrs. Morriss, R. L. V. Sherwood esq. the Earl of Derby K.G., P.C., G.C.B., G.C.V.O. Viscount Astor and Sir Richard Charles Garton G.B.E. The soil is chalk and clay; subsoil, clay. The crops are negligible as most of the land is used for stud pasture purposes. The area is 2,559 acres; the population in 1921 was 599. Broad Green and Park Drive are places in the parish.

CHILDERLEY is a parish, 6½ miles north-east from the Old North Road station on the Bedford and Cambridge branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and about 6 from Swavesey station on the London and North Eastern railway, 9 north-west from Cambridge and 13 north-east from St. Neots, in the hundred and rural district of Chesterton, petty sessional division and county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Bourn and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. There were originally two churches here, one of which was dedicated to St. Mary; both were destroyed and the village depopulated by Sir John Cutts bart of Childerley, about the beginning of the 16th century, for the purpose of forming a deer park. Divine service is conducted in the chapel attached to Childerley Hall. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £45, in the gift of Francis Benjamin Brooke esq. and held since 1933 by the Rev. Wm. Wycliffe Lucas LL.M., M.A. of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, who is also rector of Hardwicke and of Dry Drayton, where he resides. Childerley Hall, the property and residence of Francis Benjamin Brooke esq. is a mansion in the Elizabethan style, and was rebuilt upon the foundation of the manor house, the old seat of the Cutts family: to this house Charles I. was brought in 1647 by the messengers of Cromwell, after his seizure at Holdenby Hall, in Northamptonshire; the ancient and elaborately painted and wainscoted room which he occupied, now called by his name, is carefully preserved, and the paintings in it have been restored. The farm buildings on the estate are most extensive, and include a barn 333 feet in length. Francis Benjamin Brooke esq. is the principal landowner. The soil is strong clay; subsoil, yellow clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 1,702 acres; the population in 1921 was 24. Letters through Cambridge. Dry Drayton is the nearest M. O. & T. office

CHIPPENHAM is a parish and village, 5 miles north-east from Newmarket station, in the hundred of Staploe, Newmarket rural district, petty sessional division and county court district and in the rural deanery of Fordham, archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Margaret is a building of stone in the Gothic style, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells, three of which were recast and rehung in 1898: the treble bell was given by W. W. De la Rue esq. J.P.: the chancel was restored in 1885-6, at a cost of £1,200, and a stained east window inserted in memory of Joseph Sidney Tharp, who died March 4th, 1875, and Laura, his second wife (daughter of Sir John Trollope, and sister of John, 1st Baron Kesteven), who died 19 Jan. 1877: there are three other memorial windows to various members of the same family: near the porch is a marble tomb, erected over the grave of the Rt. Hon. Sir Thomas Erskine May K.C.B., P.C., D.C.L. Baron Farnborough, clerk of the House of Commons 1871-86, d. May 17th, 1896, and a memorial window was erected by his widow in 1895: this church is rich in wall paintings, including one of the 15th century, discovered about 1896 imbedded eight inches in the east wall of the north aisle and representing two angels censuring: in 1714 Lord Oxford presented a silver chalice and paten to the church, which is still in use: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1595. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £250, including 16½ acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Lt.-Col. Gerard Prideaux Tharp D.L., J.P. and held since 1925 by the Rev. Ernest William Deacon, of Pembroke College, Oxford, and L.Th. of Durham University. Charities of £23 yearly are distributed in money, and there is also a small charity of about £8 for coal. Chippenham Hall, standing in a park of about 400 acres, is the seat of Lt.-Col. Gerard Prideaux Tharp D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The Manor House is at present (1933) unoccupied. The soil is mixed; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 4,301 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1921 was 481.

GREAT CHISHALL (or Chishill) is a parish on the borders of Essex and on a stream called "Comberton Brook," supposed to have formed the boundary between the kingdoms of Mercia and Essex; it is 7 miles west from Audley End station on the London and North Eastern railway, 5 south-east from Royston station on the Hitchin and Cambridge branch of the same railway, and 9 west from Saffron Walden, in the Melbourn petty sessional division and rural district, Royston county court district, rural deanery of Saffron Walden, archdeaconry of Colchester and diocese of Chelmsford. This parish, formerly in Essex, was transferred to Cambridgeshire by the "Local Government Board's Provisional Orders Confirmation (No. 14) Act, 1895." The church of St. Swithin, standing on an eminence and once possessing the privilege of sanctuary, is an edifice of flint with stone dressings in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles and north porch; the embattled western tower, which contains a clock and 5 bells, collapsed in 1892, and in 1897 was rebuilt, at a cost of £865: in the chancel is a mural monument to John Cooke esq. D.L., J.P. and High Sheriff of Essex, ob. 27 Jan. 1701:

the nave and aisles were restored in 1879, under the direction of P. C. Penrose esq. the cost being defrayed by voluntary subscriptions: there are sittings for 236 persons. The register dates from the year 1383. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, including 137 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Church Association Trust, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Ronald Arthur Smith A.Th. of St. John's College, Winnipeg. The charities amount to £8 yearly, arising from land and annuities given by Dame Lettice Martin and others. William P. Cowell esq. J.P. is lord of the manor of Farance Fee. Douglas Crossman esq. J.P. and W. P. Cowell esq. J.P. are the chief landowners. The soil is chalk and clay; subsoil, chalk. The crops are on the four-course shift. The area is 2,542 acres; the population in 1921 was 362.

LITTLE CHISHALL (or Chishill) is a parish and small village adjoining the village of Great Chishall, 5 miles south-east from Royston station on the Hitchin and Cambridge branch of the London and North Eastern railway and 10 west from Saffron Walden, in the Melbourn rural district and petty sessional division, Royston county court district, rural deanery of Saffron Walden, archdeaconry of Colchester and diocese of Chelmsford. This parish, formerly in Essex, was transferred to Cambridgeshire by the Local Government Board's Provisional Orders Confirmation (No. 14) Act, 1895. The church of St. Nicholas, which stands about 1 mile south from the village, is a small and ancient structure of flint with stone dressings in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, large south porch and a western tower containing one bell: there are 100 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from 1577; marriages from 1579. The living is a rectory, annexed to that of Heydon, joint net yearly value £558, with 100 acres of glebe, in the gift of Lord Braybrooke, and held since 1903 by the Rev. Hugh Townshend Wilson M.A. of Magdalene College, Cambridge, who resides at Heydon. There is a Congregational chapel, founded in 1694 and rebuilt in 1894, and seating 350 persons. This village gave its name to a very ancient family, to which belonged John de Chishall, dean of St. Paul's, Bishop of London (1274-80), Lord High Chancellor (1264) and Lord High Treasurer (1269); he died in 1280. Douglas Crossman esq. J.P. is lord of the manor and the principal landowner. The soil is chalk and clay; subsoil, chalk. The crops are wheat, oats and barley. COATES and EASTREA, the former 2½ miles east, the latter 2 miles east from Whittlesey station on the Peterborough and Wisbech branch of the London and North Eastern railway, were formed into an ecclesiastical parish July 9, 1850, from the civil parish of Whittlesey, under the provisions of the "Whittlesey Improvement Act, 1849" (12 and 13 Vict. c. 32, sec. 9); they are in the North Witchford hundred, Whittlesey petty sessional division, Peterborough county court district, rural deanery of March, archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The church of the Holy Trinity, erected in 1840, is a structure of brick, consisting of nave, aisles and a tower on the north side, with spire, and containing a clock and one bell: in 1902 the tower was partially restored: in 1874 and 1890 the church was thoroughly restored, re-seated with open benches and aisles added, at a total cost of £1,050, and now affords 510 sittings. The register dates from the year 1850. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £370, with residence, in the alternate gift of the Lord Chancellor and the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1932 by the Rev. William Leslie Newton, of the London College of Divinity. There are Methodist chapels at Coates and Eastrea and a Baptist chapel at Turves. The Public Hall, erected in 1890, is of brick with an open timber roof; the management is vested in five trustees and a local committee. The soil is chiefly a black loam; subsoil, clay or gravel. The chief crops are wheat and potatoes. The area is 5,300 acres; the population in 1921 was 1,402.

COLDHAM is an ecclesiastical parish, formed July 10, 1874, from Fridaybridge, in the civil parish of Elm; it is in the petty sessional division, rural district, county court district, rural deanery and archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely, and is 7 miles south from Wisbech, 3 south-west from Fridaybridge and 4 north from March, with a station on the Peterborough and Wisbech branch of the London and North Eastern railway. The parish includes Pear Tree Hill, Coldham, Stagsholt and Graysmoor, and extends to within 2 miles of March. The church of St. Etheldreda, a building of stone in the Early English style, was completed in 1876, at a cost of £2,700, and consists of chancel, nave, south porch, vestry and a small western turret containing 2 bells: the organ cost £250: the internal fittings are of oak: there is a small stained window on the south side of the chancel, and another on the north side in memory of Francis William Gordon Woodgate; a memorial window was erected at the east end in June, 1887, at a cost of £120, to Samuel Jones Loyd, Baron Overstone, a benefactor to this church, who died Nov. 17th, 1883, and another in memory of William Cutlack Little by his widow: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1876. The living is a vicarage, endowed June 4th, 1875, and Aug. 18th, 1876, net yearly value £313, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1932 by the Rev. Walter William Covey-Crump M.A. of Ayerst Hall, Cambridge, rural dean of Wisbech, who is also vicar of Friday Bridge, where he resides. A chapel for the Methodists was opened in 1915. The Co-operative Wholesale Society Limited are the principal landowners. The soil is loamy; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, potatoes and brown and white mustard and some land in pasture. The population in 1921 was 425.

COMBERTON is a parish, bounded on the south by the Bourn brook, about 2 miles north-west from Lord's Bridge station on the Bedford and Cambridge branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, and 5½ west-south-west from Cambridge, in the hundred of Wetherley, rural district of Chesterton, Cambridge petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Barton and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary is an edifice of stone in the Early English and later styles, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave of five bays, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 4 bells: the chancel arch and south arcade of the nave are Early English, the north aisle and clerestory Perpendicular and the tower Decorated: the interior is seated with open benches, elaborately carved with tracery: the rood stairs and doorway remain and there is an octagonal Early English font: the church was repaired in 1850 and restored in 1877-8 by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and was further restored in 1884-5 and in 1902-3, at a total cost of £1,381: the tower was restored in 1921 at a cost of £465: there are 300 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1564; marriages, 1560; burials, 1561. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £266, with 7 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of Jesus College, Cambridge, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Edward Wilkinson Buswell M.A. of Queens' College, Cambridge. The Union Nonconformist chapel here was erected in 1868 on a site given by G. E. Foster esq. There are charities of about £16 yearly, arising from about 6 acres of land and distributed in money, partly among the poor and partly for the upkeep of church fabric. Deeply cut in the turf of what was once the village green is a curious old maze, now enclosed in the school playground. The governors of St. Thomas' Hospital are lords of the manor; there are several landowners. The soil is heavy clay; subsoil, chalk and gault. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 1,954 acres; the population in 1921 was 442.

CONINGTON is a parish on the borders of Hunts, 4 miles south from St. Ives station on the London and North Eastern railway, 7 south-east from Huntingdon and 10 north-west from Cambridge, in the hundred of Papworth, petty sessional division of Cambridge, rural district of Swavesey, county court district of Huntingdon, rural deanery of North Stowe and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary is an edifice of brick and stone in mixed styles, consisting of chancel, nave and a tower of stone with a spire and containing 4 bells, with the following inscriptions:—tenor, Virgo coronata duc nos ad regna beata; 2 (early 14th century), Asumpta est Maria in celis gaudent angeli laudantes benedicunt (sic) dominum; 3, Milo Grey me fecit 1635; 4th, Sancta Maria, ora pro nob's (nobis): the tower and spire were restored and the bells rehung in 1911: there is a monumental vault, breast high, running nearly the entire length of the nave on the south side, and several monuments to members of the Cotton, Askham, Hatton and Gardner families: the nave was rebuilt in red brick in 1737 by Dingley Askham esq. and the chancel in stone in 1871: there are 118 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a rectory, with Knapwell annexed, joint net yearly value £298, with residence, in the gift of the Crown, and held since 1933 by the Rev.

poor. The manor of Conington (Contone or Cunitone, in the Domesday Survey, A.D. 1086) was successively in the families of Connington, Dansie, Hutton, Baker and Watson, and in 1644 was purchased by Sir Thomas Cotton bart. M.P. of Connington, Hunts, the son of Sir Robert Cotton bart. the founder of the famous Cottonian library; and afterwards, by the marriage of Frances, heiress of the Cotton family, to Dingley Askham esq.; it thence successively descended by female heirs to the families of Hatton, of Long Stanton, and Gardner, the last named family acquiring it by the marriage of the Rev. Philip Gardner D.D. of Brynadda, Merionethshire, with Harriet, daughter of Sir Thomas Hatton 8th bart. of Long Stanton. Conington Hall, the seat of Philip Thomas Gardner esq. D.L., J.P. is an ancient mansion of brick, restored at different periods. P. T. Gardner esq. D.L., J.P. and Messrs. Arthur Lilley and John Scambler are the principal landowners. The land is all freehold. The soil is clay and loamy gravel; subsoil, clay and gault. The chief crops are wheat, beans and barley. The area is 1,522 acres; the population in 1921 was 108 in the civil parish and 234 in the ecclesiastical parish. Letters through Cambridge. The M. O. & T. office is at Fenstanton, Hunts COTON is a parish, a quarter of a mile off the road from Cambridge to St. Neots, 4 miles west from Cambridge station, in the hundred of Wetherley, rural district of Chesterton, petty sessional division and county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Barton and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Peter, which stands in the centre of the village, is a small building of stone and flint, chiefly in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, north and south porches and a Perpendicular embattled western tower, carried on arches and finished with pinnacles and spire; it contains 3 bells: the font, of Norman work, consists of a square basin on a circular stem: the church was restored in 1880, and affords 150 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £350, with residence, in the gift of St.

Catharine's College, Cambridge, and held since 1929 by the Rev. Charles Edward Sell M.A. of that college and Ridley Hall. There is a Baptist chapel here with 120 sittings. In the village stands a monolith, 7 feet high, but whether a village cross or a boundary stone is uncertain. The Cambridge Preservation Society and King's, Queens', St. John's and Corpus Christi Colleges, Cambridge, are the principal landowners. A reading room was opened in 1913. The soil is clayey; subsoil, gault; there is also a greensand stratum, which crops out and yields excellent water. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and beans. The area is 970 acres; the population in 1921 was 340.

COTTENHAM is a large village and parish, 4 miles north from Histon station on the St. Ives and Cambridge branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 2½ south-west from Oakington station on the same line and 6½ north from Cambridge, in the hundred and rural district of Chesterton, petty sessional division and county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of North Stowe and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The principal street is lighted with gas from works the property of the Cambridge University & Town Gas Light Co. The church of All Saints is an edifice of stone and rubble in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, north and south porches and lofty tower with four pinnacles containing a clock and 6 bells: in 1923 the tower was restored, President Calvin Coolidge, of the United States, contributing to the cost; in the registers the baptism in 1604 is recorded of John, the son of William Couledge, whose family settled in America in 1631: the chancel is Perpendicular, and has richly carved sedilia and a piscina: the east window tracery is a copy from one in Prior Crauden's chapel at Ely: the nave arcades are Early Decorated, and part of the tower is also of this period: there are two memorial windows and an oak chest bound with iron: in 1867 the church was partially restored and fitted with oak benches, enriched with carvings reproducing the forms of the plants, ferns and flowers of the district: there are 500 sittings. The register dates from the year 1572. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £600, with glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1932 by the Rev. Alfred Arthur Hancock M.A., B.D. of Durham University. The old Baptist chapel, erected in 1780 and rebuilt in 1856, seats 750 persons; Ebenezer Baptist chapel, first founded in 1812, and rebuilt in 1837, also seats 750, and there is a Methodist chapel and a Salvation Army hall. The Nonconformist cemetery here has an area of one acre. There are eight charities, producing together about £420 yearly, which sum is expended in education and apprenticing, the maintenance of charity houses and in gifts of money to the poor, as well as bibles and prayer books. The church and causeway are repaired out of a fund left for that purpose, producing £162 8s. yearly. The memorial to the men of Cottenham who fell in the Great War, 1914-18, which was erected in 1921 at a cost of about £600, is of Portland stone, and includes a life-sized figure of a soldier in full marching order standing with arms reversed in a mourning attitude; the whole memorial is about 20 feet high, and on the front of the base is a laurel wreath, on the left hand side are the Union Jack and the Red Cross flag crossed, and on the right hand side are a rifle and haversack entwined with laurel wreaths. The Constitutional Club was presented to the Cottenham and Rampton Conservative Association by J. M. Goode esq. and Mrs. Goode in 1911. The road from Belsar's Hills to Aldreth High bridge, which was the old British road out of the Isle of Ely, runs along a corner of the parish. The ancient Carr Dyke traverses the fens, and close to it, on the boundary next Landbeach, many remains of Roman pottery have been found, and in 1855 a beautiful bronze bust was discovered on this site. This village was formerly noted for the superior quality of its cheese, which in years past was made in large quantities, but latterly the pastures have been converted into arable land. The fruit gardens are extensive and increasing, and hundreds of tons of fruit are sent during the season to London, Manchester and other markets. There are six manors, viz.:—Crowlands, Lyles, Sames, Burdley or Harlston, the Rectory manor and Pelhams. The representatives of the late Dr. Thomas Musgrave, Archbishop of York 1848-60, are lords of the manors of Crowlands, Lyles and Sames; Christ's College, Cambridge, of Burdley, or Harlston, and the rector, of the Rectory manor; the greater part of the land in the parish has been enfranchised. The principal land-owners are the Cambridge County Council, Wright Graves esq. Horace Gautrey esq. and Christ's College, Cambridge, but a large proportion of land here is vested in smaller proprietors. This was the birthplace of Thomas Tenison, Archbishop of Canterbury 1694-1715. The soil is various; subsoil, loamy clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and beans, fruit and vegetable produce. The area is 7,217 acres of land and 7 of water; the population in 1921 was 2,470.

COVENEY is a parish and village in the Isle of Ely, the South Witchford hundred, rural district, petty sessional division, county court district and rural north-east from Ely station, 7 by road and 4 deanery of Ely, archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese branch of the London and North Eastern railway, in of Ely. The church of St. Peter ad Vincula is a building of stone, dating from the 13th century, and consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and an embattled western tower containing one bell: in the chancel is a trefoil-headed double piscina, and the north wall of the nave contains an ancient stoup; the splendid reredos of carved wood, presented by Athelstan Riley esq. is probably of 15th century North-German workmanship, and the central panel contains a remarkably fine representation of the "Crucifixion," the figure on the rood was carved by the peasants at Ober Ammergau: there are some interesting, though rude, carved bench ends, dating from about 1400: the pulpit, dated 1705, has paintings of Our Lord and the four Evangelists, and is of Danish origin. The church was restored in 1897: a rood screen, the design of the Rev. O. F. G. Turner, rector 1892-1914, was erected, and the roof, which had previously been thatched with reeds, was recovered with grey Westmoreland slates: in 1932 a copy of the chains of St. Peter was placed in the church. There are 160 sittings free. The register dates from the year 1676. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £330, including 28 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Athelstan Riley esq. and held since 1930 by the Rev. Reginald Claude Medhurst L.Th.

of the University of Durham. There is a Baptist chapel, now disused, a Methodist chapel, and a Methodist chapel at Wardy Hill. Stanley Street-Porter esq. J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is loam with clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are sugar beet, wheat, barley, beans, oats and potatoes. The area is 3,168 acres of land, 2 of water and 14 of tidal water; the population of the civil parish (including Wardy Hill) in 1921 was 472, and of the ecclesiastical parish, 431.

By Local Government Board Order 15,876 (24 March, 1884), a detached part of Witcham, and by Local Government Board Order 15,878 (24 March, 1884), a detached part of Wentworth were added to Coveney.

WARDY HILL (or Wady Hill), 1 mile north-west, is a hamlet of Coveney. WAYHEAD, another hamlet, is 1 mile north from the parish church.

MANEA, formerly a chapelry of this parish, but now a distinct parish, is given under a separate heading.

CROXTON is a parish on the Huntingdonshire border, about 4 miles east from St. Neots station on the main line of the London and North Eastern railway, and 13 west from Cambridge, in the hundred of Longstowe, petty sessional division of Caxton, rural district of Caxton and Arrington, county court district of St. Neots, rural deanery of Bourn and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. James is an ancient building of stone in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, north porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 6 bells: there are several monuments to the Leeds and Newton families: affixed to the north door is a wooden carving, in very bold relief, of the Virgin and child: the north porch was erected in 1907 by the Misses O. and F. Cochrane as a memorial to their father: numerous carved stones, found when the buttress was removed, were built into the porch: in 1921 a handsome rood screen was erected in memory of Capt. Aubrey Charles Hill: the church affords 200 sittings, of which half are free. In the churchyard is a cross, erected in 192c as a memorial to the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1535. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £307, with residence, and including 348 acres of glebe, in the gift of Sir (George) Douglas O. Newton K.B.E., M.P., D.L., J.P. and held since 1930 by the Rev. Thomas Henry Higgins, of the London College of Divinity, who is also vicar of the adjoining parish of Eltisley. The charities amount to £48 yearly, and are expended on bread, coals and money for the poor. Croxton Park contains a large mansion of red brick, situated near the church, in well-wooded grounds of about 400 acres, with a small lake, and is the seat of Sir (George) Douglas Cochrane Newton K.B.E., M.P., D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is stiff clay; subsoil, gault. The chief crops are wheat, oats, beans and barley. The area is 1,904 acres of land and 5 of water; the population in 1921 was 234.

CROYDON (or Croyden, Crawdon or Croden) is a parish, 3½ miles south from Old North Road station on the Bedford and Cambridge line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and 7 north-west from Royston, in the hundred of Armingford, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, rural district of Caxton and Arrington, county court district of Royston, rural deanery of Shingay and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of All Saints, Croydon, is described in the decree of the Bishop of Ely for the union of the two parishes, A.D. 1561, as "ampla et ornata," but seems to have been reduced; it is a structure of brick and stone, in the Perpendicular style, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, transepts, south porch and a tower containing one bell: the stained east window is a memorial to the wife of the Rev. R. S. B. Sandilands, a former rector, to whom and to his sister there are other memorial windows: the chancel was repaired in 1867, and there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1672. The living is a rectory, consisting of the vicarage of Croydon, endowed with part of the rectory and with the rectory of Clapton annexed, joint net yearly value £477, with 10 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of Capt. William Nugent Gape, and held since 1928 by the Rev. Frederic George Edward Betenson A.K.C. who is also rector of Hatley St.

DODDINGTON is a parish, which formerly comprised the chapelry and market town of March and the hamlets of Benwick and Wimblington; but by an Act of Parliament passed in 1856, called the "Doddington Rectory Division Act" (19 and 20 Vict. c. 1), which came into operation on the death of a former rector, in Nov. 1868, these places are now distinct parishes; it is in the hundred and rural district of North Witchford, Isle of Ely, petty sessional division and county court district of March, rural deanery of March, arch-deaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The village is on the main road between March and Chatteris, 4 miles from each place, and 1½ miles south-west from Wimblington station on the Cambridge, St. Ives and Wisbech branch of the London and North Eastern railway. The parish is supplied with water by the Wisbech water-works. The church of St. Mary is an edifice of stone, in the Early English style consisting of a fine chancel, nave, aisles, north and south porches, vestry and a western tower with spire containing a clock and 5 bells: the chancel, separated from the nave by a carved oak screen, was restored in 1891 at a cost of £978, and a vestry screen, the gift of J. H. Marshall esq. of Grimsby, erected at a cost of £103: the nave was restored in 1892 at a cost of £800: the stained west window, a memorial to John Thomas Waddington esq. was presented by his widow about 1867: the stained east window was presented in 1891 by T. R. Harding esq. as a memorial to his wife and other members of the Harding family: the stained south window in the sanctuary was presented by Mrs. Peyton in 1907, in memory of her husband, General Francis Peyton, and there are other windows to the Richards and Peyton families, besides several tablets to the Peyton family, whose family vault is under the chancel: an early William Morris window, given to the Rev. R. Ridge B.A. (the present rector) in appreciation of his work in the east end of London, was unveiled in 1923 by the late General Townshend of Kut: a memorial in the churchyard and a tablet in the church (designed by Robert Wade, of this parish) were erected by the parishioners in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: the church affords 600 sittings. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £1,320, with residence, in the gift of trustees and held since 1922 by the Rev. Richard Ridge, of Christ's College, Cambridge, and B.A. of the University of Wales. This living was formerly the richest in England, but under the Act of 1856 and a previous Act in 1847 (10 and 11 Vict. c. 3) it is now divided into seven rectories, viz., Benwick, Doddington, Wimblington, March Old Town, March St. Peter, March St. John and March St. Mary. There is also a Methodist chapel. O. W. King esq. who is lord of the manor, Arthur Davis Burton esq. John William Welcher esq. and the Isle of Ely County Council are the principal landowners.

DOWNHAM (sometimes called Little Downham or Downham-in-the-Isle) is a parish and village, 1 mile south-west from Black Bank station on the Ely and Peterborough section of the London and North Eastern railway, 3 north-west from Ely and 75 from London, in the hundred, rural district, petty sessional division, county court district and rural deanery of Ely, arch-deaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Leonard is a structure of rubble in the Transition Norman and Early English styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of five bays, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower, with pinnacles, containing 4 bells, two of which are dated 1659: the clerestory windows are very small and are deeply splayed internally: the inner porch doorway is a good example of Transition Norman: in the chancel is an arcaded double piscina with cinquefoil-headed arch, but portions of the arch and of one basin have been cut away to admit of the insertion of a window: the rood screen is of carved oak: the chancel was restored and a vestry and organ chamber erected in 1890, at a cost of £1,144: in 1897 and 1899 extensive restorations were carried out at a cost of £800: the church had been previously resented, and now affords 300 sittings: the north aisle was restored in 1912. The register dates from the year 1558, but is not continuous. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £1,192, with glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1932 by the Rev. Arthur John Christopher Young M.A. of Emmanuel College Cambridge, who is a surrogate. About half a mile from the church are the remains of the palace erected here by John Alcock, Bishop of Ely (1486-1501), once celebrated for its beauty and magnificent exterior, but now a farm house; in one of the spandrels of the ogee arch in that part of the building now detached and formerly the chapel are the arms of the see—gu. three ducal crowns or; with various other devices now nearly obliterated: on the wall immediately to the left are the remains of an ancient sundial; the interior still retains portions of an elaborately groined stone vaulting; in another building, also detached and formerly the palace kitchen, is a large brick oven: Matthew Wren, uncle to Sir Christopher Wren, was the last resident bishop, and died 24 April, 1667. In Third Drove is also a mission church and school dedicated to St. Owen, built in 1895 by the Rev. Canon F. F. M. S. Thornton, rector here 1890-1907. In the village are Baptist and Methodist chapels, there is also another Methodist chapel in the Fen, and one at Oxlode. In 1930 a Baptist Sunday school was erected. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor. The soil is chiefly clay, gravel and fen land; and the crops are generally wheat, oats, beans, barley and roots. The area is 10,112 acres, 7,000 of which are in the Fen, the remainder being highland; the parish also includes 42 acres of water and 42 of tidal water; the population in 1921 was 1,991 in the civil parish and 1,994 in the ecclesiastical parish. In the fen are two hamlets—Oxlode, 3 miles north-west, and Pymore, 2½ north-west; between these hamlets stands the Holy Trinity mission church and school, built at the sole expense of the Rev. Frederick Fisher M.A. a former rector, in 1865.

Downham Hythe, Fodder Fen and Little Street are places in the parish.

By Local Government Board Order No. 15,879 (March 24, 1884), a detached part of Downham was added to Manea.

DRY DRAYTON is a parish, 3½ miles south-west from Oakington station on the St. Ives and Cambridge section of the London and North Eastern railway and 7 north-west from Cambridge station, in the hundred and rural district of Chesterton, petty sessional division and county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of North Stowe, archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of SS. Peter and Paul is a building of stone in the Early Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, aisles, north porch and a western tower containing a clock and 5 bells: the north aisle was added and the whole fabric restored in 1859, and the ancient tower in 1874, at a cost of £200: the stained east window is a memorial to the Rev. Samuel Smith D.D. dean of Christ Church, Oxford, prebendary of Durham and formerly rector here 1831-41, and has in a lunette at the bottom a kneeling figure of the rector in surplice and hood: the organ, erected in 1881, was rebuilt in 1928: near the west end are two windows of the Decorated period, with transoms, and the south doorway is of the same date: there are 200 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1564; marriages, 1565. The living is a rectory, net yearly value, including 430 acres of glebe, £350, with residence, in the gift of Harrogate College, and held since 1931 by the Rev. William Wycliffe Lucas LL.M., M.A. of Trinity Hall, Cambridge. There is a Methodist chapel. This parish has two manors—Coventry, held on a lease of lives under the Bishop of Ely, and Crowlands, of which the rector is lord. The land of the parish is vested in several proprietors, the chief of whom are Messrs. Chivers & Sons Ltd. T. F. Hooley esq. and Trinity College, Cambridge. The soil is heavy clay; subsoil, gault and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 2,421 acres; the population in 1921 was 350. Post, T. & T. E. D. Office. DULLINGHAM is a parish and village, with a station on the Cambridge and Bury branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 68 miles from London, 4 south-west from Newmarket and 10 east from Cambridge, in the hundred of Radfield, rural district, petty sessional division and county court district of Newmarket, rural deanery of Cheveley and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary is an ancient building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 5 bells: in the chancel are several fine monuments to the Jeaffreson family, dating from 1733, one of which bears a recumbent figure in white marble of Lieut.-General Christopher Jeaffreson, d. 22 Oct. 1824; there is also a tablet to Henrietta, wife of Anthony 11th Viscount Gormanston, and subsequently of Lieut.-General Christopher Jeaffreson, d. 6 Feb. 1826: the church was restored during the period 1884-90, at a cost of £680, and an organ provided at a further cost of £200, and in 1899 the oak roof was repaired at a cost of £800: a pulpit of Grecian marble was presented in 1905 by A. O. W. Dunn-Gardner esq. of Denston

Hall, Suffolk, in memory of the late Mr. Dunn-Gardner: there are 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, with 85 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of Mrs. Robinson, and held since 1925 by the Rev. William Southall M.A. of Durham University. There is a small Methodist chapel. The local charities amount to about £100 yearly, and are divided between an educational charity and the poor of the parish. Dullingham House, the seat of Mrs. Robinson, is pleasantly situated in the centre of the village. Lower Hare Park, 2½ miles north-west, also the property of Mrs. Robinson, is at present (1933) unoccupied. Mrs. Robinson is lady of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is various: subsoil, chalk and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 3,387 acres; the population in 1921 was 645.

DUXFORD, comprising the ancient parishes of St. Peter and St. John (now constituting a single parish for all purposes), is 1 mile south from Whittlesford station on the London and Cambridge section of the London and North Eastern railway (which is in this parish), 9 south from Cambridge and 7 west from Linton, in the hundred of Whittlesford, rural district and petty sessional division of Linton, county court district of Saffron Walden, rural deanery of Camps and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. St. Peter's church is a building of rubble, partly in the Norman style, and consists of chancel, nave with clerestory, aisles, south porch and a lofty embattled western tower with a small spire and containing a clock and one bell: there are several examples of Early English work of the 13th century, including a beautiful "low-side window" on the north side of the chancel, an aumbry, or locker, two good sedilia and a piscina: the church was thoroughly restored during the period 1874-91, at a cost of £2,500, and affords 150 sittings. The register dates from the year 1684. The living consists of the rectory of St. Peter's, consolidated with the vicarage of St. John's, the two having been united May 15, 1874, joint net yearly value £800, with residence, in the gift of Clare College, Cambridge, and held since 1915 by the Rev. Bryan Fox Browning M.A. of that college. St. John's church is an edifice in similar styles, and consists of chancel with chantry chapel, nave, north aisle, south porch and a fine central embattled tower of Norman date with a small spire and containing 6 bells: the chapel retains a piscina, and the rood stairs in the north-west angle of the tower are in very good preservation: there are 220 sittings: the church is now only used for burial services. The register dates from the year 1685. The Congregational chapel, founded in 1794, was thoroughly repaired and a school room and vestry added in 1859, at a cost of £350; it will seat 400 persons. In the centre of the village is a cross of Portland stone, erected in 1920 at a cost of £240, as a memorial to the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18.

EASTREA, see Coates & Eastrea.

ELM is an extensive parish and village in the Isle of Ely, on the Wisbech canal, on the borders of Norfolk, 2 miles south-south-east from Wisbech, 9 from March and 87 north from London, in the Wisbech hundred, rural district, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery and archdeaconry of Wisbech, and in

A cemetery of one acre, presented by the Rev. H. J. Carter M.A. rector 1865-1904, was enclosed by the parishioners and landowners at a cost of £224, and is under the control of the Parish Council. James Bedwell, in 1573, left certain estates in the parish, the rents to be distributed in herrings during Lent and Passion week; this has now been commuted into a money payment of £3, which is distributed annually: there is also a charity called "dole money," left by a lady, and amounting to £1 10s. annually: King's charity, derived from land, is about £16 a year, £2 for two poor widows and the remainder for educational purposes. There is a Royal Air Force station in this parish. The Red Lion hotel, at Whittlesford Bridge, is said to have formerly been part of a small monastic establishment anciently existing here: the rafters of the ceiling and the mantel-piece are very fancifully carved. The chapel belonging to this religious house, though but little known, is an exquisite structure of rubble of the Decorated period, and its design is of extraordinary merit: the tracery of the once fine east window has disappeared, but the piscina and sedile recess remain, and there are side lancet windows with beautifully moulded hood arches: the building may fairly be regarded as a perfect model for a small but plain chapel. The great tithes of Duxford St. John are owned by Clare College. In this parish are four manors: Mrs. Fisher owns one, William Evelyn Long esq. J.P. two, and Caius College, Cambridge, the fourth. The lords of the manors and James Binney esq. D.L., J.P. and Viscount Hampden K.C.B., C.M.G. are the principal landowners. The soil is gravelly and chalky; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 3,233 acres of land and 6 of water; the population in 1921 was 734.

the diocese of Ely. The Coldham station of the London and North Eastern railway is in this parish. The church of All Saints is a large building of chancel, nave, aisles, north porch and an embattled western tower with small spire containing 6 bells: the church has been restored: the chancel was renovated internally in 1875, and further repairs and improvements were carried out in 1908 by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners: there are 463 sittings, all free. The register dates from the year 1539. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £597, with residence, and including 20 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1920 by the Rev. Edgar Horwood van Cooten B.A. of London University. Near the church is a memorial to the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. There is a Methodist chapel here. There are charities amounting to £278 yearly for distribution. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor. The Isle of Ely Council and Messrs. J. H. and B. Bullard, W. B. Nobbs and H. G. Ayres are the principal landowners. Under the provisions of the Allotment Act of 1882, land in this parish is let out in allotments, viz.: on the vicar's glebe, 9 acres 3 roods, divided into allotments of 1 rood each, and 27 acres granted by the trustees of the Elm United Charities, let out in unequal allotments. The soil is loamy; the subsoil is clay. The chief crops are potatoes fruit in large quantities, and vegetables. The area, including Coldham and Friday Bridge, is 11,366 acres of land and 36 of water; the population in 1921 was 2,738 in the civil and 1,383 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By the Isle of Ely Review Order, 1933, part of the parish of Elm, was added to the urban district of March and at the same time portions of the borough of Wisbech and the urban district of March were transferred to Elm.

BEGDALE, 1 mile, is in the parish.

COLDHAM, including STAGSHOLT and PEARTREE HILL, is now a separate ecclesiastical parish, and will be found under the heading of "COLDHAM."

FRIDAY BRIDGE has also a separate heading.

ELSWORTH is a parish on the Huntingdonshire border of the county, 6 miles south-by-west from St. Ives station on the London and North Eastern and London, Midland and Scottish railways, about 10 west from Cambridge and 8 south-east from Huntingdon, in the hundred of Papworth, petty sessional division of Caxton, rural district of Caxton and Arrington, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Bourn and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of the Holy Trinity, which belonged to Ramsey Abbey from a very early period until the dissolution of the monasteries, is a building of stone in the pure Decorated style, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave of four bays, aisles, south porch and a low embattled western tower, with pinnacles, containing a clock and 4 bells, 3 of which bear the following inscriptions:—1, Non vox sed votum non musica cordeana sed cor. 1628; 3, Gum moveo admonico. R.G.I.A. churchwardens. 1616; 4, + Christopher Graye made me, 1675: the triple sedilia and double piscina are especially good examples of the Decorated style, and there is also some excellent Perpendicular wood work in the chancel, consisting of stalls returned at the west end, with poppy heads and "linen fold" panelling; under the book rests of the stalls are little lockers retaining their original panelled doors, locks and hinges: outside, on the south side of the chancel, is a low-side window, with the original iron staples remaining: over the porch door is a sun-dial with the inscription "MOX NOX;" and on the east gable is a most beautiful and perfect Decorated cross: on the floor are two slabs with matrices of 15th century brasses, and there are traces of others: in the tower is a plain chest: the church was thoroughly restored in 1892, the north aisle completely rebuilt and several new windows inserted, and was again repaired in 1932: there are 400 sittings. The register dates from 1528 and is in excellent preservation. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £400, with residence, and including 35 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Duke of Portland K.G., P.C., G.C.V.O., T.D. and held since 1927 by the Rev. Laurence Iggulden M.A. of Queens' College, Cambridge, rural dean of Bourn. The Particular Baptist chapel here will seat 250 persons. Half an acre was given in 1901, by the then rector, as an additional burial ground. There are almshouses for three persons and charities of £11 yearly for distribution. Mrs. Banks left £300, the interest of which is distributed in coals &c. on the 21st Dec. annually. James Spearling and W. L. Raynes esqrs. are lords of the manor. The Rector is lord of the rectory manor. The principal landowners are G. W. Jessop esq. J.P. Messrs. Pamplin Brothers, Messrs. Millard Brothers, Mrs. Onyon and F. W. Davison esq. The soil of this neighbourhood is stiff clay, and the subsoil blue gault, with chalk, stones and flints. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 3,859 acres; the population in 1921 was 487.

On March 7, 1902, part of the area of the Elsworth Holy Trinity ecclesiastical parish, without houses or population at the time of the Census, was transferred to the ecclesiastical parish of Conington St. Mary.

ELTISLEY is a parish and village, on the road from Cambridge to St. Neots, and on the Huntingdonshire border of the county, 5 miles east from St. Neots station on the main line of the London and North Eastern railway, and 12 west from Cambridge, in the hundred of Longstowe, petty sessional division of Caxton, rural district of Caxton and Arrington, county court district of St. Neots, rural deanery of Bourn and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. John the Baptist and St. Pandionia, appropriated in 1572 to the Abbey of Denny, in this county, is an ancient edifice of stone, chiefly in the Early English style, and was partially repaired about the year 1840: it consists of chancel, clerestoried nave of three bays, aisles, north transept or chapel, south porch and a lofty embattled western tower of Early English date, with a fine Decorated octagonal spire, and containing 4 bells: the nave arcades date from the early part of the 13th century: the clerestory is Perpendicular: the north chapel has a very beautiful east window and a canopied tomb of a crusader and his lady. St. Wendreth is said by tradition to have been buried in the church: there is a brass tablet to the Marshall family, dated 1640: the tower and nave were completely restored and the latter reseated, during the period 1875-9, at a cost of £2,000: the church affords 200 sittings. A lych gate was erected in 1920 in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1653. The early register is lost: the Ely transcripts, which date from 1599, show that John Disbrowe married here Jane Cromwell, Oliver's youngest sister, on 23 June, 1636. The Disbrowe family bought the rectory and advowson and settled in Eltisley in the year 1600. Major-General Disbrowe and Samuel Disbrowe, keeper of the Great Seal of Scotland, were born here. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £239 in the gift of Sir (George) Douglas C. Newton K.B.E., M.P., D.L., J.P. and held since 1930 by the Rev. Thomas Henry Higgins, who is also rector of Croxton, where he resides. There are two Methodist chapels here. The Church Institute was erected in 1903. There was formerly a convent of Benedictine nuns here, subsequently removed in the reign of William I. to Hinchinbrooke, in Huntingdonshire. St. Pandionia was the daughter of a Scottish king, who, in her flight from some persons who attempted her chastity, is said to have taken refuge in the nunnery of Eltisley, the prioress of which was her kinswoman; she eventually adopted the religious life, and on account of her piety was canonized; she died, it is said, in the convent, and was buried by a well called St. Pandionia's Well, whence her body was removed into Eltisley church in the year 1344. Sir (George) Douglas C. Newton K.B.E., M.P., D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is strong clay; subsoil blue gault. The chief crops are roots, wheat, oats and barley. The area is 1,970 acres; the population in 1921 was 331.

ISLE OF ELY

The Isle of Ely, forming the northern portion of the county and bounded on the south by the river Ouse or Old West river, and intersected by drains or cuts, notably the Old Bedford river, extending from north-east to south-west, comprises the hundreds of Ely, Wisbech, North Witchford and South Witchford, the city of Ely, the borough of Wisbech and the liberties of Whittlesey and Thorney: it has separate quarter sessions and commission of the peace, and a county treasurer, and makes its own levy, which is in the nature of a county rate; the Isle is divided into five petty sessional divisions, and for ecclesiastical purposes into the rural deaneries of Ely, March and Wisbech, forming together a division over which the Bishop of Ely exercises archidiaconal functions.

Under the Local Government Act, 1888 (51 and 52 Vict. c. 41), the Isle was, for certain purposes of that Act, constituted a "separate administrative county" distinct from the remainder of the county.

The soil of the Isle of Ely is partly drift and partly lower green sand, resting on an impervious substratum of Kimmeridge clay, which contains some fine geological specimens. The fen lands in this vicinity are protected from inundation by artificial banks along the sides of the rivers; these lands, which formerly produced only reeds and sedge, now yield abundant crops, steam and oil engines having superseded the old windmills for pumping the water from the land into the rivers.

The Isle of Ely, besides being a noted agricultural district, is famed for its orchard and other fruits, which are grown to a great extent, and sent to London and other markets. Sugar beet is also grown by the farmers, and a beet-sugar factory was erected in 1925 at Queen Adelaide, near Ely.

The area of the administrative county is 238,073 acres, and the population in 1911 was 69,752; in 1921, 73,817, and in 1931, 77,705, viz.: males, 39,181; females, 38,524.

The parishes in the Isle of Ely are arranged in this work with the parishes in the remainder of the county, and comprise the following civil parishes:—Benwick, Chatteris, Coreney, Doddington, Downham, Elm, Ely College, Ely St. Mary, Ely Trinity, Grunty Fen, Had-denham, Leverington, Littleport, Manea, March, Mepal, Newton, Outwell, Parson Drive, Redmere, Stanground North, Stretham, Sutton, Thetford, Thorney, Tydd St. Giles, Upwell, Welches Dam, Wentworth, Whittlesea Rural, Whittlesea Urban, Wilburton, Wimblington, Witcham, Witcham Gravel, Witchford, Wisbech St. Mary and Wisbech St. Peter.

ELY is a city and head of an episcopal see, giving its name to a rural district, it is the head of a county court district and petty sessional division and is the capital of the isle of its name, with a station on the London and North Eastern railway, 72½ miles from London by rail and 67 north-east by road, 16 from Cambridge by road and 15 by rail; 26½ from Lynn harbour and 13 from Newmarket by road; the London and North Eastern railway affords ample means of communication with Cambridge and London, Huntingdon, Lynn, Peterborough, Yarmouth and Lowestoft, via Norwich, and through these places to all parts of the kingdom: there is also a short line from Ely to Haddenham, Sutton and St. Ives, and a branch to Newmarket, opened in September, 1879; there is navigation by the rivers Ouse and Cam to Cambridge, Lynn, Wisbech, St. Ives, Huntingdon and other markets.

Ely was constituted a Local Board district 23 July, 1850, but is now governed, under the Local Government Act, 1894 (56 and 57 Vict. c. 73), by an Urban District Council.

Under the Public Health Act, 1848 (11 and 12 Vict. c. 63), applied by Order in Council in 1850, the city has been drained and supplied with water, mainly by the zeal of Dr. Peacock, then dean: the works and pumping station are at Ilesham, the supply being derived from springs in the chalk, and the water forced thence into a tank at Ely, from which it is distributed to all parts of the town. The town is lighted with gas from works in Station road, and with electricity by the Bedfordshire, Cambridgeshire and Huntingdonshire Electricity Co. Cambridge road.

The diocese of Ely was created in 1108, out of the see of Lincoln, the first bishop being Herveus, Bishop of Bangor, consecrated at Ely, 27th June, 1109: by an Order in Council, 19th April, 1837, the archdeaconries of Bedford and Huntingdon were transferred from Lincoln to Ely, and part of the archdeaconry of Sudbury from Norwich; and by a second order, 10th April, 1839, certain other parishes were transferred from Lincoln.

By the Bishopsrics of Sheffield, Chelmsford and for the county of Suffolk Act, 1913, the county of Bedford was transferred from this diocese to the diocese of St. Albans and the administrative county of West Suffolk was transferred to the new diocese of St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich. By an Order in Council, August 21st, 1914, certain parishes in the diocese of Norwich were transferred to the diocese of Ely. The area of the diocese now includes Cambridgeshire, Huntingdonshire and certain parishes in Norfolk.

The Cathedral of SS. Etheldreda and Peter was originally the church of a convent, founded here in 673 by Etheldreda, daughter of Anna, King of the East Angles, and wife of Ecgfrid, King of Northumbria, and endowed by her with large possessions, including the whole of the Isle of Ely; it was despoiled by the Danes in 870, and refounded in 970 by Ethelwold, Bishop of Winchester (963-83). The Norman portion of the church was begun in 1081, by Abbot Symeon, who also laid the foundations of an apsidal choir, and completed the basement of the main transept: Richard, his successor, completed the choir, making it a square-ended presbytery; he further added the clerestory of the transept, and probably also a central tower over a new choir, and erected the greater part of the nave: in 1106, the year preceding his death, the relics of St. Etheldreda were translated into the new shrine in the presbytery, which stood immediately under a boss in the vaulting of the choir which bears her image; the main transept was finished about 1083, the nave in 1150, and the west transept and tower in 1107-89, being partly completed by Bishop Geoffrey Ridel (1174-89), who was also a Baron of the Exchequer: the octagonal lantern of the west tower, 64 feet high, is said to have been added in the reign of Henry VI. in place of a spire, removed in 1380: the north wing of the western transept, perfect until the Reformation, either fell or was demolished at some unknown date: in 1234, Hugh Northwold, eighth bishop, began a new presbytery of six bays, which was dedicated September 17th, 1252, in the presence of Henry III.: on February 12th, 1322, the central Norman tower fell, destroying the choir, upon which Alan de Walsingham, the sacristan, in 1322-3, replaced the tower by the present octagon and lantern, at a cost of £2,406 3s. 11d.; and Bishop Hotham (1316-37) rebuilt the three bays of the Norman presbytery, which was finished in 1321, at a cost of £2,034 12s. 8d. and thenceforth used as a choir: the stallwork of the choir was erected by Richard de Saxmundham in 1338-46, and the lady chapel, begun by John of Wisbeach on March 25, 1321, was completed in 1349: Bishop Barnet (1366-73) added Decorated windows in the presbytery, and Bishop Gray (1445-78) those in the aisles: of the two eastern chapels, that of Bishop Alcock was built in 1488: and Bishop West's in 1534: in 1643, Cromwell, then governor, prohibited the choir service, and swept out the congregation, and in 1647, the Parliament proposed to sell the materials of the church for the relief of the maimed soldiers of the Commonwealth.

The cathedral, as now existing, consists of a presbytery of six bays, with two eastern chapels, choir of three bays, both with continuous aisles, great transepts of three bays each, with aisles, central octagon, on the north side a lady chapel of five bays entered from the north-east angle of the transept, nave of 12 bays, south-west transept, with a small apsidal chapel of St. Catherine, slight remains of the ruined north-west transept, western Galilee porch of two bays, and a lofty western tower, containing 5 bells, all cast by Henry Penn, of Peterborough, but the tenor only is inscribed, and dated 1723; the treble is used as a clock bell. The presbytery is in a style of rich, but correct and beautiful Early English: the chapels of Bishops West and Alcock, placed at the extremity of the aisles, are perhaps the most elaborate examples of Perpendicular work in the kingdom, the former contains some good stained glass, and well-wrought gates which have been restored: the remains of the late Bishop Woodford, who died in 1665, are interred in Bishop West's chapel, where a memorial has been erected by the Rev. Arthur Robertson Evans M.A. rector of Newton (1835-1907), consisting of a black marble slab bearing a floriated brass cross, on one side of which is a mitre and on the other side a copy of the Ely pastoral staff with the arms of the see, the bishop's arms appearing on shields below, and round the margin an inscription: the east end has three deeply recessed lancets of equal height, with a range of five unequal lancets above; externally, this portion of the building is one of the finest specimens extant of an Early English east front, the gable having a third tier of arches, surmounted by three foliated openings and the whole is flanked by bold buttresses of six stages, five of which have canopied niches, and each buttress is crowned by a crocketed pinnacle; tall crocketed spirelets also rise from the angle buttresses of the aisles. The choir, reached by a descent of several steps, consists of three bays of rich Decorated work, which, in their general arrangement and elevation, harmonize in a singular but admirable manner with the earlier presbytery: the stalls, 49 in number, have richly-carved figures and groups in the upper canopies, and in front, on either side, are ranges of subsidiary stalls: the organ was rebuilt in 1903 at a cost of nearly £5,000: a splendid reredos was erected in the presbytery by John Dunn Gardner esq. of Chatteris, as a memorial to his first wife; it is of alabaster, divided into five compartments, separated by enriched spiral columns, inlaid with cornelian and bloodstone, and ornamented with gilding; the lower part of each compartment is occupied by quatrefoils ornamented with ball flowers and filled in with marble mosaic; the upper part is panelled and adorned with sculpture in high relief; the whole is surmounted by figures of Christ and of angels bearing instruments of the Passion: the total cost was £4,000: the elegant brass lectern in the choir was presented as a memorial to H. S. le Strange esq. by the late Rev. E. B. Sparke M.A. residentiary canon from 1829: the pulpit, provided by a legacy left by a daughter of the late Bishop Allen (1836-45), is of Ancaster style, resting upon columns of Purbeck marble, the front being relieved by figures in alabaster of St. Peter and St. Paul: the steps are also of Purbeck marble, guarded by elaborate scroll work in iron. The monuments in this part of the church include those of Bishop Northwold, ob. 1254, with effigy and figures under canopies at the sides; Bishop Kilkenny, who died in Spain, 1256, altar tomb with mitred effigy; Bishop Luda, 1298, a lofty Decorated canopy of three arches, with crocketed pinnacles; Bishop Hotham, 1337, a panelled altar tomb, with decorated screen of two stages, restored by Richardson; Bishop Barnet, 1373, altar tomb of grey marble, brass lost; Cardinal de Luxemburgh, 1443, altar tomb, with effigy and panelled canopy of three arches; John Tiptoft, Earl of Worcester, Constable of England, beheaded 1470, altar tomb, with effigies of himself and two wives, under an open canopy of three arches; Bishop Gray, 1478, slab, brass effigy lost, under a tall panelled arch; Bishop Redman, 1505, fine panelled altar tomb, with mitred effigy, under a highly enriched panelled canopy; Bishop Thirlby, 1554, mitred effigy in brass, with staff; Bishop Heton, 1609, altar tomb, with effigy in cope, under a flat canopy, supported by Corinthian pillars; Bishop Laney, 1675, classic mural monument, with arms; Bishop Gunning, 1684, with semi-recumbent mitred effigy on a high pedestal; Bishop Patrick, 1707, elaborate tomb in a debased Classic style; Bishops Moore, 1714, Fleetwood, 1723, and Greene, 1738, lofty mural tombs in the same style, and Bishop Butts, 1748, mural monuments with bust; here also are buried Robert Steward esq. 1570, and Sir Mark Steward, both with canopied tombs of classic character, bearing their effigies in armour with shields of arms. At the intersection of the choir with the nave and transepts rises the octagon, a Decorated work of great originality and singularly beautiful effect: the four greater sides open by lofty arches into the four arms of the cross, and the four smaller sides by subordinate arches into the aisles, the space over these arches being chiefly occupied by magnificent clerestory windows; at the angles of the octagon, at about half the height, are eight canopied niches, the corbels of which are sculptured with scenes from the life of St. Etheldreda; the groining of the lower part of the lantern is peculiarly fine, the actual construction being effected by a system of vast timbers behind it; above this vaulting rises the lantern proper, lighted by eight rich windows, and crowned again by a second timber vault; the lantern was restored in 1858, as a memorial to the Very Rev. George Peacock D.D. dean of Ely from 1839, at a cost of £6,607, of which £2,407 was contributed by the friends of the dean. One bay west of the octagon are niches on the pillars, marking the site of the ancient rood loft: the present screen, designed by the late Sir George Gilbert Scott R.A. extends across the eastern arch of the octagon, and comprises a central trefoil arch, flanked on each side by three smaller arches; each has a triangular crocketed head, the central arch terminating in a rich cross rising above the cresting; the spandrels and other spaces are filled with delicate tracery; the screen is closed by a pair of superb brass gates, and at the sides by open iron work. The main transept is Norman, and, though earlier, differs but little in character from the nave: besides eastern and western aisles, it has at the north and south ends what was once a continuous aisle, but eventually a gallery for the exhibition of relics: the hammer-beam roof is Perpendicular, and painted with various devices: the east aisle of the south arm is now divided into a library, containing upwards of 2,000 volumes, and sacristy; the roof of the north arm, after restoration, was painted at the expense of the tradesmen employed upon the cathedral. St. Edmund's chapel, in the north transept, was restored in 1897 at the sole cost of the Rev. Vincent Henry Stanton D.D. of Trinity College, Cambridge, canon of Ely and professor of Divinity at Cambridge. The Norman nave, a plain but stately avenue of lofty arches in three tiers, supported in the arcades on sternly massive clustered piers, is contemporaneous with that of Peterborough; the triforium, unusually light in style, has Perpendicular windows, and the clerestory exhibits three arches in each bay; the coved timber roof, restored in 1845, has been painted by the late Mr. H. le Strange, of Hunstanton Hall, Norfolk, and Mr. Gambler Parry, of Higham Court, Gloucestershire, with admirably studied subjects, illustrating the sacred history of Moses, the design being based on an untouched ceiling at Hildesheim of corresponding date: the aisles retain their original stone vaulting; the south aisle has only three of the original windows, the rest being late insertions, but it retains two rich Norman cloister doors, one of which, the prior's door, in the fifth bay from the west end, is a fine example of Transition Norman, highly enriched with beautiful scroll work, and in the tympanum is a seated figure of Our Lord, with attendant angels: at the west end of the north aisle, formerly closed off, is a fragment of a pre-Norman cross, with a square base, and inscribed on one side " + LYCEN ' TVAM ' OVINO ' DA ' DEVE ET ' REQUIE ' AMEN : " this cross, found some years since at Haddenham, near Ely, is a memorial to Ovinus, steward to Queen Etheldreda, and the words form a prayer for the use of travellers and pilgrims, " Grant, O God, to Ovin Thy light and rest;" it is believed to belong to the latter part of the seventh, or beginning of the eighth century, and if so, would be earlier by nearly 400 years than anything else in the cathedral. The north door and choir door, also on the north side, are both good examples of early Norman: the western transept, in its lower stages, displays Norman work of a still more advanced character than that of the nave, with great richness of detail: the upper stage is Transition; the southern wing has at its angles two polygonal towers of unequal size, 120 feet in height, adorned with nine tiers of panelled work, and terminating in an embattled parapet, and from the east side projects the apsidal chapel of St. Catherine, rebuilt in 1845, on the restoration of this transept, at the cost, in part, of Canon E. B. Sparke. The great west tower is Transition Norman, the lower stage opening to the church and Galilee by four tall arches, and massive but elegant clustered piers: externally it exhibits three stages of deeply recessed arches, relieved by two bands of arcading and an embattled parapet, from within which rises an octagonal lantern, lighted on four sides by Decorated windows, and at the angles of the tower are tall octagonal panelled turrets, overtopping the lantern, and united to it by flying buttresses; the total height is now about 215 feet, but there was formerly a slender wooden spire, the vane of which reached a height of 270 feet; the tower was opened, re-roofed and ceiled in 1845, partly at the expense of the late H. B. Evans esq. and his son, and the ceiling very successfully painted by Mr. le Strange; in 1870 it was further strengthened, and braced with iron bands. The western Galilee porch, 45 feet long, furnishes an example of perfect Early English and is two storeys high, with four tiers of arcading, and an embattled parapet; three united lancets light the upper stage, and the entrance is through an arch subdivided by a single shaft; the interior, of two bays, is richly arcaded at the sides, with a vaulted roof, and opens to the nave by a beautiful double portal: the whole has been especially restored by Mrs. J. T. Waddington, at a cost of about £1,169. A very small portion of the south-east angle of the cloister, built about 1504 and destroyed in 1650, still remains, but the chapter house has entirely disappeared. The great modern restoration of the cathedral was begun by Dean Peacock in 1845, and has been continued almost uninterruptedly by his successors, Deans Goodwin and Merivale, under the successive direction of Mr. James Essex F.S.A. Professor Willis and the late Sir Gilbert Scott R.A.; the total sum expended from 1843 to 1899, exclusive of private benefactions, was £69,000, of which £3,600 was contributed by the Bishops of Ely and their families and £37,835 by the Dean and Chapter and members of their families, and from 1874 to 1884 a further sum of £7,083, acquired from various sources, was expended in repairs and additions; in 1903 the whole of the eastern façade was restored at a cost of £800, and on Easter Tuesday, 1904, a handsome brass memorial to the men of the Isle of Ely who died in the South African war was unveiled by Maj.-Gen. (afterwards 1st Baron) Plumer; these sums include some special gifts, but are wholly exclusive of many others, particularly of stained windows, introduced mainly under the auspices of Canon Sparke, and of which there are now upwards of 60, not including the eight lights at the east end; these represent a total value of about £9,000, and among the donors were Her late Majesty Queen Victoria and the Prince Consort and the officers of the Cambridgeshire militia, who in 1882 erected a memorial window to the Hon. Col. Duncombe; the carved panels above the choir stalls have also been chiefly supplied by individual donors at a cost of about £18 each; Bishop Alcock's chapel has been restored by Jesus College, Cambridge: the stained glass window in this chapel was presented by Lord Alwyn Compton, Bishop of Ely 1885 to 1905; there is also a monumental brass cross to his memory, and the south-east pinnacle of the choir was restored by the late Right Hon. A. J. B. Beresford Hope; other special gifts comprise the font, presented by Canon Selwyn; the gates of the choir aisles, by Alan Lowndes esq.; the brass eagle lectern, by Canon E. B. Sparke, and various legacies and donations applied to the decoration of the ceiling and repaving of the nave and to the erection of a new pulpit. The interior dimensions are:—Whole length from west to east 517 feet, diameter octagon 65 feet, length of transept 179 feet, width of nave with aisles 73 feet; the western tower is 48 feet square; the general height is about 70 feet, but from the floor to the centre of the lantern is 142 feet; the cloisters, when perfect, formed a quadrangle of 183 by 143 feet. Of the conventual buildings may be noticed the remains of the hall and chapel of the infirmary, 158 feet long, a masterpiece of Late and refined Norman work; the prior's lodge with its 13th century guest hall and the refectory, now the deanery, begun by Prior Hemingstone about 1270; these buildings form part of a quadrangle, on the south side of which is the exquisite chapel of Prior Crauden, c. 1324, which has finely traceried windows, and a curious encaustic pavement representing "The Fall of Man," and has been partially but well restored under the direction of Professor Willis, Mr. Stewart, and in 1884 by Mr. G. F. Bodley A.R.A.; the building is now allowed to the cathedral school for chapel services. The cathedral registers contain records of baptisms from 1693; marriages, 1691; burials, 1735.

The palace, built by Bishop Alcock before 1500, consists of two wings and a hall, and has a gallery 100 feet in length, added by Bishop Goodrich (1534-54); the extremity of each wing, facing the road, forms a kind of tower of four stages, that on the east side having a rich triple canopy in the second storey and above this the arms of Alcock; in the palace is preserved the famous "Tabula Eliensis," a late work of the 16th century, representing 40 knights whom William I. quartered on the abbey, with shields of arms and figures of monks accompanying each knight; there is also a curious picture of the funeral of Bishop Cox in 1581.

At the Dissolution of the Monasteries in the reign of Henry VIII. a charter was granted, about 1538, and the cathedral, with its revenues and precincts, was given to the Dean and Chapter for perpetual succession; the establishment now consists of a bishop, dean, six canons, three minor canons, six lay clerks and 16 choristers. As the Bishop represents the former abbots, and the dean takes the place of the prior, the former occupies the abbot's stall in the angle of the screen on the south side, and the latter the corresponding, or prior's seat, on the north side, and there is consequently no bishop's throne, as in most other cathedrals. The bi-sexcentenary celebration of the foundation of the monastery took place on Friday, October 17th, 1873, being the festival of St. Etheldreda, the foundress, and on the four following days, when special services were held in the cathedral, with addresses by the diocesan and other bishops: lectures on the history of the fabric were delivered by the late Sir Gilbert Scott R.A. and the late Mr. Edmund Sharpe M.A. and on the closing day a great meeting of parish choirs was held in the nave: on the south side of the cathedral is an artificial mound called "Cherry Hill," the origin of which is uncertain, but is thought to be the site of the keep of an ancient castle erected for defence of the monastery: it is now covered with trees and shrubs: a winding path leads to the summit, from which a fine view of the surrounding country may be obtained.

The ancient chapel on the west side is now the Cambridgeshire War Memorial and contains the names of the men of the County borough of Cambridge, and of the Isle of Ely, who fell in the Great War, 1914-18.

Holy Trinity church, formerly the Lady Chapel of the cathedral, is a rectangular edifice of stone, consisting of five bays, in the Late Decorated style, and was begun in 1321, by John Wisbech, a monk, from a design by Alan de Walsingham, then sub-prior, and finished in 1349; its unusual position, northward of the choir, is owing to the circumstance of a public road passing over the ground at the east end of the cathedral which would otherwise have been its site, and which would then have made this cathedral the longest in the world; the interior of the church, to the level of the window sills, is surrounded by a singularly beautiful arcading of canopied ogee arches, richly feathered and inclining forward; the spaces between the windows which are of great size, with finely conceived tracery, are similarly treated, and above spreads a superb vaulting, intricately groined, and studded with bosses, illustrating the history of the Virgin, and other subjects; the east window is of seven, and the west is of eight lights; the exterior space above each is filled with an arcade of nine crocketed arches, and at the west end a similar arcade extends below the window, with other arches and shields at the sides; the whole of these arches retain moulded pedestals, but of the 32 figures which they once supported, none now remain; the building is 100 feet long by 46 feet wide and 60 feet high, its only fault being its undue width, but this is amply compensated for by the wonderful and exquisite beauty of its parts and especially for the "gorgeous and unrivalled series of stone stalls," which constitute its choicest feature; there is one bell, dated 1648, and a sanctus bell, inscribed "Abc gratia plena;" these, however, are not hung above the church, but in a belfry at the school opposite: there are 500 sittings. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £737, with residence and including 13 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter, and held since 1929 by the Rev. Elliott Simpson M.A. of St. John's College, Oxford and Theological College Ely, rural dean of Ely and surrogate.

The church of St. Mary, standing at a short distance from the cathedral, is a building of stone in the Transitional and Early English styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of seven bays, aisles, south transept, north porch and a western tower with hexagonal spire of the Decorated period, containing a clock and 8 bells, of which the seventh was cast in 1670, the third in 1766, and all the others in 1781: in the chancel is an arcaded double piscina and canopied sedilia; a smaller but similar piscina remains in the south transept: on the south-west buttress of the tower is a tablet recording the burial of five persons who were executed at Ely in 1816 for robberies at Ely and Littleport during the riots in May of that year: there are four stained glass windows: that in the east end, executed by Kemp, was presented by Charles Bidwell esq. in memory of his parents; two, added in 1920 and 1921, are in memory of the men who fell in the Great War, 1914-18, and of the Rev. Kenelm Smith and wife respectively; one, added in 1927, was presented in memory of the late Charles Bidwell by his wife and family: the church was rebuilt in 1215 by Bishop Eustachius, on the site of a former church; the arches of the nave must be his work; the curious mixture in this church of Norman and Early English features, in the arcades and columns, is perhaps unique. The north porch of the church is almost unique, showing the transition from Norman to Early English architecture. Two thirds are carved with chisel and hammer, the remaining third being hewn in the earlier Norman method with an axe. The building was restored in 1878-9, and a vestry was added in 1899: it affords 400 sittings. The register dates from the year 1670. The living is held with that of Holy Trinity. St. Mary's vicarage was formerly known as Cromwell House, in which Oliver Cromwell and his family lived from 1636-47. The churchyard contains the remains of a curious old font, in which it is thought two of Cromwell's children were christened.

The district church of St. Etheldreda, at Queen Adelaide, erected in 1883-4 at a cost of £700, is a plain edifice of brick, consisting of nave, south porch and a turret containing one bell: there are sittings for 140; the services are conducted by the clergy of Holy Trinity.

The district church of St. Peter, in Broad street, erected in 1890 at a cost of £4,050, is a building of stone in the Early Decorated style consisting of chancel, nave, south porch, and a south-west turret containing one bell: the chancel has a piscina and sedilia: the east window is stained and there are 250 sittings; the services are conducted by the clergy of Holy Trinity.

Ely Theological College, founded in 1876, is a handsome building of red brick with stone facings, in the Gothic style, and was opened in 1881 for 20 students, who are usually graduates. A stone effigy of Bishop Woodford was placed in a niche on the outside wall of the chapel in 1886 by the principal and students. In 1932 extensions were made to the building to provide for a further 19 students. The usual period of training for graduates is from five terms to two years, lectures being given daily by the principal and vice-principal. The students have some experience of practical work in some of the parishes in the neighbourhood. A sum of £270 a year is offered in bursaries to deserving students. The college is under the direction of a principal and vice-principal, the bishop of the diocese being the visitor. The Rev. Canon Charles John Smith M.A. of Pembroke College, Cambridge, has been principal since 1921.

The parish room for Holy Trinity, erected in Newnham street in 1889, was rebuilt and considerably enlarged in 1909; there is also one for St. Mary's in the Cambridge road, built in 1891.

The Roman Catholic church, in Egmont street, dedicated to St. Etheldreda and opened in 1903, is an edifice of white brick in the Decorated style, and consists of chancel, nave of four bays, aisles and a north porch. The high altar and reredos are of carved oak, and there are several stained windows and sittings for 200 persons.

Zion Baptist chapel, in High Street passage, was erected in 1853 and will seat 120 persons; the Countess of Huntingdon's, in Chapel street, was founded in 1785 and has 350 sittings; there is a Methodist chapel in Victoria street and the one in Chapel street was renovated in 1891, at a cost of £600.

A Cemetery of 10½ acres was formed in 1855, at a cost of £3,500, and 5½ acres have since been added at an additional cost of £1,300. The cemetery is under the control of a Burial Board of 15 members.

There are two mortuary chapels connected by a tower, carried on open arches, and surmounted by a spire.

The Shire Hall, built in 1820, is a structure of brick, consisting of a centre and two wings: the former contains apartments for holding the courts and public meetings, and the south wing forms a police station; the hall will hold about 250 persons.

The Ely Urban District Council buildings were erected in 1931 and are of brick faced with white stone. They include the council chamber and the Urban District Council offices on the first floor, and, on the ground floor, the city fire station.

A large beet sugar factory, erected in 1925, gives employment to about 850 men.

The Corn Exchange (the property of the Ely Corn Exchange Co. Ltd.), in the Market place, which was built in 1847, and the cattle market, the property of the Urban District Council, are well attended. Thursday is the market day.

The fairs, anciently held on Ascension Day or Holy Thursday and October 29th, the former for three and the latter for nine days, have been reduced to three days each, the May or summer fair commencing on the last Thursday in May, except when that day falls on Holy Thursday, and then the Thursday before, and the October or winter fair on the last Thursday in October.

Needham's charity provides education and clothing for poor boys of Ely, and was founded by Mrs. Catherine Needham, of Aylesbury, in 1734, who left land in the parish, originally producing £80 yearly, but now bringing in about £250 a year, for this purpose. This school was reorganized Sept. 5, 1910; there are scholarships for boys of 12 years of age, which may be given each year, who receive free education and maintenance exhibitions to the value of £2 a year for three years. The charity is managed by a body of governors, now comprising the Dean of Ely and others; treasurer, J. Smith esq.; schoolmaster, Mr. F. Thrower.

Laney's charity is for apprenticing boys of Ely and Soham; clerk, E. R. Evans, solicitor, Ely.

Parsons', Howard's and Tunkiss' charities, for the relief of poor during winter, are managed by a body of 12 governors; George M. Hall, clerk; John E. Bidwell, St. Mary's street, receiver; Capt. Daniel William Harper, 63 Silver street, superintendent.

Parsons' charity, an ancient benefaction, produces upwards of £1,000 net yearly revenue, from lands in Ely and Stretham, out of which the feoffees or governors pay £130 yearly under the sealed order of the Charity Commissioners dated March 19, 1909, for the purpose of meeting any claims made by the education authorities, £40 to the Ely Dispensary, £21 to Addenbrooke's Hospital, Cambridge, about £60 for general relief and coal to the poor, £50 in renting of allotments of land and sub-letting to the poor, and besides this a considerable portion of the charity land is let to the poor in husbandry allotments and small holdings: there is also another large charity, derived from estates at Soham and Fordham, left by Benjamin Laney, Bishop of Ely 1675-77, for the apprenticing of poor children of Ely and Soham to honest trades, the premium not to exceed £20.

An Isolation Hospital (in St. John's road) was opened on the 24th April, 1917; the cost of the buildings was £2,217, the whole of which was given by William and Mrs. Emily Ann Cutlack. It contains 24 beds and an administration block, disinfectant house, mortuary and laundry. The hospital is open for the reception of all cases of enteric, typhus and Asiatic cholera.

The boundaries of the city and Urban District of Ely include 16,742 acres; the population in 1931 was 8,382; the area of Holy Trinity parish is 3,833 acres of land and water and St. Mary parish is 3,459 acres of land and water; the total includes 9,018 acres of intermixed land rated to the two parishes; Ely College, 33 acres; Witcham Gravel, 399 acres.

By the Isle of Ely Review Order, 1933, part of the parish of Witchford was transferred from the rural to the urban district and added to the parish of Ely St. Mary. By the same Order portions of the urban district were transferred to the rural district.

The population of the parishes in 1921 was:—Ely College, 101; Holy Trinity, 3,786, St. Mary, 2,692; Witcham Gravel, 9, and intermixed lands common to St. Mary and Holy Trinity, 1,102.

The population of the ecclesiastical parishes in 1921 was:—Holy Trinity, 3,401; St. Mary, 2,566.

Ely College or Ely Cathedral Precincts is reputed to be extra-parochial for ecclesiastical purposes.

The Cathedral Grammar School, commonly called "The Kings' School, Ely," founded in the 11th century, & refounded by King Henry VIII. in 1543, now numbers amongst its buildings the stately structure anciently forming the principal entrance to the monastery, & generally known as "Ely Porta;" it stands a little to the south of the cathedral, & is a rectangular pile of three storeys, with square embattled turrets at the angles: the gateway consists of a single deep arch, with a postern on the south, & above, in the third storey, is a Decorated window of three lights, flanked on either side by two canopied niches: the remaining windows are small & of two lights each: this gatehouse is said to have been begun about 1366, in the time of Prior Buckton, & was still unfinished in 1397; in 1873 the upper storey was thrown into a single chamber, to serve as a school-room, a five court constructed & the porter's lodge enlarged, & in 1880-1 a hostel of brick & stone, in the Gothic style, called "Hereward Hall," was erected from designs by Mr. Carpenter, architect, on the west side, to hold 80 boys; in 1906 the school was enlarged by the addition of science laboratories & an art room. In 1921 the Old Tythebarn was converted into a gymnasium & workshop. The Head Master's house, in the college, provides for 20 boarders, & includes amongst other interesting buildings the "Fare Hall," which, in the reign of Edward III. was used as a place of entertainment; there are now (1933) about 160 boys, mainly boarders. Among the eminent men educated here may be named James Bentham M.A. author of the "History of Ely Cathedral;" attached to the school are six entrance & four leaving scholarships. Rev. Canon T. J. Kirkland B.Sc.Lond., A.K.C., F.I.C., F.O.S head master; E. Crichton-Wodehouse, secretary Cathedral Choristers' School, The College, for 26 boys, built in 1862, is a building of stone in the college, on the north side of the cathedral; Rev. R. S. N. Lee M.A. master; assisted by the Rev. Maldwyn Humphreys M.A.

GREAT EVERS DEN is a parish, 3 miles south-west from Lord's Bridge station on the Bedford and Cambridge branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and 7 south-west from Cambridge, in the hundred of Longstow, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, rural district of Caxton and Arrington, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Bourn and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary is a plain building of rubble in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, north porch and an embattled western tower, with a short wooden spire covered with lead and a projecting belfry containing 3 bells: in the east wall of the chancel is a piscina, and on the other side a small aumbry: the rood staircase and upper door remain: there are some old benches, two having misereres, and a Jacobean pulpit: the church was restored about the year 1864, and again in 1920 at a cost of £370, and affords 175 sittings. The register dates from the year 1541. The living is a vicarage, united with the rectory of Little Eversden, joint net yearly value £320, with glebe and residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, who has one turn, and Queens' College, Cambridge, who have two turns, and held since 1931 by the Rev. William Howard Braine M.A. of Queens' College, Cambridge, who resides at Little Eversden. The Congregational chapel was first founded in 1689; the present building was erected in 1845, at a cost of £1,000: in the chapel is a tablet to the Rev. Francis Holcraft M.A. who was imprisoned for nearly nine years, in 1663, and at a later period for another three years, for preaching to an Independent congregation here: there are 500 sittings: the chapel is endowed with a bequest of about £200 in 3 per Cent. Consols, from Robert Leete esq. who also left a sum of £100 for the poor in connection with this place of worship, and another £100 was bequeathed by Stephen Leete esq. for the support of the ministry here. The parish has a small charity in land, the produce of which, now under £5, is given away in coals on Nov. 5th by the principal parishioners. The lands here are all freehold. The President and Fellows of Queens' College, Cambridge, and the local farmers are the principal landowners. The soil is clunch, clay and gault; and the subsoil, gravel, gault, and in some parts chalk, of which there are several quarries. The area is 1,400 acres; the population in 1921 was 170.

LITTLE EVERS DEN is a parish, 2 miles south-west from Lord's Bridge station on the Bedford and Cambridge branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and 7 south-west from Cambridge, in the hundred of Longstow, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, rural district of Caxton and Arrington, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Bourn, and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Helen, dating from 1294, is an ancient building of stone in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave, north porch and a low embattled western tower with pinnacles and containing 4 bells: the building was partially restored in 1892, at a cost of £500, when a rood staircase was discovered: the church is now furnished with oak stalls, designed by Mr. G. F. Bodley B.A., F.S.A.: there are 150 sittings. The register dates from the year 1541. The living is a rectory, united with the vicarage of Great Eversden, joint net yearly value £320, with glebe and residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, who has one turn, and Queens' College, Cambridge, who have two turns, and held since 1931 by the Rev. William Howard Braine M.A. of that college. The advowson was given to Queens' College, Cambridge, in 1572 by John Chetham, of Great Livermore, in Suffolk, in consideration of which benefaction he and his heirs were to have the privilege of nominating to one of the smaller scholarships in that college. In 1775 Mr. Deer left the sum of £100 for the repair of the church, and in 1854 Miss Lydia Leete left £300 Consols, the interest to be spent in coals and clothing for the poor at Christmas; there is also a charity for apprenticing poor children belonging to this parish. The manorial rights formerly belonged to Queens' College, but the land has been enfranchised. The principal landowners are the President and Fellows of Queens' College, Cambridge, and Messrs. E. J. Hagger, W. Morris, T. C. Ellis and G. Gascoyne. The soil is chalky clay and gault; subsoil, gault and clunch. The chief crops are fruit (greengages), wheat, oats and barley. The area is 790 acres; the population in 1921 was 156.

FEN DITTON is a parish and village on the east bank of the river Cam, at the juncture of the Floam Dyke, 2½ miles north-north-east from Cambridge, in the hundred of Flendish, Bottisham petty sessional division, rural district of Chesterton, Cambridge county court district, rural deanery of Quy and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary, which stands near a bend of the river and on its south bank, is an edifice of Barnack ashlar in the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of four bays, aisles, south porch and a western tower containing 5 bells: the chancel is a beautiful example of rather late Decorated work, but the nave, arcades and the clerestory are Perpendicular: the font, which bears shields of arms, is of the same date: the Early English tower, a curious structure supported on four arches, was taken down to the foundations in 1881 and carefully rebuilt under the direction of J. L. Pearson esq. B.A. the north aisle and chancel being restored at the same time, and the east window filled with stained glass, as a memorial to Professor Haviland by his sons: in 1888 further restoration was effected, and the total cost of both amounted to £4,050: in the chancel is a mural monument with arms, to Richard Willys, of the Inner Temple, ob. 1625; a slab, with arms, to Jane, wife of John Cornwall S.T.P. ob. 1712; and another, also with arms, to Humphrey Gardner esq. ob. 1691. This church was visited in 1643 by Dowsing, the iconoclast, who "beat down two crucifixes, and ye 12 apostles, and many other superstitious pictures": in 1889 the south aisle, porch, clerestory wall and windows were thoroughly restored, and during the progress of the work two niches, quaintly painted, were discovered at the east end of the aisle, and also a piscina in a fair state of preservation: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538, and contains numerous references to the Willys or Willis family. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £639, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1930 by the Rev. Edward Joseph Church M.A. of Trinity Colloge, Cambridge, hon. canon of Ely. Near the church is a memorial of Portland stone, bearing the names of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. A Church Hall was opened in 1914. The Methodist chapel, erected in 1880, will hold 100 persons. In this parish, and 2½ miles from Cambridge, is the Cambridge Borough Cemetary, opened June 6th, 1903; the area is 25 acres: there is one mortuary chapel and a house for the superintendent. Almshouses were founded here by the Willys family in 1665-6 and rebuilt in 1877 by the late Mr. Thomas Bailey, and they have since been endowed by the late Mr. Frederick Bailey with the rents of the land in the Manea Fen, producing £14 yearly, for the purpose of keeping them in repair. In this parish are the remains of Biggin Farm house, formerly a residence of the Bishops of Ely, and here also is "one of the three celebrated ditches or dykes thrown up by the East Angles to protect themselves from the incursions of their enemies, the Mercians": the market granted to the Bishops of Ely for this place in 1270 has long since become obsolete. Messrs. Ginn and Matthews are lords of the manor. The Master and Fellows of St. Peter's College and Caius College, Cambridge, Lt.-Col. John Francis and Arthur Matheson Fison esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, beans and peas. The area is 1,915 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1921 was 781.

FEN DRAYTON (or Fenny Drayton) is a parish and village, about 4 miles south-east from St. Ives, 9½ north-west from Cambridge and 2½ south-west from Swavesey station on the St. Ives and Cambridge section of the London and North Eastern railway; it is in the hundred of Papworth, Cambridge petty sessional division, rural district of Swavesey, county court district of Huntingdon, rural deanery of North Stowe and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church is a small edifice of stone in various styles, from the Early English to the Perpendicular, and consists of chancel, nave, south aisle, north and south porches and a western tower with spire containing one bell: there is a memorial window, erected in 1901, to the late Rev. Frederick Shaw M.A. vicar here 1850-90, and to his wife: the church was restored in 1855 and the nave and south aisle were refloored and reseated in 1906: there are 220 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from 1575; marriages, 1580; burials, 1574. The living is a curacy, net yearly value £200, with residence, in the gift of Christ's College, Cambridge, and held since 1933 by the Rev.

The Methodist chapel, erected in 1866, at a cost of £1,035, is of white and red dressed bricks in the Gothic style, and has a turret: the windows are partly stained, and there are 240 sittings. The proceeds of 22 acres of land are applied to parish purposes. In the village is an obelisk of stone, erected in 1920, as a memorial to the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. There are now no manorial rights. The principal landowners are John Evison esq. J.P. and John Scambler esq. The soil varies and in parts is very fertile, producing wheat, beans, barley, oats, turnips, mangolds, potatoes and large quantities of flowers; the subsoil is gravel. The area is 1,482 acres of land and 10 of water; the population in 1921 was 246.

FORDHAM is a parish and village, on the road to Ely, with a station about half a mile from the village, on the Ely and Newmarket and Cambridge and Mildenhall branches of the London and North Eastern railway, 5 miles north from Newmarket, and 3 south-east of Soham, in the hundred of Staploe, rural district, petty sessional division and county court district of Newmarket, rural deanery of Fordham, archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Peter is an ancient building of stone and flint in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, organ chamber, faculty chapel, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells: the chapel of St. Mary, over the north entrance, was restored and opened to the interior as a gallery in 1864 by the late William Dunn Gardner: the chancel was painted in memory of Laura Mabel Townsend by her two sisters, Edith and Minnie: the stained east and west windows and others are memorials, several windows being to members of the Townsend family: at the west end is a stained window to the memory of James Reynolds Withers, rural poet, born 1812, died 1892: the canopies and wall decoration of the chancel were executed by Mr. C. P. Leonard, of Fordham, and the figures were painted as a memorial to Miss Townsend by her sisters: the altar cloth was worked and presented by Mrs. George Townsend and her daughter: a pair of candlesticks was presented by Mrs. Dawson Waugh and G. F. Townsend esq. in 1927 to the memory of George Townsend esq. of Exning; the church was restored during the period 1874-91, since when the porch has been restored and the interior adorned with mural decoration: the organ was rebuilt in 1911: there are 600 sittings. The register dates from the year 1567. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £432, with residence, in the gift of Jesus College, Cambridge, and held since 1923 by the Rev. Claude Bernard Prior M.O., M.A. of that college. There is a Congregational chapel, erected in 1818, and having 400 sittings, and two Methodist chapels. A cemetery of about half an acre was formed in 1892, and is under the control of the vicar and churchwardens. The Victoria Hall and Hayward Institute was erected in 1897 at a cost of £1,137, to commemorate the Diamond Jubilee of Her late Majesty Queen Victoria. There are six almshouses for aged widows, and a sum of £57 from several charities is distributed yearly to the general poor in fuel, clothing and money. A fire brigade station was erected in 1889 by voluntary contributions. Here was anciently a priory of Gilbertine canons, founded by King Henry III. as a cell to that of Sempringham, in Lincolnshire, and dedicated to St. Peter and St. Mary Magdalen. Its revenues at the Dissolution were estimated at £40. Fordham Abbey is at present (1933) unoccupied. St. John's College, Cambridge, who possess the manorial rights of Bassingbourn; Trinity Hall, Cambridge, by whom the manorial rights of Felton's manor are held, and the Cambridgeshire County Council, who are lords of the manor of Coggishall, are the principal landowners. The soil is mixed, consisting of gravel, sand, loam and clay; subsoil, various. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. There are nurseries and seed growing establishments here belonging to Messrs. Charles Townsend Ltd., Charles Morley, John Golding, Rule Bros. and others. The area is 4,195 acres of land and 9 of water; the population in 1921 was 1,461.

FOWLMEERE, in Domesday Book "Fugelesmare," is a parish, 6 miles north-east from Royston, 2½ south-east from the Shepreth station on the Hitchin, Royston and Cambridge line of the London and North Eastern railway, and 9 south from Cambridge, in the hundred of Thriplow, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, rural district of Melbourn, county court district of Royston, rural deanery of Barton, arch-deaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary is a fine structure of flint in the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisle, transepts, north porch and a lofty embattled central tower containing 5 bells: there are two memorial windows, and there is also a monument to the Mitchell family, dated 1745 and 1748: the church was restored during the period 1870-90, at a cost of about £3,000, and has 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1561. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £673, with 76 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1925 by the Rev. Robert James Albert Jary M.A. of Cambridge University. The Congregational chapel was erected in 1780: in 1870 an apse was added and an organ purchased: the chapel underwent a thorough restoration in 1878, at a cost of about £1,100, this sum including the erection of a turret containing a clock and bell: there are 409 sittings. In the village is a cross of Portland stone, erected in 1919 as a memorial to the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. There are charities producing about £21 yearly. The cemetery, on the Shepreth road, comprises 1 acre of ground, given by the late F. M. Beldam-Johns esq. and has a chapel, erected in 1912; it is under the control of the Parish Council. The principal landowners are the trustees of the late John May Coleman esq. J.P. the trustees of the late Edward Arthur Wedd esq. J.P. Thomas Maulkin Nash esq. and Martin Benjamin Sheldrick esq. The soil and subsoil are chalky and gravelly. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley, beans and green crops. The area is 2,272 acres; the population in 1921 was 494.

FULBOURN is a consolidated parish and village, with a station on the Cambridge and Newmarket section of the London and North Eastern railway, 5 miles east-south-east from Cambridge, in the hundred of Flendish, Bottisham petty sessional division, rural district of Chesterton, Cambridge county court district, rural deanery of Quy, and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely: it includes two parishes, viz. All Saints' and St. Vigor's. Both churches stood in the same church-dates from the year 1673. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Peterborough, and held since 1929 by the Rev. Gordon Ernest Childs M.A. of Emmanuel and Pembroke Colleges, Cambridge. There is a Methodist chapel here. A cross of Cornish granite was erected in 1922, on a site given by Dr. Briggs, of Cambridge, as a memorial to the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18, in whose memory also a recreation ground of about 3 acres was opened. A charter granted to the De La Hayes in 1325 gave them the privilege of holding a market here and two fairs, one at the feast of St. Peter and St. Paul, the other at the feast of St. Andrew; this charter was confirmed in 1326; but there is now only one fair, which is held at Easter. Capt. John Nelson Bendyshe is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is gravelly and chalky; the subsoil, gravel and clay. The chief crops are wheat and barley. The area is 1,752 acres; the population in 1921 was 480.

A motor omnibus from Royston to Cambridge passes through the village several times daily

Council, dated February 15, 1912, burials have ceased in St. Mark's church and churchyard. There are two Methodist chapels. In the centre of the village is a clock tower of brick and faced with stucco, erected to the memory of the 24 men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. Needham Hall is the residence of Sir Walter Woolf West J.P. The principal landowners are the Co-operative Wholesale Society Ltd. Sir Walter Woolf West J.P. William Richard Green esq. George Flint esq. Henry C. Flint esq. Henry James Ward esq. and the Isle of Ely County Council. The soil is loamy; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are potatoes, sugar beet, fruit and cereals. The area is 4,550 acres; the population in 1921 was 930. The following places are in this parish:—COTTONS, 2½ miles south-east, and WALDERSEA, a district of about 5,500 acres, drained by steam power, the water being pumped into the river Nene by a powerful engine on the South Brink, about 3 miles from Wisbech.

yard, but on Sunday, 25th May, 1766, at about 5 a.m. the tower of All Saints' church fell and totally ruined the building; 3 of the 5 bells were lying in the ruins in May, 1774, but the oak benches and fittings had been stolen: the church was eventually taken down under the authority of an Act of Parliament; all the parochial assessments are united, but each parish appoints its own officers, and the livings are consolidated. The church of St. Vigor is a building of stone, chiefly in the Decorated style, but with some Early English and Perpendicular features, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave of five bays, aisles, south transept or chantry, south porch opening eastward, with parvise, and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 8 bells: in the chantry is a high tomb, with two recumbent figures of clunch stone, probably representing Edward Wood esq. and his lady, ob. 1633; here also is a tablet to Tyrrell Dalton, ob. 1692: on the north side of the chancel, under a septifoiled arch, and within a wooden shrine of six compartments, is an emaciated recumbent effigy of John Careway, a former rector of St. Vigor's, who died in 1443: in the chancel is a large brass, with effigy in cope, under a canopy, to William de Fulbourn, chaplain to Edward III. and formerly canon of St. Paul's Cathedral, ob. 1390: there are several other brasses, including one of a priest, circa 1520, and fixed against the wall in the north aisle are kneeling effigies of a lady and two children: the tower and north arcade of the nave are Early English, dating from about 1280: the south arcade is very good Decorated: the windows are chiefly Decorated and Perpendicular: on the north side of the chancel is a curious irregular cusped arch, forming a sedile: the pulpit, of carved oak, dates from about 1360, and is enriched with crocketing and quaint figures in the spandrels; the nave is seated with fine open benches, the ends being panelled and finished with poppy heads; and there is a carved oak screen, erected in 1897 as a memorial to the late C. W. Townley esq. lord lieut. d. 1893: in 1887 the beautiful Early Perpendicular east window of five lights was filled with stained glass, and in the south transept is a memorial window to Richard Greaves Townley, who died at Pekin 30th Nov. 1888: there are also several memorial tablets to members of the Townley family: the church affords 500 sittings. A lychgate was erected at the south entrance to the churchyard in 1923, as a memorial to the parishioners who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1558. The living consists of the rectory of St. Vigor and the vicarage of All Saints', joint net yearly value £890, with residence, in the gift of St. John's College, Cambridge, and held since 1918 by the Rev. Theodore Harber Hennessy M.A. of that college, and rural dean of Quy. The Congregational chapel, built in 1815, will seat 400 persons. A memorial cross of granite, about 14 feet in height, and standing in an enclosed area, was erected in 1919 to the memory of the men of the parishes who fell in the Great War, 1914-18, the names of whom are inscribed on the base. The Working Men's Institute has a lending library of 900 volumes and a reading room. There are eight almshouses, erected by subscription in 1864. The charities are as follows: £78 yearly from Caraway's Charity, for clothing; £110 yearly from Bishop's Charity, for flour; £27 yearly from Farmer's Charity, the greater part of which is distributed amongst the poor who regularly attend church; and a sum of £12, given by Thomas Oslar, in 1722, to purchase an acre of land for a perpetual charity for the poor widows of St. Vigor's parish, the profits of which are distributed on St. Thomas' Day. A pumping station of the Cambridge Water Works Company, erected as an auxiliary to the works at Cherry Hinton, was opened in March, 1891, at a cost of £20,000, and another pumping station at Fleam Dyke. The annual feast is held here on the Monday and Tuesday following the first Sunday after Trinity. Fulbourn Manor is the property of Charles Evelyn Townley esq. M.A. and is at present (1933) unoccupied: the house stands in its own grounds of 9 acres, and is surrounded by a well-wooded park of about 78 acres. Charles Evelyn Townley esq. M.A. Francis Joseph Chaplin esq. and the rector are the principal landowners. The soil is loam; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat and barley. The area is 5,263 acres; the population in 1921 was 1,880.

FULBOURN VALLEY is 2 miles south.

NEW SHARDELOWES is 1½ miles south-east.

GAMLINGAY (anciently Gamgay) is a parish and bounded on the west and south by Bedfordshire and by Hunts on the north, with a station on the Bedford and Cambridge branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 50 miles from London and is 6 south-east from St. Neots, in the hundred of Longstow, petty sessional division of Caxton, county court district of Biggleswade, rural district of Caxton and Arrington, rural deanery of Bourn, archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary is a cruciform building of stone in the Early English style, with Late Perpendicular additions, and consists of chancel, nave of five bays, aisles, north and south porches, and an embattled western tower with small tapering spire and containing 6 bells, the original 5 having been re-hung and a 6th bell added in the 1897 as a memorial of the Diamond Jubilee of Her late Majesty Queen Victoria: a carved oak screen separates the nave from the chancel, and there are monuments to the Lane family, dating from 1717 and 1754, with others of much earlier date, but now defaced: the structure was new roofed in 1843, at a cost of about £200, and thoroughly restored in 1881 under the directions of Mr. J. P. St. Aubyn, architect, at a cost of £3,500: there are 350 sittings. The earliest register dates only from the year 1699, all the previous registers having been disposed of as waste paper by a former vicar. Attached to the parish is a rectory in medieties representing respectively the manors of Merton and Avenells, both in the patronage of Merton College, Oxford: the former mediety is impropriated to the college and leased by them to the incumbent of another college living; the latter is a spiritual benefice, but a sinecure, held, on the presentation of the college, by the incumbent of the vicarage, which is in the gift of the Bishop of Ely: the living is therefore a rectory and vicarage, net yearly value £630 with glebe and residence, and held since 1933 by the Rev. Edward James Toase M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. The mission church, built in 1885-6 for the convenience of parishioners residing on Gamlingay Heath and neighbourhood, and about 1½ miles from the parish church, is an edifice of red brick, from designs by Mr. J. P. St. Aubyn, architect, and consists of chancel, nave and south porch: there are 110 sittings. The Baptist chapel, founded in 1710 and restored in 1881 at a cost of £400, will hold 500 persons; John Bunyan is said to have preached here. The Methodist chapel, built by Captain W. W. Dennis in 1883, seats 300, and there are also other Methodist and Calvinistic chapels. A cemetery of 1½ acres was formed in 1891 at a cost of £400; it is under the control of the Parish Council. The almshouses, consisting of 10 tenements for widows of the parish, were built by Sir John Jacob kt. in 1665; at the east end is a building, formerly a chapel, for 10 poor persons, and endowed by Mrs. Elizabeth Lane in 1745 with the interest of £2,000 Old South Sea Annuities. The market, formerly held on Tuesdays, has been discontinued since 1600, when a dreadful fire having consumed nearly the whole town the market was transferred to the neighbouring town of Potton in Bedfordshire. Woodbury Hall, the property and residence of Richard John Vereker Astell esq. is a mansion of Portland stone situated on rising ground commanding very extensive and pleasing views of the surrounding country; it stands nearly in the centre of an estate of 500 acres. Tetworth Hall is a Jacobean mansion, once the property of the Pedley family, which became extinct about 1826, and is the seat of Mrs. Orlebar. The Master and Fellows of Merton College, Oxford, who are lords of the manor, Downing and Clare Colleges, Cambridge, William Ellis esq. J.P. Miss E. Duncombe, Richard John Vereker Astell esq. and Mrs. W. D. Stuart are the principal landowners. The soil is sand; in the lower parts clay; subsoil, gault. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley, beans, potatoes and market garden produce. The area is 4,460 acres; the population in 1921 was 1,645, including the hamlet of Woodbury, 1 mile west.

GIRTON is a parish and village, on a feeder of the Ouse, close to the road from Cambridge to Huntingdon, 2 miles south-west from Histon station on the St. Ives and Cambridge line of the London and North Eastern railway and 2½ north-west from Cambridge, in the hundred of North Stowe, rural district of Chesterton, petty sessional division and county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of North Stowe and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Andrew is a building of rubble and stone in the Perpendicular style, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 4 bells: there are piscinæ in the chancel and south aisle: the south porch has a parvise of later date and a turret with door at the south-west angle: the tower is a heavy structure carried on three arches with a polygonal tower reaching half way up on the southern face: there are brasses in the church to former rectors, with effigies in processional vestments, dated respectively 1497 and 1492: the church was restored in 1853 and the chancel decorated about 1899: through the bequest of Miss Coombe, the daughter of a former rector, the church was completely restored and a new organ installed in 1926-7, at a cost of £2,000: there are 210 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1629; marriages, 1630. A memorial of Portland stone in the churchyard bears the names of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £488, with glebe and residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Philip Nathaniel Hitchen Palmer M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. There is a Baptist chapel here. An Institute was built in 1910 at a cost of about £600. The church and town lands produce upwards of £70 yearly for the relief of the village poor. Trinity and St. John's Colleges, Cambridge, and Mrs. John Lilley Smith are the principal landowners. The soil is principally heavy; the subsoil, clay, producing excellent crops of all descriptions of grain. The area is 1,681 acres; the population in 1921 was 642.

GOREFIELD is an ecclesiastical parish, in the Isle of Ely, formed under the provisions of the Leverington Rectory Act, 1870, out of the civil parishes of Leverington, Newton and Parson Drove, and is 4 miles north-west from Wisbech, in the hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Wisbech, rural deanery and archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Paul, erected in 1870, is a building of flint and stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, vestry, south porch and a turret containing one bell: there are 308 sittings. The register dates from the year 1871. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £415, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1930 by the Rev. John King Cecil Payne A.K.C. There is a Congregational chapel, erected in 1836, which has 200 sittings. The parish room, erected in 1904 at a cost of £300, and enlarged in 1925, is a building in the Gothic style, used as a Sunday school and temporary day school. There are a number of small landowners. The soil is rich loam; subsoil, clay; the chief crops are fruit, oats, beans, potatoes, wheat and mustard. The population in 1921 was 1,489.

LITTLE GRANSDEN is a parish on the borders of Huntingdonshire, 3½ miles north-west from Gamlingay station on the Bedford and Cambridge branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 8 south-west from St. Neots and 15 west-by-south from Cambridge, in the hundred of Longstowe, petty sessional division of Caxton, rural district of Caxton and Arrington, county court district of Biggleswade, rural deanery of St. Neots, archdeaconry of Huntingdon and diocese of Ely. The church of SS. Peter and Paul is a building of stone of the latter part of the 13th century, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, aisles and a lofty embattled western tower containing 3 bells: the chancel was restored in 1858, and its east end rebuilt and a stained window inserted by the Rev. Alfred Newby, a former rector, in 1875: the church was restored in 1885-8, at a cost of £700, and affords 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1730. The living is a rectory, united to the vicarage of Great Gransden, joint net yearly value £510, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, who has one turn, and Clare College, Cambridge, two turns, and held since 1931 by the Rev. James Robert Pridie M.A. of Clare College, Cambridge, who is lord of the rectorial manor, and resides at Great Gransden. Almshouses for four old persons were erected in 1903, at a cost of £7,000, and also endowed, by the late Miss Julia Norris, niece of a former rector. There is a charity of the yearly value of £12, rising from the rent of cottages and land left by James Musgrave, rector of this parish from 1714 to 1747 and son of Sir Richard Musgrave bart. formerly of Hayton Castle, Cumberland: this sum is given away in coals at Christmas, and there is a further distribution of money on the last day in May of every year. Ernest Ridgill esq. is lord of the manor. Robert Banks esq. Harold Gadson Jefferies esq. and David William Hancock esq. are the principal landowners. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The soil is light sand and heavy clay; subsoil, beds of stone and sand. The area is 1,920 acres; the population in 1921 was 227.

GRANTCHESTER, in Domesday "Grantseto" and "Grauntsethe," and supposed by some to be the "Grantaceaster" of Bede, is a parish and village, pleasantly situated on the west bank of the river Cam or Granta, 2½ miles south-west from Cambridge town, ¾ south-west from Cambridge railway station, in the Western division of the county, Wetherley hundred, Chesterton rural district, Cambridge petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Barton and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The Bourn brook, which separates this parish from Haslingfield, here joins the Cam, which separates the parish from Trumpington. The church of St. Andrew is a building of clunch and rubble, with stone quoins and buttresses, in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, and consists of chancel, nave of four bays, south aisle, north porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 3 bells: the chancel is a small but perfect example of the Decorated style, and has a curious single niche on either side: in the north wall is a low ogee-headed recess, and on the south side a cinquefoiled piscina: there is a memorial window to the Rev. Francis George Howard M.A. curate here 1866-75, d. 1889; one to the Rev. William Martin M.A. vicar 1850-82, and five other memorial windows to members of the Howard, Lilley and Hawkes families: the stained east window was the gift of the Rev. Annesley William Streane D.D. vicar here 1898-1904: the nave is Perpendicular and retains a recess, and at the east end of the aisle is an altar-tomb, with the matrices of brass effigies of a man, his wife, children and shields of arms, circa 1470: there is also a fragment of an inscription on brass to a former vicar, the reverse of which is also inscribed: the font, apparently of Norman date, is a plain circular basin on a modern stem: there is a square Jacobean pulpit, ornamented in front with a shield of arms, "two chevrons and a canton:" a south aisle was erected and the nave new roofed in 1877, and during the period 1887-91 the church was restored and seven stained windows erected, at a total cost of £2,923: the church affords 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1539. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value about £344, with glebe and residence, in the gift of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Canon Henry Arthur Hickin, of that college, hon. C.F. The Baptist chapel was built in 1876 and enlarged in 1891. The village hall was erected in 1928, at a cost of about £750. The feast, formerly held annually on July 25th and two following days, is now held on July 25th only, unless the 25th happens to fall on a Saturday or Sunday, in which case the feast is held on the following Monday. There are some benefactions for special objects and a few small charities. This village is the site of a Roman station, and traces of a small Roman camp still remain. There also exists an ancient manor house (once the refuge of the members of King's College, Cambridge, during the time of the Plague) with a moated enclosure: the mill mentioned by Chaucer was higher up the river than the present mill. Lingay Fen, where ice skating championships are often held, is partly in this parish. The Provost and Fellows of King's College, Cambridge, are lords of the manor and chief landowners. The soil is for the most part clayey; subsoil, clay and in some parts gravel. The chief crops are wheat, oats, beans and barley. The area is 1,380 acres of land and 11 of water; the population in 1921 was 489 in the civil parish and also in the ecclesiastical parish.

In 1912, by Local Government Board Cambridge (Extension) Order, 1911, an area of 167 acres from this parish was added to the borough of Cambridge for civil purposes.

GRAVELEY is a parish on the borders of Huntingdonshire, 3 miles east from Offord and Buckden station on the main line of the London and North Eastern railway, 6 south-east from Huntingdon, 7 south-west of St. Ives and 6 north-east from St. Neots, in the hundred of Papworth, petty sessional division of Caxton, rural district of Caxton and Arrington, county court district and rural deanery of St. Neots, archdeaconry of Huntingdon and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Botolph is an ancient building, consisting of chancel and nave, north porch and a low embattled western tower containing 4 bells: in 1910 the tower was underpinned and restored and the bells rehung in new frames: the chancel was rebuilt of red brick about the middle of the 18th century: the nave, which is late Early English, and the tower are constructed of rubble with stone dressings: the church was considerably repaired in 1874-6, and again in 1888, at a total cost of about £1,000, and affords 150 sittings. The churchyard was enlarged in 1913. The register dates from the year 1642. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £563, with residence, in the alternate gift of Jesus College, Cambridge and the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1929 by the Rev. George Darnell Shenton M.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge. There is a parish reading room. Trotter's charity (1763) of £32 yearly, of which £6 was left for the school, was founded by a former rector of this name, who died about the middle of the 18th century; he also left £2 12s. yearly for bread dole, £2 10s. yearly for the parish clerk and £1 to the rector for a sermon. The Master and Fellows of Jesus College, Cambridge, who are lords of the manor, A. H. B. Sperling esq. J.P. and E. Ashcroft esq. and Mrs. Lisle are the principal landowners. The soil to a considerable depth is clayey; the subsoil is Oxford clay. The chief crops are wheat, peas, beans and barley. The area is 1,582 acres; the population in 1921 was 158.

GUILDEN MORDEN is a parish and village on the river Cam, near the borders of Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire, 4 miles north from Ashwell and Morden station on the Hitchin, Royston and Cambridge branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 6 north-west from Royston and about 15 south-west from Cambridge, in the hundred of Armingford, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, rural district of Melbourn, county court district of Royston, rural deanery of Shingay and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary is an embattled building of flint and stone in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave with clerestory, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower with four crocketed pinnacles and spire, containing a clock and 6 bells: the double 14th century screen, which separates the chancel from the nave, is almost unique in England: in 1856 the interior was thoroughly repaired: in the church are memorials to William Hay, 1620; Thomas Storey, 1670; Frances Storey, 1675; and to Gertrude Storey, 1723: the church affords 420 sittings. At the entrance to the churchyard is a Runic cross of Cornish granite, erected in 1920 in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1653. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £366, including 160 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of Jesus College, Cambridge, and held since 1919 by the Rev. Llewellyn Griffith

Scott Price M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. The churchyard is now closed to interments, but an acre of ground was bought in 1897 for the purpose of a cemetery, and is under the control of the Parish Council. The Congregational chapel, built in 1841, has 500 sittings. A charity consisting of the rent of 55 acres of land, bequeathed half for the use of the poor and half towards the expenses of the church, produces about £70 yearly, which is distributed by the churchwardens and trustees under a scheme of the Charity Commissioners. In the reign of Edward II. there were two principal manors in this parish, then belonging to the families of Kyriell and Avenell; one of these was given to the Priory of Barnwell, but after the Reformation it was consolidated with the manors of Bondesbury, Bancis, Foxley and Pychards as a single manor, and known as the manor of Guilden Morden. There is a recreation ground. At the southern end of the parish is the site of a Roman cemetery: excavations were carried out by the Cambridge Archaeological Society, and the various relics found are now exhibited in the museum of archaeology and ethnology at Cambridge University. Morden Hall, an ancient mansion containing an oratory or chapel and surrounded by a large moat, was formerly the seat of Thomas-de-Hayguilden, and in 1375 a licence was granted by Bishop Arundell for the celebrating of divine offices in the chapel of the mansion; it is now the residence of Capt. John Joseph Metcalfe. The manor was purchased in 1806 by Philip, 3rd Earl of Hardwicke. The Cambridgeshire County Council, Frederick William Hunt, William Frederick Connor, Walter Sandeman and James Hugh Smythe esqrs. are the principal landowners. The soil is various; subsoil, clay and chalk. The crops are chiefly wheat, barley, oats and beans. The area is 2,599 acres; the population in 1921 was 580.

GUYHIRN with RINGSEND.—These places were formed into an ecclesiastical parish March 28. 1871, from the civil parishes of Wisbech St. Peter and Wisbech St. Mary, including the hamlet of Thorney Toll, which is 3½ miles west, and a portion of Wisbech St. Mary, with nearly the whole of Wisbech Fen.

GUYHIRN is on the navigable river Nene, here crossed by an iron girder bridge belonging to the London and North Eastern railway, and also by a new reinforced concrete bridge, suitable for vehicular traffic, which was opened in 1925. Guyhirn has a station on the London and North Eastern railway, and is 4 miles north-west from March Junction station on the same line and 6 south-west from Wisbech, in the hundred, petty sessional division, rural district, county court district, rural deanery and archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary Magdalene, erected at a cost of £3,700 and consecrated in 1878, is built upon the site of an earlier church of the same name which existed here in the 15th century: the present edifice, designed by the late Sir Geo. Gilbert Scott R.A. consists of chancel, nave, transepts, south porch and a western turret containing 3 bells, which was restored in 1920 at a cost of £460: the eagle lectern was carved by the Hon. Mrs. Montgomery, of Edinburgh, who also gave an oak communion table: the stone pulpit and font were given by friends from Devonshire and the parishioners: there are memorial windows to William Herbert Carpenter, d. 1878, and others to the Marriott family: the church affords 350 sittings. The register dates from the year 1871. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £501, including 6 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1918 by the Rev. Maurice Barnard George. The old chapel of ease, now used as a mortuary chapel, is a plain building of stone, erected in 1660, and restored in 1918 at a cost of £135; it has a bell dated 1637. There is a Methodist chapel here and another at Ringsend. The Marriott charity of £250, the interest of which is to be distributed annually by the vicar and churchwardens to the aged poor of Guyhirn, was given by the late Samuel Marriott esq. Samuel Moore esq. and the Ecclesiastical Commissioners are the chief landowners. At Thorney Toll is a school, church and a Roman Catholic chapel. The soil is clay and silt; subsoil, silt. The chief crops are potatoes, wheat, oats and sugar beet, and fruit and flower culture is a considerable industry. The population in 1921 was 1,166.

HADDENHAM is a village and parish, with a goods station on the Ely, Sutton and St. Ives branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 67 miles from London, 7 south-west from Ely and 15 north from Cambridge, in the South Witchford hundred, petty sessional division, county court district and rural district of Ely, Isle of Ely and rural deanery of Ely, archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The church of Holy Trinity, originally founded by St. Ovin in 673 A.D. is a building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, transepts, north and south porches and an Early English tower 72 feet high, rebuilt in 1876 at a cost of £1,900 and containing a clock (placed in 1878) and 6 bells, rehung to the memory of Charles Phillip Yorke, 4th Earl of Hardwicke, who died 1873, and again in 1932; the font in use, a 14th century work, is curiously carved, but in the south porch stands an earlier and perfectly plain font, which was dug up in the churchyard, and is presumed to have belonged to the former church: the chancel was restored in 1878, at a cost of about £800, and in 1910, at a cost of about £200: the nave and aisles were also restored in 1878, at a cost, including the erection of a high-pitched roof, of over £4,000; the transepts were rebuilt at a cost of £800 as a memorial to Archdeacon France, of Ely, sometime president of St. John's College, Cambridge: the total cost of the restorations amounted to £5,450: in 1897 the churchyard was enlarged and new gates erected in commemoration of the sixtieth year of the reign of H.M. the late Queen Victoria: the interior was resetated some time previous to 1897, and now affords 700 sittings. The register dates from the year 1570, and is in a perfect state of preservation. Near the church is a granite cross, erected in 1921 as a memorial to the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £352, with residence, and including 1½ acres of glebe, in the gift of the Archdeacon of Ely, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Alfred Ernest Kirkland M.A. of Emmanuel College, Cambridge. The "Rectory House," built by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners in 1872, stands close to the church on the north side; and at Hill Row there is a fine old brick house, erected in 1657 and still in a good state of preservation. In 1865 the Ven. W. Emery, archdeacon of Ely, transferred the tithes of Haddenham and Wilburton to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for an annual commutation of £600, on condition that the two livings (which are in the patronage of the archdeacon), should be improved, new parsonages erected and the chancels of the churches restored. The Baptist chapel, erected in 1905, at a cost of over £2,000, has sittings for 300 persons; the old chapel is now used as a Sunday school; a new chapel was erected at ALDRETH in 1909, at a cost of about £700: there is also a Methodist chapel, restored in 1891 at a cost of £550. The Church hall, erected in 1907, is used as a Sunday school and is also licensed for entertainments: it will seat about 400 persons. A burial ground of one acre, in Church lane, was purchased in 1862 and is under the control of the vicar and churchwardens. On Dec. 21st every year it has long been customary for poor widows in the parish to call at the various houses, collecting donations for themselves for Christmastide: this day is here called "Gooding Day, and in 1895 38 widows went round. The parish of Haddenham was originally part of the patrimony of Queen Etheldreda, foundress of Ely Cathedral A.D. 673: in this district the Saxons, under Hereward, kept William the Conqueror at bay for over three years, until they were finally subdued at Aldreth, as described by the late Canon Kingsley in "Hereward the Wake." James Spearing and W. L. Raynes esqrs. are lords of the manor. The soil on the high lands is gravelly, and part stiff clay; subsoil, sand; the whole of the fen lands have been drained and are in cultivation. The crops are sugar beet, fruit, wheat, barley, oats, potatoes and turnips. The area is 8,925 acres of land and inland water and 2 of tidal water; the population in 1921 was 1,655, including Aldreth South, or Alderwith South, about 1½ miles south-west, and Hill Row West, 1 mile west, hamlets belonging to Haddenham.

HARDWICKE is a parish, 5 miles north-by-west from Lord's Bridge station on the Bedford and Cambridge branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and 6 west from Cambridge, in the hundred of Longstowe, rural district of Caxton and Arrington, petty sessional division of Caxton, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Bourn and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary is an ancient edifice of stone in the Decorated style, and consists of chancel, nave, south porch and an embattled western tower with spire containing 3 bells: the chancel retains a piscina, and the stairs to the rood loft also remain: in the chancel is a memorial window to the Rev. James Smith Brown M.A. 22 years rector of the parish, 1870-92: there are 152 sittings, all free. The register dates from the year 1564. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £306, including residence and 33 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1933 by the Rev. Wm. Wycliffe Lucas LL.M., M.A. of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, who is also rector of Childerley and of Dry Drayton, where he resides. In or about 970, King Edgar, by the advice of Ethelwold, Bishop of Winchester, re-established a monastery here under the Benedictine rule, and gave back to it all the lands with which it was originally endowed, appointing Brithnoth, Prior of Winchester, the first abbot: the manor, given by him in 991 to the Abbot and Convent of Ely, was afterwards annexed to the see, till alienated by Bishop Heton in 1600: soon after this it was in the family of Long, whose heiress, Elizabeth, daughter of Henry Long esq. of Shingaye, brought it in marriage to Sir William Russell, created 21 July, 1603, Baron Russell of Thornhaugh; he died 9 Aug. 1613, and the title is now held by his descendant the Duke of Bedford K.G.: after some intermediate alienations, it became the property of Dr. Matthew Wren, Bishop of Hereford (1635-6), then of Norwich (1636-8) and afterwards of Ely (1638-67), who gave it to the Master and Fellows of Pembroke College, for the support and repairs of their new chapel, built chiefly at his expense, after a design by his nephew, the famous Sir Christopher Wren. The Master and Fellows of Pembroke College, Cambridge, are lords of the manor. The principal landowner is Abednego Lilley esq. The soil is stiff clay; subsoil, gault. The crops are wheat, barley and beans and a considerable quantity of pasture land. The area is 1,390 acres; the population in 1921 was 149.

HARLTON is a parish on the old Roman road to Cambridge, 1½ miles south of Lord's Bridge station on the Bedford and Cambridge line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and 6 south-west of Cambridge, in the hundred of Wetherley, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, rural district of Chesterton, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Barton and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of the Assumption of Our Lady, erected about 1370, is an edifice of clunch in the transition style from Decorated to Perpendicular, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, north and south porches and an embattled western tower containing 3 bells: the reredos is in carved stone with shallow niches: there is a stone rood screen, and an embattled turret, with novel staircase, remains at the north-west angle and has a door opening upon the nave roof: the chancel contains a large piscina of Perpendicular date, and in the north porch is a mutilated stoup: a memorial window was erected in 1867 to the Rev. James Fendall M.A. rector from 1839 to 1866: in 1869 an organ was erected by the Rev. O. Fisher: the church underwent restoration in 1912: there are 250 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1636; marriages and burials, 1690. The living is a rectory, endowed with 285 acres of glebe, net yearly value £157, with residence, in the gift of Jesus College, Cambridge, and held since 1930 by the Rev. Edgar John White B.A. of Manchester University, who is rector of and resides at Orwell. Mr. Percy Banks is the principal landowner. The soil and subsoil are partly clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans, barley and fruit. The area is 1,261 acres; the population in 1921 was 214.

HARSTON is a parish on the bank of the river Cam and on the London road, with a station, half a mile distant, on the Cambridge and Hitchin line of the London and North Eastern railway, 5½ miles from London and 5 south-south-west from Cambridge, in the hundred of Triplo, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, rural district of Chesterton, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Barton and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The village is well supplied with excellent water, derived from artesian wells. The church of All Saints is a building of stone in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of five bays, north transept or chapel, aisles (the south aisle being considerably narrower than the north), north porch and an embattled western tower containing 4 bells; the tenor bell, cast by Austen Bracker, bears an inscription to that effect, the lettering being oddly reversed and as the bell has been cracked it is now on the floor at the west end of the church on permanent exhibition; a ring of six bells is being (1933) prepared for: there is a piscina at the east end of each aisle and a rood screen and rood of picturesque design: the corbels in the church are quaint and of outstanding interest: in the north transept are a few interesting remains of 15th century glass: the pulpit is of the Late Decorated period: the interior of the church was restored and resented in 1870 and an organ was placed in the church in 1883: there are 240 sittings. The register dates from the year 1686. The living is a vicarage, united in 1930 with that of Hauxton, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, who has two turns, and the Dean and Chapter of Ely, one turn, joint net value £570, with residence, and held since 1927 by the Rev. Percy George Ward B.D. of London University and M.Litt. of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge. There is a Baptist chapel here, founded in 1786, with 330 sittings. Martin's charity, a small benefaction of fluctuating value, derived from land, is for fuel for the poor. In this parish stands an obelisk, erected to Gregory Wale esq. of Little Shelford, and dated 1739, and close to the vicarage house is a spot called "the red field," where it is said an encounter took place between the Royalists and Parliamentary forces. Harston Manor House is the residence of William Taylor Rowley esq. There are two manors. W. T. Rowley esq. who is lord of the manor of Tiptoff, Samuel Reuben Ginn esq. D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor of Harston-Shadworth, and Arthur Hurrell esq. J.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is chiefly of a chalky and gravelly character, and the subsoil is chiefly gravel. The chief crops are wheat and barley; a large quantity of fruit is also grown here. The area is 1,733 acres of land and 8 of water; the population in 1921 was 713.

HASLINGFIELD is a parish, bounded on the east by the river Cam, 2 miles north from Harston station on the Hitchin and Cambridge branch of the London and North Eastern railway and 5½ south-west-by-south from Cambridge, in the hundred of Wetherley, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, rural district of Chesterton, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Barton and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. Lord's Bridge station on the Cambridge, Bedford and Bletchley line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway is in the north part of the parish. The church of All Saints is a spacious edifice of clunch and stone in the Early Decorated and Perpendicular styles, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, north and south porches and a fine embattled western tower, erected about 1460, with octagonal pinnacles and a low spire and containing a clock and 5 bells: the tower was restored in 1898 at a cost of £700, and again in 1900: the chancel dates from about 1300, and its windows, as well as those in the aisles, retain some ancient glass: the aisle roofs are very fine Early Decorated, with elaborate mouldings, flowing tracery and rich foliated bosses: the benches are all of carved oak: the chancel and nave were restored in 1875-9, when two stained windows and a vestry and organ chamber were added and the chancel roof decorated, at a cost of £1,650:

in the chancel are four monuments to the Wendy family: the church affords about 700 sittings, 500 of which are free. The register dates from the year 1709. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £647, including 6½ acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Mrs. H. E. Davies, and held since 1898 by the Rev. Arthur Vaughan Davies M.A. of Queens' College, Cambridge. There is a Methodist chapel here. Chivers and Sons Limited and Queens' College, Cambridge, are the principal landowners. A portion of the Manor House remains, with the moat. The soil is chalky and clay; subsoil, chalk and clay. The chief crops are fruit, wheat, beans and oats. The area is 2,564 acres of land and 9 of water; the population in 1921 was 590.

HEYDON (or Haydon)—the high down or hill—so called from its situation on a range of hills on the borders of Essex, is a parish, 6 miles east from Royston station on the London and North Eastern railway, 7 west-by-north from Audley End station on the same railway and 9 north-west from Saffron Walden, in the hundred of Uttlesford, petty sessional division and rural district of Melbourn, county court district of Royston, rural deanery of Saffron Walden, archdeaconry of Colchester and diocese of Chelmsford. Heydon parish, formerly in Essex, was transferred to Cambridgeshire by the Local Government Board's Provisional Confirmation (No. 14) Act, 1895. The church of Holy Trinity is a small and ancient structure of flint and stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, north chapel, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 5 bells and a clock: the brass of a priest, c. 1490, and others, dating from 1460 to 1520, are now missing: the chancel of this church was the burial place of the Soame family, who held the estate in the 16th and 17th centuries, and of which was Sir Stephen Soame kt. some time of this parish, and lord mayor of London in 1593; he died 23 May, 1619, and was buried at Little Thurlow, Suffolk: the chancel was restored in 1866: the seven mosaic panels over the altar, and a brass plate inside the north door, were erected in memory of the men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: there are 200 sittings. The registers of baptisms and marriages date from 1538; burials from 1588. The living is a rectory, with that of Little Chishall annexed, joint net yearly value £558, with 100 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of Lord Braybrooke, and held since 1903 by the Rev. Hugh Townshend Wilson M.A. of Magdalene College, Cambridge. There are charities of £12 yearly value, arising from bequests by Mrs. Lettice Martin, of Chishall. Lord Braybrooke D.L., J.P. is sole landowner and lord of the manor, the owner of which claims a right of holding a towel for the King at his Coronation, as his service for the tenure of the said manor: this claim was made by and allowed to Sir Peter Soame bart. of Heydon, at the Coronation of James I.; to his descendants on the Coronation of George II. and III.; and again at the Coronation of George IV. when the lord of this manor attended with the towel and performed his service according to ancient custom, July 19th, 1821. The soil and subsoil are chalk, clay and gravel. The crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 1,425 acres; the population in 1921 was 162 in the civil parish, and 273 in the ecclesiastical parish. Post, T. & T. E. D. HILDERSHAM is a parish and pretty village on the river Granta, 1½ miles north-west from Linton station on the Cambridge and Melford branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 9 south-east from Cambridge, in the hundred of Chilford, rural district and petty sessional division of Linton, county court district of Saffron Walden, rural deanery of Camps, and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of the Holy Trinity is a building of rubble, chiefly in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, south chantry, south porch and a western tower of Early English date containing 3 bells, presented to the church by the sisters of the rector: in the chantry are two oaken effigies of Sir William Busteler and his wife, and some fine brasses to their descendants, Robert de Paris, of Caermarthen, ob. 1379, and his widow Alianora, with kneeling effigies beside a floriated cross; and to Henry Paris esq. ob. 1466, with effigy in full armour under a mutilated canopy; there is also a small brass with knightly effigy in plate armour to Henry Paris, ob. 1427, and a skeleton figure in shroud, circa 1530: the tower and sacristy date from the 12th century, and the former contains an ancient ladder; there is an early octagonal font: the stained east window is a memorial to the late Rev. Charles Goodwin M.A. rector from 1806, and patron, and Sarah his wife: in the north and south aisles are four fine stained windows of the 14th century, and there are others inserted in 1885, and also containing fragments of glass of ancient date: the reredos of alabaster, executed from a design by Mr. C. A. Buckler, architect, was a memorial gift to the church: the nave and chancel were new roofed in 1878, and the church was repaired in 1890, under the direction of Messrs. Buckler, architects, of Oxford, the total cost amounting to over £2,000: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £524, with residence, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1900 by the Rev. Philip Richard Phillips M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. Hildersham Hall, the property and seat of Francis William Rhodes esq. stands in a park consisting of 70 acres, well wooded and containing a piece of ornamental water. James Binney esq. M.A., D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is gravel and chalk; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,511 acres; the population in 1921 was 155.

HINXTON is a village and parish on the borders of Essex, and 2 miles from either Great Chesterford or Whittlesford stations on the London and Cambridge section of the London and North Eastern railway, 5 north from Saffron Walden, 6 south-west from Linton and 9 south from Cambridge, in the hundred of Whittlesford, petty sessional division and rural district of Linton, county court district of Saffron Walden, rural deanery of Camps, archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of SS. Mary and John is an edifice of flint and rubble in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, south chapel, south porch and an embattled western tower with spire containing a clock and 2 bells: in the nave are remains of a holy water stoup, and in the chapel a piscina and a hagioscope: in the chancel is an interesting monument to Sir Thomas Davrell kt. of Lillingstone Dayrell, Bucks, and of Castle Camps, Cambs. ob. 2 April, 1669, and to Sarah (Wyndham) his wife, and many other members of this family; the inscription, which is of great length, gives not only a biography of Sir Thomas, but also a genealogical account of his numerous descendants; the monument appears to have been placed by Marmaduke Wyndham, his son: there are also brass effigies to Sir Thomas Skelton kt. ob. 1416, and his wife: also a stained window erected by Miss Nash, late of the Grange, in memory of her parents: the rood loft staircase still remains on the north side of the church: the chancel was restored in 1914: the bells were rehung in 1903: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a vicarage united to that of Ickleton in 1929, joint net yearly value £329, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor and Jesus College, Cambridge, and held since 1929 by the Rev. Arthur Edwin Penney M.A. of Queens' College, Cambridge, who is a surrogate and resides at Ickleton. There is a Congregational chapel, built in 1836, which has 150 sittings. Housden's charity of £50 a year, is distributed in coals, and Miss Clarkson's of £6 6s. a year and Martin's of £1 yearly are both distributed in money. Hinxton Hall, the property of the trustees of the late Robert Bertram Wilkinson esq. lords of the manor and the principal landowners, is a plain mansion of red brick; it is now the residence of Charles Laurence Pemberton Robinson esq. The soil is light, with a subsoil of gravel and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and roots. The area is 1,558 acres of land and 6 of water; the population in 1921 was 297. By a Local Government Board Order which came into operation March 25, 1886, a detached part of Ickleton was amalgamated with this parish.

HISTON is a village and parish, with a station, about 1 mile north-east, on the Cambridge, St. Ives and Huntingdon line of the London and North Eastern railway, 62½ miles from London by rail and 3 north-west from Cambridge, in the hundred and rural district of Chesterton, petty sessional division and county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of North Stowe and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. There were anciently two churches in this parish, St. Andrew's and St. Etheldreda's, but the latter, which stood west of St. Andrew's, about a furlong distant, was sacrilegiously pulled down in 1600 by Sir Francis Hinde, then lord of the manor, and the materials used to build his house at Madingley: in 1874, on the removal of the long unfinished gallery at the end of Madingley Hall, portions of moulded and traceried stone work formerly belonging to St. Etheldreda's were discovered, and re-incorporated in the chancel of St. Andrew's on its restoration. The church of St. Andrew is a cruciform building of rubble in the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of three bays, aisles, transepts, a 14th century south porch and a central tower carried on low arches and containing a clock and 6 bells: the chancel and transepts are very fine Early English, and the latter have internal arcades and double piscinae and sedilia, all highly finished: the chancel retains two sedilia: the south transept is lighted by two triplets of lancets, and was formerly the mortuary chapel of the Sumpter family, whose memorials still remain under the seats, and was restored in 1871 by the widow of W. R. Sumpter esq.: the nave piers and arches are Decorated: the font is Perpendicular and has quatrefoiled panels, and there are several stained windows, those in the chancel being of Munich glass: the chancel was restored internally, reseated and new roofed in 1874-5, under the direction of the late Sir Geo. Gilbert Scott R.A. and the nave and aisles by G. F. Bodley esq. A.R.A., F.S.A.

at a total cost of £5,000: there are 430 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1685, marriages, 1655. The living comprises the consolidated vicarages of St. Andrew and St. Etheldreda, net yearly value £381, with residence, in the gift of the Martyrs' Memorial Trust, and held since 1931 by the Rev. John Oxenden Alston, of the London College of Divinity. A memorial cross, encircled by a laurel wreath and bearing the names of the men of Histon and Impington who fell in the Great War, 1914-18, stands at the cross roads here. A Baptist chapel was built in 1900, at a cost of £2,500, to seat 420 persons. There is also a Methodist chapel, built in 1897. James Spearing esq. and William Luard Raynes esq. are lords of the manors of Histon St. Andrew and Histon St. Etheldreda, and Sidney Smith Rowley esq. Mrs. John Chivers, and the trustees of the late Col. G. B. Archer-Houblon are the principal landowners in the parish. Chivers and Sons Limited, who own several hundred acres of fruit gardens in the parish, have a large jam factory in the village, and employ well over 2,000 people; the works are lighted with electricity and provided with a large artesian well, capable of supplying a tank with 20,000 gallons of water in six hours; the firm is able to produce over 100 tons of jam daily. The land produces excellent crops of grain and turnips, market garden produce and great quantities of fruit, from which Cambridge, London and other markets derive large supplies. The area is 2,162 acres; the population in 1921 was 1,521.

By the Divided Parishes Act, in 1882, and Local Government Board Order 18,936 (March 25, 1886), detached parts of Histon were added to Impington.

HORNINGSEA (or Horningsey) is a parish and village on the east bank of the river Cam, 2 miles south from Waterbeach station on the Cambridge and Ely branch of the London and North Eastern railway and 4½ north-north-east from Cambridge, in the hundred of Flendish, Bottisham petty sessional division, rural district of Chesterton, Cambridge county court district, rural deanery of Quy and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. Across the Cam, and joining this parish to that of Waterbeach, is a bridge, built by a company formed for the purpose about 1872, and providing a means of communication with the Waterbeach railway station. The church of St. Peter is a building of stone in the Transition Norman and later styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a western tower containing 5 bells: the chancel dates from about 1220: the north arcade of the nave is Decorated, and the south Transition Norman; some of the windows are of the late Decorated period, and have beautiful tracery: the east end of the south aisle, anciently a chantry, retains a large niche: a brass tablet was erected in 1919, inscribed with the names of the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-1918: the south porch has grotesque sculptures at the eaves: the church was thoroughly restored in 1865 at a cost of over £1,000, the chancel at the expense of St. John's College, and the nave by subscriptions from parishioners and friends: in 1890 the tower and other portions of the fabric were repaired at a cost of £400: further extensive repairs were carried out during 1923-5: there are 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1628. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value from patrons £381, with residence, in the gift of St. John's College, Cambridge, and held since 1933 by the Rev.

The parish enjoys one of the fens in Bottisham jointly with the inhabitants of that parish, as well as another fen in Quy and Horningsea. The poor's land produces £6 yearly. Messrs. Ginn and Matthews are lords of the manor, and St. John's College, Stanley Bailey esq. and Col. John Francis are the principal landowners. The soil is clayey; subsoil, gault. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,635 acres of land and 12 of water; the population in 1921 was 371.

CLAYHITHE is a hamlet in this parish, bounded on the east by the river Cam. A toll bridge, erected by the Clayhithe Bridge Co. crosses the river Cam at Clayhithe and connects the parishes of Horningsea and Waterbeach.

HORSEHEATH is a village and parish, pleasantly seated on the Cambridge old road, 4½ miles east from Linton station on the Cambridge and Sudbury line of the London and North Eastern railway, 4 west from Haverhill and 14 south-east from Cambridge, in the hundred of Chilford, petty sessional division and rural district of Linton, county court district of Haverhill, rural deanery of Camps and archdeaconry and diocese of

Ely. The church of All Saints is an ancient edifice of flint and rubble in the Gothic style of the 15th century, consisting of chancel, nave, north and south porches and an embattled western tower containing 4 bells: in the chancel is a 14th century brass of a knight in full armour, but the inscription is lost: on the south side of the chancel are monuments with effigies to Sir Giles Alington knt. master of the Ordnance, temp. Henry VIII. ob. 1586, and his son Gyles, both clad in armour; and on the north side a monument with effigies to Sir Giles Alington, ob. 1613, his wife Drothy, and their 10 children, figures of whom surround the monument: there is also a tablet to one of the Bromleys, Barons Montfort of Horseheath, a title which became extinct on the death of Henry (Bromley), 3rd baron, April 30, 1851; a brass with mutilated effigy to Robert, son of Sir Giles Alington, ob. 1552, and Margaret (Coningsbie) his wife, and inscribed brasses to Joan Alyngton, sister and heir of John Argentein, ob. 1429, and to Mary (Cheyne), wife of John Alington, circa 1470: the church was restored and reseated in 1880-91, at a cost of £1,000: in 1911 six of the nave windows were completely restored at a cost of £166: there is a stone in the churchyard wall with the following inscription:—

“George V. R.I. our King, in mellow autumn tide
Here viewed a bloodless fray;
May duty, love and peace abide
To bless him day by day.
Army Manœuvres, Sep. 18, 1912.”

The church affords 190 sittings. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £415, with residence and including 17 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Governors of the Charterhouse, London and held since 1932 by the Rev. Charles Henry Everard Frobisher Cropper. There is a Methodist chapel here. The charities connected with the parish amount to about £15 yearly and are distributed in money and bread. Horseheath Hall, a magnificent mansion, erected here in 1665 by William, Baron Alington, was sold about a century later for the value of the materials: the park, which consisted of above 870 acres, has been disparked. T. Wayman Parsons esq. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is clay; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 1,922 acres; the population in 1921 was 369.

ICKLETON is a village and parish on the borders of Essex, and a mile north from Great Chesterford station on the London and Cambridge section of the London and North Eastern railway, which is in this parish, 11 miles south from Cambridge, 7 south-west from Linton, 5 north from Saffron Walden and 44 by road from London, in the hundred of Whittleford, Linton rural district and petty sessional division, Saffron Walden county court district, Camps rural deanery and Ely archdeaconry and diocese. The church of St. Mary Magdalene is a large building of stone in the Early Norman style, some portions being, however, of a later date: it consists of chancel, nave, aisles, south transept, south porch and a central tower with a lofty spire, containing a clock and 8 bells, which were recast and rehung in 1928: the east window and two others are memorials: the walls bear some ancient frescoes, much obscured by time: on the jambs of the clerestory windows are various figures, and the tower ceiling is also painted: the nave arcades are supposed to be Saxon: a part of the rood loft and a screen of Perpendicular date remain, the under part of the rood loft being richly traceried: in 1886 a marble memorial was erected to St. Leger Algernon Herbert C.M.G. war correspondent, who was killed at Abu Klea in the Soudan, January 17, 1885: the chancel was entirely rebuilt by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners in 1882-3, and retains a piscina and sedilia, and in 1885 further restorations were effected by Sir Robert Herbert G.C.B. and others, the total cost amounting to £1,416: in 1908-9 the church was again restored, when new windows were put in, the roof of the nave renewed and a weather vane erected on the steeple: during the restoration a good deal of Norman and earlier work was discovered: the church affords 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a vicarage with the living of Hinxtion, united in 1929, joint net yearly value £329, with glebe and residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor and Jesus College, Cambridge, and held since 1929 by the Rev. Arthur Edwin Penney M.A. of Queens' College, Cambridge who is a surrogate. There is a Congregational chapel, erected in 1842, which has 200 sittings, and a Methodist chapel, built in 1852. In 1920 an obelisk of grey granite was erected on the village green, opposite the church, as a memorial to the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. A cemetery of one acre was formed in 1883 at a cost of £500, with a chapel, and is under the control of the Parish Council. The charity lands and cottages produce £140 yearly, which sum, excepting a small portion which is given to the school fund, is distributed in fuel and clothing. Martin's charity of £2 6s. and Swan's, of £1 4s. yearly, are also distributed in coal. There was once a Benedictine nunnery here, founded in 1190 by Aubrey de Vere, first Earl of Oxford, or his father-in-law, Sir William de Cantelupe knt. and dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene; the prioress had a grant from King Henry III. of a weekly market and an annual fair, abolished in 1875: the remains of the Abbey, now the property of Mr. James Welch, have walls 3 feet thick: several stone coffins have been dug up on the site. Caldrees Manor is the residence of Percy Charles Dryden Mundy esq. F.S.A. formerly Captain Royal Sussex Regiment (T.E.). The house was formerly the property of the Hon. Percy Wyndham, son of Lord Egremont, who left it to his nephew Hon. Algernon Herbert, from whom it passed to Sir B. G. W. Herbert G.C.B.: it was inherited by his niece, Mrs. W. F. Beddoes, who bequeathed it to the present owner, a descendant of the Very Rev. Hon. William Herbert, Dean of Manchester. Ickleton Grange is the residence of George William H. Bowen esq. D.L., J.P. There are three manors, belonging respectively to the trustees of Sir R. G. W. Herbert (d. 1905) and Clare and Trinity Colleges; the lords of the manors, with Mr. James Welch, the trustees of the late Henry Francis Beales esq. J.P. and G. W. H. Bowen esq. D.L., J.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is light; subsoil, chalk and gravel. The chief crops are wheat and barley. The area is 2,695 acres of land and 5 of water; the population in 1921 was 543. By an Order which came into operation March 25, 1886, a detached part of this parish was amalgamated with Hinxtion.

IMPINGTON is a small parish, 3 miles north from Cambridge, and immediately adjacent to Histon station on the St. Ives and Cambridge section of the London and North Eastern railway, in the hundred of Northstow, rural district of Chesterton, petty sessional division and county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of North Stowe and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Andrew, restored in 1879, is a small building of stone in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a low embattled western tower containing 3 bells: the wooden south porch is an interesting structure of the 15th century: the chancel retains some carved work, and the door of the rood loft stairs also remains: in the church are several curious fragments of alabaster figures: during the restoration a fine painting of St. Christopher was discovered on the north wall, where it is still preserved, and traces of colour remain on the woodwork of the roof: on the floor under the tower is a very fine brass with effigies to John Burgoyne, ob. 1525, his wife and children, and a slab with inscription in Latin to Thomas Wibrow, a former vicar, ob. 1659: there are 200 sittings. The registers date from the year 1562. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £335, including glebe, in the gift of the Archdeacon of Ely, and held since 1932 by the Rev. Lewis Walker M.A. of Queens' College, Cambridge, who resides at 154 Chesterton road, Cambridge. Burgoyne's Farm is part of the Impington Park Estate, and is the property of Chivers and Sons Ltd. In this village resided Elizabeth Woodcock, who, on her return from Cambridge, February, 1799, was enveloped in a drift of snow in a field on the Impington Park Estate, under which she remained nearly eight days and nights; she was taken out alive, and lived until the July following: a monument recording the event has been erected by subscription on the spot where she was found. The manor was successively held under the see of Ely by the families of De Lisle, Chauvent, Colville and Burgoyne, and in 1505 was wholly in the possession of the latter, but subsequently a portion was sold to John Pepys, and another portion to Christ's College, Cambridge; these two do not however cover the whole parish, which is partly subject to the manor of Histon. Impington Hall, a handsome mansion of red brick with stone dressings, and frequently referred to in Pepys' Diary, was begun about the middle of the 16th century by John Pepys, but completed by his executors in accordance with his will, dated 2 July, 1589; it continued to be occupied by his descendants until the early part of the 19th century, when it was transferred by marriage from the family of Pepys to that of Pine-Coffin; it is now the property of Messrs. Chivers & Sons Ltd. and is used by them as a social and educational centre; the house, including the central hall and gallery, is still substantially what it has been for the last 300 years, but a new wing was added and the exterior renovated in 1862: in 1909 a new library was built out from the north-western front: over the garden entrance is an oak shield, contemporary with the building of the house, bearing the arms of Pepys impaling Talbot: the hall stands in a park of nearly 300 acres, containing some fine old timber, numerous plantations and a small lake. The Master and Fellows of Christ's College, Cambridge, are lords of the manor of Impington Burgoyne. The manor of Ferme Park is merged in the Impington Park Estate. Messrs. Chivers and Sons Limited are the principal landowners. The soil is rich red loam and stiff clay; subsoil, clay, producing good crops of wheat and barley, but it is now chiefly fruit growing land and pasture. The area is 2,362 acres; the population in 1921 was 876 in the civil and 811 in the ecclesiastical parish. By the Divided Parishes Act, 1882, and Local Government Board Order No. 18,936 (March 24, 1885), detached parts of Histon were added to Impington, and by a further order a portion of Chesterton parish was added in 1912.

ISLEHAM is an extensive village and parish, with a station on the Cambridge and Mildenhall branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 6 miles north from Newmarket, 11 south-east from Ely and 16½ from Cambridge, in the hundred of Staploe, rural district and petty sessional division of Newmarket, county court district of Soham and in the rural deanery of Fordham and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Andrew is a spacious building of stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, transepts, south porch and an embattled western tower with squat spire containing a clock and 5 bells: the east window is filled with stained glass, erected by George Fletcher Robins esq. of this place, to his two daughters, Caroline Mary Carr, d. 23 Nov. 1875, and Alice Maude Robins, d. 10 Nov. 1866; there are others to Frederick and Caroline Robins, to George Fletcher Robins esq. his wife and his daughter, Mrs. Watson, to the Rev. Samuel Williamson Merry M.A. late vicar, 1872-29, to the late Dr. Edward Watson, and to T. W. Brown esq.: the church was partially restored in 1862, under the superintendence of the late G. E. Street R.A. at a cost of upwards of £3,000: the chancel and east window were restored in 1883, and a system of heating was adopted in 1886, at a cost of £180: in 1898 the external walls were refaced with hard stone, at a cost of £400; in 1907 a new organ was provided, and in 1911 the interior of the chancel was restored and new choir seats installed at a cost of £160; there are 450 sittings. The register dates from the year 1566. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £460, with residence and 2 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1925 by the Rev. Henry William Flory M.A. of Fitzwilliam Hall, Cambridge. The rectorial tithes amount to £550. There is a Union chapel in Pound lane, founded in 1693, with 350 sittings, and a Baptist chapel in High street, built in 1812, seating 450; both are endowed, the latter having about £50 a year; there is also a Baptist Mission chapel in Isleham Fen, built in 1875, seating 150. The Rev. C. H. Spurgeon was baptized at the ferry in the river Lark near here, May 3rd, 1850. There is a small Methodist chapel. A cemetery of one acre was formed in 1856; in 1896 half an acre was added to it at a cost of £120; it is under the control of the Parish Council. The charities amount to about £150, including an endowment for the school, clothing &c. for the poor and payments to the inmates of the almshouses, founded and endowed by Elizabeth, wife of Sir Robert Peyton, who died in 1518, occupied by two males and four females: the income is about £90 yearly: an invalid room has been added. There are the remains here of the priory of St. Margaret, a cell to St. Jacutus, near Dol, Brittany, but afterwards given to Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, by Henry VI. The monks removed to Linton in 1254. The village and neighbourhood are famous for the production of limestone, lime and clunch, great quantities of which are sent to Wisbech, Peterborough and other parts by Albert Simmons Frost. Here also is a pumping station of the Ely Water Works Co. The principal landowners are the County Council, the trustees of the late G. F. Robins esq. and Mr. Richard Thomas Robins. The soil is various; subsoil, principally limestone. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 5,207 acres of land and 23 of water; the population in 1921 was 1,490.

KENNETT is a small parish, on the Suffolk border of the county, with a station on the Cambridge and Bury branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 70 miles from London and 4 north-east from Newmarket, in the hundred of Staploe, Newmarket rural district and petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Fordham and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The village derives its name from the brook on which it stands, which was called Kennet, or Kent, by the Iberians, a name given by them to several small streams, notably in Berks, Westmorland, Sussex and Wilts. The church of St. Nicholas, originally built by Benedictine monks in 1360, is a building of flint with stone dressings, chiefly in the Early English style; it consists of chancel, nave, north porch and an embattled western tower containing 3 bells: it was thoroughly restored at the expense of the Rev. William Godfrey, rector here 1835-1900, at various times down to 1863:

there are 100 sittings. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £230, with 4 acres of glebe, in the gift of Mrs. Herbert Pering Carter, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Reginald Fleming Rynd M.A. of Magdalen College, Oxford, who is also rector of Herringwell (Suffolk), where he resides. The charities amount to about £5 yearly for distribution. Kennett Hall is the seat of Mrs. Herbert Pering Carter, who is lady of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is mainly light; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,425 acres of land and 6 of water; the population in 1921 was 154.

KINGSTON is a parish about 8 miles north from Royston station on the Hitchin, Royston and Cambridge line of the London and North Eastern railway, 4 miles east from the Old North Road station on the Bedford and Cambridge branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and 8 south-west from Cambridge, in the hundred of Longstow, petty sessional division of Caxton, rural district of Caxton and Arrington, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Bourn and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of All Saints and St. Andrew is a structure of rubble in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower with turret on the north side and containing 3 bells: the north wall of the chancel retains a small recess, probably a reliquary, and on both sides are arches with plate tracery; there is an ancient chancel screen, beautifully carved, and a Decorated font with octagonal basin, supported on low shafts with trefoiled arches under crocketed canopies, and a fine old Jacobean pulpit: the arcades of the nave are Perpendicular: the church chest is of rude construction, with strong iron work: the church was restored in 1895 and again in 1930, and affords 130 sittings. The register dates from the year 1654. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £164, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1929 by the Rev. James Duffill M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge, who is also vicar of Bourn, where he resides. This place had formerly a market on Thursdays, granted in 1305 to Sir Constantine Mortimer, together with two fairs, one at the festival of St. Margaret, for six days, the other for three days at the festival of St. Luke: the market and fairs have long since become obsolete. Viscount Clifden M.V.O., J.P. Philip Hagger, William Daffan and Roger Howard esqs. are the principal landowners. The soil is clay and gravel; subsoil, gault. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 1,907 acres; the population in 1921 was 173.

KIRTILING is a parish and village 4 miles south-east from Newmarket, which is the nearest railway station, in the hundred of Cheveley, rural district, petty sessional division and county court district of Newmarket, rural deanery of Cheveley and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of All Saints is an ancient building of flint with stone dressings, chiefly in the Norman style, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, north and south porches and a western tower supported by immense buttresses and containing 5 bells: in the church are the tombs of several of the North family, including Sir Edward North M.P. for Cambridgeshire, 1st Baron North, ob. 31 Dec. 1564, and his son, Sir Roger North de Kirtling, knight banneret and 2nd Baron, ob. 3 Dec. 1600; the tomb of the latter bears his recumbent effigy in armour with gold spurs, the head resting on a baron's helmet and a couchant lion at the feet, the whole being surmounted by a canopy supported on six carved pillars; a third tomb commemorates Dudley, 4th baron, K.B. ob. 1677; and there are memorials to others of the family, dated 1595-6; there is also an ancient brass: the church affords 372 sittings. The register dates from the 1585. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £319, with residence, in the gift of the Earl of Harrowby, and held since 1930 by the Rev. Richard John Kelsey M.A. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge. There is a Methodist chapel here, seating 80 persons. A cross of Dartmoor granite was erected in 1921 at the junction of Kirtling with the hamlet of Upend, as a memorial to the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. Kirtling Tower, the seat of Lord North, is all that now remains of the ancient Kirtling Hall, originally built about the reign of Henry VI but the main part of the building was pulled down in 1801 by George, 3rd Earl of Guilford and 9th Baron North: Princess Elizabeth, afterwards Queen, was a state prisoner at Kirtling Hall, under the charge of Edward, 1st Lord North: attached to the house is a Roman Catholic chapel, built in 1877 and dedicated to Mary Immaculate and St. Philip, and there is a house for the priest near the chapel; the public are admitted to mass at 9 a.m. Lord North, who is lord of the manor, and Stephen Goodwin Howard esq. C.B.E., D.L., J.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is heavy loam; subsoil, clay; whilst to the north-east of the parish there is an outcrop of upper chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans and oats. The area is 3,126 acres; the population in 1921 was 353.

LANDBEACH is a small parish, 1½ miles west from Waterbeach station on the Cambridge and Ely section of the London and North Eastern railway, and 5 north-east from Cambridge, in the hundred of Northstow, rural district of Chesterton, petty sessional division and county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Quy and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely; the road from Cambridge to Ely passes through a portion of the parish. The church of All Saints is a building of rubble and stone in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, chantry (restored in 1878 and now used as a vestry), south porch and an embattled western tower with spire containing 4 bells: there are monuments to several former rectors, viz.: Henry Clifford, 1616; J. Mickleburgh, 1756; T. C. Burroughes, 1821, and Edward Addison, 1821-43; and one to William Rawley D.D. ob. 1667, chaplain to Francis, Lord Verulam: there is some fine carved woodwork, and four stalls with misereres, two of which bear the arms of former bishops of Ely: the nave has a fine Early Perpendicular roof with tie beams, and large figures of angels projecting from each corbel: in the north aisle is a canopied monument of the Decorated period: in 1878 the church was restored at a cost of £1,940, and the spire at a further expense of £80: a new organ was provided in 1910 at a cost of £350: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £687, with residence, in the gift of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, and held since 1922 by the Rev. Ronald Kynaston Denham M.A. of that college. In the churchyard is a stone cross, erected in 1920, in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. Archbishop Parker was rector here from 1545 to 1554. There is a Baptist chapel, erected in 1854, with 320 sittings. The Master and Fellows of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, who are lords of the manor of Chamberlayne, William Percy Money esq. and the County Council are the principal landowners. The soil is mixed clay; subsoil, gravel and clay. The land produces wheat, barley, beans, turnips and potatoes. The area is 2,225 acres; the population in 1921 was 455.

LEVERINGTON is a parish and village, in the Isle of Ely and on the Norfolk border of the county, 1 mile north-west of the Midland and Great Northern joint railway station at Wisbech and 2 miles north-west from Wisbech station on the London and North Eastern railway, in the Wisbech hundred, rural district, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery and archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. Leverington is now divided into three ecclesiastical parishes, viz.: Leverington proper, Gorefield and Southen-cum-Murrow, which are given under separate headings. The church of St. Leonard is an ancient edifice of Barnack stone, chiefly in the Early English and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel with aisle, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower with spire containing a clock and 6 bells: the chancel retains its sedilia, and there are several monuments and a mediæval eagle lectern of oak, c. 1480, which was restored to its original colouring in 1928: the font is adorned with figures under canopies: in 1847 the lead was removed from the nave and a slate roof was substituted: the present chancel roof and the seating of the nave are of the same date: in 1877 a new roof was placed on the Swaine chapel, an organ and new chancel stalls erected and the bells renovated, at a cost of about £900: the very remarkable south porch was restored in 1891: in 1901 a new roof was placed on the north aisle and the spire rebuilt, at a cost of £1,300: the tower and bells were repaired in 1924, at a cost of £1,600: there are 400 sittings. A new churchyard was opened in 1916: in the centre is a memorial, erected in 1920, inscribed with the names of the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1558. The living of Leverington proper is a rectory, net yearly value £814, with residence and 2 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1922 by the Rev. Gordon Austin Wilmot Wilkinson M.C., M.A. of Queens' College, Cambridge, hon. C.F. The Methodist chapel here was erected in 1885. There are charities of about £400 a year for distribution, and 19 houses granted rent free to poor parishioners. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor of Wisbech Barton, which extends into this parish. Messrs. Hickman & Co. Ltd. are the principal landowners. The soil is rich loam. The chief crops are potatoes, fruit, peas and oats. The area of the civil parish is 4,294 acres of land, 4 of water, 7 of tidal water and 6 of foreshore; the population of the civil parish in 1921 was 2,484, and of the ecclesiastical parish, 1,331.

By the Isle of Ely Review Order, 1933, part of this parish was transferred to the borough of Wisbech.

PARSON DROVE, a chapelry in the civil parish, is given under a separate heading.

FITTON END, partly in this and partly in Newton parish, is 1 mile north of Leverington.

LINTON is a small town, parish and head of a rural district and petty sessional division, pleasantly seated on the river Granta, on the confines of the county, bordering upon Essex, with a station on the Cambridge and Sudbury branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 11 miles south-east from Cambridge, 13 south-west from Newmarket, 6 north from Saffron Walden and 48 by road or 51 by rail from London, in the hundred of Chilford, county court district of Saffron Walden, rural deanery of Camps and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The town consists principally of one long street, about a mile long, and is lighted with oil lamps by the Parish Council. The church of St. Mary is a building of flint and rubble, chiefly in the Perpendicular style, but the piers of the south aisle are Norman; the church consists of chancel, nave, aisles, north and south porches and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 5 bells: in the aisles are several monuments to the families of Paris (1551 and 1650), Stanley (1726 and 1780), Millicent (1555 and 1577) and Flack (1693, 1704 and 1705): there are six stained windows, including one in memory of the 46 Linton men who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: the chancel and Millicent chapel were restored in 1879 at the expense of Pembroke College, Cambridge, the lay impropriators, a new organ being at the same time erected by the parishioners: a restoration of the church begun in 1837 was completed in 1891, and the total cost, including the chancel, amounted to about £1,400: there are 400 sittings. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £460, including 7 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1922 by the Rev. Arthur Edward Charles M.A. of Fitzwilliam Hall, Cambridge, and chaplain to the Institution. The Congregational chapel, in Horne lane, will seat 400 persons; it dates from 1698, but was mostly rebuilt in 1818: in 1908 Sunday schools were erected, at a cost of £1,200. There is a Salvation Army hall in High street. The Cemetery, in the Back road, containing 2 acres of land, was formed in 1904, and is under the control of the Parish Council; there is a memorial to the men of Linton who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The Literary Institute is in High street. The Shepherds' Hall, in Market lane, erected in 1912 at a cost of £3,000, is a building of brick and stone, and is used for public meetings, entertainments &c. Harrison's charity of about £2 8s. 9d. yearly is for bread. A fair for smallwares, formerly held on Holy Thursday, and the sheep fair, formerly held on the 20th July, are now abolished, and the market once held here has also fallen into disuse. Barham Hall, in this parish, was anciently a priory of Crutched Friars, founded about 1292 as a cell to the convent of St. Jagu de Lisle in Brittany; it is now a farmhouse. The remains of a Roman villa were discovered in 1825 in a field separated by the river Granta from the site of Barham Priory, and in 1862, when excavating for the railway from Cambridge to Sudbury, the workmen met with the remains of numerous skeletons in this field at a depth of 3 feet from the surface. The principal landowners are Ernest Vivian Wilkin esq. and the Master and Fellows of Pembroke College, Cambridge, who are also the owner of the rectorial tithes. The soil is mixed; subsoil, gravel and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and roots. The area is 3,806 acres of land and 11 of water; the population of the civil parish in 1921 was 1,446, and of the ecclesiastical parish, 1,434.

LITLINGTON is a parish, about 4 miles north-east from Ashwell station on the Hitchin, Royston and Cambridge line of the London and North Eastern railway, 4 north-west from Royston, in the hundred of Armingford, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, rural district of Melbourn, county court district of Royston, rural deanery of Shingay and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Catharine is a fine specimen of the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells: in the church is a gravestone with an inscription in Norman French, and a memorial to Roger Stoughton, alderman of London, ob. 1590: the church has been restored at a cost of £2,000, and affords 220 sittings. In the churchyard is a Celtic cross of Portland stone, erected in 1919 as a memorial to the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1652. The living is a vicarage, annexed to the rectory of Abingdon Pigotts, joint net yearly value £516, with residence and 24 acres of glebe, in the alternate gift of Clare College, Cambridge, and the trustees of the late Thomas Graham-Foster-Pigott esq. and held since 1925 by the Rev. Magens de Courcy-Ireland M.A. of St. Peter's College, Cambridge, who resides at Abington Pigotts. There is a Congregational chapel, seating about 300 persons. The charities, amounting to £19 yearly, are for fuel, bread and coal. The remains of a large Roman cemetery, containing sepulchral urns and other funereal vessels, were discovered in 1828; a great part of the articles found were at first deposited in Clare College Library, but are now in the Cambridge Geological Museum. George Massop esq. is lord of the manor of Huntingfield, and the trustees of the late Thomas Graham-Foster-Pigott esq. (d. 1907) hold the manor of Dovedales. The principal landowners are the Cambridgeshire County Council. The soil is clayey and chalk, and the subsoil, is clay and clunch. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, beans, peas and turnips. The area is 2,172 acres; the population in 1921 was 413.

LITTLEPORT is a parish and large village, in a fenny part of the Isle of Ely and on the banks of the navigable river Ouse, with a station on the Ely and Lynn section of the London and North Eastern railway, 5 miles north from Ely, 78 from London, in the hundred of Witchford, rural district, petty sessional division, county court district and rural deanery of Ely, archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. A wrought iron bridge, with one clear opening of 105 feet, was built across the Ouse at this point in 1873, at a cost of £3,700, and there is another iron bridge at Sandhill. The place is lighted with gas from works erected in 1867 by a limited company, on a site given by the Earl of Hardwicke. The church of St. George, an edifice of stone, is a fine example of the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, north and south porches and a lofty embattled western tower containing a clock and 8 bells, hung in 1891: in 1920 a new clock was added, with Cambridge chimes, in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-1918; the tower, a conspicuous object throughout the surrounding fen district, is remarkable for the beauty of its outline: the church was enlarged in 1857 by the addition of a second nave and aisle on the north side: the chancel was restored by Clare College in 1877, and a carved stone reredos presented by the Rev. H. J. Carter M.A. curate of Littleport 1860-5 and rector of Duxford 1865-1904: in 1891 a new organ and a stained east window were erected as memorials to the Rev. William Bonner Hopkins D.D. hon. canon of Ely, and vicar here 1866-90: in 1895 a stained window was erected and the organ enlarged, as a memorial to Mr. William Cutlack, a former churchwarden; it was again enlarged in 1903: there are several other stained memorial windows: an inscribed brass has been placed as a memorial to the Rev. Samuel Edgar Perry M.A. vicar 1890-7: a new oak screen was erected in 1904: there are panels, the gift of the Rev. N. W. Shelton M.A. (present vicar) inscribed with the names of the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: in 1932 a tablet was erected in the chancel to the memory of the Rev. F. E. Rogers, a former vicar of the parish and also to his wife: there appears to have been formerly a footway from north to south through the tower, used before the drainage of the fens, when the ordinary roads were impassable for foot passengers: there are 872 sittings. The register dates from the year 1606. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £1,504, with residence, and including 1 acre of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1916 by the Rev. Norman Wilfrid Shelton M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin, and surrogate. About 3,000 acres on the north-east side of the parish were separated from Littleport parish and added to the ecclesiastical district of Little Ouse, Norfolk, Nov. 13, 1866 (full particulars of which will be found in Kelly's Directory of Norfolk).

Littleport St. Matthew is an ecclesiastical parish, formed out of the old parish of Littleport, St. Mary and Holy Trinity, Ely, and Downham in the Isle, July 2, 1878. The church, erected in 1878 at a cost, including fittings, of about £1,665, from the designs of Mr. W. Bassett Smith, architect, of London, is a structure of brick in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts, south porch and a western turret containing one bell: there are 230 sittings. The register dates from the year 1878. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £423, with residence and including 2 acres of glebe and a charge of £20 yearly on the rectory of Downham, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1925 by the Rev. Frank D'Ynza Brace. The school church at Littleport Fen, built in 1869, will seat 120 persons; divine service is held here once every Sunday. The mission room at Ten Mile Bank was erected in 1894, and will seat 120 persons. The Methodist chapel, in High street, was erected in 1890 at a cost of £1,700, the old chapel being now used as a Sunday school; there are also Independent, Baptist and Methodist chapels and Salvation Army barracks at Littleport, and Methodist chapels at Black Horse Drove, Mildenhall road and Dairy Houses. A cemetery of 5½ acres, with mortuary chapel, was formed in 1902, and is under the control of the Littleport Parish Council.

The Town Hall and two Gift Houses adjoining were built in 1879 by the Trustees of the Town Lands Charity, in accordance with the provisions of a scheme framed under an Order of the Charity Commissioners for England and Wales, dated 12th November, 1875. The Alexandra Institute, in Victoria street, erected by Messrs. Hope Brothers Limited for the use of their workpeople, will hold 250; attached is a lending library of about 1,200 volumes, three lawn tennis courts and a garden. The Constitutional Hall, in Victoria street, comprises club rooms and a hall holding about 500 persons; the club has over 100 members. The shirt factory of Messrs. Hope Brothers Limited, situated here, was considerably enlarged in 1888, and now employs about 300 hands. A steam fire engine is maintained in the town at the station on Punts hill; the brigade numbers 13. The local charities, of which the Town Lands Charity is the principal, produce a sum of about £550 net yearly, which is distributed in coals and other articles to the poor during the winter. From these charities about 200 acres of land have been appropriated, and let in allotments to parishioners. A large acreage belonging to the County Council and private owners is let out in smallholdings. Mrs. J. Spearing and Mrs. W. L. Raynes are ladies of the manor. There are several landowners. The soil is fen, and subsoil, clay; the fen land has been rendered of great value by skilful draining, and also by the system of claying now generally adopted. The chief crops are sugar beet, wheat, beans, barley, oats and potatoes. The area is 17,208 acres of land and inland water; the population of the civil parish in 1921 was 4,467, and of the ecclesiastical parishes:—St. George, 3,290; St. Matthew, 604.

By the Divided Parishes Act, a portion of Hilgay, on the left bank of the river Little Ouse, was amalgamated with this parish in 1885, all the remainder, on the right bank of the river, the property of the late William Luddington esq. going to Southery parish, Norfolk.

LODE, formerly Bottisham Lode (which includes Longmeadow and Fen), was separated from Bottisham by an Order of the Local Government Board, in November, 1894, and formed into a civil parish. It is a village off the Cambridge and Newmarket road, with a station called Bottisham and Lode, on the Cambridge and Mildenhall line of the London and North Eastern railway, and is 6 miles east from Cambridge, 8 west from Newmarket and 63 from London, in the hundred of Staine, Bottisham petty sessional division, Newmarket rural district and county court district, rural deanery of Quy and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The ecclesiastical parish of St. James was formed May 1, 1863; the church, erected and consecrated in 1853, is a building of stone in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a western turret containing a clock and 2 bells: during the period 1873-90 it was restored, redecorated and refitted, including in 1886-7 a new roof, provided at a cost of £200, the remaining work including the erection of a reredos and several stained windows, the total expense amounting to over £600: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1863. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1925 by the Rev. William Edwin Lewis. There is a Baptist chapel, built in 1832 and seating 400 persons. In the centre of the village is a cross of Cornish granite, erected in 1923 as a memorial to the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. Charities to the amount of about £150 are distributed annually. Here are the remains of the Priory of Anglesey, founded by Henry I. or Richard de Clare, for canons of the Augustinian order, and dedicated to the Blessed Virgin and St. Nicholas: at the Dissolution there were 11 canons, and the revenues were estimated at £124: the remains consist of a vaulted room and graduated corbel table connected with a staircase; both are Early English. Anglesey Abbey is the property and residence of Lord Fairhaven. There is a village hall, built in 1930 by Lord Fairhaven and his brother, Capt. Hon. Henry Rogers Broughton, in memory of their father, the late Mr. Urban H. Broughton. Roger W. B. Jenyns esq. J.P. is lord of the manor of Anglesey and Vauxes; Lord Fairhaven and Messrs. Thomas Webb, Jonathan C. Fison and the trustees of the late Samuel C. Fison are the principal landowners, and there are several smaller owners. The soil is clay; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area of the parish (including Bottisham, Lode and Long Meadow) is 3,133 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1921 was 560.

LOLWORTH is a parish on the road from Cambridge to Huntingdon, 4 miles south from Long Stanton station on the St. Ives and Cambridge line of the London and North Eastern railway, 6½ north-west from Cambridge and 6 south-east from St. Ives, in the hundred of North Stowe, Cambridge petty sessional division, rural district of Swavesey, county court district of Huntingdon, rural deanery of North Stowe and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of All Saints, situated on a height, dates from the early 14th century, and consists of a chancel, nave, south porch and western tower; the east wall of the chancel, the south porch and the roof, which was restored in 1891, are modern: at one time the church possessed north and south aisles, long since destroyed by fire, when the greater part of the village was demolished, as witness the name of the field adjoining the churchyard, which is still called "Burnt Close": the arcades have been built up and windows of various dates inserted, which probably belonged to the aisles: among the interesting relics of the church are the remains of the rood screen with its rich flowing tracery, a good specimen of the late Decorative period, a beautiful octagonal font of the same period, and the base of an Early churchyard cross: there are several monuments dating from the 14th to the 16th century; one, an incised alabaster slab, represents two ladies in a standing position, wearing butterfly head-dress, with two shields of arms of the Langley family conjoined and placed between their heads: in 1907 the tower was repaired, and the 3 bells (dated 1713) remaining of an original peal of 5, rehung at a cost of £600; the walls of the nave were closely examined, and beneath the modern plaster, were discovered the carved caps and bases of the arcades; each capital is of a different design, and on them can be clearly seen original 14th century stencillings of various patterns; on the western abutment of the north arcade is an early 14th century mural painting, representing the incredulity of St. Thomas, and is the only one known depicting this subject at such an early date: in 1911 the font was repaired, and on its removal from the south wall the base of the churchyard cross was discovered: the north wall of the nave was repaired in 1920, at a cost of £160, as a memorial to the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18; their names are inscribed on a carved oak tablet: during the repairs to the north wall a squint, which formerly gave a view of the altar from the north aisle, and a niche in the interior were revealed: in 1922 a stained east window was erected by J. Frohock esq. in memory of his wife, Emily Helena Frohock: there are 100 sittings. The register dates from 1537. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £250, with residence, in the gift of the Society for the Maintenance of the Faith, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Arthur Frederick Royston M.A. of Fitzwilliam Hall, Cambridge. The charities amount to £7 yearly. Frederick Stanton esq. Mrs. Frank Norman and Clare College, Cambridge, are the landowners. The soil is heavy clay; subsoil, gault. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 1,110 acres; the population in 1921 was 141.

LONG STANTON is a straggling agricultural village, divided into two parishes, All Saints and St. Michael, with a station $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles north from the village on the Cambridge, St. Ives and Huntingdon branch of the London and North Eastern railway, $9\frac{1}{2}$ miles north-west from Cambridge by rail, $10\frac{1}{2}$ south-east from Huntingdon and 65 from London, in the hundred of North Stowe, rural district of Chesterton, petty sessional division and county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of North Stowe and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. All Saints church is a building of pebble stone in the pure Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south transept, south porch and an embattled western tower with lofty spire, containing 8 bells: the chancel retains a double piscina, triple graduated sedilia, an aumbry and an Early English niche, the remains of a former church which was burnt down in 1349: there is also a piscina in the north aisle, and a very fine octagonal font of the Decorated period, with traceried panels; the tower and spire are Early Perpendicular: the south transept, the burial place of the Hatton family, contains a large altar tomb of alabaster, with recumbent effigies to Sir Thomas Hatton bart. (a former lord of the manor), ob. 23 Sept. 1652, and Mary (Alington) his wife, besides other memorials to this family: the church, including the spire, was restored in 1886-8, at a cost of about £960, of which £300 was contributed by R. H. Wood esq. F.S.A. of Rugby, and the chancel in 1891 by Mrs. R. H. Wood, at a cost of £300: Mr. Wood, during 1886-8, repaired and decorated the tomb of Sir Thomas Hatton, at a cost of £120, and in 1908 he restored the south transept, or Hatton chapel; three windows which had been blocked up were filled with glass containing coats of arms of the Hatton family: the stained east window was erected in 1891 by Mrs. Wood, at a cost of £250: an organ was presented by Edward H. Liveing esq.: from 1873 to 1912 a total sum of £2,530 was expended on the church: there are 220 sittings. In the churchyard is the base of a cross. The register dates from the year 1672. The living is a vicarage, with the rectory of St. Michael annexed, joint net yearly value £567, with residence, and 102 acres of glebe, in the alternate gift of the Bishop of Ely and Magdalene College, Cambridge, and held since 1929 by the Rev. Cyril Bond M.A. of Magdalene College, Cambridge. A stone cross, mounted on a column 11 feet high, was erected in 1920 to the memory of those who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The Village Institute was erected in 1926. The church of St. Michael, an edifice of rubble and flint, erected about 1230, is a simple yet beautiful specimen of the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a double bell gable at the west end containing 2 bells: the chancel was taken down in 1883 and rebuilt in 1884, as nearly as possible on its pre-Reformation lines, at a cost of £600: a beautiful triplet adorns the east end, and there is a large and double piscina with semi-circular intersecting arches and an aumbry: the nave was restored in 1889, at a cost of £350: the roofs of the nave and porch are covered with thatch: there are 150 sittings. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a rectory, annexed, since 1922, to the vicarage of All Saints. There is a Methodist chapel. The Bishops of Ely formerly had a palace here, in which Queen Elizabeth was entertained by Bishop Cox in August, 1564. From a decree in chancery, dated 1757, it appears that the ancestors of Sir Thomas Hatton bart. had been then possessed for more than a hundred years of the manors of Long Stanton, Cheynes, Walwyns and Colvilles; the family of Hatton, descended from the Hattons of Cheshire, settled at Long Stanton in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and John Hatton esq. the first of the family who resided there, was first cousin of the celebrated Sir Christopher Hatton; his third son, Thomas, succeeded to the estate, and was created a baronet in 1641. The park, containing the site of the old manor house, pulled down in 1864, when the estates were sold, is now the property of Mrs. Hard. The principal landowners are J. J. Townsend esq. and Mr. Edward C. Jones. The soil is stiff loam; the subsoil is blue clay, producing excellent crops of wheat, barley, beans and peas. The population in 1921 of All Saints was 348; area, 1,938 acres; St. Michael population, 79; area, 841 acres.

LONGSTOWE is a parish on the Huntingdonshire border of the county, half a mile west from Old North Road station on the Bedford and Cambridge branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 10 north-east from Royston and 12 west from Cambridge, in the hundred of Longstowe, rural district of Caxton and Arrington, petty sessional division of Caxton, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Bourn and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary the Virgin is a building of brick faced with flint stone, built in 1863-1864 on the site of the old church; it consists of chancel, nave, north chapel, south porch and a low embattled western tower containing one bell, and also a peal of six tubular bells presented in 1898 by Mrs. Rushton, to which two others were added in 1903 as a memorial to her: the original church was blown down in 1719, and the monuments to the Cage family which it contained are now in the chancel of the church. The small chapel on the north side was built by the late Captain Sidney Stanley: the stained east window, a memorial to John Sharp esq. of Manchester, and Dorothea his wife, was presented by their children in 1864; the west window was erected by Mrs. Rushton to her three brothers, and in 1904 a memorial window was erected to Mrs. Sharp: the church has 180 sittings. An oak lych gate was erected in 1896 by his widow as a memorial to the Rev. James Rushton M.A. rector here 1852-95. A beautiful rood was erected in 1920 as a memorial to the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1569. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £281, including 11 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Selwyn College, Cambridge, and held since 1922 by the Rev. Gilbert Walshaw A.K.C. In 1898 a parish room was erected upon glebe land. A charity, consisting of the rents of six cottages and about 30 acres of land, was left for the repair of the fabric of the church, and the surplus (if any) is distributed amongst the poor. Longstowe Hall is an ancient mansion purchased in Queen Elizabeth's reign by the Cage family, who rebuilt the house; it was acquired by W. A. Briscoe esq. J.P. in 1906: in 1907-12 new terraces and a courtyard were added and extensive interior alterations made: it stands in a park of about 175 acres, and has well laid out pleasure grounds; there are fish ponds in the park, which is well studded with timber besides having good plantations. Capt. Richard George Briscoe M.C., M.P., D.L. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is heavy clay; subsoil, strong clay. The chief crops are wheat and oats, and some land in pasture. The area is 1,544 acres; the population in 1921 was 249.

MADINGLEY is a parish in a valley, 5 miles north-west from Cambridge station and 55 from London, in the hundred of North Stowe, rural district of Chesteron, petty sessional division and county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of North Stowe and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St Mary Magdalene, restored in 1885, and standing in the park, is a small building of stone, chiefly in the Early Decorated style, and consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of five bays, north aisle and an embattled western tower with spire containing 2 bells; in 1927 the tower and spire were rebuilt at a cost of £2,000, defrayed by the Harding family: the chancel is Early English, rebuilt in 1877, but the chancel and the nave arcading are Decorated: a very finely moulded arch, acutely pointed, opens into the tower: there is a good Norman font, brought here from the now destroyed church of St. Etheldreda, Histon: a new organ was provided in 1908 by Col. Harding: there are 150 sittings. The register dates from the year 1539. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £276, with residence and including 9 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1932 by the Rev. Harold Kitchener M.A. of Oxford University. Madingley Hall, the seat of Walter Ambrose Heath Harding esq. M.A., F.L.S. is a large Elizabethan mansion, standing in a park of 300 acres: adjoining the hall is a fine stone gateway leading to the courtyard: King Edward VII. occupied this house during the time he was an undergraduate of Cambridge University. Walter Ambrose Heath Harding esq. M.A., F.L.S. is lord of the manor and the principal landowner. The soil is clayey; sub soil, gault. The chief crops are wheat, beans and oats. The area is 1,768 acres; the population in 1921 was 222.

MANEA (or Maney), formerly a parochial chapelry and hamlet of Coveney, is now an ecclesiastical parish, near the old Bedford river and in the middle of the Fens of the Isle of Ely, with a station 1 mile north from the village on the Ely and Peterborough section of the London and North Eastern railway, 81 miles from London, 8 south-east from March and 9 north-east from Chatteris, in the North Witchford rural district, South Witchford hundred, petty sessional division, county court district and rural deanery of March, archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Nicolas, erected at a cost of £4,000, partly on the site of the old church, and opened April 1, 1875, is a building of stone in the Early Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, north transept, north aisle, vestry and a turret over the chancel arch containing one bell: there are 350 sittings. The register dates from the year 1708. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £720, and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1925 by the Rev. Francis Falkner Herbert M.A. of Emmanuel College, Cambridge, hon. C.F. A house adjoining the churchyard, previously an inn, was bought in 1902, and converted into a vicarage house in 1903. There are Methodist chapels here. Earthen jars and urns containing burnt bones have been frequently found in the parish. The soil is loam and fen; subsoil, clay. Mr. Harry Oswald Crouch is the principal landowner. Most of the farmers own their own farms. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, beans, potatoes and roots. The area is 5,642 acres of land and 34 of water; the population in 1921 was 1,463 in the civil and 1,404 in the ecclesiastical parish, which is wholly dependent on husbandry. By Orders which came into operation

March 25, 1884, detached parts of the parishes of Downham, Wentworth, Witcham and Witchford, in the Ely union, were amalgamated with this parish.

BEDLAM FENS lies 2 miles north-east, FODDER FEN 2 miles to the north, CRANMOORE FEN 2½ miles north-north-east, and BYALL FEN half a mile to the south.

MARCH

MARCH is a parish and market town and the head of a county court district and petty sessional division, with an important junction station on the London and North Eastern railway, 88 miles from London by rail, 29 north from Cambridge, 14 north-west from Ely and 9 south from Wisbech, in the hundred of North Witchford, Isle of Ely, rural deanery of March, archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely.

The town is pleasantly situated on the banks of the Nene, which is here navigable, and facilitates the conveyance of coal, corn and timber to Cambridge, Wisbech, Lynn, Peterborough, St. Ives, Bedford and various other places.

A handsome bridge of one arch was erected over the river Nene towards the north end of the town in 1550. The High street, which is the chief thoroughfare, is continued over the bridge to Broad street on the north side of the Nene, and the High causeway is lined with a fine avenue of elm and other trees.

A Local Board of Health was formed here in 1851, under the Act 14 and 15 Vict. c. 103 (1851), but under the provisions of the Local Government Act, 1894 (56 and 57 Vict. c. 73), the town is now governed by an Urban District Council of 12 members, and is lighted with gas from works the property of the March Gas and Coke Co. Limited, and with electricity by the Bedfordshire, Cambridgeshire & Huntingdonshire Electricity Co. The Wisbech Water Works Company, by a Provisional Order obtained in 1884, supplies the town with water, which is brought through mains from Wisbech, a distance of 10 miles.

The town is now divided into four ecclesiastical parishes which, with three others, were formed out of the parish of Doddington subsequently to 1868, according to the provisions of the Doddington Rectory Division Acts, 10 and 11 Vict. c. 3 (1847), and 19 and 20 Vict. c. 1 (1856).

The church of St. Wendreda, anciently a chapel to Doddington, and about a mile from March bridge, on the London road, was originally erected about 1345, and is a building in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower, with stone spire, containing a clock and 6 bells: the fine and elaborately-carved oak roof was probably erected towards the close of the 15th century: the stained east window is a memorial to Mary Green, d. 12 July 1874, and Caroline Hunt, d. 29 Dec. 1874: in 1909 two memorial windows were placed in the church, one to the Rev. C. E. Walker (22 years rector) and the other to Mrs. T. Christmas: there are two brasses, one on the south wall, dated 1517, to Catherine (Southwell), wife of Anthony Hansart, with two kneeling figures and a child, and over these a representation of the angel Gabriel appearing to the Virgin; the other is said to commemorate William Dredeman, the reputed donor of the magnificent nave roof, who died in 1503, and his wife, but the inscription is now scarcely legible: the tower stands on open arches, forming a thoroughfare: beneath the parapet on the north side of the church are medallions of flint work with shields of arms: the church was partly rebuilt about 1450, when the aisles and porch were added, and restored in 1874-5 when a new chancel was erected, and further in 1888, at a total cost of £2,800, and now affords 400 sittings. The register dates from the year 1558, and fragments remain of a yet earlier date. The living was created a rectory by 10 and 11 Vict. c. 3 (1847), amended by 19 and 20 Vict. c. 1 (1856), and on the death of the Rev. A. Peyton, rector of Doddington, in 1868, it became a separate living; net yearly value £1,184, with residence, in the gift of the Martyrs' Memorial Trust, and held since 1932 by the Rev. Frank Wilkinson Argyll M.A. of St. John's College & Ridley Hall, Cambridge.

St. Mary's is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1868: the church, at Westry, about 2 miles north of the town, was erected in 1874, at a cost of £2,500, and is a building of stone in the Decorated style of the 14th century, consisting of apsidal chancel, nave, south porch, vestry and a western turret containing one bell: there are memorial windows to the Rev. T. T. Peyton M.A. rector here from 1882 to 1927: there are 200 sittings. A lych gate was erected in 1932. The register dates from the year 1874. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £1,656, with residence, in the gift of Capt. Sir Algernon Thomas Peyton bart. J.P. and held since 1928 by the Rev. Robert Jackson Peyton Peyton-Burbery M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge.

The church of St. Mary Magdalene, West Fen, erected in 1891, is a stone building in the Decorated style, and consists of chancel, nave, vestry and a turret containing one bell: there are 80 sittings.

St. John's is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1872: the church, situated on the Station road and built in 1872, is an edifice of stone in the Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a western turret containing one bell: in the chancel is a memorial window to Sir Algernon William Peyton bart. of Swift's House, Bicester, Oxon, a former patron, who died 25 March, 1872: there are 500 sittings. The register dates from the year 1872. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £1,198, with residence, in the gift of Capt. Sir Algernon Thomas Peyton bart. J.P. and held since 1898 by the Rev. Simpson Samuel Walton M.A. of Durham University.

St. Peter's is an ecclesiastical parish, formed 26th Jan. 1881, and comprises a central part of the town: the church, erected in 1880, at a cost of £11,000, occupies a commanding position, and is an edifice of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles and a lofty tower at the north-west angle, with spire, and containing one bell: the lower stage of the tower forms a porch: a stained east window in commemoration of Queen Victoria's reign was inserted in 1906: a marble tablet was erected on the west wall in 1921, in memory of the parishioners who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: the church has 700 sittings. The register dates from the year 1881. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £1,097, with residence and including 4 acres of glebe, in the gift of and held since 1916 by the Rev. David Alexander Stewart M.A., B.D. of Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge, who is a surrogate, and rural dean of March.

There is a Roman Catholic church, in St. John's road, dedicated to Our Lady and St. Peter; it contains a statue of the Blessed Virgin which is an exact reproduction of the famous pre-Reformation statue of our Lady of Walsingham. There are 120 sittings.

The Centenary Baptist chapel, in High street, erected in 1870, is of brick in the Italian style, and will seat 800 persons; the chapel was founded in 1700. Providence Particular Baptist chapel, in Burrowmoor road, erected in 1835 and rebuilt in 1873, is of brick with Bath stone dressings, and affords 750 sittings. There is also a Baptist chapel at Chain Bridge, erected in 1859 and seating 120 persons. The Methodist chapel, in High street, erected in 1889, is also of brick with stone dressings in the Gothic style, and seats 550 persons.

The Congregational chapel, Station road, erected in 1836, has sittings for 450. There is a Salvation Army hall in High street.

The church and old churchyard and other graveyards were wholly or partially closed against interments May 4th, 1855.

The Cemetery, on the Station road, formed in the year 1867, is about 5½ acres in extent; it is beautifully laid out, and has a mortuary chapel with tower and spire. The cemetery is under the control of the Urban District Council.

In Broad street is a memorial on which are inscribed the names of the men of March who gave their lives in the Great War, 1914-18.

The Town Hall, situated in the Market place, was erected in 1900, at a cost of over £3,000, and is of red brick with stone dressings in the Renaissance style, from designs by Mr. W. T. Unwin, surveyor to the Urban District Council, and includes a tower 110 feet in height, containing a clock, erected by public subscription, at a cost of £250, in commemoration of the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria. The building comprises a spacious council chamber and various public offices, and also a fine engine house containing steam fire engine and motor pump, with all the necessary accessories.

The Guildhall, in High street, erected in 1827, is a plain structure of brick.

The County Hall for the Isle of Ely County Council was opened in 1909. The cost of the building, which comprises a spacious council chamber, large committee rooms, strong rooms and offices for the staff of the Council, was about £9,000, including the cost of furniture and fittings. An extensive block of buildings, costing £7,170, was erected in 1927 on the western side to hold the departments of the county accountant, county surveyor, county land agent, county medical officer, inspector of weights and measures and rating officer.

The Police Station is at the back of the County Court, High street. The Post Office, in Broad street, was opened 6 April, 1901.

The Temperance Hall, with hotel attached, was erected in 1885 by Miss P. H. Peckover, of Wisbech, at a cost of over £1,000; the hall will hold 250 persons. The Railway Servants' Mission services are held in the Temperance Hall.

The Conservative and Unionist Club, in Creek road, was erected in 1899, and contains good billiard and reading rooms.

The Liberal Club is at 47 High street.

The market, formerly held on Friday, was altered in 1850 to Wednesday, and has now become a thriving market for corn and seeds, cattle, sheep and pigs, and is well attended.

The market rights have been acquired by the Urban District Council by purchase from the lord of the manor. Fairs are held on the first Monday before Whit Sunday and the third Tuesday in October.

The local charities, known as the March Educational Foundation Charities, are now administered under a scheme framed by the Charity Commissioners and dated 29th June, 1888, and amended 8th November, 1898. The management is vested in 15 governors, of whom 5 are co-optative and 10 representative, 6 of the latter being chosen by the Education Committee of the Isle of Ely County Council, 3 by the March Urban District Council and 1 by the Council of the Senate of the University of Cambridge. With the exception of a sum of £223 5s. which is allocated to the March Almshouses and Pension Charities, administered by the same body, the whole income of the charities is devoted to educational purposes, viz.: In maintaining a Grammar School. The Almshouses, near St. Wendreda's church, were built in 1851, and will hold four married couples and four single people. The allowance to the former is 6s. 6d. per week and to the latter 4s. 6d.

The country round March is flat, and the land, which is mostly under tillage, yields heavy crops of wheat, oats and potatoes. The land, for the purpose of effecting a drainage, is divided into six districts, comprising in all about 20,000 acres; and much land has been reclaimed and brought under cultivation. The Fen droeways within the first, fourth and fifth drainage districts have been converted into gravel roads at the expense of the owners and occupiers, and similar improvements carried out in some of the other districts within this parish.

In 1730 three urns, full of burnt bones, and some small Roman coins, were dug up in a place called "Robin Goodfellow's lane," near this town.

The area of the entire civil parish and urban district is 19,669 acres of land and 108 of water; the population in 1931 was 11,276; the principal crops are wheat, potatoes and oats.

By the Isle of Ely Review Order, 1933, the parish and urban district was extended to include part of the borough of Wisbech, and part of the parish of Elm. By the same order a portion of the urban district was transferred to the parish of Elm.

The population of the ecclesiastical parishes in 1921 was:—St. John, 5,030; St. Mary, 623; St. Peter, 2,057, and St. Wendreda, 1,250.

Norwood half a mile, and March Chain 2 miles, lie to the north; Hobbs Lot 2½ miles, Granford and White Moor 1½ miles north-west; Burrow Moor 1 mile south-west; Eusimoor and Binnimoor 2 miles east; Ranson Moor and Linwood 2½ miles south.

EDUCATIONAL.

The Grammar School, Station road, founded in 1696 by William Neale for the education of eight boys in Latin & English, & endowed with lands in White's Fen, was rebuilt in 1876 by the Charity Governors, with an increased endowment from the charity funds: in 1903 a new laboratory was erected, at a cost of £550, & in 1910 entirely new buildings were erected & further extended in 1930 to include a gymnasium & laboratory: the present number of boys is about 180: the school is now carried on under a scheme of the Charity Commissioners framed in 1876, & administered by a governing body of 15 persons. There are two leaving exhibitions given annually for a period of two years at a university or institution of similar standing. Arnold Heathcote B.A. head master, with 8 assistant masters

Secondary High School for Girls, County road; opened 1905 & maintained by the Isle of Ely County Council & managed by a body of governors appointed by the Education Committee of the Council; the Rev. S. S. Walton M.A. chairman; Frank Sole esq. vice-chairman; E. J. P. Osborne M.A. hon. sec. The new buildings erected by the Isle of Ely County Council are of two storeys, & comprise a large central hall, six lofty & well-lighted class rooms, & well-arranged science laboratory, art room, music rooms, dining room, cookery & laundry rooms &c. & the preparatory school with a separate entrance & cloak rooms; the school will hold 150; Miss Eliza John M.A. Lond. head mistress and Melbourn, county county district of Royston, rural deanery of Shingay and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of All Saints is a building of flint in the Perpendicular and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south transept, large south porch with parvise and an embattled western tower with four crocketed pinnacles and a small spire and containing a clock with chimes and 6 bells: the chancel and nave, as well as the tower, are embattled: the chapel known as the Argentine Chapel was built by Sir John de Argentine on his return from the 3rd crusade; it contains the remains of two fine tabernacle niches, also a memorial to those fallen in the Great War: there is a mural tablet to Mary Hatton, 1760; and a memorial window to the Hitch family: the chancel has a fine Early English Easter sepulchre and two Early English aumbries, also a Decorated double piscina: there is a very fine Perpendicular screen, the gift of Robert Hitch in 1506: the organ, which is the last of the Carnegie Gift Fund organs, was presented in 1912, and in 1884 the church was restored chiefly at the cost of John Hampden Fordham esq.: there are 400 sittings. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £460, with 47 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Ely, and held since 1922 by the Rev. Herbert Henry Howell McNeice M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. The Congregational chapel, erected in 1866, will seat 800 persons: the old chapel, founded in 1694, is retained for Sunday school purposes and public meetings. The Baptist chapel, a spacious building with school rooms in the rear, and restored in 1868, has 625 sittings. An acre of ground was acquired in 1904 for a cemetery for the parish. On the village green is a cross of Portland stone, erected in 1920 as a memorial to the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. There is a library, which is supplied by the Congregational Church. The Church school room is used as a Sunday school and for parochial purposes. The Dean and Chapter of Ely are lords of the manor, and Thomas Meyer esq. is lord of the manors of Argentines and Trayles. There are several landowners. The soil is clayey and clunchy, and the subsoil clay, gravel and clunch. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and fruit. The area is 4,480 acres; the population in 1921 was 1,294 in the civil and 1,339 in the ecclesiastical parish. Under the provisions of the Divided Parishes Act a part of Melbourn was transferred to Meldreth in 1882.

MELDRETH is a parish and straggling village on a branch of the river Rhea, with a station on the Hitchin and Cambridge line of the London and North Eastern railway, 4 miles north-by-east from Royston, 9½ south-west from Cambridge and 42 from London, in the hundred of Armingford, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, rural district of Melbourn, county court district of Royston, rural deanery of Shingay and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of Holy Trinity is a building of stone and clunch in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 5 bells; the chancel, north wall of the nave & tower are, however, of the Norman period: in the church is a monument to George Pike esq. who died 1658, and the family vault of the Mortlock family: there is a memorial window, erected by the Rev. E. W. Cory, a former vicar, to the memory of his wife; another by friends of the Rev. E. W. Cory, previously mentioned, and a third was presented by J. G. Mortlock esq. in 1885: the church was restored in 1898, at a cost of £1,200, and has 300 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from 1681; marriages, 1692. The living is a vicarage, united with that of Whaddon in 1932, joint net yearly value £440, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Ely, MEPAL is a parish and village in the Isle of Ely, 1½ miles north from Sutton station on the Ely, Sutton and St. Ives branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 8 west of Ely city and 4½ south-east from Chatteris, in the hundred of South Witchford, rural district, petty sessional division, county court district and rural deanery of Ely, archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The Hundred Foot river, which is navigable from Bedford to Lynn, runs through the village, and forms an important means of communication. The name of the village is said to be a contraction of "Meopa's hall," Meopa being a Saxon lord. The church of St. Mary, anciently belonging, according to the inscription on the tomb of Alan de Walsingham, sub-prior and sacristan of Ely cathedral, to the church of Ely, is a building of flint and stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a western turret containing one bell: the chancel was restored by the Rev. Charles S. Harris LL.M. rector (1876-84), and the church in 1905 at a cost of £600: in 1908 the interior was reseated and a vestry added at a cost of £200: there are 100 sittings. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a rectory, annexed to the vicarage of Witcham, joint net yearly value £625, including 69 acres of glebe and and held since 1932 by the Rev. George Hunt Holley B.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge, who resides at Whaddon. There is a Congregational chapel, erected in 1852, having sittings for 100 persons, and a Methodist chapel. Opposite the entrance to the railway station is a cross, erected in 1920, in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. Charities producing £13 yearly are distributed in fuel. St. Thomas' Hospital, London, are lords of the manor of Topcliffes. Christ's College, Cambridge, Alfred Russell Fordham esq. J.P. Capt. Hubert Oslar Shepherd Ellis B.A., LL.B. and George Palmer esq. (who is lord of the manor of Sheene) are the principal landowners. A cement company here provides work for a large number of inhabitants. The soil is loam; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are fruit, wheat, barley, beans and winter oats. The area is 2,513 acres; the population in 1921 was 572 in the civil and 527 in the ecclesiastical parish. Under the provisions of the Divided Parishes Act a part of Meldreth was in 1882 added to Melbourn.

residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Ely, and held since 1922 by the Rev. John William Robson L.Th. of Hatfield Hall, Durham, who resides at Witcham. There is a Baptist (Union) chapel. A market was held here up to 1834, when it was removed to Chatteris. A sum of about £10 yearly, arising from 6 acres and known as "Aspland's Charity," is distributed in money at Christmas. Ireton's Way, formerly a private road with a toll gate, was constructed during the Civil war by General Henry Ireton, the Parliamentary commander, to convey troops from Chatteris to Ely. In 1902 it was taken over by the County Council, and is now an open road. Fortrey Hall, now a farmhouse, derives its name from James Fortrey esq. an exile from Brabant in the reign of James II. The principal landowners are the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, who are lords of the manor. The soil is loam, with fen land; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, potatoes, oats and barley. The area is 1,693 acres of land and 15 of water; the population in 1921 was 360 in the civil and 353 in the ecclesiastical parish. By Local Government Board Order No. 15,876 (March 24, 1884), a part of Witcham was transferred to Mopal. Post & Tel. Call Office. Letters through Ely. The nearest M.O. & T. office is at Sutton

MILTON is a parish and village, on the road from Cambridge to Ely and on the river Cam, 2½ miles south-west from Waterbeach station on the Ely and Cambridge branch of the London and North Eastern railway and 3½ north-north-east from Cambridge, in the hundred of North Stow, rural district of Chesterton, petty sessional division and county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Quy, archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of All Saints is a building of rubble and stone in mixed styles, with some remains of Norman work, and exhibits various peculiarities of construction: it consists of chancel, nave, north aisle, south aisle, south porch and a western tower of the Late Decorated period containing a clock and 3 bells: the north aisle, which had been demolished, was rebuilt in 1864: the chancel retains its Norman arch and a double piscina, which, however, has been mutilated by the insertion in the Perpendicular period of three graduated sedilia: there are some good miserere benches: the altar-rails were brought from King's College chapel, Cambridge, and on the north side is an altar tomb with a brass, dated 1553: the nave dates from about the year 1300 and is of Late Geometric character: on the south side of the chancel arch is a singular recess, possibly a hagioscope: in the church is a fine monument by Flaxman to Mrs. Knight, d. 1800, and one by Chantrey to Mr. Samuel Knight, d. 1829: a stained window was placed in the north aisle in 1892 by the Rev. John Chapman, rector, to the memory of his wife, who died in 1889: there are 269 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year

1707; marriages, 1754; burials, 1709. The living, which had formerly a rector and vicar, is now a consolidated rectory, net income £412, with residence, in the gift of King's College, Cambridge, and held since 1931 by the Rev. George Stephen Osborn M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. There is a Baptist chapel, erected in 1865, with sittings for 150 persons, and a village institute. The charities, which produce about £60 yearly, are administered by trustees under a scheme framed by the Charity Commissioners; three parts of the total sum are applied for the use of the poor, and one-fourth to the church. The Misses Baumgartner are ladies of the manor. The principal landowners are Caius College, Cambridge, Miss E. Robinson and the County Council. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay and gravel; a considerable portion has been laid down to grass and part is strong fen land. The crops are wheat, barley, peas, beans, potatoes and turnips. The area is 2,344 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1921 was 685 in the civil and 542 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By the Cambridge (Extension) Order, 1911, which came into operation April 1st, 1912, that part of Chesterton civil parish not added to Cambridge Municipal Borough was transferred to Milton civil parish.

NEWMARKET

NEWMARKET is a market town and gives its name to a rural district; it is the head of a county court district, with a station on the Cambridge and Bury branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 72 miles from London, the town being 60 miles distant by road, and 13 east-by-north from Cambridge. Newmarket comprises two civil parishes, All Saints and St. Mary's and for parliamentary purposes is in the Bury St. Edmunds division of Suffolk, partly in Cheveley hundred, Cambridge, and partly in Lackford hundred, Suffolk; the High street divides the two counties; for administrative purposes the whole town is in West Suffolk; it is in the rural deanery of Newmarket, archdeaconry of Sudbury and diocese of St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich.

Under the provisions of the Cambridgeshire and West Suffolk (Newmarket) Confirmation Order, 1895, that part of Wood Ditton parish in Suffolk was added to Newmarket All Saints for civil purposes.

The town was formerly governed by a Local Board and comprised within its area part of Wood Ditton and part of Exning (Suffolk), but under the provisions of the Local Government Act, 1894 (56 and 57 Vict. c. 73), an Urban District Council was established and the whole of Exning included in the boundary. By the same Act the town was divided into five wards, three members for each ward. It is lighted with gas from works in the Exning road, the property of the Newmarket Gas Co. and with electricity supplied by the Newmarket Electric Light Co. Ltd. from works also in Exning road. The water works, erected in 1883-4 by the Newmarket Water Works Co. Limited, include a covered reservoir on Warren hill, holding 250,000 gallons, supplied from a spring near Exning.

The parish of St. Mary's is in the Lackford hundred, Suffolk. The church is a building of flint with stone dressings in the Early English and Late Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower, with shingled spire, containing a clock and 6 bells: the chancel retains an Early English piscina, discovered in 1856, and found to inclose a small purse containing three Nuremberg jettons of common type: there are memorial windows to the Rev. John Denman M.A. rector (1869-80), and to William and Ann Ratliff and to Joseph Dawson, and inscribed tablets to William, second son of Sir Thomas Martyn kt. of Barton Court, ob. 1693, and to the Flesher and Fisher families, 1697-1704: in the north aisle is buried B. Cooke, a former rector, ob. 1681: the church was enlarged and repaired in 1856, and restored in 1887, at a cost of £2,942: there are about 500 sittings, 120 being free. The register dates from the year 1638. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £317, including residence, in the gift of the Rev. W. F. Buttle M.A., A.K.C. and held since 1921 by the Rev. John Frankerd M.A. of Selwyn College, Cambridge, hon.C.F.

The parish of All Saints is in the Cheveley hundred, Cambridge. The church, erected in 1876-7, at a cost of £6,717, on the site of an older structure, as a memorial to Col. Lord George John Manners, of Cheveley Park, who represented the county of Cambridge in parliament for 20 years and died September 8, 1874, is a building of flint with Bath stone dressings in the Decorated style, and consists of nave of five bays, aisles, vestry, south porch and an embattled western tower with pinnacles containing 8 bells: there are ten stained windows, including the east and west windows: the handsome stone pulpit and beautiful carved oak lectern were both gifts, as well as an oak screen presented by the Hammond family: the chancel was enlarged in 1887 at a cost of £740, and a new east window erected and filled with stained glass in memory of the Rev. Thomas Romaine Govett S.C.L. vicar (1868-80): in 1909 two new vestries and an organ were added at a cost of about £1,900: there are about 800 sittings, all of which are free. The register dates from the year 1622. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich, and held since 1930 by the Rev. Christopher Algernon Barnes B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. The vicarage house was built as a memorial to John Henry, 5th Duke of Rutland K.G.

Saint Agnes, EXNING, is an ecclesiastical parish formed in 1827 by an Order in Council out of the parishes of Exning and Newmarket St. Mary: the church, erected in 1886 by the late Caroline Agnes, Duchess of Montrose (d. 1894), is an edifice of red brick with stone dressings in the Decorated style, and consists of chancel, with north chapel and organ chamber on the south side, nave and a highly ornamented turret containing one bell: there is a handsomely carved oak pulpit and a stone font: the east wall of the chancel is beautifully decorated with mosaics representing "the Angelic Order" and "the Heavenly Jerusalem," by Salvati, redosed by Sir Edgar Boehm: all the windows are stained: the organ was erected at a cost of about £500: the interior is lighted by electricity: there are about 120 sittings, all being free: in the churchyard was a fine Calvary cross erected as a memorial to W. Stirling Crawford esq. of Milton, d. 23 Feb. 1823; this was blown down in 1895, and a granite cross erected in its place by the Duke of Montrose; there is an oak lych gate. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £240, with residence, in the gift of the Hon. George Lambton J.P. and held since 1888 by the Rev. William Colville-Wallis M.A. of Emmanuel College, Cambridge, who is a surrogate.

The church of St. Philip's, in St. Philip's road, is an iron structure erected in 1893; it consists of nave and chancel, and affords seating accommodation for 150 persons.

The church of St. Etheldreda, Exning road, is a building of flint and stone, attached to the Institution; it was erected by the voluntary contributions of church people in 1895, at a cost of £600: it is open to the public, and affords 200 sittings.

The Roman Catholic church, in All Saints' road, erected in 1861, and enlarged in 1911, is dedicated to Our Lady Immaculate and St. Etheldreda, and has about 200 sittings.

The Congregational chapel, erected in 1863, at a cost of upwards of £3,500, on the site of the old palace of Charles II. in commemoration of Nonconformists who suffered persecution in that reign, is a structure in the Gothic style, with 650 sittings: the oak pulpit and sittings were made from the timber of the old building; the chapel was founded in 1790.

There is a Methodist chapel in Granby street with 230 sittings.

The Methodist chapel, in St. Mary's square, erected in 1892, at a cost, including site, of £2,000, is an edifice of red brick with stone dressings in the Gothic style, and will seat 350 persons.

There is an undenominational meeting house in Exning road.

The Newmarket Cemetery, situated on elevated ground on the Cambridge road, near the racecourse, has an area of 8½ acres and two mortuary chapels: it is under the control of a burial committee of the Urban District Council, consisting of fourteen members. The Exning Cemetery is situated between Newmarket and Exning; area about two acres, and is controlled as above.

The Public Clock tower, erected in 1889, at a cost of £600, at the junction of High street and the Bury and Old Station roads, is of red brick with stone dressings, and contains a clock given by the late Charles Blanton esq. There is a stone fountain, erected in 1910, to the memory of Sir Daniel Cooper, 2nd bart. of Warren Tower (d. 1909), by his widow.

Near the clock tower is a square grey granite pillar, surmounted by an urn, erected as a memorial to the men of Newmarket who fell in the Great War, 1914-18.

King Edward VII. Memorial Hall, erected in 1914, is a building of red brick with stone dressings.

A corn market is held here. The market day is Tuesday. Sales of cattle, sheep and pigs are held on market days at the sale yards, "Waggon and Horses."

The Astley Institute, formerly known as the Stablemen's Institute, was founded in 1887 by Sir John Astley and the Rev. E. H. Littlewood M.A. vicar of All Saints', 1883-98: H.M. the King is a patron and subscriber: the new building, erected in 1892, contains a library of about 500 volumes, and rooms for billiards, bagatelle and other amusements. It is supported chiefly by voluntary contributions amongst the principal race-horse owners of the kingdom. Free instruction classes are also held during the winter months for men and boys.

The Conservative Working Men's Club, in Exeter road, opened in 1892, is a structure of red brick with stone dressings, and contains billiard, card and committee rooms and a refreshment bar.

A Cottage Hospital and Almshouses were erected in 1879-80 as a memorial to the Hon. Henry John Rous, admiral R.N. who died 19th June, 1877: the almshouses are for two married couples and six single persons: the hospital, which is on the pavilion system, contains 19 beds for patients, including 10 for men and boys (principally those employed in racing establishments) four for women, and five for children; the buildings occupy an elevated site to the east of the town, given by Sir Richard Wallace bart. K.C.B. (d. 1890), and form three sides of a quadrangle.

The District Nursing Home, in Cardigan street, was erected in 1923 as a memorial of the Great War, 1914-18.

There are several charities, left by different persons, the proceeds of which, amounting to £12 yearly, are divided amongst the poor on St. Thomas' day.

In the town is a house once occupied by Nell Gwynne.

Newmarket is celebrated for its races, racecourse and racing and training establishments, which are frequented by visitors from all parts of the country and the Continent: the course, on which several stands have been erected, adjoins the town and extends to about 4 miles westward: there are generally from 1,500 to 2,000 horses in training on the Downs, where there is a remarkable earthwork, called "The Devil's Ditch," 4 or 5 miles long, and consisting of a deep foss and mound, with a slope of 52 feet on the south-west side and 26 feet on the north-east side, the whole being 100 feet in breadth. The Jockey Club is a body founded in the reign of George II. between 1727 and 1760; the club has buildings here containing suites of rooms for the use of the members during the race meetings which are held as follows: 1st, Craven meeting (April); 2nd, 1st Spring meeting; 3rd, 2nd Spring meeting (May); 4th, 1st July meeting; 5th, 2nd July meeting; 6th, 1st October meeting; 7th, 2nd October meeting; 8th, the Houghton meeting (October).

NEWTON (near Wisbech) is a parish and picturesque village in the Isle of Ely, on the Norfolk border of the county, 1 mile from Ferry station on the Peterborough and Sutton Bridge section of the Midland and Great Northern joint railway, and 4 north from Wisbech station on the London and North Eastern railway, in the hundred, rural district, petty sessional division, county court district, rural deanery, archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The church of St. James is an edifice of stone in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of six bays, aisles, south porch and a western tower with spire containing a clock and 6 bells; in 1912 the 6 bells were rehung in a steel frame, at a cost of £185; the tower, porch and aisles are of good Decorated character; the nave has clerestory windows of Perpendicular date, and the chancel is of the same period: there are several ancient sepulchral slabs and an Early font: the east window and five others are stained: the chancel was restored in 1879, at a cost of £372, and in 1890-91 new choir stalls and organ were provided and two stained windows inserted as a memorial to Dr. Corrie: in 1893 a carved oak altar table and rood screen were placed in the chancel: there are 322 sittings. The register dates from the year 1685. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £800, including 40 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1926 by the Rev. Thomas Triffitt M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge. A parish room was opened in 1909. There is a Methodist chapel, erected in 1868. There are almshouses for four poor widows, unendowed and let at a nominal rate. The trustees of the late Edward Hugh Jackson esq. are lords of the manor, and G. Forrest Hoyles esq. is the principal landowner. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay and silt. The chief crops are wheat, oats, beans, peas, mustard, fruit and potatoes. The area is 3,092 acres of land and 11 of water; the population in 1921 was 920 in the civil and 479 in the ecclesiastical parish.

OAKINGTON, properly Hockington, the place being really named after the Hocings, one of the royal tribes of Frisia mentioned in Beowulf and "The Travellers' Song," is a parish and village with a station on the St. Ives and Cambridge branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 6¼ miles from London and 7 north-west from Cambridge, in the hundred of Northstow, rural district of Chesterton, petty sessional division and county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of North Stowe and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Andrew is a large edifice of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, north porch and an embattled western tower containing 4 bells, of which the treble and third were cast in 1655 and the tenor in 1656, all three by Miles Graye, of Colchester; the second is dated 1748: the south porch was destroyed in 1842: the church retains an ancient stone font consisting of a rudely arcaded basin, supported on five shafts, and there are three massive stone coffin lids, supposed to date from about 1350; these were found under the floor; one bears a floriated cross: both aisles originally had chantries at the east end, and the north aisle still retains two niches: the tower, very well built of rubble masonry, with Barnack stone quoins, belongs to the Early Decorated period: the church was restored in 1885, at a cost of £1,000, under the direction of W.M. Fawcett esq. M.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge, architect, and affords 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1561. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £320, with residence, in the gift of Queens' College, Cambridge, and held since 1930 by the Rev. Leonard Galley M.A. of that college. The list of vicars dates from 1315. In a garden near the church are the graves of three Puritan ministers, Joseph Oddy 1687, Francis Holcroft, 1692, and Henry Osland 1711. There are Baptist and Methodist chapels. The manor of Hockington was given in 946 by its owner, Turketyl or Thuraytel, chancellor of King Edred, to Crowland Abbey; it was devastated by the Danes in 1009, but the buildings were restored by Abbot Brittimer in 1018-48: the manor and rectory remained in the possession of Crowland Abbey till the surrender of the monastery December 8, 1539; in 1557 it was purchased by Queens' College, Cambridge. The chief landowners are Queens' College, Cambridge, who are lords of the manor, and the County Council. The soil is stiff loam, and the subsoil clay. Wheat, barley, beans, peas, potatoes and turnips are the chief crops. The acreage of the entire civil parish is 1,692; the population in 1921 was 449 in the civil and 507 in the ecclesiastical parish.

WESTWICK is a parish, half a mile north-east, in the hundred, rural district of Chesterton and Oakington ecclesiastical parish. The principal landowner is J. H. H. Linton esq. The area is 333 acres; the population in 1921 was 58.

ORWELL is a parish adjacent to a Roman road, 3 miles north-west from Shepreth station on the Hitchin, Royston and Cambridge line of the London and North Eastern railway, 8 south-west from Cambridge and about 7 north from Boyston, in the hundred of Wetherley, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, rural district of Caxton and Arrington, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Barton and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Andrew is a building of stone and flint, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 5 bells: the chancel is Perpendicular and the nave Early English: in the chancel is an effigy of Dr. Jeremiah Radcliffe, one of the 47 translators of the Bible in 1608-11, buried here 4 March, 1611: the church was repaired in 1883, at a cost of £949, under the direction of Mr. William White, architect, of London, when the roof was renewed in oak, part of the old timber being re-incorporated; at the intersections of the ribs in the chancel is an interesting series of shields, bearing the arms of many of the principal county families painted in distemper, but the blazonry being almost obliterated was restored from a record preserved in a manuscript at Wimpole Hall: in 1918 a Roll of Honour, containing the names of the parishioners who fell in the Great War, 1914-18, was erected over the altar on the north side of the church: there are 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1500. The living is a rectory held in plurality with Harlton, net yearly value £503, with residence and including 350 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Diocesan Board of Patronage, and held since 1928 by the Rev. Edgar John White B.A. of Manchester University. There is a Methodist chapel. Capt. John Nelson Bendyshe, who is lessee of the manor under Christ's College, Cambridge, and Viscount Clifden M.V.O. are the principal landowners. The soil is clayey and chalky, and the subsoil clay, gault and limestone. The crops are wheat, barley, beans and fruit. The acreage is 2,083; the population in 1921 was 469.

OUTWELL is a parish partly in this county but mostly in Norfolk, and is given in Kelly's Directory of that county.

OVER is a large parish, near the navigable Ouse, and 1 mile north-by-east from Swavesey station on the St. Ives and Cambridge section of the London and North Eastern railway, 5 east from St. Ives and 9 north-west from Cambridge, in the hundred of Papworth, rural district of Swavesey, Cambridge petty sessional division, county court district of Huntingdon, North Stowe rural deanery and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary the Virgin is an edifice of stone, principally in the Decorated style, and consists of chancel, clorestoried nave of six bays, aisles, a fine south porch and a western tower with lofty octagonal spire, rising to a height of 156 feet and containing a clock with chimes and 8 bells, and over the chancel is a sanctus bell of the 14th century: the chancel is Perpendicular, but retains an Early English piscina and chancel arch, the columns of the latter having been cut away in order to insert the rood screen, a good piece of the 14th century work of seven divisions, with groined loft above: both nave and chancel have Perpendicular roofs, and the nave and aisles are embattled: a chantry was founded in the south aisle in 1391, in memory of Robert Muskhams (a former rector), but its endowments have been alienated since the reign of Edward VI.: the south aisle still retains a piscina, and exhibits on the exterior some exceedingly fine and bold gargoyles: the south porch is a very beautiful and highly enriched composition of the Decorated period, and the tower is Early in this style: over the west doorway is a weather-worn carving of the Virgin Mary in Glory; on the left side are the arms of Ramsey Abbey, which formerly held the patronage of this living from 1004 A.D.: on the south side of the chancel are six stalls of the 13th century, brought here at the dissolution of the abbey, and one of these bears the arms of the abbey: the pulpit of carved oak, with a fine canopy, is Jacobean: the whole of the north aisle has been rebuilt and the church reseated; the tower and spire were repaired in 1864, at a cost of £600, defrayed by the churchwardens out of the thirds received by them from the Over Town Lands charity; the chancel has also been restored: in 1822 a clock and chimes were placed in the tower: the organ was also repaired at a cost of £105, the spire restored at a cost of £220: and lamps placed in the church at a cost of £69: there are 325 sittings. The register dates from the year 1577. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £344, with 25 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Trinity College, Cambridge, and held since 1923 by the Rev. Frederick George Weston M.A. of that college. The list of rectors and vicars dates from 1509. There is a Baptist chapel, founded in 1757, with sittings for 350 persons, and a Methodist chapel. In the centre of the village is a stone cross, erected in 1920 as a memorial to the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. There is a recreation ground of about 4 acres. Lady Kirby's charity, now amounting to £15 per annum, is for the education of poor children and gifts for the poor: a net sum of about £240 yearly, derived from the town lands, is, after payment of the various expenses connected therewith, divided into thirds, one-third being paid over to the churchwardens for church purposes; one-third to the overseers for the poor rate account, and the remaining third, called "the constables' third," is applied in various ways for the use and benefit of the parishioners; Wados' charity of £5 yearly is for bread; a charity amounting to £2 10s. annually, left by Alice Walpole, is now applied as follows:—£2 for the education of poor children and 10s. for gifts for the poor; "Henry the VIII.'s Gift" of 13s. 4d. annually, given through Trinity College, Cambridge, and Peck and Elvie's charity of 13s. 4d. are also for the poor. The manor was given to the abbot and convent of Ramsey, by Ednothus, Bishop of Dorchester (1034-50), and in the year 1619 James I. granted it to George Villiers, Duke of Buckingham: in 1676 it was alienated to Sackville Wade esq. and since then it has passed through the families of Kirby, Phillips, Edwards and Taylor to the present owner, Guy W. Stanley esq. who is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are Trinity, Jesus and Corpus Christi Colleges, Cambridge; the trustees of Over and Col. Taylor. The soil is strong clay; subsoil, gravel and clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats, beans and garden produce. The area is 3,717 acres of land and 20 of water; the population in 1921 was 896.

PAMPISFORD is a parish and village, with a station 1½ miles north-east from the village, on the Cambridge and Melford branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 1½ miles north-east from Whittlesford station on the main line of the same system, 8 south from Cambridge, 5 west from Linton, 8 north from Saffron Walden and 53½ by rail or 47 by road from London, in the hundred of Chilford, rural district and petty sessional division of Linton, county court district of Saffron Walden, rural deanery of Camps and arch-deaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. John the Baptist, which is surrounded by fine elms, is a structure of flint and stone, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, wooden south porch and a western tower containing a clock and 4 bells: the arcades are Transition Norman: the font is Norman, and there is an Early Norman south doorway: the rood screen is in good preservation and an oaken cross was placed above it in 1887: there are memorial windows to Cecilia, wife of James Binney esq. d. 1897, also to Dorothy, wife of F. Prince esq. of Sawston, and another placed by Col. Hamond R.A. and Miss Hamond in memory of William Parker Hamond esq. J.P., D.L. d. 1884: the church was restored about 1850, and again in 1876-91: there are 270 sittings, 220 being free. The register dates from about the year 1565. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £200, with residence, in the gift of James Binney esq. M.A., D.L., J.P. and held since 1932 by the Rev. Arthur Worsley Smyth M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. A stone cross, erected to the memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18 was unveiled on Nov. 6th, 1921. The Pampisford Charity, left by an unknown donor, amounts to £50 per annum, and is for the repair of the church and the relief of the poor. Pampisford Hall, the seat of James Binney esq. M.A., D.L., J.P. about a mile from the village, is a substantial mansion, remodelled from designs by G. Goldie esq. R.A.: the entrance hall has a beautifully curved oak staircase, and the dining-room an elaborately designed oak fireplace and massive sideboard of oak, the produce of the late Mr. W. Parker Hamond's estate at Haling Park, in Surrey: the dining-room, library and ante-room have fine ceilings in the Tudor style: the woods and grounds have been much improved and altered, and an approach made from the village past the mansion to the Newmarket road, near the station, ending in an avenue of cedar and oak: a magnificent collection of conifers has been formed, including specimens from Japan, China, Mexico and California, besides a rich collection of Austrian, Pyrenean and other species: south of the mansion is an Italian flower garden: on the south side, running east and west for more than a mile, and in excellent preservation, is an ancient British dyke; still more southward is the new park, bounded by other plantations and groups of trees. James Binney esq. M.A., D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor, and Mr. Alfred Edward Fordham are the principal landowners. There were formerly two manors here, which appear to have been united prior to the reign of James I. when the manor was the property of the Marsh family: together with other estates it came in the 17th century to the family of Parker, by a marriage with the heiress of the Marsh family, and shortly after, by a marriage with the heiress of the Parkers, it was transferred to the family of Sir William Hamond. The soil is mixed, and the subsoil chalk and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,607 acres; the population in 1921 was 255.

PAPWORTH EVERARD is a parish, on the road from Royston to Huntingdon and on the borders of Huntingdonshire, 6 miles south-east from Huntingdon station on the main line of the London and North Eastern railway, 6 south-west from St. Ives and 8 east from St. Neots, in the hundred of Papworth, petty sessional division of Caxton, rural district of Caxton and Arrington, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Bourn and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Peter is a structure of flint with stone dressings, in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, north porch and an embattled tower on the north side with spire and containing 2 bells: the church was restored and almost rebuilt in 1850: the tower was erected in 1871 and the spire added in 1876, in memory of Robert Cheere, who died 16 May, 1875: in 1900 the church was re-roofed: in 1834 an organ was presented by Miss Cheere: the stained memorial windows in the east side are to Frances Cheere, d. 1891. and Mary Alice Williams, d. 1899: the west window is to the memory of Sydney Hawker Williams: the window in the west side of the chancel was erected in 1892 to the Rev. Edward Cheere M.A., J.P. of Papworth Hall: an altar cross was presented by Mrs. Dale Galloway in 1910 in memory of the Rev. Edward Dale Galloway, rector 1879-1894: the church affords about 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1565. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £350, with residence, in the gift of the Rev. L. R. Lewis M.A. and held since 1933 by the Rev. Cyril Norman Cook. There is also a Methodist chapel erected in 1928 and a Roman Catholic chapel erected in 1932. The Papworth Village Settlement is for people suffering from tuberculosis. The New Hospital for Women, crescent shaped to obtain the maximum of sunshine, and accommodating 62 patients, was erected in 1932. The Bernhard Memorial Hospital for Men, providing for 84 patients, was erected in 1933. Both hospitals were constructed by Papworth's own building department. Messrs. Pamplin Brothers, W. G. Jessop esq. and Papworth Village Settlement are the principal landowners. The soil is heavy clay; subsoil, blue gault. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 1,157 acres; the population in 1921 was 338.

By Local Government Board Order No. 47,289, which came into operation Oct. 8th, 1904, part of Papworth St. Agnes was transferred to Papworth Everard.

PAPWORTH ST. AGNES is a parish, on the borders of Huntingdonshire, 4½ miles south-east from Offord and Backden station on the main line of the London and North Eastern railway, about 8 north-east from St. Neots, about 14 west from Cambridge and 5 south-east from Huntingdon, in the hundreds of Papworth and Toseland, petty sessional division of Caxton, rural district of Caxton and Arrington, county court district of Huntingdon, rural deanery of Bourn and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely.

This parish was formerly partly in Hunts, but under the provisions of the Local Government Act, 1888 (51 and 52 Vict. c. 41), it became, from Sept. 30, 1895, wholly in Cambridgeshire.

The church of St. John the Baptist, built on the site of a more ancient structure, is an edifice of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, north porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 2 bells: the tower was rebuilt in 1842 and the chancel and nave in 1854, in the Decorated style, by the Rev. H. J. Sperling, then rector: the east window is stained, and the nave contains four memorial windows to the Sperling family: there are 120 sittings. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £298, with residence and including 78 acres of glebe, in the gift of Arthur H. B. Sperling esq. J.P. and held since 1924 by the Rev. Yorke Darrell Stewart M.A. of Brasenose College, Oxford, who is also vicar of Hilton (Hunts). The manor of Russells, in this parish, belonged in the reign of King John to a family of that name, from whom it passed successively to the families of Papworth and Mallory; it is now the property of Arthur H. B. Sperling esq. J.P. who is the sole landowner. The soil is heavy clay; subsoil, blue gault. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and beans. The area is 1,298 acres; the population in 1921 was 116.

By Local Government Board Order No. 47,289, which came into operation Oct. 8th, 1904, part of Papworth St. Agnes was transferred to Papworth Everard.

PARSON DROVE is a chapelry in Leverington civil parish, 2½ miles north from Murrow station on the London and North Eastern railway from March to Doncaster, and the Peterborough to Sutton Bridge branch of the Midland and Great Northern joint railway and 6 south-west from Wisbech, in the hundred, rural district, petty sessional division, county court district, rural deanery and archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The ecclesiastical parish was formed in 1870 from the civil parish of Leverington. The church of St. John the Baptist is an edifice of stone and brick in the Early English style, consisting of nave, aisles, north and south porches, and an embattled western tower containing 5 bells: in 1895 the roof of the church was raised and restored: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1657. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £663, with glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1918 by the Rev. Arthur Parham, of Chichester College. The parish shares one-third of the interest of £90, left by John Bend in 1593, the remaining two-thirds being assigned to Wisbech St. Mary. There is no manor. The soil is rich loam; subsoil, clay and silt. The chief crops are wheat, oats, potatoes, sugar beet, beans and fruit. The area is 4,078 acres of land and 18 of water; the population in 1921 was, of the civil parish 950 and of the ecclesiastical parish 200.

PRICKWILLOW is a hamlet and ecclesiastical parish, formed April 5, 1878, from Holy Trinity and St. Mary parishes, Ely, Littleport, Cambridgeshire, and Lakenheath and Mildenhall, Suffolk, and part of Norfolk, 4 miles north-east from Ely station on the Cambridge, Ely and Norwich section of the London and North Eastern railway and 4 south-east from Littleport, in the petty sessional division, rural district, county court district and rural deanery of Ely, archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. This hamlet is on the river Lark, which rises at Bury St. Edmunds and here joins the river Ouse; the Lark is spanned within the parish by two bridges. The church of St. Peter, built about 1868 on a foundation of wooden piles, is a cruciform edifice of brick and flint in the Early English style, consisting of apsidal chancel, nave with transepts, south porch and a central turret with short spire containing one bell, dated 1691, formerly in Ely cathedral: the stained east window is a memorial: the font of Italian marble, also brought from Ely cathedral, and said to have been designed by Sir Christopher Wren, is dated 1693: there are 350 sittings. There being no churchyard here interments take place at Ely. The registers of births and marriages date from the year 1878. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £375, with residence, in the gift of the vicar of Holy Trinity, Ely, and held since 1930 by the Rev. William Francis Hicks M.A. of Trinity College and Ridley Hall, Cambridge. There is a Baptist chapel, erected in 1875, and one for Methodists, erected in 1894. St. Peter's Hall, an old building, formerly a Wesleyan chapel, is now used for meetings of a religious and social character. Owing to exhaustive draining, the soil in this district sinks nearly two inches yearly; the schools and vicarage and other houses are built on piles. One steam pumping engine and three oil engines are maintained for draining the fens; two engines are in the village and two in Burnt Fen; the average discharge is 300 tons a minute into the river Lark. There are several small landowners. The soil is fen; subsoil, clay. The land, which is all fen, is chiefly arable. The population in 1921 was 1,303, which extends into Suffolk.

RAMPTON is a parish, 3½ miles east from Oakington station on the St. Ives and Cambridge branch of the London and North Eastern railway and 7 north from Cambridge, in the hundred of Northstow, rural district of Chesterton, petty sessional division and county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of North Stowe and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of All Saints is a small rubble building in mixed styles, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 3 bells: the chancel arch is Transitional Norman, the bold and low piers of the nave Early English, the chancel Decorated, and the tower Perpendicular: the chancel has an aumbry and piscina: the south aisle also retains a piscina, and there is a low-side window with an iron grating: under an arched recess in the north wall of the chancel is a recumbent effigy, c. 1350, representing one of the De Lisle family, former lords of this place: in the nave is a slab with floriated cross and inscription in Lombardic characters to Sir Nicholas de Huntingdon, c. 1330, and on the tower is a sun-dial: the roof of the nave is thatched, but has timber framing of fine English oak: the church was partially restored and reseated in 1900-1915: the chancel was re-roofed and the north and south walls raised to their original height in 1910: there are 130 sittings. The register dates from the year 1678, but there is a transcript dating from the year 1599. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £270, with residence, in the gift of the representatives of the late Rev. Francis Strong, and held since 1929 by the Rev. Frank Ingle, of King's College, London. There is a Mission hall used by different religious denominations. There is a "Town Lands Charity," amounting to about £28 yearly. There is also an ancient church estate, the yearly proceeds of which are expended in the maintenance of the church fabric and generally in the conduct of divine service. To the east, and a little south of the church, is the site of the ancient seat of the de L'Isles; it is a quadrangular piece of ground, enclosed by a wide moat, and popularly known as "The Giants Hill." The base of the ancient Village Cross occupies its original position on the Green. The County Council are the chief landowners. The soil is very heavy: subsoil, blue clay. The land is in excellent cultivation, producing good crops of wheat, barley, beans and peas. The area is 1,372 acres; the population in 1921 was 229. By Local Government Board Order No. 15,898 (March 25, 1884), a part of Willingham parish, known as Hallowmas, was transferred to Rampton. The enclosure of the common lands was effected in 1852.

ROYSTON, a market town, was formerly partly in this county but principally in Hertfordshire; under the provisions of the "Local Government (England and Wales) Act, 1888" (51 and 52 Vict. c. 41), it is now wholly in the latter county, and the information relating to it will be found in Kelly's Directory of Hertfordshire.

ST. JOHN'S, see Cambridge.

SAWSTON is a large parish and village, on the river Cam and on the road from London to Cambridge, 1½ miles north from Whittlesford station on the London and Cambridge section of the London and North Eastern railway, 7 south from Cambridge, 6 north-west from Linton and 7 north-west from Saffron Walden, in the hundred of Whittleford, rural district and petty sessional division of Linton, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Camps and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The water supply is derived from artesian wells. The church of St. Mary is a structure of flint and rubble in the Norman, Early English and later styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, north porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 8 bells: the chancel retains a piscina, and below it is a trefoiled recess; on the north side is a large tomb in debased Perpendicular style, in memory of Hera, daughter and heiress of Thomas, 2nd Lord Bradston, and wife of Sir Walter de la Pole, ob. 1423: the nave arcades are Norman and Early English, and the roof Perpendicular; in the south aisle is a piscina and a bracket, and there is a hagioscope on each side of the chancel: within the Church are monuments to the Huntington and Huddleston families, dating from the 16th century, and a brass with effigy, vested, and holding a chalice, and inscribed to William Richardson, alias Byggins, rector of Rainham Mare, ob. 1527: there is another brass figure of a man and wife in shrouds and five daughters, believed to represent Robert Lockton esq. c. 1500, Joan (Alington), his wife, and their family; a brass effigy of a civilian (feet gone), c. 1420; and an inscription on brass to John Huntington esq. 1558, and Joyce, his wife, 1564, benefactors: there is a stone tablet, erected in memory of the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: the church was restored in 1870-1, and again during 1878 and 1891, and affords 400 sittings. The register dates from the year 1640. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, with residence, 20 acres of glebe, in the gift of the trustees of the late Hamer Towgood esq. and held since 1931 by the Rev. Frederick James Bywaters M.A. of Fitzwilliam

Hall, Cambridge, Hon. C.F. The Congregational chapel, in the High street, built and opened in 1879, is an edifice of red brick with Bath stone dressings: the old Congregational chapel is now used as a lecture room and for Sunday school purposes. There is also a Methodist chapel in High street, and a Salvation Army hall in Mill lane. A cemetery, consisting of ca. 111. 8p. the gift of Ferdinand Huddleston esq. (d. 1890), was formed 1881, at a cost, including the laying out and enclosing of the grounds and the erection of a mortuary chapel, of about £400: it is under the control of the Parish Council. This place formerly had a market: the market cross has been completely restored, at a cost of about £300, and upon its base are inscribed the names of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. Sawston Village College, opened by H.R.H. Prince of Wales in 1930, is unique in that it provides for all social and educational activities of a group of nine villages. The cost of building the college was approximately £20,000. There are leather works and a paper mill. Huntington's Almshouses, erected in 1819, are for eight poor men and women. Huntington's charity, producing £128 yearly, is for distribution in coals. Sawston Hall, the property and residence of Commander Reginald Francis Eyre Huddleston R.N. (ret.), D.L., J.P. was rebuilt in the reign of Mary, and has a Roman Catholic chapel annexed. Spicers Theatre, opened in 1932, is a building of white brick, seating 280 people. Comindr. R. F. Eyre Huddleston R.N. (ret.), D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and the principal landowner. The soil is chalky; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,884 acres of land and 14 of water; the population in 1921 was 1,530.

SAXON STREET, see Wood Ditton.

GREAT SHELFORD is a parish on the river Cam, with a station on the main line from London to Cambridge of the London and North Eastern railway; it is about 4 miles south-by-east from Cambridge and 5½ from London, in the hundred of Thriplow, rural district of Chesterton, petty sessional division and county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Barton and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary the Virgin, rebuilt in 1387 at the sole cost of Thomas Patesle, then vicar, who is buried in the nave, is a very fine edifice of stone and clunch, now mainly in the Perpendicular style, and consisting of chancel, clerestoried and embattled nave of four bays, south porch with parvise, aisles and a western tower, square in the lower and octagonal in the upper stage, with embattled parapet and small wooden spire and containing 5 bells, rehung and one recast in 1887, at a cost of £100: the church retains a very finely designed and elaborately worked Perpendicular rood screen, and a curiously carved pulpit of the Jacobean period: on the north wall of the chancel are six stone panels, enclosing carved shields of arms of the Redman, Torrell and Gouldwell families, three of these commemorating John Gouldwell esq. ob. 15 Feb. 1596, and his wife, and Isabel (Calverly), wife of William Redman, Bishop of Norwich 1595-1603: a memorial brass has also been placed to Richard Corney Grain esq. so well known as a public entertainer, d. 16 March, 1895: in the south aisle is a beautiful trefoil-headed piscina: all the windows are fine examples of Perpendicular work: the stained east window is a memorial to Thomas Edleston Crisford, d. 1875, son of a former vicar, and there are several other stained windows, including one erected about 1896 to John Allen Ramsay and Elizabeth, his wife: there is a fine brass, with the effigy, under a canopy of shields, of a priest in a cope, commemorating Thomas Patesle, vicar, "a great benefactor to, and re-builder of, the church," ob. 31 Oct. 1418: the inscription, now lost, is given in the Harl. MSS. No. 2,129: there is also a brass inscription to John Redman, and a solitary shield of arms: the south porch is groined in stone: in 1798 the south-west angle of the tower, with buttresses and side wall, fell to the ground, and at the beginning of the 19th century: it suffered very much from a violent storm: the church was re-seated and the interior restored about 1862, and in 1890 the chancel was restored and choir stalls on the south side erected as a memorial to the Rt. Rev. J. R. Woodford D.D. Bishop of Ely 1873-86: the reredos was erected during the Great War to the memory of the officers and men of the Cambridgeshire regiment: the choir stalls and priests' stall on the north side were erected as a memorial to Peter Grain, for 40 years vicar's churchwarden: during the period 1886-1904 various structural restorations were carried out: in 1912 a vestry and organ chamber were added: there are 500 sittings. The register dates from the year 1557. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £450, with glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1919 by the Rev. Frederic William Jeeves L.T.C.L., A.R.C.O., M.A. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge, and Hon. C.F. The Baptist chapel, rebuilt in 1856, is of brick, in imitation of the Norman and Early English styles, with an open timber roof, and affords 410 sittings. A stone cross was erected in 1924, on which are inscribed the names of the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. Charities—The vicar and trustees hold in trust 11 cottages and 14½ acres of land, under a scheme of the Charity Commissioners, 1890, for general charitable purposes; the income derived from these sources is about £84 yearly. In this parish are nine contiguous wells, which supply Hobson's Conduit, Cambridge, with water. At the Granhams are traces of a Roman encampment. The Master and Fellows of Caius College are lords of the manor of Buristead, and the manor of Granhams is held by St. John's College, Cambridge. The principal landowners are Jesus, Caius and St. John's Colleges, Cambridge. The soil is clay and chalky; subsoil, clay and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 2,250 acres of land and 8 of water; the population in 1921 was 1,534.

LITTLE SHELFORD is a parish on the Cam, about one mile west from Shelford station on the Bishop's Stortford and Cambridge branch of the London and North Eastern railway and 5 south-by-east from Cambridge, in the hundred of Thriplow, rural district of Chesterton, petty sessional division and county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Barton and arch-deaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of All Saints, formerly belonging to the de Fréville family, lords of the manor, is a curious and interesting building of stone in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, embattled nave, south chapel, south porch and a western tower of the Decorated period containing 5 bells: the nave incorporates some Norman work: both chancel and nave have wagon roofs: the south chapel, which is on a higher level than the rest of the building, is entered by several steps, and has an elaborate niche, piscina, bracket and a singular hagioscope: in the chapel are memorials to the Ingle family, afterwards Finch, and on the floor are two small but beautiful brasses, with effigies, to Robert de Fréville, ob. 1393, and Claricia, his wife; and to his son, Thomas de Fréville, ob. 1405, and Margaret, his wife, ob. 1410: in the chancel, under a richly moulded ogee canopy, with crockets and flanked by pinnacled buttresses, is a large and very beautiful altar-tomb of the Late Decorated period, with recumbent effigy in armour and inscription in Norman-French, to Sir John Fréville, and near it a recessed monumental arch of the Decorated period, now enclosing a Perpendicular doorway leading into the sacristy: the font is Decorated, and consists of an octagonal basin on four engaged shafts: the chancel stalls have traceried panels and a cresting, the panels being enriched with the ermine spots and crescents of the Fréville arms: in the nave is a small brass effigy of a priest, assumed to represent John Cate, rector, ob. 1445: on the side of the arch leading to the chapel is a brass inscription, claiming the chapel as the property of the lords of the manor:

there are two tombs of late date, one of which is to Francis Worsley, and bears his arms; the other displays the coat of Manning: near the porch are a number of coffin slabs of the 12th century, and a Runic slab, built into the wall: the church was thoroughly restored in 1878-9, at a cost of £1,686, and affords 150 sittings: in the churchyard is a cross, which has also been restored. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1686; marriages, 1688. The living is a rectory, with the vicarage of Newton annexed, joint net yearly value £500, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Ely and St. Catharine's College, Cambridge, alternately, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Edward Bertie Hartley Berwick O.B.E., T.D., M.A. of that college. There is a Congregational chapel, founded in 1823, with sittings for 150 persons. The charities amount to nearly £4 yearly. A village hall was erected in 1925 to the memory of the men of the village who fell in the Great War, 1914-18, and enlarged in 1932 to provide room for a men's club by C. F. Clay esq. in memory of his son, R. V. Clay. Shelford Hall was burnt down and has not been rebuilt. The Wale family is frequently mentioned in the history of this and adjoining counties; Sir Thomas Wale was created K.G. by Edward III. in 1352, being the 18th knight in the first creation of that order: a protection was given under the hand of General Fairfax to Thomas Wale esq. of Little Bardfield, in 1648, and there is an obelisk in the adjoining parish of Harston to Gregory Wale esq. 1739. John Clay esq. M.A. who is lord of the manor, the trustees of the late Col. Robert Gregory Wale, Miss N. C. W. Powell and Charles Felix Clay esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is gravelly and chalky; the subsoil, gravel and clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,188 acres of land and 8 of water; the population in 1921 was 462.

SHEPRETH is a parish, with a station on the Hitchin, Royston and Cambridge section of the London and North Eastern railway, 5 miles north-east from Royston, 8 south-west from Cambridge and 50 from London by rail and 44 by road, in the hundred of Wetherley, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, rural district of Melbourn, county court district of Royston, rural deanery of Barton and arch-deaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of All Saints is an ancient edifice of brick and flint in the Early English style, consisting of nave and a low western tower containing 2 bells: the chancel arch is pre-Norman: there are some monuments to the Layer family (who formerly possessed property here), dated 1730, 1743 and 1760: there is also an ancient font of Barnack stone, and an old oak treasure chest which was unearthed about 1895: the church was restored in 1870, and affords 120 sittings. The register dates from the year 1569. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, with residence and including 12 acres of glebe, in the gift of the trustees of the late Henry W. Wells esq. and held since 1932 by the Rev. Cuthbert John Sharp M.A. of Clare College, Cambridge. There is a Congregational chapel, erected in 1901 and seating 120 persons. A stone cross was erected at Pretty corner in 1920, in memory of the men from this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The Village Hall, erected in 1909, at a cost of £600, has a billiard and reading room attached. Wimbish Manor is the residence of Mowbray Frederick Vivian James Arthur Webber esq. M.B.E., D.L., J.P. and Tyrrels, of William Nash-Woodham esq. In the parish are three manors. The trustees of the late Biscoe Hill Wortham esq. are lords of the manor of Shepreth, William and John Nash-Woodham esqrs. of Docwraies and Tyrrel manors; and these, with the trustees of the late Henry W. Wells esq. impropiators of the great tithes, which belonged to the nuns of Chatteris, and the Cambridgeshire County Council are the chief landowners. The soil is chalky, clayey and gravelly; subsoil, clay and chalk. The chief crops are wheat and barley; oats, beans and peas are also grown. The area is 1,318 acres; the population in 1921 was 449. Post, M. O. & Tel. Call Office. SHINGAY (or Shengy) is a parish and village, about 5 miles north from Ashwell station on the Hitchin, Royston and Cambridge branch of the London and North Eastern railway, and 6 south from Potton station on the Sandy and Cambridge section of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 5½ north-west from Royston and 45 from London, in the hundred of Armingford, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, county court district of Royston, rural district of Melbourn, rural deanery of Shingay and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. This was formerly a place of importance, having been the seat of a preceptory of the Knights Hospitallers of St. John of Jerusalem, founded in 1140 by Sybilla de Reynes. At the Dissolution its revenues were estimated at £176 4s. 6d. No traces of the building now remain, nor anything to testify to its former existence, except the dry moat which surrounds the site, a space of about 200 yards square, and the inequalities of the ground and the avenue of trees which mark the former approaches to it. Amongst the preceptors of this house may be mentioned Sir Thomas Dockwra, grand prior of the order 1504, and Sir Thomas Sheffield, grand seneschal of Rhodes 1518. Admiral Edward Russell, Earl of Orford and Baron Russell of Shingay, after the removal of the preceptory buildings in 1697, erected here a small chapel, on a site close to that of the preceptory and still called "Chapel yard," and dedicated it to St. Mary; this chapel continued to be used until the beginning of the 18th century, and, as appears from the register of Wendy, marriages were solemnized here up to 1716; eventually it was disused and it became ruinous, and about 1820 the materials were appropriated for secular purposes. An iron Mission church was erected here in 1902. The living is a chapelry, annexed to the vicarage of Wendy, joint net yearly value £310, in the gift of the Church Patronage Society, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Tom Brine, of Wells Theological College, who resides at Wendy. There is also a Non-conformist Mission room. After the Dissolution in 1538 the lands of the preceptory were granted by Henry VIII. to Sir Richard Longe, master of the king's hawks, whose grand-daughter Elizabeth, marrying Sir William Russell, 1st Baron Russell of Thornhaugh, carried the estate into that family. It next belonged to the family of Sandys, Barons Sandys of Ombersley, and eventually by purchase became the property of the Earl of Hardwicke, and later of Viscount Clifden; it is tithe free, and is now vested in Messrs. William Bath and the trustees of the late John May Coleman, who, with the Cambridgeshire County Council, are the sole landowners. The soil is of a rich loamy character, and the subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and beans. The area is 768 acres; the population in 1921 was 40.

SHUDY CAMPS is a village and parish on the borders of Suffolk and Essex, 2½ miles east from Bartlow station on the Cambridge and Melford branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 3½ south-west from Haverhill, 4 south-east from Linton and 16 south-east from Cambridge, in the hundred of Chilford, rural district and petty sessional division of Linton, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Camps and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary, an edifice of rubble in the Perpendicular style, is said to have been originally built about the year 1060; it consists of chancel, nave, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 5 bells, and was restored during the period 1870-91, at a cost of £540; there are 240 sittings, 145 being free. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £320, with residence, and 2 acres of glebe, in the gift of and held since 1919 by the Rev. Frederick Ferdinand Martin S. Thornton, of Trinity College, Dublin, F.R.G.S., J.P. and honorary canon of Ely. The charities amount to about £9 yearly. Shudy Camps Park is the seat of the Rev. Canon Thornton F.R.G.S., J.P.; the mansion, standing in the park, is a substantial edifice of red brick. The Rev. Canon Thornton is the principal landowner. The soil is clay; subsoil, clay and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and beans. The area is 2,362 acres; the population in 1921 was 261.

SIX MILE BOTTOM, see Wilbraham Little.

SNAILWELL is a village and parish, 2½ miles north from Newmarket station on the London and North Eastern railway, in the hundred of Staploe, rural district, petty sessional division and county court district of Newmarket, rural deanery of Fordham, and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Peter is an edifice of flint with stone quoins and windows, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a round western tower of Norman work containing 2 bells: the handsome reredos was presented in 1878 by the late William Montagu Tharp esq. as a memorial to his father; several stained windows being given at the same time by the family of the Rev. J. N. Hill, a former rector, by the late William Montagu Tharp esq. and by the members and friends of the family of the late rector: the vestry was also built by the late rector's family, whose friends defrayed the cost of the mural decorations which cover the whole of the interior: the church was completely restored in 1878-9, and in 1933 the ancient oak roof was restored: there are 130 sittings: in the churchyard in a stone tomb of a priest of the 15th century, with a cross on the upper slab, discovered in the wall of the south aisle during the restoration. The register dates from the year 1629. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £425, with residence and 100 acres of glebe, in the gift of the exors. of the late W. M. Tharp esq. and held since 1932 by the Rev. John George Perdue M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. The rectory house was partly destroyed by lightning 3 July, 1908. There is an M. R. Fison Charity, which gives 5s. per year to the ten oldest people in the parish. An unknown donor left for firing, 33 acres of fen land, and a small allotment of arable land for the poor of the parish. Lt.-Col. Gerard Pridcaux Tharp D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and the principal landowner. The soil is various. The chief crops are wheat, barley and roots. The area is 2,034 acres; the population in 1921 was 208.

SOHAM is a town and parish, with a station on the Ely and Newmarket branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 75½ miles from London, 19 north-east from Cambridge, 8 north-west from Newmarket, and 6 south-east from Ely, in the hundred of Staploe, rural district and petty sessional division of Newmarket, county court district of Ely, rural deanery of Fordham and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The town, which is long and straggling, is lighted with gas, from works at Mere side, the property of the Soham and District Gas Company Ltd. and is partly lighted with electricity by the Bedfordshire, Cambridgeshire & Huntingdonshire Electricity Co

"The Lode," a navigable canal, passes through the parish and joins the Ouse at Ely.

The church of St. Andrew, erected towards the end of the 12th century, is a cruciform edifice, chiefly in the Transition-Norman style, with portions and insertions of later date, and consists of chancel, with two chapels on the north side, now used as vestries, clorestoried nave of four bays, aisles, transepts, north and south porches and an embattled western tower 100 feet in height, with pinnacles, and containing a clock and 10 bells: the chancel is lighted by Decorated windows inserted about the middle of the 14th century: the stained east window is a memorial to the Rev. Henry Tasker, vicar (1832-74), who died 17 Jan. 1874; on each side of the window is a small niche, with traces of painting: the north wall has a painting of a bishop in the act of benediction, uncovered in 1849, and it would seem that the whole chancel was at one time ornamented in this way: the chancel roof, and the woodwork at the east end, are both of panelled oak; the stalls, 20 in number, are of the same material and with the exception of six on the north side, added in 1880, were fixed in 1849, when the rood screen, a fine example of modern work, was also erected: on the south side are ancient stone sedilia and a piscina, and there are finely carved altar rails of oak: in the chancel is buried the Rev. D. Harwood, a former vicar, d. 1746, and Mrs. Elizabeth Cawthorne, his sister, d. 1782: the easternmost of the two chapels, built in the 14th century, retains a stone altar at the east end, an aumbry and an irregular oblong tombstone, with incised lettering, as well as some old glass: here also is interred Dr. Cressener, vicar 1678-1717: the other chapel is of Late Perpendicular date and has on its east wall a monument to Edward Bernes esq. and Dorothea (Drurye), his wife; she died 18 Feb. 1598; the chapel is inclosed at the west end by a very perfect and elaborately wrought parclose screen, restored in 1880: each of the transepts has octagonal pinnacles at the angles and in the south transept is an Early English piscina and a nearly illegible inscription and shields of arms to some member of the Downman family, and on the east wall a brass with inscription to John Thornton gent. and Ann (Drurie), his wife; he died Sept. 13, 1598: the north transept contains an altar tomb of the 15th century, and a large marble slab, inscribed, but undated, to Thomas Dockwra and his wife: the south aisle retains an aumbry: on the south side of the nave is a small brass to Oliver Robins, ob. 12 Aug. 1608, and Katherine (Salisbury) his wife, and at the west end are ten ancient stalls, with misereres, formerly in the north-east chapel: the north porch is Perpendicular and has a stoup; the south porch, of the 14th century, has a large sundial over the entrance with the motto:—"Ab hoc momento pendent aeterna:" the tower, 25 feet square, is also Perpendicular: the royal arms, placed at the west end of the north aisle, date from the reign of Queen Anne: the church was completely restored in 1879-80, under the direction of Mr. J. P. St. Aubyn, at a cost of nearly £3,000, and was reopened May 18th, 1880, the whole of the galleries being removed, new roofs placed on the transepts and chapels, and the flooring repaired: parts of the pinnacles were blown down by the gale of March 24, 1895, but have been restored under the direction of Mr. T. D. Atkinson, architect, of Cambridge. The church now affords 630 sittings: in the churchyard, near the north porch, is the grave of Mary D'Aye, great-grand-daughter of the Lord Protector Cromwell; she died Nov. 5, 1765, aged 75; on the south side of the chancel is buried Dr. John Ward, who died in 1641, aged 125. The registers are complete from the year 1558. The living is a vicarage, with the chapelry of Barway annexed, net yearly value £1,115, including 1 acre of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Pembroke College, Cambridge, and held since 1927 by the Rev. Percy Fletcher Boughey M.A. of that college; the Master and Fellows of Pembroke College are the rectors. There is a church hall, erected in 1929.

The Congregational chapel was first founded in 1700; the present edifice was built about 1837 and will seat 400 persons. In 1880 a school room, with class rooms, was built near the chapel, and there is also a minister's house. The Methodist chapel, erected in 1841, affords 200 sittings; another erected in 1869, will seat 400, and has Sunday school and class rooms, erected in 1890; and there is another at Soham Fen, erected in 1872, and seating 164 persons. The Baptist chapel, erected in 1752 and rebuilt in 1837, seats 350; this chapel was the first pastoral charge, in 1775, of the Rev. Andrew Fuller D.D. a celebrated Baptist minister, born at Wicken, in 1754, who was educated at the Free school here and died 7 May, 1815.

A Cemetery, of 3½ acres, was formed in 1856, at a cost of £2,700; it was enlarged in 1911 to 6½ acres at an additional cost of about £560, and is under the control of the Parish Council.

In Red Lion square is a memorial, erected at a cost of about £800, to the men of the town who fell in the Great War, 1914-18.

A cattle fair is held on the 9th of May and a pleasure fair or feast on the Monday next before the Nativity of St. John the Baptist, and continues for three days.

There are six clubs, viz.: the Loyal Star of Charity Lodge (No. 3,710) of Odd Fellows, held at the Crown hotel, High street; the Ancient Order of Shepherds, the meetings of which are held at the Red Lion Inn; the United Brethren Friendly Society, which meets at the White Hart Hotel; the Star of Providence Society, whose meetings are held at the White Hart Hotel; Soham Comrades' Club, Market place; and a slate club meets at the Station Hotel.

The Liberal and Conservative Associations have also each club houses in the town, comprising large rooms for meetings and reading, the latter having a good billiard room and an excellent hall, fitted with a stage for dramatic performances.

There are six almshouses, granted by Thomas Peachey, in April, 1582, and occupied by poor and aged persons; to these a portion of the fen lands was allotted by the Commissioners of the Bedford Level in lieu of the common rights.

Charities:—In 1674 Dr. Benjamin Laney, Bishop of Ely (1667-75), bequeathed by deed 200a. 1r. 24p. of land, now producing £245 5s. yearly, in trust for binding apprentices, children of the poor inhabitants of Ely and Soham, paying not more than £20 with each. George Goward esq. by deed, in 1744, left 18 acres of land, called "Soham Cote Piece," £6 of the proceeds of which are given away annually in bread to the poor and the remainder assigned for charitable purposes to the parish of Lakenheath. Richard Bond, by deed in 1502, gave 22a. 22p. in divers parts of Soham and Fordham, in trust for the repairs of the church and highways, as well as 10a. 2r. 16p. in Soham, for the benefit of the poor. Wright's gift, dating from about 1540, consists of 3 acres of freehold land, called "Brook Dam Close," the produce of which is for the repairs of the church. Tyler's gift, dating from 1630, consists of three roods of land, being part of "Brook Dam Close," also for the benefit of the poor. There is also an anonymous charity, called "Soham Church Rents," consisting of a rent-charge on land near Barway, and the like from an estate called "Lug Hill," amounting together to £1 13s. 4d. for the repairs of the church. By a scheme dated 25 Sept. 1896, Bond's poor charity has been united with some smaller charities and made applicable for various purposes for the benefit of the sick poor; and at the same time the charities applicable to the repairs of the church were separated and placed under distinct management. The Town Lot, or Allotment, set out in 1663 as 48 acres, is now let as 47a. 3r. 20p. the proceeds being for the repair of the church and the benefit of the most indigent of the poor of Soham. Mrs. Cawthorne, by deed in 1750, left freehold lands in Soham, 4a. 2r.; 30s. to be paid yearly to the clerk of Barway chapel, the rest to such of the sick poor as are communicants of the Church of England and not in receipt of parish relief. There is also a property called "The Hundred Acres," let in allotments, the profits from which are divided annually amongst the persons entitled to common rights on the various commons. "Rosefield Charity," with an income of about £9, is applied to the repair of "Rosefield Lane."

The rectory manor is held by the Master and Fellows of Pembroke College, Cambridge. The principal land-owners are Sir Frederick Hiam, Cambridge County Council, William Ernest Mann esq. A. H. Worth esq. J.P. and the trustees of the late Robert M. Sutherland.

The parish is extensive, being in one direction more than 9 miles in length. The Fen, which covers 8,000 acres, has now, owing to the superior method of drainage, been brought into a high state of cultivation: there was formerly a large mere or lake on the western side of the town: there are many orchards and gardens, and large quantities of fruit, especially plums, are yearly sent to London, Norwich, Liverpool, Newcastle, Bradford, Leeds and Manchester.

EDUCATIONAL.

The Endowed Grammar School, founded in 1686, was re-constituted in 1877, under a new scheme, and is now a Secondary school recognised by the Board of Education as efficient. In 1916 it was transferred to the Cambridge County Council, & is now conducted as a County Secondary school, with accommodation for about 160 boys, of whom some are boarders. By special arrangement the Isle of Ely scholarships are tenable at Soham Grammar school. The governing body, which really forms a sub-committee of the Education Committee, consists of 15 members, of whom 8 are nominated by the Education Committee, 2 by the Isle of Ely Education Committee, 2 by the Soham Parish Council, 1 by the Fellows of Pembroke College, Cambridge, & the two County Councillors; (vacant) chairman; William E. Mann, vice-chairman; Brian J. A. Neill M.A., B.Sc. Oxon. head master

A cattle fair is held on the 9th of May and a pleasure fair or feast on the Monday next before the Nativity of St. John the Baptist, and continues for three days.

There are six clubs, viz.: the Loyal Star of Charity Lodge (No. 3,710) of Odd Fellows, held at the Crown hotel, High street; the Ancient Order of Shepherds, the meetings of which are held at the Red Lion Inn; the United Brethren Friendly Society, which meets at the White Hart Hotel; the Star of Providence Society, whose meetings are held at the White Hart Hotel; Soham Comrades' Club, Market place; and a slate club meets at the Station Hotel.

The Liberal and Conservative Associations have also each club houses in the town, comprising large rooms for meetings and reading, the latter having a good billiard room and an excellent hall, fitted with a stage for dramatic performances.

There are six almshouses, granted by Thomas Peachey, in April, 1582, and occupied by poor and aged persons; to these a portion of the fen lands was allotted by the Commissioners of the Bedford Level in lieu of the common rights.

Charities:—In 1674 Dr. Benjamin Laney, Bishop of Ely (1667-75), bequeathed by deed 200a. 1r. 24p. of land, now producing £245 5s. yearly, in trust for binding apprentices, children of the poor inhabitants of Ely and Soham, paying not more than £20 with each. George Goward esq. by deed, in 1744, left 18 acres of land, called "Soham Cote Piece," £6 of the proceeds of which are given away annually in bread to the poor and the remainder assigned for charitable purposes to the parish of Lakenheath. Richard Bond, by deed in 1502, gave 22a. 22p. in divers parts of Soham and Fordham, in trust for the repairs of the church and highways, as well as 10a. 2r. 16p. in Soham, for the benefit of the poor. Wright's gift, dating from about 1540, consists of 3 acres of freehold land, called "Brook Dam Close," the produce of which is for the repairs of the church. Tyler's gift, dating from 1630, consists of three roods of land, being part of "Brook Dam Close," also for the benefit of the poor. There is also an anonymous charity, called "Soham Church Bents," consisting of a rent-charge on land near Barway, and the like from an estate called "Lug Hill," amounting together to £1 13s. 4d. for the repairs of the church. By a scheme dated 25 Sept. 1896, Bond's poor charity has been united with some smaller charities and made applicable for various purposes for the benefit of the sick poor; and at the same time the charities applicable to the repairs of the church were separated and placed under distinct management. The Town Lot, or Allotment, set out in 1663 as 48 acres, is now let as 47a. 3r. 20p. the proceeds being for the repair of the church and the benefit of the most indigent of the poor of Soham. Mrs. Cawthorne, by deed in 1750, left freehold lands in Soham, 4a. 2r.; 30s. to be paid yearly to the clerk of Barway chapel, the rest to such of the sick poor as are communicants of the Church of England and not in receipt of parish relief. There is also a property called "The Hundred Acres," let in allotments, the profits from which are divided annually amongst the persons entitled to common rights on the various commons. "Rosefield Charity," with an income of about £9, is applied to the repair of "Rosefield Lane."

The rectory manor is held by the Master and Fellows of Pembroke College, Cambridge. The principal land-owners are Sir Frederick Hiam, Cambridge County

Council, William Ernest Mann esq. A. H. Worth esq. J.P. and the trustees of the late Robert M. Sutherland.

The parish is extensive, being in one direction more than 9 miles in length. The Fen, which covers 8,000 acres, has now, owing to the superior method of drainage, been brought into a high state of cultivation: there was formerly a large mere or lake on the western side of the town: there are many orchards and gardens, and large quantities of fruit, especially plums, are yearly sent to London, Norwich, Liverpool, Newcastle, Bradford, Leeds and Manchester.

EDUCATIONAL.

The Endowed Grammar School, founded in 1686, was re-constituted in 1877, under a new scheme, and is now a Secondary school recognised by the Board of Education as efficient. In 1916 it was transferred to the Cambridge County Council, & is now conducted as a County Secondary school, with accommodation for about 160 boys, of whom some are boarders. By special arrangement the Isle of Ely scholarships are tenable at Soham Grammar school. The governing body, which really forms a sub-committee of the Education Committee, consists of 15 members, of whom 8 are nominated by the Education Committee, 2 by the Isle of Ely Education Committee, 2 by the Soham Parish Council, 1 by the Fellows of Pembroke College, Cambridge, & the two County Councillors; (vacant) chairman; William E. Mann, vice-chairman; Brian J. A. Neill M.A., B.Sc. Oxon. head master

SOUTHEA-with-MURROW is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1870 from the civil parishes of Parson Drove and Wisbech St. Mary, in the hundred, rural district, petty sessional division, county court district, rural deanery and archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely.

SOUTHEA comprises a great portion of the hamlet of Parson Drove, and is about 1 mile north from the Murrow railway stations

MURROW is 6 miles south-west of Wisbech, and has a station on the London and North Eastern railway and one on the Midland and Great Northern joint railway.

The church of Emmanuel, at Southea, erected in 1872, by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, is a structure of red brick with stone facings in the Early English style, and consists of large apsidal chancel, nave, north aisle and a western turret containing one bell: in the church are four chandeliers, formerly in St. Paul's Cathedral, and presented to this church by the Dean and Chapter: there are 375 sittings. The register at Murrow dates from the year 1853, and that for Southea from the year 1873. The living of Southea-with-Murrow is a vicarage, net yearly value £645, with residence, and including 1 acre of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1924 by the Rev. James Percie Hutchons A.K.C

The chapel of Corpus Christi, at Murrow, erected in 1857, is a small structure of brick in the Early English style, and consists of small apsidal chancel, nave, south porch and a turret at the west end containing one bell: there are 100 sittings.

A chapel was founded at Murrow about the year 1379, but has long since been destroyed: the site is still known as "Chapel Hill." There is a Methodist chapel at Murrow, and Methodist chapels and Salvation Army barracks at Southea.

John Bend's charity, for Southea, left in 1593, amounts to about £110 yearly, and is partly distributed in money to the poor, and partly assigned to the education of the children of the parish and the support of local hospitals.

The land is chiefly in smallholdings. The soil is clay and silt; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, potatoes, beans, mustard, and fruit. The population in 1921 was 1,312.

STAPLEFORD is a parish, crossed by the river Granta, near Shelford station on the Cambridge section of the London and North Eastern railway, about 5 miles south-south-west from Cambridge and 49 from London, in the hundred of Thriplow, rural district of Chesterton, petty sessional division and county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Barton, archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Andrew, erected between 1260 and 1330, is a building of stone and clunch in the Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, nave with arcades of five arches, aisles, south porch and a western tower with spire containing 6 bells: in the chancel is a double piscina and in the nave two single piscinæ, and there is a brass, dated 1617, to the Rev. William Lee, a former vicar: the spacious south porch belongs to the Decorated period, and the nave arcades are of the same date: the tower, excellently constructed, is Early English: the nave and aisles were restored and re-pewed in 1868, at a cost of £1,000; and in 1882 a stained east window was erected as a memorial to Henry Collier and his daughters: the church clock was presented in 1924 by Capt. Going: a new vestry was added in 1925: there are 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1557. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £387, including 141 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Ely, and held since 1923 by the Rev. Mervyn Warren Rogers, of St. Aidan's. There is a small Particular Baptist chapel. A cemetery of half an acre was formed in 1880, the ground being given by Dr. William Collier, of Oxford; it is under the control of the Parish Council of 7 members. The charities amount to about £12 yearly. Gog-Magog Hills House, in this parish, is now the residence of Harold W. S. Gray esq. J.P.; the mansion is a plain building, about 2 miles north-west from the village; there is a Roman camp with the remains of entrenchments nearly a mile in circumference. The land is nearly all freehold. The principal landowners are Dr. W. Collier, George Ralph Cunliffe Foster esq. J.P. and Harold William S. Gray esq. J.P. The soil is chalky; subsoil, chalk. The crops are barley and wheat. The area is 1,835 acres; the population in 1921 was 514. Post & Tel. Call Office. Letters through Cambridge. Great Shelford nearest M. STEEPLE MORDEN is a parish, on the borders of Hertfordshire; the village is 3 miles north from Ashwell station on the Hitchin, Royston and Cambridge section of the London and North Eastern railway (which is within the boundary of this parish), 43 miles from London and 5 north-west from Royston, in the hundred of Armingford, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, rural district of Melbourn, county court district of Royston, rural deanery of Shingay, archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of SS. Peter and Paul is a building of stone and flint in the Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a low south tower with shingled spire containing one bell: the organ was presented by the Rev. R. E. Green B.A. vicar 1886-1902: the church was restored in 1869 at a cost of £2,500, and affords 320 sittings. In the churchyard is a cross of Portland stone, erected in memory of the men connected with this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1675. The living is a vicarage and rectory, net yearly value £572, including glebe with residence, in the gift of the Warden and Scholars of New College, Oxford, and held since 1921 by the Rev. William Hale Evans M.A. of that college. There is a Methodist chapel, rebuilt in 1863, and a public recreation ground. The town lands of 7 acres produce £8 yearly, for charitable purposes. The manor of Steeple Morden was formerly owned by the Fitzwalter family. The principal landowners are St. John's College, Cambridge, William P. Hunt esq. Francis William Bertram Parrish esq. and Messrs. John Inns & Sons. The Cambridge and Herts County Councils have acquired several hundred acres of land in this and the adjoining parish of Guilden Morden, for the purposes of small holdings. The soil is marl and chalk; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and peas. The area is 3,846 acres; the population in 1921 was 696.

STETCHWORTH is a village and parish, 2 miles east from Dullingham station on the Cambridge and Bury branch of the London and North Eastern railway, and 3½ south-west from Newmarket, in the hundred of Radfield, rural district, petty sessional division and county court district of Newmarket, rural deanery of Cheveley and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Peter is an ancient structure of flint partly in a debased Perpendicular style, and consisting of chancel, nave, aisles and an embattled western tower, with pinnacles, containing 5 bells: the chancel is Norman and Early English, and was restored in 1907 by the lay rector, the Earl of Ellesmere, at a cost of £900: the north aisle retains a piscina, and in the south aisle is a floriated niche and a Norman priests' doorway: a memorial window was erected in 1864 to the Rev. Richard Eaton and one to Capt. Henry Pardoe Eaton, 60th Rifles, who died at Delhi: in the church is a fine monument of white marble with effigies on a background of black marble, erected by Sir Richard Gorges bart. second Baron Gorges of Dundalk, and Bridget (Kingsmill) his wife, to their son Henry, ob. 1674: both titles became extinct on the death of Lord Gorges in 1712: there is also a memorial to Ashton Benyon esq. d. 1856, and a bronze tablet to the memory of the Rev. Alfred Burton M.A. a former vicar of this parish: the nave and aisles were restored in 1894: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from about the year 1666. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, including 2½ acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Earl of Ellesmere M.V.O. who is lay rector, and held since 1930 by the Rev. Samuel Verner Wylie, of Glasgow University. There is a Congregational chapel, erected in 1883, which has 400 sittings. Lord Gorges' charity of £33 yearly is for two old men and two old women, each of whom receives 2s. weekly and a biennial gift, the men of a coat and the women of a gown; and they occupy the almshouses rent free. There is also an allotment charity of 25s. yearly, which sum is distributed in coal to the poor. Stetchworth Park, which stands in a fine park of 40 acres, with a piece of ornamental water, is approached by an avenue of trees: the garden, covering about five acres, contains large and fine greenhouses and hothouses; it is the property and residence of the Earl of Ellesmere M.V.O., D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is various; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 2,891 acres; the population in 1921 was 659.

STOW-with-QUY is a parish, with a station 1 mile north from the centre of the village on the Cambridge and Mildenhall branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 5 miles east-north-east from Cambridge, in the hundred of Staine, Bottisham petty sessional division, rural district of Chesterton, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Quy and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The stream called "Quy water" flows through the parish. The church of St. Mary, erected circa 1340, and situated close to the main road, is an ancient embattled edifice of stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of four bays, aisles, north and south porches and an embattled western tower containing 5 bells: the nave arcades, with the exception of an Early English arch to the south-east, are Decorated; the clerestory is Perpendicular; the rood screen, of the same date, is in five compartments, and has been restored: the north aisle, also Perpendicular, has some modern memorials to the Martin family, of Quy Hall: both aisles have slight projections at their eastern ends, forming quasi-transepts: each transept has a piscina: the font, an octagon, is Perpendicular, with blank shields on the sides: the church contains a curious brass with effigies of a man in armour, his wife (figure now lost), 12 sons and four daughters, and a mutilated inscription, which when perfect commemorated John Ansty esq. formerly lord of this "ville," and founder of Ansty's Chantry, and Johanna his wife; he died circa 1465: there is also a brass with arms and inscription to Edward Stern, 1641, and some 17th century slabs inscribed to the Lawrence family: the chancel was rebuilt about 1740 by Thomas Martyn esq. and the church thoroughly restored in 1879-82: in 1883 the churchyard wall was rebuilt by Thomas Musgrave Francis esq. D.L., J.P. who in 1928 erected a tablet to commemorate Jeremy Collier, the church historian, and two former vicars of Quy, Richard Sterne, 1621-2, afterwards Archbishop of York, 1664-83, and Thomas Herring, 1719-21, afterwards Archbishop of Canterbury, 1747-57: there are 230 sittings. The register dates from the year 1650. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £386, with residence and 4 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Edmondson Webb M.A. of Cambridge University. There is a small Methodist chapel here. The charities amount to £14 yearly. Quy Hall is the residence of Lt.-Col. John Francis, who is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is various. The chief crops are wheat, barley and roots. The area is 1,872 acres of land and 7 of water; the population in 1921 was 322.

STRETHAM (including Stretham Fen and the hamlet of Thetford) is a parish in the Isle of Ely, on the banks of the Cam, with a goods station, 1 mile north of the village, on the Ely, Haddenham, Sutton and St. Ives branch of the London and North Eastern railway, and is 4 miles south-by-west from Ely, 12 north-by-east from Cambridge and 75 from London, in the hundred of South Witchford, rural district, petty sessional division, county court district and rural deanery of Ely, archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. In May, 1844, a serious fire occurred here, when a great part of the place was burned. The church of St. James, which stands in the High street, is a fine old building of stone in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of five bays, aisles, south porch and a western tower with lofty spire, which was restored in 1932, containing a clock and 5 bells: there is a very fine carved oak screen dating from 1440: the organ was enlarged and improved in 1907: in 1933 Mrs. E. E. Westley bequeathed £300 for the erection of a stained window in the south transept, in the memory of her mother: the church was thoroughly restored during the period 1876-87, and affords 350 sittings. The registers date from the year 1558. The living is a rectory, with the chapelry of Thetford annexed, joint net yearly value £718, including glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1906 by the Rev. Samuel Stewart Stitt M.A. of Pembroke College, Cambridge. The parish room at Stretham was built in 1886. There are Baptist and Methodist chapels, and a mission hall, erected here in 1884 for the use of the local branch of the London Evangelistic Mission; it has 400 sittings. A cemetery of one acre, formed in 1886, at a cost of £400, is under the control of the Parish Council. An ancient stone cross, dating from about 1400 and restored in 1910, stands on the high road, near the church: the base is octagonal and panelled in quatrefoils: at the top are four niches, with pedestals for images. Charities:—Rysley's, Digby and Lady Howard of Eppingham's charities are now amalgamated and known as Stretham charities, from which the income is approximately £185 yearly. Sir Frederick Hiam is the principal landowner. The soil is stiff clay and fen land; the subsoil is clay. The crops are grain of all descriptions. The area of the civil parish is 3,997 acres of land and 22 of water; the population in 1921 was 897 in the civil and 1,047 in the ecclesiastical parish.

STUNTNEY is a chapelry, 1½ miles south-east from Ely station on the Cambridge, Ely and King's Lynn section of the London and North Eastern railway, and ecclesiastical parish, formed from the civil parish of Holy Trinity, Ely, in the rural district, hundred, petty sessional division, county court district and rural deanery of Ely, archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The church is a building of flint and brick in the Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and an embattled tower on the south side containing a clock and 3 bells: the Norman chancel was restored some years ago, at a cost of £350, by the Dean and Chapter of Ely, and again in 1902 by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners: the nave and tower were rebuilt in 1876 at a cost of £1,300, and the nave was again rebuilt in 1902 at a cost of £1,525, by subscription, the three interesting Norman doorways being carefully preserved: there are sittings for 130 persons. The register dates from the year 1545. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £411, in the gift of the

Dean and Chapter of Ely, and held since 1924 by the Rev. Vincent Henry Esmond Ritson M.A. of Exeter College, Oxford, who is also chaplain to the Bishop of Ely and of Ely Cathedral, in which city he resides. On the death of Sir Thomas Steward, in 1636, the manor and estate of Stuntney passed into the possession of his nephew, Oliver Cromwell, who spent much of his time here before he was returned to Parliament in 1640 as M.P. for Cambridge. E. R. Evans esq. is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are the Ecclesiastical Commissioners and the trustees of the late Cole Ambrose esq. The population in 1921 was 385. Post & Tel. Call Office. Letters through Ely, nearest M. SUTTON is a parish and village in the Isle of Ely, with a goods station on the Ely, Sutton and St. Ives branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 6 miles west from Ely and 80 from London, in the hundred of South Witchford, rural district, petty sessional division, county court district and rural deanery of Ely, archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The village occupies an elevated site, and consists principally of one long street. The church of St. Andrew, erected about 1370, is a spacious building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch of Norman date and a fine Perpendicular tower with 15 pinnacles and a conical spire, which contains a clock and 6 bells: the entire fabric was restored in 1869, at a cost of £4,000, and affords 592 sittings: a fine stained east window was erected by his wife, family and friends to the memory of the Rev. the Hon. C. F. O. Spencer, for 33 years vicar of this parish, who died 1895; there is also another, erected in memory of his eldest daughter, by the family in 1901: a new organ was provided in 1912, at a cost of £400.

The register commences about 1558. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £1,093, with 21 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Ely, and held since 1924 by the Rev. Canon Alfred Lambert Woodard M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. There are Baptist and two Methodist chapels. The Sutton Poor's Land Charity, consisting of 98 acres of land and producing about £220 yearly, which is distributed in money and kind, is managed by trustees. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor and the principal landowners. The soil is gravel; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, sugar beet, barley, oats, potatoes and roots. The area is 7,115 acres of land, 30 of inland and 43 of tidal water; the population in 1921 was 1,476.

SWAFFHAM BULBECK is a parish, 2½ miles east from Bottisham and Lode station, and about the same distance from Swaffham Prior station, both on the Cambridge and Mildenhall branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 6½ west from Newmarket and 8 north-east from Cambridge, in the hundred of Staine, Bottisham petty sessional division, Newmarket rural district and county court district, rural deanery of Fordham and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary is an ancient edifice, chiefly in the Late Decorated style, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, two porches and a western tower containing 6 fine-toned bells: the clerestory is Perpendicular and the tower Early English: the church is seated with old open benches which bear traces of handsome carving: there is a piscina in the wall of the south aisle, and a cedar chest of the 15th century with fine carvings of the Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary, the Crucifixion, and the Resurrection: the chancel was restored in 1876-7 and again in 1932; and during the period 1884-91 the roofs of the tower and aisles and portions of the interior were restored, a new organ erected, the south aisle reseated and a new pulpit and other fittings provided; in 1896 the interior was renovated by John Ashton Fielden esq. J.P.: a carved oak priest stall was erected in 1933: there are 410 sittings, all of which are free. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1932 by the Rev. Joseph Charles Cater, of Trinity College, Dublin. A cemetery of one acre, formed in 1886 at a cost of £200, is under the control of the Parish Council. The charities produce £90 yearly, which is distributed by the vicar and trustees. There was anciently a Benedictine nunnery, founded in 1190 by Halewyse de Granville or one of the Bulbees; at the Dissolution there were eight nuns, and revenues estimated at £40. Hare Park is now (1933) unoccupied. Mrs. Fison is lady of the Mitchell Hall manor, and Mr. H. Edwards is lord of Burgh Hall manor. The trustees of the late Sir Robert William Buchanan-Jardine bart. the Ecclesiastical Commissioners and Capt. Alec Stratford Cunningham-Reid D.F.C., M.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and turnips. The area is 4,092 acres of land and 18 of water; the population in 1921 was 639. Post, T. & T. E. D. SWAFFHAM PRIOR (or Great Swaffham) is a village and parish, with a station on the Cambridge and Mildenhall branch of the London and North Eastern railway, half a mile west of the churches, 6 miles west from Newmarket, in the hundred of Staine, Bottisham petty sessional division, Newmarket rural district and county court district, rural deanery of Fordham and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely: it is remarkable for its two churches, both standing in one churchyard. The church of St. Mary, which had long been in ruins, but was used as a burying place for the Allix family, was restored in 1902, and is now the parish church: the restoration of the tower and the rebuilding of the steeple still remain to be done: a very beautiful rood screen, with loft and figures, was presented to the church in 1903 by the late O. P. Allix esq.: the building consists of nave and clerestory, part of the western tower, Norman and Early English, and remains of the western porch: the chancel and vestries were completed in 1879: the total cost of restoration amounted to about £6,000: there are sittings for 366 persons. The church of St. Cyriac and St. Julitta is a plain embattled structure of debased Gothic character, consisting of a small chancel, nave with three small and low transeptal chapels, and an ancient 15th century tower, terminating in an embattled polygon lantern and containing 6 bells: in 1878 a faculty was obtained for the demolition of the church, which has, however, been left standing up to the present time. The registers date from the year 1559, there being separate registers for the two churches up to the 17th century, when the benefices were united by Act of Parliament. The living consists of the consolidated vicarages of St. Mary and SS. Cyriac and Julitta, net yearly value £381, including 5 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop and Dean and Chapter of Ely, alternately, and held since 1933 by the Rev. Herbert John Hills B.A. of Cambridge University. The famous Puritan, Dr. Edward Calamy the elder, held the living from 1625 to 1631; Dr. George Davys, Bishop of Peterborough (1839-64), and Dr. Henry Pepys, Bishop of Worcester (1841-61), were curates here. The Most Rev. H. W. Jermy D.D. sometime Primus of the Episcopal Church in Scotland, was born here. The Baptist chapel was built in 1862. The churchyard, with a few reservations, was closed by Order in Council on May 19, 1899; a new burial ground adjoining the east side of the churchyard having been opened for use on Nov. 15, 1898; it is under the control of the Parish Council. There is a reading room, erected in 1868 by Miss Marianne Allix, Mrs. Roberts and Miss Juliana Allix, and under the control of the exors of C. P. Allix esq. Charities producing £84 yearly are appropriated partly to the schools and partly to the poor. Swaffham-Prior House, built on the site of an old Elizabethan mansion, a portion of which it incorporates, is the property of Charles Israel Loraine Allix esq. M.A., D.L., J.P. and is now (1933) unoccupied. There are several manors in the parish, the chief of which are Swaffham Prior, belonging to the Dean and Chapter of Ely; Shadforth, the property of Queens' College, Cambridge, and Knights and Baldwins, belonging to Charles Israel Loraine Allix esq. M.A., D.L., J.P. who, with the trustees of the late Mr. C. C. Ambrose, the Cambridge County Council and the Jockey Club are the principal landowners. The soil is loamy; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, turnips and mustard seed. The area is 5,587 acres of land and water; the population in 1921 was 892, including part of the ancient British hamlet of Reach, which is about 2 miles north at the western end of the Devil's Dyke or ditch, and partly in this parish and partly in that of Burwell. The names will be found under a separate heading.

SWAVESEY is a large parish and village, with a station on the Cambridge and Huntingdon branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 69 miles from London, 11½ north-west by rail and 9 by road from Cambridge and 3 south-east from St. Ives; it is the head of a rural district, in the hundred of Papworth, petty sessional division of Cambridge, county court district of Huntingdon, rural deanery of North Stowe and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Andrew, originally attached to the priory, is a building of stone in the Early English and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel with aisles, or chantries, clerestoried nave of six bays, aisles, south porch and a western tower containing 6 bells: on the south side of the chancel are fine sedilia and piscina of the Decorated period: the entrance to the south chantry, rebuilt by Thomas Cockayne in 1852, is by two fine Early English arches, and it has Late Perpendicular sedilia; in this chantry is a quasi-classic marble tomb to Anne (Kempe), wife of Sir John Cutts kt. of Childerley, who died 13th March, 1631; the inscription also mentions John Kempe, Cardinal Archbishop of York, and many other members of that and allied families; over the inscription is a shield with 9 quarterings, another with 22, and other impaled coats on separate escutcheons; both chantries are enclosed by modern open screens of oak, in the Perpendicular style: the chancel is fitted with good modern stalls, restored from an old design, and has an altar-piece representing the "Crucifixion:" the south aisle retains an Early English piscina: the chancel arch is a fine example of 13th century work, and is fitted with a modern screen with half-groined rood loft above: the north aisle contains good old oak stalls with carved finials: the font is Perpendicular, and lying near it are four Early English coffin slabs, with crosses: in 1867 the church was beautifully restored, principally at the expense of the Hon. Mrs. Dudley Ryder, daughter of Thomas Cockayne, late of Ickleton House, Hitchin: there are 500 sittings. The baptismal register dates from 1576; that for marriages and burials from 1613. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £431, including 8 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Master and Fellows of Jesus College, Cambridge, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Charles Edward Oscar Finch M.A. of that college. Mrs. Postgate and Mr. H. E. Bush are owners of the great or rectorial tithes, valued at about £550 a year. Bethel Baptist chapel, first founded in 1840, was rebuilt of brick in 1868, at a cost of about £850, and will seat 400 persons. The Baptist chapel, in Main road, has 400 sittings; there is also a chapel for Methodists and a Friends' meeting house. The War Memorial Hall, situated in the centre of the village, was erected in 1924 by public subscription, at a cost of about £1,500, to the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18; the hall has accommodation for 250 persons, and is used for various entertainment purposes. Charities to the amount of £56 are distributed to the poor yearly in fuel. A horticultural show is held annually in August. A market and fair were held here formerly, but have long been obsolete. The Benedictine priory once existing here was founded by Alan de Zouche in the time of William I. as a cell to the monastery of St. Sergius, at Angers, and dedicated to St. Andrew: the outline of the foundations is still to be seen in the field immediately north of the churchyard. James Spearing and William L. Raynes esqrs. of Cambridge, are lords of the manors of Swavesey, with the members, Hobbledodds with Bennets and the Rectory manor. Robinson Mitham esq. O. W. H. Cole esq. the exors. of James Norman esq. Alfred Day, sen. esq. and Trinity College, Cambridge, are the principal landowners. The soil is mostly clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and beans. The area is 3,968 acres of land and 14 of water; the population in 1921 was 830.

TADLOW is a parish on the river Cam and on the borders of Bedfordshire, 6 miles north from Ashwell station on the Hitchin, Royston and Cambridge branch of the London and North Eastern railway, 5 south from Potton station on the Bedford and Cambridge section of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, and 8 north-west from Royston, in the hundred of Armingford, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, rural district of Caxton and Arrington, county court district of Biggleswade, rural deanery of Shingay and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Giles, prettily situated a short distance off the high road from Biggleswade to Cambridge, is an ancient building in the Early English style, with modern Perpendicular insertions, and consists of chancel, nave, organ chamber, south porch and a plain western tower containing a clock and 3 bells: there are 160 sittings. The register dates from the year 1585, with an interval from 1617 to 1653. The living is a vicarage, united with the rectory of East Hatley, joint net yearly value

TEVERSHAM is a parish and village, 3½ miles east from Cambridge and about half a mile south of the Cambridge and Newmarket road, in the hundred of Flendish, petty sessional division of Bottisham, rural district of Chesterton, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Quy and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of All Saints is historically noteworthy as having been given in 991 by Brithnoth, ealdorman of Essex, who fell at the battle of Maldon, A.D. 991: the present building, some portions of which date from 1270, is of stone, chiefly in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing one bell: the piscina and sedilia, richly carved, are Perpendicular, and there is a rood screen of oak, with Perpendicular tracery, a low-side window and four curious oval-shaped clerestory windows: the nave arcades are very good examples of Early English work, and have foliated caps, the piers being octagonal: in the south aisle is an altar tomb, with mutilated recumbent alabaster effigies, to Sir Edward Styward kt. and his wife, restored in 1863: two archbishops of Canterbury, John Whitgift (1530-1604) and Richard Bancroft (1544-1610), were formerly rectors here: the church was restored in 1888-91 at a cost of £550, and renovated in 1912 at a cost of £200, and affords 130 sittings. The register dates from the year 1593. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £288, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1932 by the Rev. Cuthbert Walter Colbourne B.A., B.D. A Baptist chapel was built here in 1858. There is an obelisk of Portland stone bearing the names of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The proceeds of 11 acres of land, known as "Lady Jermy's Charity," are devoted annually to the poor of the parish and educational purposes. The Master and

Fellows of Caius College, who own the manor, Pembroke College, Cambridge, and Mrs. F. J. Arnold are the principal landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, white clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,221 acres; the population in 1921 was 242.

THORNEY (anciently called "Ankerigg") is a parish and village in the Isle of Ely, forming a liberty in itself, on the north-west border of the county adjoining Northamptonshire, close to the Catwater, with a station on the Peterborough and Wisbech section of the Midland and Great Northern joint railway, and 2½ miles west from Wryde station on the same line, and is in the same parish, 14 miles west from Wisbech, 7 east from Peterborough and 86 from London by road, the head of a rural district, in the hundred of Wisbech, petty sessional division of Whittlesey, county court district of Peterborough, rural deanery and archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The parish is surrounded by long drains leading to the port of Wisbech; a complete system of drainage of the fens has been carried out, at a cost exceeding £400,000; the village is supplied with water from works erected by the 9th Duke of Bedford. Some of the chief roads in parts of the parish have avenues of fine trees, the Causeway and Willow Hall and Whittlesey roads being most noticeable. The church of St. Mary and St. Botolph, originally that of the abbey and 290 feet in length, but now only 117, was rebuilt in 1089-1108, and in 1638 fitted up as a parish church; it is in mixed styles of Norman and Perpendicular, and consists of a nave of five bays with triforium, transepts, north and south porches and two western turrets, one of which contains a clock and one bell: the transepts were added in 1840 and 1841, under the direction of Mr. Blore: the stained east window represents, in 21 compartments, copied from windows in Canterbury Cathedral, the reputed miracles of Thomas à Becket: the organ, erected at a cost of £320, was enlarged in 1858 at a further cost of £220, defrayed by Francis, 7th Duke of Bedford K.G.: the west front, of massive Norman work, has square flanking towers, surmounted by panelled turrets of Perpendicular date, reaching a height of 82 feet: above the west window are niches with images and elaborate panellings: in 1888 the galleries were removed and the interior of the church restored and reseated with open oak benches, the cost, amounting to £2,910, being defrayed wholly by the 9th Duke of Bedford: there are 370 sittings. The earliest register dates from 1653. There is also a register of baptisms in the French language, which, together with a monumental tablet in the church to the memory of its first French minister, records the fact that there was here a congregation of French Protestants, who had fled from the persecutions in their native country. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £420, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1923 by the Rev. Frederick Hugh Lacy M.A. of Pembroke College, Cambridge. There are district churches at Wrydecroft, Knarr Fen and Willow Hall respectively, each seating about 120 persons. There is a Methodist chapel, seating 130 persons. The cemetery, of about one and a quarter acres, formed in 1924, is under the control of the Parish Council. The People's Refreshment House Association Limited have an hotel here. This place has a right to hold a market on Thursdays, but the privilege has fallen into disuse. A monastery for Anchorites was founded here in 662 by Saxulf, abbot of Peterborough, but in 870, having then a prior and several monks, it was wasted by the Danes, and in 972 was restored by St. Ethelwold, Bishop of Winchester, as a house for monks of the Benedictine order, and dedicated to SS. Mary and Botolph: the members of this house exerted themselves much for bettering the neighbourhood; and William of Malmesbury, in the time of Henry II. speaks in glowing terms of the beauty of the place, the productiveness of its fields, orchards and vineyards, and called it "a very Paradise:" the abbots attained to great power, were mitred and sat in Parliament, and at the Dissolution the income was stated to be £411 12s. 11d. yearly. That the abbey was a building of vast extent is manifest from the remains of foundations laid bare at sundry times at great distances from the still remaining portion of the church. The whole parish was formerly the property of the Duke of Bedford by grant from the Crown to Francis, 4th Earl of Bedford, in 1634, who by enterprising and energetic measures carried out under the direction of the celebrated Dutch engineer, Cornelius Vermuyden, drained a vast tract of low lands of about 2,000 square acres called the "Bedford Level," at that time a mere waste; this great work was completed in 1652, and the Level now ranks amongst the most fertile districts in the kingdom: the drainage of the Great Level subsequently in 1810 occupied the attention of Rennie, and in 1822 of Telford, both eminent English engineers. Most of the farmers in the parish own their own farms. The soil is chiefly a black vegetable loam, in parts silty clay; subsoil, rich clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and potatoes, with due proportion of rich grazing land. The area of the parish is 17,802 acres of land and 40 of water; the population in 1921 was 2,165.

By the Isle of Ely Review Order, 1933, part of the urban district of Whittlesey was transferred to the parish of Thorney.

WRYDE is 3½ miles east, with a station on the Midland and Great Northern joint railway; WILLOW HALL, 3 miles south-west; FRENCH DROVE, 3 to 5 miles north; ENGLISH DROVE, a half to 2½ miles north; STONE BRIDGE, 2½ miles south; and THORNEY DYKE, 2 to 5 miles south and south-east.

THRIFLOW is a parish, 4 miles west from Whittleford station on the main line of the London and North Eastern railway and 2½ from Harston station on the Hitchin and Cambridge branch of the same railway, & south from Cambridge and about 6 north-east from Royston, in the hundred of Thriplow, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, rural district of Melbourn, county court district of Royston, rural deanery of Barton and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. George is an ancient structure of flint and rubble, in the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, and consists of chancel, nave, transepts, south porch and an embattled central tower with small spire and containing 5 bells: the organ was provided in 1908 at a cost of £250: the church was restored in 1876-7 at a cost of £2,100, and affords 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, with glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1921 by the Rev. Charles Henry Britten M.A., L.Th. of University College, Durham. The great tithes and about 48 acres of glebe belong to St. Peter's College, Cambridge. There is a Congregational chapel, founded in 1780, and purchased and restored in 1880, at a cost of £146. The charities amount to £9 7s. yearly. Thriplow Heath was the scene of a grand assembling of the Parliamentary army under the command of Fairfax and Cromwell on June 10th, 1647. Lady Innes Robinson, who is lady of the manors of Thriplow and Bacons, Maj.-Gen. Sir B. E. Wyndham Childs K.C.M.G., K.B.E., O.B., H. S. Vinter esq. and the trustees of the late Sir Charles Walston are the principal landowners. The soil is sandy and gravelly; the subsoil, gravel and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 2,501 acres; the population in 1921 was 381.

TOFT is a parish, 4½ miles north-by-east from Old North Road station on the Bedford and Cambridge branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, about 6½ south-west from Cambridge and about 10 north from Royston, in the hundred of Longstowe, petty sessional division of Caxton, rural district of Caxton and Arrington, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Bourn and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Andrew, beautifully situated, is an ancient edifice of stone, in the Perpendicular style, consisting of large and handsome chancel, nave of five bays, aisles and south porch: the chancel retains a small piscina and two aumbries, and in the south aisle is a niche and another piscina: the tower fell in 1890 while being pulled down, and was rebuilt in 1894 at a cost of £600: the nave arcade and tower arch are good examples of Perpendicular work, and the nave has a magnificent roof, with ornamented tie beams: there are some ancient benches and a plain octagonal font: in the church are memorials to the family of Eversden of Eversden: it was thoroughly restored in 1863, and has 200 sittings: in 1899 the bells were rehung at the expense of the Rev. T. Orbell M.A. then rector: the organ is a memorial to parishioners who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: in 1906 all the windows were reglazed and the walls of the chancel richly painted. The register dates from the year 1539. The living is a rectory, with the vicarage of Caldecot annexed, joint net yearly value £438, including 5 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Christ's College, Cambridge, and held since 1932 by the Rev. Sidney Herbert Cartwright M.A. of that college. A new rectory house was built in 1894 at a cost of £2,000. There is a small Methodist chapel here, built in 1862. A Church institute was built in 1913 by the Preston trustees. Eversden's charity of £2 yearly is distributed in bread. The land is all freehold. Toft Manor, the property and residence of G. M. Macfarlane-Grieve esq. is built of flint faced with knopped flint with stone dressings, and is one of the very few specimens of this style of architecture to be found in the county. Gavin Malcolm Macfarlane-Grieve esq. who is lord of the manor, the trustees of Maj. F. W. E. Beldam (d. 1911), and Messrs. B. L. and R. C. Tebbit are the principal landowners. The soil is heavy clay; subsoil, granite and gault. The crops are wheat, barley and beans and a large amount of pasture. The area is 1,235 acres; the population in 1921 was 205 in the civil and 366 in the ecclesiastical parish.

TRUMPINGTON is a parish and village, pleasantly situated on the London and Cambridge road, on the east bank of the Cam, 2 miles south from Cambridge, in the hundred of Thriplow, Chesterton rural district, petty sessional division and county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Barton and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of SS. Mary and Michael is a fine building of stone in the Early Decorated style, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of five bays, aisles, north and south chapels, north porch and a lofty embattled western tower containing 6 bells: the chancel, which dates from about 1280, has some fine stained glass of that period, and retains a piscina; and there are others in the north and south chapels: on an altar tomb, under a Decorated canopy, within the eastern arch of the north chapel, is the famous brass, 7 feet long, of Sir Roger de Trumpeton, ob. 1289, well known as being the second earliest brass in the kingdom; that of Sir John D'Abernon, at Stoke D'Abernon, in Surrey, dated 1277, only preceding it: the effigy here is in chain mail, covered with a cyclas, and is cross-legged; the left arm bears a shield with the arms of Trumpington, viz. "az. crusily and two trumpets in pale, or;" this is the earliest known mailed figure with ailettes, the prototypes of the modern epaulettes, and the same arms are repeated on these and on the scabbard; fragments of the old stained glass are collected together in the east window and in one of the north windows: in the churchyard is a tablet to Professor Fawcett, postmaster-general, M.P., LL.D., D.C.L. economist and statesman, who died at Cambridge, 6 Nov. 1884, and was buried here: there is also a memorial window to him on the south side of the chancel; and there are others to Col. F. J. Pemberton, d. 1849; Lieut.-Col. Pemberton Campbell, d. 1876; to the Rev. Sponser Mansell, a former vicar, and his wife, and a tablet to Capt. Francis Percy Campbell Pemberton, 2nd Life Guards, killed in Flanders Oct. 19, 1914: the church was restored in 1876 at a cost of £2,060, and affords 350 sittings. The register of baptisms, marriages and burials dates from the year 1671: there is also an ancient chest containing documents from the middle of the 17th century. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £367, and 1 acre of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Master and Fellows of Trinity College, Cambridge, and held since 1918 by the Rev. Arthur Christopher Moule M.A. of that college. There is a Free chapel in the village, erected in 1899. The Institute was erected in 1908, and a reading room and billiard room were added in 1924. A cross of Portland stone was erected on the "Cross Hill," in 1921, as a memorial to the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18; their names are inscribed on the shaft. The charities amount to £35 yearly for fuel and apprenticing lads, and £15 for school purposes. Trumpington feast is held here on the 29th of June annually. Trumpington Hall, the seat of the Pemberton family since 1675, the property of Mrs. Pemberton and the residence of W. W. Pemberton esq. M.B., B.Ch., J.P. and Mrs. Pemberton, is a noble mansion of brick approached by an avenue of lofty trees, and standing in a park of 24 acres. Anstey Hall, an ancient mansion of brick, standing in a well-wooded park of 15 acres, is now occupied by George Ralph Cunliffe Foster esq. J.P.; there are also several well-built villa residences. Mrs. Pemberton, who is lady of the manor, G. R. C. Foster esq. J.P. and the Master and Fellows of Trinity College, Cambridge, are the principal landowners. The soil is loamy and gravelly; the subsoil, gravel. The area is 1,815 acres; the population in 1921 was 820 in the civil and 1,203 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By Local Government Board's Cambridge (Extension) Order, 1911, an area of 495 acres of this parish was added to the borough of Cambridge April 1st, 1912.

TYDD ST. GILES (or Tid St. Giles) is a parish in the Isle of Ely, on the Lincolnshire border of the county, about 3 miles east from Tydd station on the Peterborough and Wisbech section of the Midland and Great Northern joint railway, 6 north-west from Wisbech and 96 from London, in the Wisbech hundred, rural district, petty sessional division and county court district, and in the rural deanery and archdeaconry of Wisbech, and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Giles is an edifice of the 12th century, in the Norman and Early English styles, and consists of clerestoried nave, aisles, north porch and a detached embattled tower containing 6 bells: the nave arcades have five Norman bays and one of later date; the piers are circular, and the capitals varied, some being Norman and others Early English: the chancel arch is a drop arch on shafts, with Early English capitals: there are several niches: the south aisle and clerestory windows are Perpendicular, and the east window is stained the west doorway exhibits an ogee arch, with three niches over it, and there is a fine decorated window, with buttresses and crocketed canopies, supposed to be the work of Alan de Walsingham, architect of the lantern of Ely cathedral: the tower stands many yards away from the south-east angle of the chancel: its two lower stages seem to be Early English, its upper stage Perpendicular: the church underwent thorough restoration in the year 1869, at a cost of £2,400, and an organ was built in 1883, at a cost of £270: there are 547 sittings. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £862, with 2 acres of glebe and residence in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1924 by the Rev. William Webster Stromberg M.A. of Selwyn College, Cambridge. There are two Methodist chapels. Brigstock's and Wren's charities, together producing £100 yearly, are distributed among the poor. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor of Wisbech Barton, which extends into this parish. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are fruit, wheat, oats, beans, mustard, potatoes and peas. The area of the parish is 4,761 acres of land and inland water, and 10 of tidal water and 11 of foreshore; the population in 1921 was 1,213.

FOUL ANCHOR is 3 miles east and has a Church of England mission-house. Near here is Tydd railway station, and there is a ferry at this point across the Nene.

UPWELL, formerly a market town, is a large village and extensive parish, 6½ miles south-east from Wisbech station, partly in the hundred of Wisbech and in the Isle of Ely, a large portion being also in the hundred of Clackclose, county of Norfolk, rural district, petty sessional division, county court district, rural deanery and archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The parish is on either side of the river Nene, which separates the counties of Cambridge and Norfolk, and the Norfolk portion is given in Kelly's Directory of that county. By an Order which came into operation March 25, 1884, detached parts of this parish were amalgamated with Welney, in Downham union. A steam tramway runs from the village to the London and North Eastern railway station at Wisbech for conveying merchandise. The mother church of Upwell St. Peter stands in Norfolk, and the rectory was separated from that of Welney by 9 and 10 Vict. c. 7 (1846). CHRISTCHURCH is an ecclesiastical parish in the Isle of Ely and rural deanery of March, 4 miles south from the mother church and 3 north-east from Stonea station on the March and Ely section of the London and North Eastern railway: the church is a cruciform edifice of brick, with stone dressings, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts, south porch and a turret containing one bell: there are three stained windows, and the church affords 400 sittings. The register dates from the year 1866. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £1,372, with residence, in the gift of C. E. Townley esq. M.A. and held since 1929 by the Rev. Seiriol John Arthur Evans M.A. of King's College, Cambridge. There are Baptist and Methodist chapels. The charity belonging to the parish of Upwell Isle, including the ecclesiastical portion of it, viz. Christchurch, amounts to about £137 yearly. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor of Wisbech Barton, which extends into Upwell. There are many landowners. The soil is loamy, in many parts highly fertile, and the subsoil clay. The crops are wheat, sugar-beet, potatoes, peas, beans, oats and mustard; a considerable portion of land is devoted to fruit culture. The area of the Cambridgeshire portion of the parish is 7,609 acres of land and 66 of water; the population in 1921 was 1,583; the population of Christchurch ecclesiastical parish was 836.

EXMOOR (or Euismoor, or Euximoor) is 3 miles north; LAKE'S END is 3½ miles east; TIP'S END, 3 miles south.

LADDUS and SUSAN'S (or Shrewsness) GREEN lie to the south-west.

WATERBEACH is a parish and large village, on the navigable river Cam, with a station on the London and Ely section of the London and North Eastern railway, and is $\frac{5}{8}$ miles north-east from Cambridge and 62 from London, in the hundred of Northstow, rural district of Chesterton, petty sessional division and county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Quy and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. John the Evangelist is an edifice of the 13th century, in the Early English style with Perpendicular insertions, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 5 bells: the windows of the clerestory and aisles are Perpendicular: the chancel is enriched with an alabaster and mosaic reredos: the beautiful font of marble and Caen stone and a very elaborate brass lectern were presented by friends of a late vicar: the chancel, nave and aisles have been restored, and the church enlarged and re-seated with carved oak benches, and in 1878 a stained window was placed in the belfry: in 1921 a stained glass window to the memory of Roger V. Dimock, who fell in action in the Great War, was erected in the south aisle: in the nave floor is a stone inscribed to William Stane M.D. and Fellow of the College of Physicians in London, d. 11 Feb. 1679: the pulpit was erected in 1879, as a memorial to the Rev. William Keatinge Clay B.D. vicar here 1854-67; it is of Caen stone and alabaster, inlaid with representations in mosaic of the Sermon on the Mount and the preaching of St. Paul, and is further adorned with statuettes of St. John the Baptist and the Prophet Elijah: the church was restored in 1878, at a cost of £3,500, and affords 450 sittings. The register dates from the year 1653. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £388, arising chiefly from 293 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1928 by the Rev. Oakley Gordon Bolton. The Mission church of St. Andrew, at the extreme end of the parish, and $\frac{3}{4}$ miles from the parish church, was erected in 1883, at a cost of about £600, mainly contributed by Mrs. Orpen, and is a building of stone, consisting of chancel and nave: it affords 60 sittings. There is a Baptist chapel, first founded in 1660, and seating 600 persons, of which the late Rev. C. H. Spurgeon was for some years minister: a Sunday school in connection with this chapel was built in 1900 at a cost of £960, and will hold 200 children. There is another Baptist chapel at Chittering, erected in 1858, with sittings for 120 persons; two Methodist chapels and a Salvation Army hall. A cemetery of one acre was formed in 1879, at a cost of about £300, and is now under the control of the Parish Council. A memorial cross of Portland stone, 13 ft. in height, was erected here in 1920 to the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The charities amount to nearly £110 yearly. Two miles north-west are the remains of the ancient abbey of Denney (Dancia), originally built in 1160 by Robert, chamberlain to the Duke of Bretagne, as a cell of Ely, and dedicated to SS. James and Leonard, but re-founded in 1342 by Agnes, Countess of Pembroke, for nuns of the order of St. Clara: the refectory and the greater part of the church, of Norman and Decorated work, remain. The County Council, Pembroke College, Messrs. George Arthur and Horace Brown and the vicar are the principal landowners. The land in this neighbourhood is very fertile, and there are large market garden grounds. The principal crops are wheat, barley, beans, potatoes, sugar beet and turnips. The area is 5,722 acres of land and 28 of water; the population in 1921 was 1,363.

JOIST FEN is in this parish.

WELNEY was formerly partly in this county and partly in the county of Norfolk, but by an Order which came into operation September, 1895, is now wholly included in the latter county; full particulars will be found in Kelly's Directory of Norfolk.

WENDY is a parish near the river Rhea, about 5½ miles north from Royston station on the Hitchin, Royston and Cambridge section of the London and North Eastern railway, and 4½ from Old North Road on the Cambridge and Bletchley branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, in the hundred of Arrington, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, rural district of Melbourn, county court district of Royston, rural deanery of Shingay and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The parish is well supplied with pure water from artesian wells. The church of All Saints, rebuilt in 1866 at a cost of £1,200, is an edifice of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, west porch and a western belfry containing one bell: the roof of the nave, of open woodwork, was removed here from the old church of All Saints, Cambridge: there is a memorial window to Charlotte Elizabeth, wife of the Rev. George Washington Edwards Philips, a former vicar: on the south-east wall of the nave is a tablet of white marble and alabaster, bearing the names of the parishioners who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: the interior was decorated gratuitously in 1882 by Mr. J. Leach, of Cambridge, and affords 120 sittings. The register dates from the year 1550. The living is a vicarage, with the chapelry of Shingay annexed, joint net yearly value £310, with residence, in the gift of the Church Patronage Society, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Tom Brine, of Wells Theological College. The land is mainly owned by the farmers. The soil is loamy and the subsoil clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and beans. The area is 1,023 acres; the population in 1921 was 88 in the civil parish and 128 in the ecclesiastical parish.

WENTWORTH (in Domesday Book Winteworde) is a parish in the Isle of Ely, 1½ miles north from Wilburton station on the Ely and St. Ives branch of the London and North Eastern railway and 4½ west from Ely, in the hundred of South Witchford, rural district, petty sessional division, county court district and rural deanery of Ely, archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Peter is an edifice of stone in the Norman and Early English styles, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a small embattled western tower containing one bell: the chancel retains a double piscina and a stone figure of pre-Norman carving, reputed to be that of St. Peter, and there are doorways of Norman date: the church was restored in 1868, and affords 130 sittings. The register commences from the year 1790. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £310, including 20 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Ely, and held since 1930 by the Rev. Herbert Murton Hadrill M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. The Dean and Chapter of Ely, who are lords of the manor, and St. Peter's College, Cambridge, are the principal landowners. The soil is loam, with clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans and barley. The area is 1,369 acres; the population in 1921 was 95. By Orders which came into operation March 25, 1884, detached parts of this parish were amalgamated with Coveney and Manea, the latter in North Witchford union, and on March 25, 1886, another detached part was amalgamated with Grunty Fen.

WESTWICK, see Oakington.

WHADDON, anciently "Wadune" and "Phwadune," is a parish lying near the Old North road, 2 miles west from Meldreth station on the Hitchin, Royston and Cambridge branch of the London and North Eastern railway and 4 north from Royston, in the hundred of Armingford, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, rural district of Melbourn, county court district of Royston, rural deanery of Shingay and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary the Virgin, entirely rebuilt in the 14th century, is an edifice of stone and flint, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a western tower containing a clock and 3 bells: the church retains an old oak screen and the ceiling is also of carved oak: on the chancel floor are several armorial slabs inscribed to Thomas Tempest, 1649; Elizabeth Pickering, 1694; Henry Pickering, 1705; and Grace Pickering, 1732: in the north aisle is a brass, bearing the names of the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: a fine organ built by Snetdler, and enlarged by Walker, of London, was presented to the church in 1857 by John Felix Beaumont esq.: the church was restored in 1869 at a cost of £2,300, and again in 1873 at a further cost of £500, and in 1894 the tower was restored and the upper part of it rebuilt at a cost of upwards of £500; the church affords 150 sittings. The register dates from the year 1692. The living is a vicarage, united to that of Meldreth in 1932, joint net yearly value £440, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Canons of Windsor, and held since 1930 by the Rev. George Hunt Holley B.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge. The vicarage house was destroyed by fire in 1904 and rebuilt in 1905 at a cost of over £1,400. The Methodists have a chapel here. There are 104 acres of land and rectorial tithes, belonging to the Dean and Canons of Windsor as improPRIATORS. The manor was held from the time of the Norman Conquest by the Descalers family and their relatives, the Tempests, from whom it was purchased in 1648 by Henry Pickering esq. created a baronet in 1661; this family held it till 1716, when it was again sold by Dame Grace, widow of Sir Henry Pickering, 2nd bart. to Edward Lord Hurley, afterwards 2nd Earl of Oxford, of whom it was purchased by Philip (Yorke), 1st Earl of Hardwicke and lord chancellor, and thence came to his descendants, and later to Viscount Clifden, from whom it passed to the Cambridgeshire County Council. The County Council, the Dean and Chapter of Windsor, Christ's College, Cambridge and Frederick Smith esq. are the chief landowners. The soil is chiefly gault and loam, and the subsoil gault, gravel and clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans and barley.

The area is 1,509 acres of land and 6 of water; the population in 1921 was 226. Post & Tel. Call Office. Letters through Royston (Herts). Bassingbourn nearest M. O. & T. office

WHITTLESEY

WHITTLESEY, in Domesday "Witesie," is an ancient market town, and head of a petty sessional division, with a station on the Great Eastern section of the London and North Eastern railway, 8½ miles from London, 11 west from March and 6½ east-by-south from Peterborough, in the hundred of North Witchford, Isle of Ely, county court district of Peterborough, rural deanery of March, archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely.

The Wash, which forms an extensive portion of this parish, is about seven miles long, and varies from half a mile to one mile and a quarter in width; the land is chiefly used for pasturage, but for many months in the year is covered with water to a depth of several feet. There are ferry-boats at several parts of the Wash; wild fowl and other migratory birds abound in the vicinity. The navigable river Nene and the Whittlesey dyke run on either side of the town.

The Whittlesey Improvement Act, 1849 (12 and 13 Vict. c. 32), defined a district around the town for lighting, paving and cleansing the same, by commissioners appointed under the Act; but under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1894" (56 and 57 Vict. c. 73), the district is governed by an Urban District Council of 18 members. The town is lighted with gas by a company and supplied with water from private wells. On the south side of the town the dyke banks are shaded by trees overhanging the pathway, which thus forms an agreeable promenade. From Church street and Peterborough end extensive and pleasing views of the adjacent counties of Hunts and Northampton are obtained.

Whittlesey originally consisted of two parishes, which, under the Whittlesey Improvement Act, were consolidated for all civil but divided for ecclesiastical purposes, and described as the united parishes of St. Mary and St. Andrew, Whittlesey, the ancient parish and manor of St. Mary, retaining about two-thirds of the whole, after the parish and manor of St. Andrew had been taken out of it. By c. 32, sec. 9 of the above Act a separate district was assigned in 1850 out of St. Mary's parish to the church at Coates, which will be found described under a separate heading.

Under the provisions of the Local Government Act, 1894, Whittlesey was divided into two civil parishes, Urban and Rural, but by the Isle of Ely (Whittlesey Urban District Confirmative Order, 1926, the two were united to form the new parish of Whittlesey, and the urban and rural districts were amalgamated to form the Urban District of Whittlesey.

The church of St. Mary is a building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a western tower with crocketed pinnacles and lofty crocketed spire strengthened by flying buttresses and containing a clock and 8 bells with chimes: in 1902 the interior of the spire was renovated and the bells rehung, at a cost of £500: two Early English arches remain on the north side: the south aisle is Decorated, and the east end, tower and spire Perpendicular: in 1856 a stained window was placed in the chancel: in 1862 the interior was restored from designs by the late Sir G. G. Scott B.A. at a cost of about £3,000; a chapel (formerly a school-room), forming the eastern end of the south aisle, was restored in 1862 in memory of Lieut.-Gen. Sir Harry George Waklyn Smith bart. G.O.B. born at Whittlesey in 1788, and died in London, October 12, 1860; a life-size bust, by G. G. Adams, and a tablet were erected, and stained glass inserted in three of the windows, as memorials to the same officer: the stained west window was given by the late Mrs. Waller, wife of a former vicar, and the north window is in memory of John Le Fevre esq.: the reredos was the gift of the late Thomas Bowker esq.: in the chancel are sedilia, an aumbry and two piscinas: the altar was presented in 1916 to the memory of the late Lieut. E. W. Saunders, by his mother: in 1926-7 the chancel and north aisle roofs was repaired and a dangerous pier in the south arcade rebuilt: the church affords 700 sittings. The register dates from the year 1559, but the earlier portion is partly obliterated. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £324, with residence, in the gift of the trustees of the late John Walbanke Childers esq. and held since 1931 by the Rev. George Henry Dyer Wright, of London University.

The church of St. Andrew is a building of stone in the Perpendicular and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and fine embattled western tower, with pinnacles and containing a clock and 8 bells; in 1930 the original 6 bells were rehung and 2 added, presented by Charles Aveling in memory of his father, William Aveling: the oak pulpit was given in 1916 to the memory of Lieut. J. D. Smalley: in 1928 a carved altar was given in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Staffurth: the church was restored in 1872, under the direction of Mr. R. R. Rowe, architect, of Cambridge, and affords 400 sittings. The register dates from the year 1635. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £340, with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1907 by the Rev. Arthur Edwin Tweed Newman M.A. of Trinity Hall, Cambridge.

The church of St. Guthlac, North side, is a building of corrugated iron, erected at the sole expense of the Duke of Bedford K.G.: the services are conducted by the clergy of St. Andrew's, Whittlesey, every Sunday evening.

The General Baptist chapel in Windmill street has 300 sittings; the Zion Baptist chapel in Gracious street, erected in 1836, has 350 sittings; the Congregational chapel in Broad street, built in 1813, 350; the Methodist in Church street, 150; the Methodist in Woolpack lane, 200; the Methodist in Queen street, 300; and the Methodist at King's Dyke, 100.

The Cemetery, formed in 1850, is about a quarter of a mile from the town, on the Cemetery road, and covers an area of eight acres; it contains two mortuary chapels, and is now under the control of a burial committee of the Whittlesey Urban District Council.

The churches and chapels were wholly closed to interments and the graveyards (with modifications) by Order in Council, March 25, 1873.

The Town Hall, in Market street, erected in 1857, is a plain structure of brick; magisterial and other meetings are held here, and the building also serves as a fire engine station.

St. Mary's Parish Room, Station road, erected in 1900, is used as a club for men and boys.

The market is held on Friday, and a fair for horses June 13. Courts leet and baron are held twice a year; the fines in the manors are certain.

The brick-making industry here provides employment for a large percentage of the labouring population of the town. The bricks are made by the semi-dry process; there are also some excellent beds of gravel.

The Trustees of the Town Lands Charity manage lands originally devised to relieve the inhabitants of these parishes from the tax anciently laid in the Isle of Ely for the repairs of Aldreth causeway: but under an Order of the Charity Commissioners, dated April 29th, 1893, one quarter of the proceeds is now devoted to ecclesiastical purposes and the remainder to educational and other charitable purposes.

There are several charities, founded by Messrs. Kelfull, Dow, Randall, Sudbury and Noble: that of Mr. Kelfull includes a provision for educating 15 boys; and that of Mr. Sudbury for the commercial education of five boys and the apprenticing of others; the whole of the above charities, with the exception of Sudbury's, were amalgamated under a scheme of the Charity Commissioners, framed in the year 1868; the net income of the united charities now amounts to about £80, and Sudbury's to about £69 10s.

The soil of the whole parish is chiefly a black loam, with a subsoil of clay and gravel; the land is fertile, and the chief crops are wheat, peas and potatoes, with a great portion of rich pasture; potatoes are grown extensively for the London market.

Whittlesey Mere, named from this place, but 6 miles distant and in Huntingdonshire, was drained by the Middle Level Commissioners, and an area of 1,500 acres brought under cultivation.

Traces of a Roman road are found at Eldernell, where several antiquities have been dug up, including a massive gold ring.

The chief landowners are the trustees of the late J. W. Childers esq.

The area of Whittlesey Urban District and parish is 26,073 acres of rich and productive land, 126 of water and 53 of tidal water; the population in 1931 was 8,299, which includes the hamlets of Coates, Eastrea and the surrounding fens.

WICKEN is a village and parish, 4 miles south from Soham station on the Ely and Newmarket branch of the London and North Eastern railway and 9 north-west from Newmarket, in the hundred of Staploe, rural district and petty sessional division of Newmarket, county court district of Ely, rural deanery of Fordham, archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St.
Lawrence is an ancient edifice of stone in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower, with pinnacles, containing 5 bells, the oldest of which was cast in the latter part of the 15th century: there is a vault within the church in which the remains of several members of Oliver Cromwell's family were buried, but these remains have been removed from the vault to make room for those of another family: on the chancel floor is an inscribed marble slab to Henry Cromwell, fourth son of the Protector, ob. 1673: the church was thoroughly restored in 1879 and 1880, at a cost of over £900, and affords 400 sittings. The register dates from the year 1562. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £289, including glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Church Patronage Society, and held since 1925 by the Rev. Ernest Francis Harrison B.A., L.Th. of Durham University. There is a Jubilee Mission hall in connection with the church, erected in 1887, and two Methodist chapels. There is a cemetery, one acre in extent, which is under the control of the Parish Council. There are three almshouses, erected and endowed with £30 yearly by Miss Hatch, who left other charities for the poor of the parish. Five almshouses were erected in 1897 to commemorate the Diamond Jubilee of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, and were renovated and extended in 1932. A public hall was erected in 1910 on the site of the old school.

Ancient Roman coins and other antiquities have been found in the neighbourhood. The monastery of Spinney, or de Spineto, a cell of Ely in 1449, was founded here in the time of Henry III. (1216-17) by Beatrix Malebise and Mary de Bassingbourne, for canons of the order of St. Augustine, and was dedicated to St. Mary and the Holy Cross: on the site now stands a farm house, built out of the materials of the priory. South of the village is an extensive tract of virgin fen; it is assumed to be the only portion of the fens which has escaped drainage, and is known as Sedge Fen. The National Trust has acquired the greater part of it. Entomologists from all parts of the country work here during the summer, and it is still one of the haunts of the Swallow Tail butterfly;
it is also a bird sanctuary and the Montagu Harrier annually makes its appearance. Admission is by permit only. Robert Holmes Edleston esq. is lord of the manor, and Messrs. R. L. Fuller and A. Hawes are the principal landowners. The soil is various; subsoil, chiefly clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and beans. The area is 3,934 acres of land and 31 of water; the population in 1921 was 667.

Camps, archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary is an ancient edifice of flint and rubble, with stone dressings, in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch, north organ chamber and a western tower containing 5 bells, and affords 200 sittings: the church was restored in 1900 at a cost of £1,400. The register dates from the year 1647. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £258, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since

1909 by the Rev. William John Jones B.A. of London University, who is also vicar of West Wrating, where he resides. The Mission Hall, holding 200 persons, and a reading room were erected in 1870 by John De Fraime esq. Sidney A. Taylor J.P. is lord of the manor.
Samuel Owen Webb esq. J.P. and Messrs. A. and J.
Collen, Fred Taylor and William H. Pearson are the principal landowners. The soil is chalk and clay;

GREAT WILBRAHAM is a parish and village, 2 miles south from the Cambridge and Newmarket road, 1½ east-by-north from Fulbourn station on the Cambridge and Bury branch of the London and North Eastern railway and 7 east from Cambridge, in the hundred of Staine, Bottisham petty sessional division, rural district of Chesterton, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Quy and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Nicholas is an ancient building of flint, principally in the Early English and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts, south porch and an embattled western tower of Perpendicular date, with pinnacles, and containing a clock and 5 bells: the chancel retains a piscina and sedilia and a curious aumbry: the font, which dates from the year 1150, is Transition Norman: in the chancel are inscribed tablets to the Ward family from 1719, and also to the Hicks family, and at the west end are some ancient tombstones: the church, with the exception of the nave and north transept, was restored in 1878-9, at a cost of £800, and the tower in 1882-3, at a cost of about £600: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1561. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, including 4 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Reginald Stanley Hicks esq. J.P. and held since 1929 by the Rev. Dumaresq Cohu L.Th., B.A. of Durham University. The church, like that of Wendy in this county, was originally given to the monks of Ely, but they, for some consideration, made it over to the Knights Templars, who made a habitation here for some of their order: the estates were afterwards passed over to the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem. There is a small Baptist chapel here. Wilbraham-Temple is the seat of Reginald Stanley Hicks esq. J.P. lord of the manor of Wilbraham-Temple and principal landowner. Capt. Alec Stratford Cunningham-Reid D.F.C., M.P. is also a large landowner. The soil is various; subsoil, stone and clunch. The chief crops are wheat, barley and roots. The area is 2,921 acres; the population in 1921 was 444.

LITTLE WILBRAHAM is a village and parish, 1 mile south from the Cambridge and Newmarket road, 2½ north-east from Fulbourn station on the Cambridge and Bury branch of the London and North Eastern railway and 7 east from Cambridge, in the hundred of Staine, Bottisham petty sessional division, rural district of Chesterton, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Quy and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. John the Evangelist is an ancient building of stone, principally in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, but with traces of much older work, and consists of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 3 bells: the doorways to the rood loft also remain: the piers and arches of the nave are good Perpendicular, and there is an octagonal font of the same date: the south porch has a curious inner door, enriched with tracery and shields of arms: the tower is Decorated and stands on open arches: in the chancel is a brass, with kneeling effigy, to William Blakwey M.A. ob. 1521: in the churchyard is the base of a cross, with steps, and a tombstone to Elizabeth Hobbs, who died in 1803, and is stated to have attained the age of 104 years: the interior of the church was restored and variously refitted during the period 1875-89, at a cost of £800, this amount including three stained windows and a new organ: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £450, with residence, in the gift of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Lindsay Lennox Chaplin M.A. of Trinity Hall, Cambridge. Johnson's Charity consists of 80 acres, producing about £60 yearly, which is chiefly distributed amongst the poor of the parish. Lt.-Col. John Francis is the chief landowner, and there are many smaller owners. The soil is various; subsoil, various. The chief crops are wheat, barley and roots. The area, including fen lands, is 1,990 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1921 was 348.

WILBURTON is a parish, partly in the Fen lands, Isle of Ely, with a goods station, 1 mile north from the village, on the Ely, Sutton and St. Ives section of the London and North Eastern railway, 6½ miles south-west from Ely, 13 north from Cambridge and 77 from London by rail and 64 by road, in the South Witchford hundred, Ely rural district, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Ely, archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Peter is an edifice of stone in the Gothic style of the 15th century, retaining traces of work pronounced by the late Sir Gilbert Scott to be Saxon and Norman, and consisting of nave, north transept, south porch and a western tower containing a clock and 6 bells: the church roof is of the 15th century, made of carved oak, and considered unique in the Eastern counties; it bears the arms and cocks of Bishop Alcock, founder of Jesus College, Cambridge, who rebuilt the church: the church was restored in 1851, and the transept added in 1868 by Albert and Oliver Claude Pell esqrs. and the Rev. Beauchamp H. St. John Pell M.A. rector of Ickenham. Middlesex, in memory of their parents, Sir Albert Pell kt. D.C.L. king's serjeant-at-law and judge of the Court of Review, who died in 1832, and the Hon. Dame Margaret Lititia Matilda Pell, third daughter of Henry Beauchamp, 12th Lord St. John, of Bletsoe, who died in 1868: in the chancel is a window to a daughter of Lady Pell who died in 1855: the rood screen was restored in 1893 by the parishioners and friends in memory of O. C. Pell esq. D.L., J.P. who died in 1891: over the porch is a priest's chamber: in 1921 a stained glass window was inserted in the north side of the church, in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: the communion plate is Elizabethan and the chalice of old Norwich plate, hammered silver: there are 240 sittings. The register dates from the year 1730. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, including 5 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Archdeacon of Ely, and held since 1928 by the Rev. Charles George

Reed B.A., L.Th. of Durham University. There is a Baptist chapel, erected in 1845. A burial ground of about half an acre was formed in 1881, at a cost of £100, from land given by the Pell family, and is under the control of the Parish Council. St. Peter's Hall, High street, was built in 1891 at a cost of about £900, by the late Oliver Claude Pell esq. M.A. and is used for entertainments and parochial meetings; the hall is adorned with some ancient carvings in wood, removed from the pulpit in Strettham church. Near the top of Mr. Camp's garden are some mounds, once serving as archery butts. King Henry VII. is known to have stayed here, at a house where the rectory now stands. In 1882 some spear heads dating from the Bronze Age were dug up near the vicarage, and are now in the Cambridge Museum. Wilburton Manor House, a mansion of red brick and stone, erected from the designs of the late Mr. Pugin, is the property of the trustees of Albert Julian Pell J.P. deceased, who are lords of the manor and principal landowners. The house is at present (1933) unoccupied. The soil varies from red sand to stiff clay on the upper land; the whole of the fen land is in good cultivation. The chief industry is fruit growing, and the crops are wheat, barley, oats and beans. The area is 2,437 acres; the population in 1921 was 497.

GRUNTY FEN parish, which was formerly extra-parochial, adjoins Wilburton; area, 1,793 acres; population in 1921 was 97; Strettham and Wilburton railway stations are both in this parish.

Grunty Fen is reputed to be extra-parochial for ecclesiastical purposes.

WILLINGHAM (or Wyvelingham) is a parish and large village, a mile and a half north from Long Stanton station on the St. Ives and Cambridge section of the London and North Eastern railway, 10 miles north-west from Cambridge and 6½ east from St. Ives, in the hundred of Papworth, rural district of Chesterton, petty sessional division and county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of North Stowe and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Mary and All Saints is an edifice of stone and rubble, chiefly in the Decorated style, with some remains of Saxon and Norman work, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave of six bays, aisles, south porch and a lofty western tower with pinnacles and spire and containing a clock, provided in 1827 at a cost of £125, and 6 bells, one of which was added in 1925, when the remainder were recast and the whole rehung in a new steel frame, at a total cost of £560: in the north wall of the chancel is an arched recess, and on the south side is a remarkably fine piscina and sedilia: some ancient stalls remain, and there is an excellent Perpendicular roof with carved foliage: on the north side of the chancel is a small but very remarkable chapel, in the Decorated style, with a high-pitched stone roof, carried on stone arches springing from corbels and pierced above by tracery with foliated cusping; it has also a piscina mounted on a shaft: the piers and arches of the nave are Decorated and the clerestory Perpendicular: the very fine double row hammer-beam roof, also of this date, is said to have been brought from Barnwell priory: the spandrels are filled with carved foliage and shields: there appear to have been angels attached to the hammer beams, and these are being gradually replaced; 30 are now (1933) in position: in the Ely chapel on the north side of the nave are two fine canopied tombs; this chapel is still enclosed by a beautiful Decorated screen: the roof is Perpendicular, with carved bosses, and retains much of the ancient colouring; the south aisle has a roof of different pattern, and is enclosed by a Perpendicular screen, forming a chapel attached to the manor of Brunescote: it retains a piscina, a canopied tomb, and a fine stone altar slab: both the screens enclosing the chapels have been restored: the font is Late Decorated, and has an octagonal basin: the pulpit, of the same period, is pentagonal, on a single pentagonal shaft, and has panelled sides, beautifully carved: within the lower stage of the tower are three large arched recesses: the chancel was restored in 1890-91, at a cost of £1,200, and the nave, aisles and spire during 1892-5, at a cost of about £4,000: there are 320 sittings. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £801, with glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1923 by the Rev. Andrew Campbell Hair M.A. of St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, rural dean of North Stowe and surrogate. The Baptist chapel, in High street, seats 800 persons, and there is another called the "Tabernacle," erected in 1873, which has 600 sittings; the Methodist chapel affords 200 sittings. A cemetery of 2 acres was formed in 1865, at a cost of £500, and is under the control of the Parish Council: in the centre of the cemetery is a cross of Cornish granite, erected in 1921 as a memorial to the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The Public Hall and Reading Room was built in 1896, at a cost of about £600, defrayed by Fred Crisp esq. the site being given by H. G. Few esq. of Berrycroft, Cambridge. At Belsar's Hill are the remains of an encampment. A scheme was issued in 1876 by the Charity Commissioners for the management of the Willingham Charities, the gross income of which, amounting to £70 yearly, is distributed in part to two almshouses, who receive from 5s. to 8s. per week, the residue being given to the deserving poor. There is also an ecclesiastical charity of £10 yearly, derived from lands in the parish left by Dr. Saywell for the religious instruction of children. The principal land-owners are Thomas Henry Langan esq. J.P. A. T. Setchell esq. and Queens', Corpus Christi and Jesus Colleges, Cambridge: The soil varies, but is very fertile; subsoil, mostly blue clay and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, beans, barley, potatoes, garden produce and fruit, especially plums. The area is 4,648 acres of land and 11 of water; the population in 1921 was 1,651.

By Local Government Board Order No. 15,898 (March 24, 1884), a part of Willingham parish known as Hollowmass was added to Rampton.

WIMBLINGTON (formerly a hamlet of Doddington) is now a parish on the road from Chatteris to March, with a station three-quarters of a mile south on the Wisbech and St. Ives Branch of the London and North Eastern railway, and 3 miles south from March, in the hundred of North Witchford, Isle of Ely, rural district of North Witchford, petty sessional division and county court district of March, rural deanery of March, arch-deaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Peter, built in 1874 at a cost of £4,000, and consecrated 15 May in that year, is a building of stone in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and an eastern tower with spire containing a clock and one bell: a stained east window was erected in 1902 as a memorial to Capt. Arthur Joseph Hill, East Surrey Regiment, and there are others to Lily Fisher, and Emily, wife of the Rev. Joseph Hill B.A. rector here 1874-1904: in 1924 a wrought iron screen was added in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the consecration of the church: there are 350 sittings. The register dates from the year 1874. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £1,855, with residence, in the gift of, and held since 1927 by the Rev. Herbert Ratford M.A. of Hatfield College, Durham. There are three Methodist chapels, one at Stonea, one in the village, and one at Hook. About 1714 Thomas Eaton bequeathed certain lands in the parish for the purpose of providing education for 40 children. The proceeds arising from this property are now devoted to secondary education. At Stonea Grange, a short distance from the village, there was once a Roman station, traces of which still remain, and on the site of which coins have been frequently found; it has been considered by some antiquaries to have been originally formed by the early inhabitants for the purpose of enclosing their cattle during the winter time, and afterwards to have been occupied as a military encampment. The principal landowners are C. W. King esq. who is lord of the manor, and Messrs. James Morton, William Bellamy and William Bridges Blunt. The soil is rich fen-land; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are potatoes, wheat, oats and barley. The area is 7,727 acres of land and 35 of water; the population in 1921 was 1,197.

STONEA, in this parish, has a station on the London and North Eastern line from Ely to Peterborough.

WIMPOLE is a parish, 3 miles south-east from Old North Road station on the Bedford and Cambridge branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, about 8 north-west from Royston and about 9 south-west from Cambridge, in the hundred of Wetherley, petty sessional division of Arrington and Melbourn, rural district of Caxton and Arrington, county court district of Cambridge, rural deanery of Barton and arch-deaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Andrew, rebuilt, with the exception of the chantry in 1749, is an edifice of red brick in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave, chantry and a western gable containing one bell: the stained east window is a memorial to the Rev. Edward Lyon Fellowes M.A. rector 1876-96, and was placed in the church in 1898; there are many marble monuments to former lords of the manor; there is also an altar tomb to a member of the Chicheley family, above which is a window filled with heraldic glass of the 14th century: the Chicheley chapel contains memorials to members of the Yorke family, including an imposing monument, to Philip, first Earl of Hardwicke and Lord Chancellor 1737-56, who was born at Dover, 1 Dec. 1690, and died in Grosvenor square, London, 6 March, 1764; there is also an altar tomb, with recumbent effigy in marble, to Philip, 3rd Earl of Hardwicke K.G. d. 18 Nov. 1834: the church was restored in 1887, at a cost of £900, as a memorial to Susan, Countess of Hardwicke, d. 22 Nov. 1886: there are 240 sittings. The register dates from the year 1540. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £519, with residence, in the gift of Viscount Clifden M.V.O., J.P. and held since 1914 by the Rev. Edgar Lancaster, of St. Augustine's College, Canterbury, and rural dean of Barton, who is also vicar of Arrington. There is a charge on an estate here of £20 yearly for coal for the benefit of the poor; Beho's charity of 17s. 6d. is for bread. Wimpole Hall, the seat of the Viscount Clifden M.V.O., J.P. is a spacious mansion of brick, the central part of which was built by Sir Thomas Chicheley about the year 1632, the wings being added by Lord Oxford, and the house newly fronted and the principal apartments fitted up by Philip, first Earl of Hardwicke and Lord Chancellor, in 1736-37;

it contains a valuable collection of pictures by old masters: the park, which consists of 300 acres, contains two small lakes: the river Cam flows through the estate, and in front of the house is a spacious avenue, consisting of a double row of elms, extending 2½ miles in length and of great width. Viscount Clifden M.V.O., J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is stiff clay; subsoil, clay and gault. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 2,456 acres of land and 12 of water; the population in 1921 was 244.

WISBECH is a seaport, municipal borough, market town, the head of a county court district, with stations on the Midland and Great Northern Joint railway and London and North Eastern railway, 87 miles from London, 40 north from Cambridge, 116 from Birmingham, via Peterborough and Blisworth, 22 east from Spalding, 63 from Northampton, 34 from Stamford, 23 from Ely, 7½ from March, 21 from Peterborough, 15½ west-south-west from Lynn and 64 from Norwich, via Lynn, in the hundred, petty sessional division, liberty of the Isle of Ely, rural deanery and archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely; it is also the seat of the January and July quarter sessions for the liberty of the Isle of Ely, and of the petty sessions for the hundred, and is on the borders of Norfolk, within a few miles of the sea, to which it has access by the navigable river Nene, which intersects the town, the larger portion being on the south side of the river; the banks were strengthened with piling, during the year 1890-91, at a cost of £20,000. The thoroughfares facing the river are known chiefly as the "North and South Brinks." By the Wisbech canal, the town has also water communication by the Ouse with Cambridge, Hertford and London.

The branch line of the London and North Eastern railway from the main line to Wisbech harbour has materially assisted the development of the timber and coal trade of the town, and there is also a steam tramway from Wisbech station to Upwell for the conveyance of goods. The Midland and Great Northern joint line from Peterborough, which joins the London and North Eastern line at Sutton Bridge, affords an additional means of inter-communication, and by means of these railways the town is rendered one of the most desirable ports for carrying on shipping transactions between the Midland Counties and the Baltic Sea. The London, Midland and Scottish line has also a tramway into the Old Market. The railway stations are about half a mile from the centre of the town, the Midland and Great Northern joint station on the north, and the London and North Eastern on the south, but street railways communicate with the warehouses on the north side of the town, so that the railway trucks can be loaded or unloaded direct out of the warehouses and ships without cartage expenses.

Vessels of 3,000 tons can enter the port.

Fishing boats and their implements are distinguished by the letters W.I. Since 1852 the quays have been much improved by the erection of new wharfage, at an expense to the town of about £60,000; in 1931 a concrete bridge, which spans the river in the centre of the town, was erected at a cost of £15,935.

The chief trade is in importing timber and general merchandise. The chief exports are coal, corn and general merchandise. In the surrounding district both flowers and fruit are largely grown, the latter consisting chiefly of strawberries, raspberries, gooseberries, apples, pears and plums; potatoes, asparagus and mustard seed are also grown. There are planing and sawing mills, breweries and printing offices.

The town received its earliest charter from Richard I. and this was confirmed by later sovereigns, including Edw. VI. and restored, after forfeiture, by James I. For municipal purposes the borough is divided into north and south wards, and, under the provisions of the "Municipal Corporations Act, 1835" (5 and 6 Wm. IV. c. 76), is governed by a Corporation, consisting of a mayor, six aldermen and 18 town councillors; other officers include a treasurer, town clerk, borough surveyor, sanitary inspector, harbour master and a superintendent of police. Wisbech has a separate commission of the peace. The town is lighted with gas and electricity, and supplied with water from chalk springs at Marham, in Norfolk, 21 miles distant.

The church of SS. Peter and Paul is an edifice of stone in the Early Norman and Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, double nave, lady chapel, north and south aisles, south porch and a large embattled tower at the north-west angle containing a clock and 10 finetoned bells; the clock was erected in 1866 by Mr. James Dann, of this town, at a cost of about £400: in the chancel floor is a very large brass to Sir Thomas de Branstone, constable of Wisbech Castle, ob. 1401, with effigy in armour and mutilated inscription in Norman French: John Feckenham, last abbot of Westminster, is buried in the church: the reredos, presented by Mr. John Shepherd, and unveiled 26th June, 1885, is a fine work in stone, alabaster and Florentine mosaic, executed in Venice by Salviati; the principal feature is a reproduction in mosaic of "The Last Supper," with canopied figures of St. Peter and St. Paul on either side, designed by Mr. Bassett Smith. A memorial window was erected to the Rev. R. E. B. Watts, a former vicar, and Mr. H. Farrow, churchwarden in 1911: there are several other fine modern memorial windows, including one to the Rev. John Scott M.A. hon. canon of Ely, and vicar here from 1867-86: the church was restored in 1858, at a cost of £4,200, and the organ reconstructed and enlarged in 1873, at a cost of £650: the church affords 1,500 sittings, all free. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £1,377, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1932 by the Rev. Hugh Kitson Stallard M.A. of Pembroke College, Cambridge.

St. Augustine's is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1869 from the civil parishes of St. Peter Wisbech, and Leverington. The church, erected in 1863-9, and opened in May, 1869, at a cost of about £4,000, is a structure of brick, with stone dressings, in the Early English style, consisting of clerestoried nave, aisles and bellcot containing one bell: the reredos, erected in 1878, is of stone, the panels being filled in with glass mosaic, displaying a central cross with the figures of three angels on either side, bearing on shields the instruments of the Passion: the stained east window, placed 7 Dec. 1883, is a memorial: the west window was filled with stained glass in 1922, in memory of the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: there are several other stained windows: the church affords 500 sittings. The register dates from the year 1870. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £448, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1926 by the Rev. Arthur John William Crosse C.B.E., B.A. of the London University.

The Chapel of Ease or Octagon church, in the Old Market, is an octagonal embattled structure of brick, with stone facings, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a belfry containing one bell, and has sittings for 800 persons, most of which are free. The living is a perpetual curacy, net yearly value £602, from the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1895 by the Rev. Richard Boyer M.A. of Caius College, Cambridge.

St. Mary's, Wisbech, will be found under a separate heading.

The Roman Catholic church, in Queen's road, built in 1854, and dedicated to Our Lady and St. Charles Borromeo, is an edifice in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles and a turret containing one bell: there are 250 sittings. Attached to the church is a fine parochial hall, built in 1914, which serves as the head quarters of St. Joseph's Club (which is run on non-sectarian and non-political lines). The Friends' Meeting House, North Brink, was built in 1854. The Baptist church, Upper Hill street, was founded in 1674; the present edifice, erected in 1859 at a cost of about £4,000, is a stone building in the Early English style, seating about 600 persons. The General Baptist chapel, Ely place, was founded in 1655, and the present edifice built in 1873; it will seat 850. The Zion Baptist chapel, Victoria road, is of brick, and was erected in 1856; it has 220 sittings. The Congregational chapel, Castle square, was built in 1818, and will seat 500, and the Methodist chapel, Church terrace, was built in 1863. The Methodist chapel, in The Crescent, will seat 500. The Methodist church, Little Church street, built in 1869-70, is of red brick with stone facings; there are 800 sittings. The Salvation Army Barracks are in East street.

There is a cemetery of about 4 acres, belonging to and situated near the church, and another of 6 acres on the Leverington road, known as the Wisbech General Cemetery, which is the property of a private company; each has a mortuary chapel, and grounds planted with shrubs and evergreens: a third, formed by the Town Council acting as a Burial Board, was opened October 31, 1881, at Mount Pleasant, and contains an area of 11 acres and a mortuary chapel.

The parish church and churchyard, part of the church cemetery and the Unitarian burial grounds were wholly closed against interments by Order in Council, May 25, 1855.

The Corn Exchange, Cornhill, is now also the Town Hall. The Cattle Market, on the Chapel road, was formed at a cost of £2,300: the Corn Market day is Saturday: cattle markets are held on Thursdays and Saturdays weekly, and fairs on the Saturday after the end of Lynn, February 14th fair, which lasts seven days; the second Thursday in May and July 25th for horses and the first Thursday in August for beasts; the third Wednesday in September for hiring. There is an annual fat-stock show, held in December.

The Custom House for the port, with a customs officer, is in North brink.

The "United Good Fellowship" (No. 809) Lodge of Freemasons, to which there is a Chapter attached, holds its meetings at the Rose and Crown hotel, on the 4th Wednesday in the months of Oct. Nov. Jan. Feb. March and 1st Wednesday in May (Installation).

The Fire Brigade possesses two motor pumps, one fire engine, one motor lorry and a fire escape; the engine house is in Horsefair; a maroon is fired on the outbreak of a fire.

The Museum and Literary Institution, in Museum square, is open free from 10 to 5 in summer and 10 to 4 in winter. The Literary Institution was founded in 1781, and the Museum in 1835, and they were amalgamated in 1877: the primary object of the Museum is to illustrate the archaeology and natural history of the Fenland, but it also contains a collection of objects of applied art and autographs, including the original manuscript of "Great Expectations," by Charles Dickens, bequeathed in 1869 by the Rev. O. H. Townshend. The collection of Staffordshire figures is of considerable importance, and the ethnological and geological collections are worthy of attention.

The North Cambridgeshire Hospital, adjoining and overlooking the park, is a structure of brick, with lodge and detached nurses' home, built and furnished by the munificence of Miss M. E. Trafford-Southwell, of Honington Hall, Grantham, at a cost of about £8,000, and opened October 2nd, 1873: a new wing and balconies were added in 1914 at the expense of Frank Mills esq. and a children's ward and balcony were presented by Mr. B. W. Green in 1926. The foundress endowed the hospital with a sum of £6,000, which was augmented by donations to the amount of £10,000: there are beds for 50 patients and an outpatients' department, opened in 1904.

The Working Men's Club and Institute, Lower Hill street, originally a private dwelling house, was opened January 5th, 1864, and subsequently enlarged; a new smoking room was added in 1891; attached is a tower of brick and stone, 100 feet high, containing an illuminated clock and chimes, with 14 bells playing 26 tunes, erected by Mr. James Dann, of this town: the building comprises a lecture hall, reading, smoking, conversation and class rooms, library of about 5,000 volumes, gymnasium and a residence for the hall keeper: in connection with the institute are horticultural, fur and feather, coal, holiday, Christmas, social and wireless clubs, as well as clubs for cricket, football, gymnastic exercise, draughts, dominoes and chess; various educational classes are also held here: there were in 1933 approximately 1,500 members.

The memorial to Thomas Clarkson M.A. the indefatigable advocate for the abolition of the slave trade, was erected at a cost of £2,055, raised by subscription, from the designs of the late Sir George Gilbert Scott R.A.: the first stone was laid 28 Oct. 1880, and the memorial unveiled 1 Nov. 1881: it consists of a statue, mounted on a platform, above which rises a canopy, terminating in a spire, the whole being 63 feet high: on three sides of the base are carved bas-reliefs, representing respectively Wilberforce, Granville Sharp and a manacled slave in a beseeching attitude: the fourth side bears an inscription to this distinguished philanthropist, who was born at Wisbech 26 March, 1760, and died at Playford Hall, near Ipswich, 26 Sept. 1846.

In the Crescent is a Celtic cross of Aberdeen granite, erected in 1921 at a cost of £1,036, in memory of the men of Wisbech who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. A fund was also instituted for the benefit of the children of the fallen, this being vested in trustees.

A park, with pleasure grounds, comprising an area of 18 acres, planted with shrubs, flowers and evergreens, was opened in 1870: there is a memorial column erected in the park in 1871 to Richard Young esq. M.P.

The Wisbech charities comprise the following:—

Thomas Parke, by will, in 1628, gave his house, in Ship lane, Wisbech, for the poor of the parish. The endowment now consists of £1,362 17s. 11d. Consols, and 2 acres of land in Wisbech, producing a yearly income of about £49: the net income is appropriated to the purchase of clothing for the poor.

In the year 1638, William Holmes gave £400 to the burgesses of Wisbech, to be invested in land, and the rent applied for the maintenance of two scholars at St. Mary Magdalene College in the University of Cambridge and for binding out poor children apprentices; and by his will, in 1656, directed that the whole yearly income of the said land, after payment of 20s. annually to the said college, should be paid yearly towards the maintenance of the said scholars. The estate now consists of £7,252 Stock and farmhouse and buildings, with 46 acres of land in Holbeach, Lincolnshire, called the Clays Farm. The income, amounting to about £300, forms part of the endowment of the Wisbech Grammar School, under a scheme of the Charity Commissioners, November, 1876.

In the year 1656, William Holmes gave by will £300 to the capital burgesses of Wisbech, to be lent out in sums of £10 each to poor tradesmen, free of interest, upon their giving good security for repayment. This sum has been invested, the income amounting to about £23.

John Crane, by will, in 1651, gave to the town of Wisbech his house called "the Black Bull," one half of the revenue to amend the schoolmaster's wages, and the other moiety to be laid out in the purchase of corn and firing to be given to the poor about Christmas or New Year's Day. In the year 1802 the Corporation sold the estate and invested the proceeds. The charity estate now consists of £1,659 Stock and 8 acres of land in Wisbech High Fen. The gross income is about £65, one moiety of which forms part of the endowment of the Grammar School, and the other moiety is distributed in flour and coals to the poor on or about St. Thomas' Day, annually; he also directed his executors to buy lands, which he gave to the five corporations therein mentioned (Wisbech being one), the revenues every fifth year to be bestowed on honest poor men in prison for debt, or old women, or the relief of poor men in want, or to relieve them out of prison for debt: the charity estate consists of an estate in Fleet, Lincolnshire, consisting of 176 acres of land, Wisbech receiving about £55 net annually for its one-fifth share of the rents: he also directed his executors to buy lands, the revenues whereof, every fifth year (until it amounted to £300 Stock), he gave to the town of Wisbech, to be lent freely to young men to help to set them up, in sums of £20 free of interest.

John Baxter, by his will, in 1793, gave to the capital burgesses of Wisbech all the interest arising from his property in the English funds to allow annually £10 each to a poor old man or woman totally incapacitated for labour, with an injunction that they attend divine worship every Sunday. The estate consists of £1,425 Stock, and produces an income of £35 14s. 4d. and there are four annuitants, each in receipt of £10 yearly from this and other sources.

The Shambles Estate, in the Market place, Wisbech, was granted by Queen Elizabeth, lady of the manor, for the use of the inhabitants of the town of Wisbech. The capital burgesses, in the year 1810, for the purpose of improving the town, purchased the estate; the purchase money was invested in £500 Stock, the income thereof being distributed annually in clothing to the poor.

The King's Dole.—By the governing charter of the town of Wisbech, granted 21st Oct. II. it was ordained that the capital burgesses should distribute annually amongst the poor inhabitants of the town £3 15s. out of the rents of their estates.

Bartholomew Edwards, by his will, 1583, gave £10, and John Williamson, by will, dated 1599, gave £40, to the Body Corporate of Wisbech for the use of the poor.

Margaret Bende, by will, 1605, gave £50 to the Body Corporate of Wisbech for the use of the poor: of the income, amounting to £1 5s. 4d., 4s. is paid to the poor of Leverington, Parson Drove, and the remainder to the poor of Wisbech St. Mary.

John Thurloe, in the year 1656, gave £150 to the Corporation of Wisbech, the interest thereof to be applied in putting out three apprentices annually.

Lord Saye and Sele, in the year 1656, gave £100 to the Corporation of Wisbech, the interest thereof to be applied in clothing poor people yearly.

Richard Royce, by will in 1669, gave 15 acres of land in Wisbech High Fen to the capital burgesses for clothing poor widows: the rent is now £28 yearly.

Richard Loake, by will in 1701, gave £200 to the capital burgesses of Wisbech, the interest of £100 to be annually expended in clothing five poor widows or housekeepers, and of the other £100 to be distributed by the churchwardens amongst the poor. The income amounts to £5 yearly.

William Scottred, by will dated 1603, gave 10 acres of land in Wisbech St. Mary, the rent, amounting to £26 a year, to be paid to the churchwardens for the use of the poor.

The Rev. Abraham Jobson D.D. in the year 1827, gave to the Body Corporate of Wisbech £1,000, the interest to be applied to the purposes and objects of the Wisbech Dorcas Society; the income, about £25 5s. 8d. yearly, is paid over to the treasurer of the society.

Elizabeth Stevens, by will dated 1835, gave to the Corporation of Wisbech £500 to be invested, and the interest to be paid to 15 poor widows: the endowment consists of £498 14s. 11d. Stock: the income, now £12 9s. 4d. yearly, is distributed accordingly.

John Johnson, by a codicil dated 3rd July, 1841, gave the sum of £200 to be invested, and the income distributed annually upon St. Thomas's day, in sums of 5s. each, to poor widows belonging to or residing in the borough of Wisbech, who are judged to be most deserving of such relief. The money was invested in Consols, and the income amounts to £4 13s.

There are 12 almshouses in Wisbech, erected by the Corporation, containing upper and lower rooms, for 24 aged persons.

Elizabeth Wright, spinster, by will in 1732, gave to trustees certain estates in Wisbech and the adjoining parishes of Leverington, Parson Drove, Sutton, Gedney, Wisbech St. Mary and Tydd St. Mary, the rents and profits thereof to be applied, partly in support of the charity schools, and partly for distribution amongst poor women living in good credit and reputation and attending at church. The income, amounting to about £312 yearly, is applied according to the directions of the will.

Judith Mayer, spinster, by will in the year 1811, gave to trustees £500 to erect a building to be used as an asylum, to be called after her name, for the reception of such poor persons of Wisbech afflicted with palsy, rheumatism, gout, blindness or other complaints, as a lasting token of her good wishes and regard for the town and its inhabitants; she also gave to the capital burgesses and to the vicar and churchwardens the sum of £1,200, to be invested and the dividends applied towards the support and repair of such building, as well as for the use and benefit of the occupants and for the purchase of coals annually. The trustees, in 1815, built an asylum, consisting of 5 tenements; each occupant receives £10 a year and an allowance of coals.

The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor of Wisbech Barton, which extends into the following parishes, Wisbech St. Peter, Wisbech St. Mary and Leverington (including Parson Drove and Guyhirn), Tydd St. Giles, Elm, Upwell, Outwell and Welney, and are also lords of the manor of Wisbech Rectory, which extends into Wisbech St. Peter and St. Mary.

The soil is loam; subsoil, clay. Fruit and market garden produce are extensively cultivated, and there is some land in pasturage. The area of the municipal borough and civil parish is 6,435 acres of land, 42 of water, 46 of tidal water and 20 of foreshore; the population in 1931 was 12,005.

The population of the wards in 1921 was:—North, 6,022, and South, 5,299.

By the Isle of Ely Review Order, 1933, the borough was extended to include part of the parish of Leverington, such part being added to the parish of Wisbech St. Peter, and by the same Order portions of the borough were transferred to the parishes of March and Elm.

The population of the ecclesiastical parishes in 1921 was:—SS. Peter and Paul, 7,229; St. Augustine, 3,864.

WALDERSEA is a district consisting of about 5,040 acres, the whole of which is drained into the river Nene by an engine of 120 horse power; the engine house is on the South Brink, about 3 miles from Wisbech.

NEW WALSOKE, in the county of Norfolk, is an eastern portion of Wisbech, and is separated from it by the Wisbech canal, over which are bridges connecting the two places. The names of residents in New Walsoken are given in Kelly's Directory of Norfolk.

The Endowed Grammar School, South brink, now a secondary school under the Board of Education, was founded in 1379, & re-constituted by the Charity Commissioners in 1878: amongst the earliest endowments is that of Thomas Parke, A.D. 1639: attached to the school are also three exhibitions of not exceeding £100 yearly, founded by William Holmes in 1638, of which two are tenable for four years at Magdalene College, Cambridge, & the third for the same period at any other university: there are about 160 boys, 10 being boarders: the school is controlled by a body of fifteen governors; Col. C. E. F. Copeman C.M.G., T.D., M.A., D.L., J.P. chairman; G. M. G. Woodgate, clerk; H. Lawrence White M.A. late scholar of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, head master

High School for Girls, North brink (secondary school under the Isle of Ely County Council), Miss E. M. C. Prideaux, head mistress deanery and archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The civil parish includes the ecclesiastical districts of Guyhirn and Murrow (which will be found under separate headings), and the hamlets of Thorney Toll and Tholomas Dove, and a portion of Wisbech

Fen. The church of St. Mary is an ancient edifice of brick and stone in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, restored in 1873 by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 5 bells; there are a number of curious brackets, and in the south porch the remains of an ancient font and a stoup: the restoration of the church was partially effected in 1894, and completed in 1901: new choir stalls were erected in 1906 by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners and a new altar presented: the east window was erected in 1920 in memory of the 25 men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-1918: in 1922 a window was erected in the Lady chapel, in memory of the Rev. R. D. Jones, a former vicar: in 1923 an ancient window was re-opened in the east wall of the south aisle and a stained window inserted in memory of Capt. and Mrs. Grimwade; under this window is a beautiful Tudor oak chest which serves as the Altar (in the Children's Corner): the baptistry at the west end of the south aisle was restored by an anonymous donor and the window filled with coloured glass in memory of A. J. Kilham, a former churchwarden: a beautiful example of ancient Chinese tapestry work hangs on the north wall of the chancel: there are 360 sittings. The register dates from the year 1557. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £771, with residence and 12 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Ely, and held since 1914 by the Rev. Mowbray Smith M.A. of Queens' College, Cambridge, chaplain to the Bishop of Ely, and surrogate. A Methodist chapel was opened in 1926, and seats about 300. A village hall and institute seating 350 was opened in 1929: there is also St. Mary's hall, put up in 1920 in the Vicarage grounds, with accommodation for 200. The charities include 61 acres left A.D. 1593 by Mr. Benn, and 8 acres added by the Commissioners of the Bedford Level (temp. Charles II.), comprising, with other lands 75 acres, the rents of which, about £240 yearly, are given to the poor; 21 acres of land left in 1726 by Francis Hardy for the endowment of a school for the parishioners; £50 left in 1605 by John Bend, the interest to be given—two-thirds to this parish and one-third to Parson Drove; in 1833-4 25a. 3r. 26p. of land were allotted by the Enclosure Commissioners, to be let in small lots to the poor of this parish at nominal rentals: fifteen cottages have been erected for the use of poor labourers, who pay 1s. each yearly for them. The rentals of lands let to the poor are applied to the poor relief fund. The charities enumerated are enjoyable by the whole of the parishioners of Wisbech St. Mary. The Isle of Ely County Council and the Ecclesiastical Commissioners are the principal landowners. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are fruit, wheat, potatoes, oats, peas, beet, mustard, and root crops. The area is 10,164 acres of land, 23 of inland and 44 of tidal water and 11 of foreshore; the population in 1921 was 2,609 in the civil and 1,166 in the ecclesiastical parish.

THOLOMAS DROVE is a hamlet 2 miles south-west of Wisbech St. Mary. There is a Methodist chapel

THORNEY TOLL is a hamlet $7\frac{1}{2}$ miles west from the parish church; it is included in the ecclesiastical parish of Guyhirn, which see. There is a Methodist chapel in the Fen, at a place called "The Alley." Post, T. & T. E. D. Office. Letters through Wisbech, nearest M. O. office

WITCHAM is a parish standing on a hill about three-quarters of a mile from the high road from Ely to Chatteris, about 2 miles north-east from Sutton station, on the Ely and St. Ives branch of the London and North Eastern railway, and about 6 west from Ely, in the South Witchford hundred, Ely rural district, petty sessional division and county court district, of the Isle of Ely, the rural deanery of Ely, archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Martin, erected in the 13th century, is a structure of brick in the Early English style, consisting of chancel (restored in 1915), nave, north aisle, south porch and an embattled western tower, restored in 1912, and containing one bell: there is a Norman font with curious carved figures, a carved stone pulpit and an oak screen: the nave was thoroughly restored in 1897, new roofed and reseated in oak: the chancel was restored in 1923 by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners: in 1932 the north aisle was restored, being re-roofed in oak, and a stained window inserted at the east end: there are 220 sittings. The register dates from the year 1663. The living is a vicarage, with the rectory of Mepal annexed, joint net yearly value £649, including 67 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Ely, and held since 1911 by the Rev. John William Robson L.Th. of Hatfield Hall, Durham. There is a small Methodist chapel, rebuilt in 1898. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners, who are lords of the manor, are the principal landowners. The soil is gravel; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans, barley and oats. The area is 2,205 acres; the population in 1921 was 251 in the civil and 307 in the ecclesiastical parish. By an Order which came into operation March, 25, 1885, detached parts of this parish were amalgamated with Coveney Mepal and Manea, the latter in North Witchford union: at the same date detached parts of Ely St. Mary's, Ely Trinity and Witchford were amalgamated with this parish. WITCHFORD (anciently Wycheford) is a parish in the Isle of Ely (giving name to the two hundreds), in the south of which it is situated, on the road from Ely to St. Ives, 2 miles north-by-west from Stretham station on the Ely, Sutton and St. Ives section of the London and North Eastern railway, and 3 south-west from Ely, in the rural district, petty sessional division, county court district and rural deanery of Ely, archdeaconry of Wisbech and diocese of Ely; it is entirely agricultural. The church of St. Andrew, as appears from the mandate of Bishop Arundell, dated at Downham 4 Dec. 1376, and preserved in the diocesan registry, was consecrated 12th Dec. in that year: it was originally Norman, and incorporated the materials of the ancient structure, but is chiefly an edifice of stone in the Early English and later styles, consisting of chancel, nave, north porch and an embattled western tower containing 3 bells, dated 1671: the east window is stained, and there is a memorial window to the Rev. H. E. Rackham M.A. vicar 1844-84, and one to the Rev. B. M. Lloyd, vicar 1884-1911: the font is possibly Norman, and the chancel has a piscina and a double aumbry, and there is another double aumbry in the north wall of the nave: the tower is Early English of the 13th century, and the nave and chancel are Decorated of the 14th century: the church was thoroughly restored in 1851, and further restorations were concluded in 1887: extensive repairs to the roof, tower &c. were completed in 1923, at a cost of £1,100: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1778. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £364, including glebe, with residence, built in 1847, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Ely, and held since 1911 by the Rev. Thomas Hamilton M.A. of Exeter College, Oxford. There is a Baptist chapel, erected in 1871, with sittings for 135 persons. St. Andrew's Hall, erected in 1903, on a site given by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, is used for parish and other meetings. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners, who are lords of the manor, are the chief landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, sugar beet and beans. The area is 2,156 acres; the population in 1921 was 416 in the civil and 421 in the ecclesiastical parish. By an Order which came into operation March 25, 1884, detached parts of this parish were amalgamated with Witcham and Manea, and on March 25, 1886, another detached part was amalgamated with Granty Fen.

By the Isle of Ely Review Order, 1933, part of this parish was added to the urban district of Ely, and a portion of that urban district added to Witchford. Post, M. O., T. & T. E. D. Office. Letters through Ely Police Station

WOOD DITTON is a parish and village, 3½ miles south from Newmarket station on the Cambridge and Bury branch of the London and North Eastern railway, in the hundred of Cheveley, Newmarket rural district, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Cheveley, archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. In pursuance of the Cambridgeshire and West Suffolk (Newmarket) Confirmation Order, 1895, that part of Wood Ditton parish in Suffolk was added to Newmarket All Saints for civil purposes, but remains administratively in West Suffolk. The church of St. Mary is an ancient edifice of flint in the Early English style, with Perpendicular additions, and consists of chancel, clerestoried and embattled nave, aisles, south porch and a western tower, which has been restored, and contains 5 bells: the church was restored and reseated in 1897-99 by the late Col. H. L. B. McCullmont M.P.; some alabaster figures, found in the north window of the sanctuary at the restoration, of the Nottingham school of craftsmanship, dating from the 13th century, are preserved in the north aisle: there is a brass of Henry English and his wife dated 1393: there are 250 sittings. In the churchyard is the tomb of William Simons, ob. 1753, on which is a dripping pan with the inscription—"Here lies my corpse who was the man who loved a sop in a dripping pan." The register dates from the year 1567. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, with 12 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Earl of Ellesmere M.V.O. and held since 1925 by the Rev. Stanley Austin M.A. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge. There is a Congregational chapel here. The Earl of Ellesmere M.V.O. Sir Alec Black bart. J.P. Sidney A. Taylor esq. J.P. and the Jockey Club are the principal landowners. The soil is various; subsoil, clay and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and beans. The area is 4,768 acres; the population in 1921, chiefly distributed in the hamlets of Ditton Green, Little Ditton and Saxon Street, was 848, and in the ecclesiastical parish, 777.

By an Order in Council, gazetted August 15th, 1911, part of Wood Ditton ecclesiastical parish, containing at the date of census a population of 462, was transferred to All Saints, Newmarket, ecclesiastical parish.

WEST WRATTING is a village and parish, 4 miles south-east from Six Mile Bottom Station on the Cambridge and Newmarket section of the London and North Eastern railway, 5½ north-east from Linton, and 9 south from Newmarket, in the hundred of Radfield, rural district and petty sessional division of Linton, county court district of Newmarket, rural deanery of Camps, and archdeaconry and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Andrew is an ancient structure of flint and rubble in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a western tower containing a clock and 5 bells: on the south side of the chancel is a stained window, erected in 1910, to the Rev. J. L. L. Lees, a former vicar, and to his wife, by their daughter, Amy Dearberg; there are also two other stained windows: a new font was added in 1908 and a chancel screen was erected in 1911, both the gift of Edward Purkis Frost esq. D.L., J.P. d. 1922: a new organ was added in 1908: the church was thoroughly restored in 1898 at a cost of £1,600, and affords 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1579. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £254, including 41 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Ely, and held since 1909 by the Rev. William John Jones B.A. of London University, who is also vicar of West Wickham. There is a Congregational chapel, founded in 1811, and has sittings for 200 persons. The Foresters' Hall, built in 1888, is used for public meetings, entertainments &c. West Wrattling Hall, the property of Sidney Augustus Taylor esq. J.P. and residence of Comdr. John Paget Gibbs R.N. (retd.), stands in a park of about 60 acres, adjoining the church, and commands a pretty view of the country. West Wrattling Park, the property of E. G. G. Frost esq. J.P. adjoins the village; the mansion is a plain substantial edifice of red brick, standing is a park of about 40 acres, and is at present (1933) unoccupied. Sidney A. Taylor esq. J.P. and J. J. Pearson esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is mixed; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 3,543 acres; the population in 1921 was 417.

COMPREHENSIVE POLICIES in respect of Buildings and Contents of PRIVATE DWELLING HOUSES

IDEAL POLICIES FOR IDEAL HOMES

These ideal Policies represent the extreme limit of sound Insurance protection which it is possible to grant for the very moderate premium charged. The benefits to Insurers under these Policies have been greatly extended and now provide the most complete and up-to-date Insurance protection obtainable, including damage to the Building caused by storm or tempest, bursting or overflowing of water tanks, apparatus or pipes. There are separate Policies to suit the special needs of the Householder, Houseowner and the Owner-occupier.

N.B.—Existing Policies can be converted to a "Comprehensive" without loss of premium to the Assured.

Write to one of the Norwich Union Agencies for prospectus which gives full details of the Policy desired.
